requirement in handling high class trade. The same would apply to the cheap trade but for the fact that the cost of individual attention is prohibitive, where the volume of business is so great. Let us suppose that the dealer has quite a large stock, consisting of possibly fifteen thousand varieties, and from ten to fifty of a kind of many of the cheaper stamps. A great many collectors are satisfied with a general selection of miscellaneous stamps, or by countries, and do not require as complete a lot as the specialists. For these collectors, the dealer should prepare a series from his surplus stock, making possibly ten or twenty books of a kind, and using only stamps of which he has quite a line. In this way, it is possible to price the entire lot of books by cataloguing one, also spaces can be readily filled without retiring the books from circulation as stamps are sold. Much time and trouble are saved in this way. Many collectors of single countries, or heavy buyers, require large selections by countries. It is well to make up these books to fill the wants of the buyer. This gives him an opportunity to use his personality in supplying the wants of his customers. From the dealer who can furnish a good line of books by countries, and who features them in some unique manner, has a splendid means of attracting trade. It is possible to secure an "individual" approval book for practically the same price as the usual stock books so generally used by dealers; Messrs. Poole, Brown, and Gibbons, among others, have their own style of books. No matter how nice the stamps are, if the book is crude, or the stamps are mounted in a slovenly fashion, the final result will lack many of the fine touches so important in making sales. My own book is made up from pale blue stock, unruled, with a darker blue cover, is size 3½ by 6 inches, and is of the type known as vertical. The stamps are mounted in four rows of three stamps each. As there is no ruling on the pages, I can mount blocks or large stamps without spoiling the appearance of the page, and can also note any data I see fit. I prefer the vertical type for the reason that the book may be held and inspected without the pages sagging.

An Advertising Point of View,

A first class selection of a country should include every variety, or as many as possible, both unused and used; also minor varieties, pairs, strips, blocks, or oddities. The stamps should be numbered and catalogued, and any descriptive matter noted. Needless to say, any or in the case of great rarities, such defects should be noted, also reprints and counterfeits should be sold as such. These latter may be included in selections by countries as many collectors like to buy them for reference. When they are sold, however, no misunderstanding as to their nature should be permitted. Remember, that practically every collector who would care for a first class selection of this nature is a "condition crank". Therefore, make your books by countries your very best selections, and give them the pick of your stock. If necessary, charge a little more for the stamps. Bear in mind that neatness in mounting will act largely in selling your stamps; so use the utmost care in making up the selections. Put yourself back of every book. If a stamp is especially scarce, note the fact. Let the buyer of these books know that you appreciate his business and that you are giving him the very cream of your stock. Sell him what he wants, not what you want him to have, if you would satisfy him.

Damaged Goods Should Be Excluded,

When a New Customer

applies for advanced selections, it is a good plan to send him a card for information with the first selection. This card should contain the following questions, or those of a similar nature: Do you collect 19th Century? 20th? Used? Unused? Both? Pairs, strips, blocks? Minor varieties? Perforation and watermark varieties? Paper varieties? Shades? How large is your collection? Do you collect all countries? If not, what? What country do you prefer? With the above information, the dealer can easily base his selections on the wants of the collector. Probably a good portion of the approval business is lost because the dealer fails to connect the right stamps with the right buyer. If your man collects United States only, why send him a lot of Russians or Chinese? If he wants unused, don't waste your time making him want used. He knows what he wants and will go somewhere else to get it if you can't supply him. If he asks for U. S. and you can't supply them, tell him what you have in Africans, but don't send them.

Service Is the Key-Note of Success.

The better the service rendered, the more satisfied the client. The more satisfied the client, the better buyer he becomes. All because of service. If your customer sends you a want list and you can't fill it, why not send to some other dealer who can, and supply the stamps at cost, rather than see your customer go to the dealer who can fill his wants. Furthermore, it is possible to make arrangements with some of the large dealers to fill any lists submitted at "trade-discounts" so a little profit can usually be made. A satisfied customer is the best advertising medium a dealer can have. A prominent local dealer says, "I use the WEEKLY to get the business and my own service to keep it." That man knows how to play the game, and he is on the winning side—a long way ahead of another dealer who says, "If you don't like my stuff, go somewhere else."

In Mailing Selections of Value,

the dealer should avail himself of the opportunities offered by parcel post insurance. Many of the reputable in-

Insurance companies offer coupon books priced at $2.50 and $5.00 per 100 coupons. One coupon will insure a letter up to $10.00 in value by ordinary mail and $50.00 in value by registered mail, 2 coupons will insure to $25.00 by ordinary mail, etc., until a value of $50.00 by ordinary mail or $150.00 by registered mail is reached. For selections of $25.00 and under, this means of protection is far cheaper than registered mail, and also the losses are generally paid quicker. Dealers should take this matter up with their local insurance agents, or if they cannot accommodate them, I will gladly direct them to some agent who can.

In checking up the books as they are returned, in case it is impossible to replace the stamp sold, the dealer should mark the space with a rubber stamp with his initials or some mark for identification, in order that the vacancy may not be charged to the next buyer. Also, the initials of the buyer receiving the book may be entered on the back inside cover, or some other convenient place. In this way, the book will not be sent twice to the same collector, unless by request.

DAMAGED STAMPS

United States or foreign, or mixture of both, as you wish; $1.00 catalogue value post-paid for 12c; $10.00 catalogue for $1.00; nothing catalogued at less than 5c. Larger lots have a larger proportion of high values. Some of these stamps have only small tears, while others are heavily cancelled, or have perforations clipped, or are damaged in various ways. Can always be identified, and some would present a very good appearance on the pages of your album. If you are looking for space fillers, or you need material for repairing, this is a rare opportunity.

We make up a packet of 100 varieties of the cheaper varieties of damaged United States and foreign, catalogue value over $3.00, which we sell at 27c postpaid.

A. P. S. NORTH SHORE TRIP.

There were four fine social features in connection with the A. P. S. convention at Boston. They were the car ride to Lexington and Concord, steamer trip Wednesday afternoon down the harbor, auto ride along the North Shore Thursday afternoon, and excursion to Plymouth Friday.

The trip along the North Shore was particularly interesting and thanks to E. M. Carpenter and A. W. Batchelder the arrangements were letter perfect. The party left Boston at 1.40 P. M. Thursday and machines were taken at Salem for a sight-seeing tour through that City, Beverly, Wenham, Hamilton, Essex, Manchester and return to Beverly and Salem where at the Willows a fish dinner was served. It was a fish dinner such as many of the delegates had never before partaken of.

Mention should be made of the delightful hospitality shown by W. D. Pickman at his Beverly residence. His splendid grounds were thrown open to the visiting philatelists, refreshments were served and the personal word of greeting by Mr. Pickman was a hearty one. Facing the residence was old ocean in all its beauty and the occasion will be one long to be remembered. It was late in the evening when the party reached Boston on its return from the trip northwards.

WHERE PROVISIONALS THRIVE.

"Somewhere in the Aegean."—There must be some rare quality in the atmosphere or in the waters of the Aegean Sea whereon provisional stamps may thrive. For there has been no more prolific part of the world in stamp issues than the archipelagoes of the Aegean these past few years. Since 1912 some of us have opened pages in our albums for Chios, Icaria, Lemnos and Samos, for Mitylene, Cos, Leros, Patmos, Rhodes and a score more. This year the few who have been able to procure specimens of the rarer war provisionals have added the stamps of an unidentified "Somewhere in the Aegean," and of the island of Rouad, for the precise location of which our homely atlas is inadequate. Perhaps by this time the island of Castelorizzo, occupied

CANCELLATION DESIGNS.

By DR. HENRY G. HOLCH.

(We publish this article not because the author desires it published, or because of any literary merit. We publish it because of the touch of human interest it displays in a by-path of philatelic endeavor. It comes to our office as does many another letter but this field of "Cancellation Designs" has been little cultivated from a publicity standpoint.—Ed.)

Like most philatelists, I collected stamps as a boy without any regard for anything along the lines of specialism. My principal desire was to accumulate as many different stamps as possible to show my boy friends. This collection of stamps was disposed of about 25 years ago to a boy for what I considered a good sum. After that my interest in stamps diminished rapidly to zero, until in 1913 I chanced to see in the New York papers about a wonderful exhibition of stamps to be held October 12th. My old interest was stirred, and I made two visits to this exhibition to see how stamps were being collected by the big fellows. The old feeling came stealing over me again with a rush, and I made a new start in the stamp collecting world. My next thought was—"What shall I collect, and how?"

On leaving the exhibition, I chanced to see a table on which were some stamp journals. I saw one with the head of Washington on the cover, which proved to be MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS. On looking over the various articles, I discovered one by Chas. E. Jenney—"Green Fields—3c 1872-80." This article appealed to me as being along a line which would be very interesting and as I supposed rather exclusive.

by the French, has produced some provisionals, and now we have the extraordinary British issues for "Long Island."

G. R. I.
LONG ISLAND
Postage and Revenue

The New "Long Island."—It will not, of course, cause a breach between this country and the United States that the British should have occupied and administered this "Long Island," for this one happens to be a few thousand miles from Brooklyn. There have been reports of this issue of stamps in London for some time past, but they have been received with some skepticism.

Typewritten Stamps.—The Long Island stamps owe their production to the typewriter, and an operator who was none too efficient at his job, if one may judge from the quality of the work.

I immediately wrote Mr. Jenney and received a long and interesting letter on the subject and a number of approval stamps for my start. It did not take me long to look around for some of these 3c green. By good luck I found a printer who had two envelope boxes full, and I was able to buy them for one dollar. They afterward proved to be the re-engraved stamp of the '80's. I had about fifteen thousand stamps to make my start from, and I managed to find quite a number of cancellation designs. I have also found that we have a great many collectors of this special line.

I collect any curiously cancelled stamp on the cheaper and early issues of U. S., such as serial numbers or letter in all the various colored inks used in the early days for cancellation purposes. I find that with few exceptions the cancellations, say from 1855 or '60, were mostly designs or devices conceived according to the fancy of the postmaster or his clerk. They range from the ordinary daub or pen cancellation to the most intricate and fanciful design that can be conceived.

With few exceptions, they have no indications of having any definite meaning. In large cities like New York, where they had a number of sub-stations, each one had a letter or number to indicate the receiving station. Among these serial designs may be found some of the designs reproduced herewith, as well as some of the curiously designed cancellations. Figures 1 to 6 are designs that have been used in series at various postal stations or offices in larger cities, and the collector can get a very fair idea what to look for when starting in these particular fields of collecting. These all appear on the 3c green of the period from 1872 to 1880.

Fig. 1 I have as high as No. 11. Fig. 2 shows three and four rings around the number. I have it as high as 12, while in the four rings only to 9. Fig. 3 is found both with colorless letter and numbers in the center. My numerals run as high as 20. The letters naturally run the entire series to Z. Fig. 4 I have up to 18, while Fig. 5 runs to 20. In the 2c vermilion (Jackson), I have this stamp as high as 22; this design also appears with colorless letters. Fig. 6, which is quite recent, appears both vertically and horizontally barred with letter or number. The vertically barred numbers, I find as high as 12, while the horizontally barred numbers as high as 89 on the 3c green. On the 2c brown of 1883, I have it to 48.

The last four designs are rather odd, especially the Liberty bell in a blue ink, and the anchor in black. I also have a number of other designs, more common, especially stars, of which I have twenty different varieties, also rings and U. S. monograms. I have a friend whom I interested in this style of collecting and he has just shown me a 3c green with the word "Free" on it in an oval. We are puzzling over it. Could it possibly have been used as a frank by some government official?

AITUTAKI.—The Australian Philatelist reports that towards the end of May last the New Zealand King Edward 6d deep carmine appeared with this island overprint in blue. Apparently only about £100 worth was available for the public, and the stock was at once bought out by the few who alone were aware of the fact at the time. At present it is not known if any further printing will be made, or if any of the small printing was sent to the island. If not, the status of this stamp is seriously compromised. It is rumoured the new issue will be of King George design.

BRUNEL.—The 5c value in the current native village type has been seen in a new color.

Adhesive.

5c orange.

CANADA.—Mrs. Oughtred has been officially informed that 50,000 stamps perforated 12x8, as recently noted, were supplied to the Montreal postoffice. Evidently 500 sheets of stamps prepared for use in coils and perforated 8 vertically were later perforated 12 horizontally and sold in sheets. It is suggested that this may foreshadow the retirement of coil stamps in the Dominion.

ITALY.—Offices in Albania.—The current 10c and 15c stamps of Italy have been overprinted "Valona" and new value for use at the Italian offices in Albania, the former in black and the 15c in violet.

Provisional Adhesives.

30 para on 15c slate.

NEW ZEALAND.—William L. Aldrich & Co. report having seen the 1½d, 3d, and 6d King George and 8d King Edward stamps, overprinted "Official" for official use. The 8d was overprinted in scarlet. Ewen's Weekly reports that the 3d and 6d King George stamps have been printed on large pictorial paper, of the very thin make. The stamps are printed on the paper sideways, and are perforated 14. This results in three watermark varieties—no watermark, watermark sideways, and watermarked sideways between vertical stamps, the latter showing the watermark divided in pair. The official 1½d noted above is the typographed stamp. The 5d and 8d King Edward have recently been seen perforated both 14x13½ and 14x14½.

Official Adhesives.

6d carmine.

NORTH BORNEO.—Three new provisionals are noted from this Colony, overprinted in black on the first and in lake on the others. E. W. Fuss sends the following statistics regarding this Provisional issue: 2c on 3c, 11,500 issued, 9,220 sold, 2,280 returned; 4c on 6c, 10,000 issued, 8,345 sold, 1,655 returned; 10c on 12c, 11,500 issued, 5,135 sold, 6,365 returned.

Provisional Adhesives.

Advertising Chat

September is here and with it comes the greatest stamp season we have known. It is none too early for you to get busy and compel patronage.

Just bear in mind that the collector wants stamp bargains and he will find your offers quick enough if prices are right. A small advt. packed with bargain offers will get business.

Alfred Lechner has opened an office at 83 Nassau St., N. Y. City and will be a "regular" hereafter. Mr. Lechner has advertised with us occasionally and we trust he will get his share of the business.

We welcome the Federal Stamp Co., Astoria, Ore., to our columns. We have solicited the business of this firm for several months and feel assured that our readers will have complete satisfaction in all their dealings.

The Stamp Shop, Chicago, has left adlets and taken displayed space. E. Moseley writes us that he intends to do the same thing soon.

Let the good work continue.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—No news has been received from Edward Michael, Chicago, whose unfortunate business experience was reviewed some weeks ago, and who left the city at the time of the disclosure. Mr. R. Thomas has leased the ground floor quarters on Dearborn Street, formerly occupied by Edward Michael, where he will continue his stamp and coin business, which has been transferred from LaSalle Street.

—At the 12th convention of the M. P. A. held in Boston Aug. 22-23, five out of seven directors were chosen from the collectors' ticket. There was no entertainment, as all members were also attending the A. P. S. Resolutions of thanks for services were extended A. Everly Carpenter of N. Y., exchange manager, and L. G. Snow, publicity manager. Victor W. Rotnem of Mabel, Minn., was recommended for Sales Manager. C. W. Kissinger was proposed for membership in the Boston branch.

—Arthur Barger writing from Attica, Kans., asks correspondents to be a bit patient with him as regards letters not yet answered.

—Canada's new three-cent stamp will be issued in the immediate future, according to private advices received from the department at Ottawa. The design will be exactly similar to the current stamps and the color will be a royal purple. A shortage of purple dye is said to have held up the issue for some weeks.

—"Canon City, Colo., is precanceling with a kind of type that resembles an ordinary cancellation so closely the average collector would overlook it. I have just discovered a number of the 50c denomination that I had passed up many times as ordinary cancellations." —RALPH L. KING.

—F. S. Cook exhibited at Boston during convention week a very interesting feature. It consisted of Lyons' "Natural History on Postage Stamps," with all the illustrations covered by the stamps pictured. The colors of the stamps added tremendously to the beauty of the book.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Lewis Bealer, Rev. C. B. B. Wright, H. W. Boers, Jas. D. Havens, O. Kendall.

—The several philatelic societies represented by members in and around San Francisco are to have a "General Get-Together Evening" on Sept. 15. There will be an al fresco dinner, stamp bourse, and good fellowship generally. Write Chas. W. Arr, 2233 Larkin St., San Fran., for particulars.

A STORY OF THE POSTAGE STAMP.

By Director JOSEPH E. RALPH.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing prints all the securities of the United States Government, which embraces checks, drafts, bonds, paper money, revenue, customs, parcel post and postage stamps, and certificates of deposit for the Post Office Department.

It has been our constant endeavor not only to safeguard our stamps and circumvent their counterfeiting, but to make them really artistic. When you comprehend the small space allowed for artistic embellishment, you necessarily must marvel at the results we obtain.

In our great factory each day forty million postage stamps are manufactured, counted and put up in packages ready for shipment to the 60,000 post offices throughout the United States. This daily output would cover approximately eight acres of land if laid out flat, or make a chain of stamps 703 miles when laid end to end.

I do not believe one could go far wrong in asserting that the prosperity of a country and the standard of the intelligence of its citizens may be gauged by the consumption of its postage stamps. As an illustration of this statement, an idea of the business growth of the United States may be gleaned from the fact that the Bureau of Engraving and Printing delivered 11,289,000,000 perfect postage stamps during the fiscal year 1915, representing a face value of approximately $221,875,000.

The engraving division is the cornerstone of the Bureau and the bulwark of our securities. In this division every form of security has its origin, and the most artistic and skilled engravers that the world produces are employed here.

Steel engraving is the perfection of art as applied to securities; it differs from painting and sculpturing, inasmuch as the engraver who carves his work on steel plates must deliberately study the effect of each infinitesimal line. Free hand, with a diamond-pointed tool, known as a graver, aided by a powerful magnifying glass, he carves away, conscious that one false cut or slip of his tool or miscalculation of depth or width of line will destroy the artistic merit of his creation, and weeks or months of labor will have been in vain. In no other form of printing can the beautiful, soft, and yet strong effects in black and white, be obtained as in steel engraving. The introduction of cheap mechanical process work has superseded the beautiful creations of our master engraver commercially, and now we find the art limited to the engraving of securities as applied in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

The work in this division is classified and divided so that the engravers become specially skilled in some particular branch of the art. For instance, they are classified as portrait, script, square letter, and ornamental engravers. Each is confined to his own specialty, and thus becomes unusually expert, the result being that not only better work is secured, but a greater amount is turned out in a given time, and what is of greater importance, increased security is obtained. The individual excellencies and characteristics of a number of men are impressed upon every stamp issued. Therefore, it would be as difficult for one engraver to make a perfect reproduction of a Government plate as it would be for the reader to reproduce an absolute facsimile of his or her own signature, and, strange as it may seem, no one has yet accomplished this feat.

To the credit of the engravers and employees of this division, it should be stated that in the history of the Bureau none of its employees has ever engaged in counterfeiting.

When it is determined to issue a new stamp, the matter is discussed by the officials having in charge the several branches of the service involved, and the conclusions reached are embodied in a model made by a trained designer, which is submitted for the criticisms of the officers who discussed the matter in the first place. The model is then modified in accordance with the criticisms, and is finally approved by the Postmaster General.

The approved design is placed in the hands of the engravers who cut it upon a small piece of annealed steel. After the approval of a proof of this engraving, the piece of steel is heated red hot in cyanide of potassium and hardened by suddenly dipping it into oil and water. This single engraved subject is duplicated 400 times upon the larger plates that the stamps are printed from by means of the transfer process.

This is a method of reproducing engraving devised many years ago by Jacob Perkins, an inventive American, who may be considered the father of the present method of duplicating bank notes and stamp plates. It consists of making a reversed duplicate or mold of the original engraving by rolling a soft, annealed steel roll upon it in the transfer press. Being accurately guided and held by the mechanism of this press, continued rolling under high pressure forces the soft steel of the roll into the engraved lines of the original design, and forms an exact counterpart, in relief, of it. This roll, being hardened, is used to duplicate the engraving by the same process, upon a soft steel plate, which it will do a great number of times before wearing out, reserving the original engraving, or die as it is called, for making additional rolls. The original engraving is never printed from except to make what are known as die-proofs.

The paper required for the manufacture of the postage stamps for the fiscal year 1915 amounted to 1,200,000 pounds, and to make this paper 3,500 spruce trees were ground to a pulp. These trees are cut on the mountains of western North Carolina, and covered an area of sixty acres. Had the trees been converted into lumber, over fifty well appointed bungalows could have been built, and the paper itself would make an edition of over 3,500,000 twenty-page seven column newspaper.

About 500 men are engaged in the pulp mills in which the pulp is made in North Carolina, and the same number is employed in the paper mills at Hamilton, Ohio, in which the finished paper is produced. Six hundred men and women find employment in the Bureau in the manufacture of the stamps, so you will see that a small sized army is daily engaged in getting them ready for the consumer.

You delight in and require your specimens to have equally perforated margins of blank paper—as you term it, to be perfectly centered—and wonder why all of our stamps are not so perfect. If you could follow the spruce log from the time it is cut from the mountain side to its final appearance in the finished product, you would marvel that we get the results as good as we do.

The paper, being printed wet, contracts on drying, and the mathematically correct layout of the engraved plate bears only an approximate relation to the dried printed sheet. The paper we print to-day will vary in shrinkage from that we print to-morrow. As the physical properties of the tree govern the expansion and contraction of the paper made therefrom, no two sheets are exactly the same size. The actual difference in size of the individual stamp is too minute to be readily discernible, but becomes a serious factor when the row is twenty stamps long as we now print the sheets.

But that is not all. To smooth the paper for the operation of gumming, it is subjected to 500 tons pressure in a hydraulic press, and if very dry, it stretches but little, but if the day is damp and humid, it stretches perceptibly. The contraction of the gum itself is a factor, and the atmospheric conditions still another. Our perforating machines have not human intelligence, and they blindly perforate the sheets alike until their adjustment is changed. Therefore, the best we can do is to average the adjustment and it is only by chance that all the perforations are exactly central. Of course, you will understand that typo-

NEW UNITED STATES LOOSE LEAF ALBUM

AN ALBUM SECOND TO NONE.

This Album is the only practical and feasible Loose Leaf Book on the market today. We have put this Album up in three sections so a collector is able to purchase such branches as he desires at a comparatively low cost. It is 9 inches long and 7½ inches wide, very handy; there is but one set of stamps to a page artistically laid out. Spaces have been provided for imperforate and part perforate pairs and the beauty of all; it is right up to the minute. What is more we will add new leaves each year with spaces for the latest stamps and if you are an owner of one of our Albums, latest sheets will be promptly sent you when issued.

After you have transferred your stamps into this Album, you cannot help realizing the great advantage in a practical up-to-date Album.

graphic printing, being done on dry paper, eliminates many of these problems, and no great feat is performed in perfectly centering a dry printed stamp.

The amount of ink required for printing the stamps for the fiscal year 1915 was 670,000 pounds.

The present method of printing stamps is accomplished upon what is known as the "four plate power press." Four plates are used in order that the operations of inking, wiping, polishing, and taking the impressions may be done simultaneously. This press requires the service of a printer to polish the plates, one girl to lay the sheet in position and another girl to take it off after printing.

After each two hundred sheets are printed, they are counted and dried. To secure a flat surface for subsequent operations, they are pressed in a hydraulic press.

They are next gummed by passing beneath a glass roller which is bathed in a solution of dextrine (which forms the gum), and the sheets are then carried by grippers through a drying chamber in which the gum is dried in less than thirty seconds. Just before leaving the gumming machine the sheets are carried through a device that breaks the gum into innumerable cracks and materially prevents subsequent curling.

The printed and gummed sheets of 400 stamps are now fed through a rotary perforator that perforates the stamps in one direction and cuts the sheets in half. Another perforator of the same construction perforates the stamps crosswise and makes another cut, thereby quartering the original sheets.

After a close and rigid inspection, these sheets are counted and made into packages for final packing for shipment to the post offices.

The gum on the back of the stamps is made by scientifically roasting the highest grade of tapioca starch such as is used for making pudding, and as 517,000 pounds were used in the fiscal year 1915, all of the inhabitants of New York City would have been given their fill of tapioca pudding for one meal with the material used.

The sheets of 100 stamps each as sent to the post offices during the fiscal year 1915, piled one upon each other, would make a shaft over six miles high, and placed end to end would make a strip over 16,000 miles long; and as there are ten rows of stamps on each sheet, a strip of single stamps would be more than 160,000 miles long, enough to girdle the earth six times with something over.

Just a few words of a technical nature relative to the inks used in the printing of postage stamps. Before I became Director of the Bureau, colors for making the inks for printing stamps and other securities were selected by comparison with a standard for match in hue and color strength, no attention being paid to their permanency. The natural result was colors that were notorious for fading. At that time little was known of any systematic method of testing for permanency, and when I undertook to secure standards that were permanent, I had to devise methods.

CARUSO GRIEVES FOR HIS STAMPS.

Tenor's Trunks Robbed and His Famous Collection Stolen.

(Supplementing last week's news item.)

Somewhere between New York and Naples three trunks belonging to Enrico Caruso were broken open and robbed and the famous stamp collection of the tenor was abstracted, as was learned by a letter which arrived here this week bidding several of his friends here upset express companies, steamship lines and the Customs House, but find those stamps! Several suits of clothes, some curios and souvenirs of value, and other things were also taken, but the tenor has no tears for them, only for his stamps.

His collection was a valuable one, and every time an article was written on collectors Caruso got a place alongside other prominent stamp savers. He took great pride in it. It represented his years of travel in many lands, and many of its items were given him by kings and queens and other noted personages. His references to its loss, his friends say, are really pathetic.

No one knows just what happened. Apparently Caruso had just arrived at his native city of Naples and, on sending for the trunks shipped there from New York when he left, found them broken open and the articles missing. They may have been stolen here, on shipboard, or in Italy, and the singer urges his friends to put forth all their efforts to find out whether the trunks were robbed here and, if so, to recover the stamps.

THICK-PAPER VARIETIES OF U. S. REVENUES.

By CHAS. S. THOMPSON.

Any issue of stamps which is used for a long period of time is certain to vary considerably in shade or tint, but this is entirely unavoidable, as no printer can foresee just how much ink he may require to carry out a program which is, of necessity, indefinite.

The same is true, though not to the same extent, of his paper supply. But paper may be ordered many times, and if its weight is specified, it should vary within exceedingly narrow limits. Consequently, when one meets with a specimen of the first issue of United States revenues on a paper that more nearly resembles Bristol board than any ordinary paper, he is apt to be more or less convinced that something unusual, to put it mildly, has happened.

Mr. Toppan, in his book on U. S. Revenues, lists about twenty varieties of these thick-paper stamps, but he does not state when they were issued, nor does he particularize as to their origin, or scarcity. The writer has sought these uncatalogued stamps assiduously during the past three years, with but indifferent success. They are apparently, except in one instance, of the greatest rarity, possibly for reasons which will be stated later. It has been possible to add several varieties to Mr. Toppan's list, and it is equally possible that others may turn up. The difficulty of getting any really adequate supply of specimens would seem to preclude the possibility of any rapid advance in the number, and it may well be that the list herewith is practically complete.

An examination of this paper shows it to be exceedingly hard, tough, and dense, in some cases slightly more loose in texture than others, but readily recognizable as thick paper by touch alone, as it is two-and-one-half times as thick as the ordinary paper, as measured by a micrometer. Some specimens show traces of brownish material, which appears to be straw or some similar fibre, but the material in all cases seems to have been hot-pressed, and consequently is smooth surfaced, and hard.

The stamps printed upon it show very distinct shades from those issued earlier, and it is possible to recognize some of these in this manner, without investigation of the paper. In every case where I have been able to obtain these in cancelled, dated condition, the date has been not earlier than November, 1869, and in the majority of cases has been 1870, or early in 1871. As the Second Issue appeared in 1871, this would indicate that a supply of this unusually thick paper was obtained late in 1869, and was used for about a year, while experimentation with the chameleon paper for the second issue was being carried out.

This being the case, it is easy to understand why these thick-paper varieties are rare. The ordinary paper was used for seven or eight years, the thick paper for only one; furthermore, large stocks of most values and denominations having been printed on the ordinary paper, it was necessary to print certain varieties only on the supply of thick paper which had been obtained to eke out the supply, while the second issue was being prepared.

The following list contains all the values and subjects, arranged by title, which I have been able to examine, or obtain, and gives the tint (shade is quite inaccurate in speaking of these colors which have no black in them) of each variety.

Agreement, 5c, brownish lake.

Certificate, 5c, pale rose pink. Mr. Toppan says it occurs in dull and bright red, also.

10c, blue. Not seen in the dull or dark blues.

25c, dull red. Not seen in the other shades.

Charter Party, $3. Occurs in both light and dark greens, but I have not seen it in the pale, apple-green tint, which is very likely much earlier than 1869.

Conveyance, 50c dull blue.

50c ultramarine.

$2 brilliant orange-vermilion. A number of these all have cancellations dated 1870.

$5 orange red, of a tint absolutely different from the usual color.

$50 dark green.

In connection with this article, it might perhaps, be well to state that the color known as "blue-green", and which is often ascribed to stamps, is one that is exceedingly seldom seen. This color is peculiar to robins' eggs, the fresh-laid egg of that bird being, practically, pure blue-green. Consequently, the term as applied to stamps is, in the majority of cases, absolutely erroneous, and dark green only is meant.

AN £8000 WAR COLLECTION.

Messrs. Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., are to be congratulated upon the acquisition by purchase of the unique collection of war stamps, formed by E. V. Block. This is undoubtedly the finest and most complete lot of the stamp issues (excepting enemy issues) of the war. I saw the little packet—it would have gone into an overcoat pocket—some little time ago, stated to price up to £8000. Since it was purchased the collection has been mounted and rearranged, and invitations were sent to a number of collectors to view the collection last week. At the last moment these invitations had to be postponed, as Messrs. Gibbons were favoured by a command from His Majesty the King, and the collection was sent to the Palace for a few days.—Postage Stamp.

COMMUNICATION.

To the Editor:—
 I was interested in a little editorial in the July 29th issue of the WEEKLY. The reader in the moralizing mood evidently didn't take the trouble to check up his findings with St. Nicholas, because I find that among the advertisers who are represented in our Stamp Directory during 1916, who also advertised in St. Nicholas prior to 1897, are:

J. W. Scott, Scott Stamp & Coin Co., C. A. Stegman, L. B. Dover, A. Bullard, F. E. Thorp, E. T. Parker, Mekeel Stamp & Pub. Co.

We might also be tempted to say that it is those stamp dealers who were wise in their selection of advertising media twenty years ago who are in business today.

I just could not help writing you this, because I am not at all sure that your reader's opinion will stand the "acid test".

Sincerely yours,

ALFRED D. GUION,

New York City.

A STORY OF THE POSTAGE STAMP.

By Director JOSEPH E. RALPH.

The deterioration of colors is caused by the action of both light and atmosphere. Chemical composition will give a clue as to the action of atmosphere, but the action of light is more subtle, and nothing short of an actual test is of value. Of course, it is impracticable to have a test extending over years of time, so some methods had to be devised to give results in days.

It has been determined from exhaustive experiments that a color that will not change after exposure to bright sunlight in the summer for a period of three days can be relied upon to withstand ages of exposure in the diffused light of an ordinary room. The amount of actinic light given off by the sun during a cloudless day in summer was measured photographically, and by the same method the amount can be gauged on a cloudy or rainy day. This enabled a standard condition to be measured and governed.

The amount of fading in such a day, even with rather fugitive colors is very slight, so the following method was devised to determine what effect long exposure would have. A strip of paper printed with an ink made from the color was exposed to light one, two, and three days, with a part protected by black paper. By comparison of the exposed parts with that protected by black paper, it was found that some of the colors would fade a little more each day, and others would fade for the first day and remain stable for the other two days. The former were classed as progressive in fading, and the inference is that they would eventually fade away. The assumption is that the others would fade slightly and then remain permanent. Further experience has corroborated this view, and today no colors are used in the Bureau that show progressive fadings.

We now make fading tests with an artificial light, the quartz mercury lamp, which is on the same principle as the familiar Cooper-Hewitt mercury tube, except it is so high in the ultra-violet, or actinic rays, that it is enclosed in a special protective casing to prevent those near it from being sunburned, which would be the case if they were exposed to it for a few minutes.

In securing permanent colors, we had to sacrifice some of the brilliancy that is characteristic of nearly all of the aniline colors, although there is solidity and softness that is more artistic in our present series. The only aniline colors we use are the reds, and those colors that contain red (purples, browns and oranges). For yellow, we use chrome yellow; for blue, Prussian and ultramarine; and for black, we use bone-black, which is practically carbon. All of these are minerals except Prussian blue, which is partly organic and partly inorganic.

The source of some of these colors may be of interest to you. The aniline reds are made from coal tar; the Prussian blue was originally made from calcined horn, but now from a great variety of substances, and can even be made electrolytically from the nitrogen of the air; the ultramarine was origithe dates of national expositions and record great international events. No wonder that staid business men and dyed-in-the-wool "intellectuals" join the ranks of the collectors. There is a fascination in the hobby. A postage stamp is a mystery in applied force which no mere science of physics can ever fathom. It weighs less than a feather, yet it will propel a letter to the farthest part of the planet—at the cost of a few cents. What triumph of engineering is equal to that?

EDITORIAL.

Forward—The conventions of the national stamp societies now are history and it may be said that the season is about to open. Yet, if it ever could be said truthfully that there was little lapse in interest in stamps during the summer, the present year is deserving of this tribute. Never before has philately fared so well during hot weather as it has in the months just passed and this observation receives confirmation from many scattered sources of information. On the eve of this season, according to the calendar months, we shall make no prediction. We have the conviction shared in by a host of philatelic followers that an activity and prosperity will abide with us in the months to come that will be without parallel in our pleasant realm.

Authority—A question that often is received in some form or other is answered in the following statement from the postmaster of Chicago:

"It is illegal for any person employed in any branch of the postal service to sell postage stamps for any other than their face value, but when sold the stamps become the property of the purchaser and the purchaser may sell or otherwise dispose of same at any price. It is legal for stamp vending machines to deliver four 1 cent stamps or two 2 cent stamps for 5 cents.—D. A. CAMPBELL, Postmaster."

History—From Mr. H. C. Macdougall, Boothbay Harbor, Maine, we have received the following pithy opinion: "I have found 'writing up' stamps very interesting. A collection 'written up' impresses one's friends favorably and helps to remove one, in their eyes, from the category of a 'crank'. But to many collectors the literary side is a bore." The point that is made is worth serious consideration. It is not to be gainsaid that the historical phases that are embodied in a collection that is described with brief historical and statistical notes command the interest of the non-philatelist. On the score of helpfulness to the pursuit, one should go to some pains to "write up" the issues as the effect on the outsiders in viewing the collection should be in the minds of those who would contribute to the welfare of philately. The time may come when a specialized collection, at least, will not be deemed complete unless it includes a commentary of the issues. As the literature of collecting becomes more expansive the data required for an intelligent description of the issues will be more easily available; and then, there will be no excuse for an omission of the kind.

Signature—We have before us a letter written by James M. Buchanan, who is immortalized philatelicly by his issue of the Baltimore provisionals, adhesives and envelopes. It is not necessary to say here that the adhesives, in particular, are in demand or that the ten cent is among the supreme rarities of the United States. James M. Buchanan was postmaster of Baltimore from 1845 to 1849 and the date attributed to the adhesive stamps is given as 1845 in some instances, and as 1846 in others. The provisional envelopes were issued in 1845 as there is record of the use of the written signature and the printed signature envelopes in that year. The ten cent envelopes have the printed signature and the impression on them is in red while on the five cent envelope, it is in blue. Speaking of the five and ten cent adhesives of Baltimore, Mr. Luff in his history of the stamps of the United States said that the earliest cancellation that he had seen was March 18, 1846, and the latest, March 27, 1847. The design of the stamp was printed from an engraved plate and consisted of the value below the fac-simile of the signature of Postmaster Buchanan. From theories developed by Mr. Luff, he advances the suggestion that the plate of the Baltimore stamp was composed of fifteen stamps in five horizontal rows of three stamps each, the lowest row having been the impressions of the ten cent value while the remaining twelve units were of the five cent denomination. Mr. Luff says that a sheet under this arrangement would have a face value of ninety cents, an amount that would allow at the price of a dollar a margin that would balance the cost of plate production and printing. The ten cent adhesive is very rare and it was Mr. I. A. Mekeel of our paper, who, many years before his death, sold a copy of the Baltimore ten cent for the sum of forty-four hundred dollars.

Reproduction—After the foregoing digression, it is becoming that a return be made to the letter that has been mentioned. This letter from the Baltimore ex-postmaster is dated Baltimore, Jan. 10, 1850, or soon after he withdrew from office, and is addressed to a friend in Annapolis, Md., and though the use of postmasters' provisionals after the appearance of the regular 1847 issue is of record, yet the year 1850 is too far a cry and it could not be expected that a Baltimore stamp would be used then. Though it is the characteristic signature that we are concerned with, we shall not forbear to copy the letter in the chirography of Mr. Buchanan: "Balt., Jan. 10th, 1850. My Dear G.:—Will you be good enough to refer the papers in the matter of Martigue's estate to the Auditor? Enclosed I send you tax bills but there still is one tax bill which I have not got. This need not delay the Auditor. Let the Auditor have the papers," and now for the famous super-scription:

With yours truly and James M. Buchanan

Away—We have learned that Mr. Hugh C. Barr, Buffalo, New York, editor of La Hacienda, that superb monthly published in Spanish, expects to embark about the first of October on a six months' trip around South America, covering Brazil, Argentina, Uruguay, Chile, Peru, Panama, Costa Rica and Cuba. Mr. Barr's trip will be made with a view to the investigation and study of agricultural and industrial conditions in these countries but we may depend upon Mr. Barr to acquaint us with any philatelic developments that may come under his notice.

Many—A question that is new to us has been asked by a reader who wants to know if his cover which is plastered over with twenty Chilean stamps is entitled to the record as having emanated from a non-philatelic source, for profligacy, as it were. A cover with a score of stamps on it would not command a second glance in some circles. We have seen in the business correspondence of firms letters from South and Central America on which thirty to fifty stamps were affixed. In fact, we have just been given some Guatemala covers by a business friend, on one of which there are thirty of the 10c blue and orange, while others have around twenty stamps on them. If we may rely upon recollection, the most stamps that we ever saw on a single cover that was not mailed by a collector, to all appearances, were on a huge envelope sent from Brazil to France on which there were eighty or so of stamps of small denomination. We are confident that almost unbelievable stories of this kind could be told, and we are ready to hear some of them.

DEATH OF L. W. CROUCH.

(English philately has suffered a severe loss in the death of Capt. L. W. Crouch who was killed in action. The English papers speak appreciatively of Capt. Crouch's services to both his country and his hobby—stamp collecting. We clip the following.—Ed.)

The great regard in which my friend, the late Captain L. W. Crouch, was held in philatelic circles is echoed in the numerous letters I have received from readers. An incident very characteristic of Captain Crouch is related in a letter from Mr. Whitfield King, who has given many entertainments to wounded soldiers at Ipswich. Crouch read of these in The Postage Stamp, and wrote Mr. Whitfield King that one of his N. C. O.'s was wounded and had been sent to Broadwater Hospital, Ipswich, and he would be glad if Mr. W. K. would look him up. The very next day Mr. King happened to be giving a garden party to some of the men from Broadwater, but Corporal N— was not amongst them. But on telephoning to the matron permission was obtained for him to be brought to the party. Says Mr. King, "This man had been awarded the D. C. M. and spoke so highly of Captain Crouch that I wrote and told him what the man said, and that I fully expected to hear that he (Captain Crouch) had been awarded the V. C., to which he modestly replied that he suspected it was all Irish blarney on Corporal N—'s part, and although he had been at the Front for sixteen months he had not been sent forward and had not even received a medal because he had not done anything to deserve it.—Postage Stamp."

THE STAMP DEALER AND HIS STOCK.

By BILL BLOSS.

CHAPTER V.—Handling Stock.

In modern business, efficiency is the order of the day. Every industry has come to look upon high efficiency as an exponent of success. Fifty years ago, a factory was satisfied with the difference between its products selling price and cost. Today, however, the live manufacturer must know not only the cost of his raw material, but the amount of labor involved in performing every process, in order that he may run his plant at the highest efficiency and thereby reduce his costs. The same idea is in the mind of every modern business man. Where a few years ago the letter press and copy book was in vogue, today the carbon copy and letter file is used, merely to save time and increase efficiency.

Unfortunately for the growth of the business, the stamp dealers are only waking up and beginning to see things in a modern light. Many dealers are still using the methods prescribed by their grandfathers, and are hampered by systems that should have found rest in the grave with the gentlemen aforementioned. If a stamp dealer is doing business for profit, why lose any of it by decayed business methods? To insure efficiency, every dealer should study the smallest details of his business, and eliminate and condense wherever possible. By carefully working out a system, it is possible to cut out some unnecessary handling of stock, thus saving time and decreasing the wear and tear on the stock by this useless handling, a factor to be considered by every stamp dealer.

In the Matter of Equipment,

the writer begs to make a few suggestions, based on his experience with the various articles necessary to the business. In buying stock books, only those with interchangeable leaves and of uniform size should be considered. It is far easier to move a leaf from one binder to another as occasion may require, than to move each stamp from one page to another. There are several very good lines of stock books on the market. Of course, for quantity lots, a pocket stock book is the only kind practical, and the same remarks apply to these books. For counter books, a printed album of standard make is the most advisable, and the style printed on only one side of the paper is the most desirable. Dealers can usually procure these books through buying a collection, thus saving much labor in mounting. Every dealer should have a set of these books whether he does a counter trade or not, as they are useful in finding stamps when wanted for lists or otherwise. If possible, a set should be kept for unused, and another for used specimens. Whenever a new stamp is received, it should be placed in this collection in its respective place. In this way, the dealer can readily find a stamp wanted without causing unnecessary delay to his customer or loss of his valuable time. (A stamp dealer's time is worth something. Bear this in mind, and don't forget to include it in your cost. If you were not attending to the stamp business, you could be doing something else for profit.) More sales are lost and customers disgusted by the popular phrase, "I have it around the place somewhere, but can't find it," than by almost any other reason. A keeps his stamps in a dozen different places and hunts all over when he wants to find a stamp. He remembers he saw it last month on an approval card somewhere. B puts his stamps in their place as received, and knows where they are in the dark. Who gets the business? Who makes the most profit?

The Following Equipment is necessary: a set of albums, or two sets if possible; a stock book (or books, depending on the stock) for surplus copies up to ten of a kind for used stamps, a similar book for unused (separate pages may be used at first, or used may be arranged at the left of the line and unused at the right, or vice versa) also a book for blocks, strips, and covers. As the stock grows, more books will be necessary, but these should be a continuation of the ones first used. A stock book size 10 inches by 12 inches, or thereabouts, is the most practical. Do not get too small a book. At the present time I am making no allowance for equipment needed for an approval department, as this will be treated separately in a later issue.

In Handling the Stamps and Books, use care, as the less wear, the greater the profit. Pocket stock books have several ugly habits, such as tearing the stamps and perforations, and are also liable to become loose at the pockets, if overcrowded. Most books are designed to accommodate five layers of stamps to the pocket, and no more than this should be put into a pocket. Also, much strain is removed by lapping the stamps a little. While this takes up more room, it also allows one to get an idea of the appearance of each stamp without removing the whole lot. The less the stamps are removed from the pockets, the better for both.

In handling my own stock, I put all copies in excess of ten in envelopes and file them in tin boxes, first by country and then by number. On the envelope, besides the name of the country, the number, year and value, I put my cost per ten in code. If only one stamp is added, I multiply its cost by ten to get the necessary cost price. In using a code, it is advisable to select a word of ten letters, letting the initial represent one, and the final represent naught. These letter combinations will tell at a glance the cost of the stamp or lot, and selling price may be fixed accordingly. This code comes in very handy especially when more expensive pieces are handled. The code word is very easy to remember and is generally more satisfactory than a number code (which is often confused by the customer to mean the real cost, and false impressions as to profit arise).

In Caring for Stamps,

it is advisable to use a stamp tongs whenever possible, instead of the fingers. Finger marks never added value to any stamp. Also, when mounting, use a first class hinge on all except the very cheap stamps for approval purposes. The new tasteless hinges are to be commended. They give satisfaction and the user does not find it as necessary to run down to the corner to wash away the taste as heretofore and thus time and expense are saved.

In handling rare stamps or extra fine copies of good stamps, it is an excellent plan to enclose them in small transparent envelopes, as this saves much handling. The writer recently had a magnificent copy of an early U. S. stamp damaged by taking it out of a stock book to show, and replacing it. Also, the larger transparent envelopes may be cut into sections and used. The four

The Greater the Profit.

Save time by putting your stamps in the right place the first time you handle them. Don't move them onto a card for future attention. Do it now. You'll have something else to do in the future, and may need the stamp before then. It is too easy to accumulate a bunch of job lots and miscellaneous boxes and envelopes full of stamps. A prominent Western dealer has stamps in his stock which have stayed there over twenty years. He is just learning system, and it is probable that the stamps will move quicker after he learns it.

We will now consider that the reader has digested the preceding remarks, and we will consider that he is sufficiently equipped to handle a mixed lot of stamps just received.

In the first place, the lot should be sorted into the different varieties. Secondly, the best one of every kind should be mounted in the reference or counter collection. If there are more than one of a kind, or are duplicates to the counter collection, these duplicates should be filed in the pocket stock books. All over ten should be filed in envelopes.

After the Reserve Stock is Taken Out, the dealer may, if he pleases, turn the lot over to the approval department for disposal. The cost of the lot should be noted, and prices marked accordingly. In every lot there are certain damaged and undesirable. These damaged should be put into a sealed box with a hole in the top, kept for such purpose, and when the box is full, it should be destroyed, or perhaps, donated to some one who could make use of it, but never sold. Also, it is often better to sell many odds and ends at a sacrifice rather than handle them, therefore boxes for 1c, 2c, etc., may be kept, and certain stamps put therein for disposal at those prices. This last feature can often be turned to advantage by mixing a few bargains in the lot, and making up one cent approvals, for advertising purposes, to attract trade.

All blocks, errors, etc., should be consigned to the book kept for them, and should be treated specially.

The dealer must work his own system out for himself. The writer will be pleased to hear from dealers on this subject, and articles dealing with same will appear from time to time. In working out a system, try to handle the stamps as few times as possible, and with as much speed and as little motion as possible. These items appear small, but aggregate a great deal. Success is founded on attention to the small details.

VISITS BEVERLY OFFICE.

The most recent visitor to the Beverly office of the WEEKLY was S. E. Coleman of Washington, D. C., who with Mrs. Coleman and their daughter motored from the National capital to the erstwhile summer capital on a vacation trip. Needless to say, the Managing Editor enjoyed the call and the honor done the office of the WEEKLY. By all means include Beverly in your New England itinerary. With river and lake, hill and dale, to say nothing of seven miles of rugged shore line, Beverly is in a class by itself.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

ARGENTINE.—We have already reported the 5c value of the 1916 Commemorative issue for this country. Thanks to J. M. Bartels & Co. and Louis M. Royal, we are able to describe the 1c, 2c, 3c, 10c, 12c, 20c, 24c and 50c values. As announced some time ago, there are three designs and as many sizes. The 10c is of the same design as the 5c described in No. 1339, with change of color, the lower values, 1c, 2c, 3c, are 17½x23 mm. and show a portrait of Dr. Francisco Narciso Larraida, with "Republica Argentina" above and "1816-1916" below with the value in square tablets in the lower corners. Similar arrangement of the inscriptions is noted on the 12c, 20c, 24c and 50c stamps, but they are of larger size, 21x27 mm. and show a portrait of "Gral Jose de San Martin." The stamps are all printed on paper watermarked honeycomb, the three lower values being perforated 13½x12½, and the others 13½.

AUSTRIA.—Offices in Serbia.—Stanley R. Massman informs us that the Austrian Occupation stamps for use in Serbia now have the overprint "Serbien" printed horizontally, instead of diagonally, reading up.

AUSTRALIA.—The Australian Philatelist has received specimens of a very striking innovation in Commonwealth postal stationery, to wit, three envelopes with the ½d, 1d and 2d stamps embossed thereon. The stamps, instead of being surface-printed, are embossed in relief, the head and numerals standing out prominently in each.

At first it was announced that they were to be impressed on envelopes supplied by customers, a charge of two shillings per thousand being made for embossing; and that the stamped envelopes would not be sold over the counter. Later instructions were issued that existing stocks were to be used up before the new issue is placed on sale; pointing to the fact that they will be sold to the general public.

BAHAMAS.—Ewen's Weekly says: In returning our remittance for the Special Delivery stamp, the Postmaster of Bahamas, in early June, stated that a very limited number was issued and that the entire quantity was sent to the Post Office Dept. at Ottawa, Canada. We then mailed to Ottawa and recently received the following letter:—

"Post Office Department, Canada, Ottawa, 27th July, 1916.

Gentlemen,
I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 12th instant, regarding the Special Delivery stamps supplied to this Department by the Bahamas Postal Authorities for use on letters mailed in Canada, the special delivery of which is desired in the Bahamas Islands, and to inform you that this Department has been notified by the Bahamas Office that the stamps in question are to be used for no other purpose than for the service for which they were issued.

Your remittance is therefore returned herewith.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your obedient servant,
(Signed) R. M. COULTER,
Deputy Postmaster-General."

Under date of July 25, Dr. Walter Hess writes: "There were only 600 copies of the 5d Bahamas Special Delivery issued. The entire supply was sent to Ottawa for distribution. The stamps were never on sale in the Bahamas, and only the Canadian 10c green Special Delivery, for use on letters to Canada.

"From my own experience I am rather inclined to think that you will have difficulty in obtaining the stamps from Ottawa. Some correspondence has passed between Ottawa and Nassau as to whether the stamps could be sold to collectors and dealers, but the Governor of the Bahamas advised Ottawa that the stamps were to be used for postal purposes only. The stamps are very hard to obtain here, and as yet, I have only been able to get hold of a very few."

BAVARIA.—Ludwig Simon informs us that new 2½pf, 7½pf and 15pf values are to be issued, as noted for Germany, owing to increased postal rates.

CANADA.—We are indebted to Gladstone Perry and Robert Hitchman for the information that the 3c War Tax stamp of Canada is to be printed in brown instead of red. A probable change in color has already been intimated in these columns, the new color being made necessary to distinguish it from the ordinary 2c stamp.

GERMANY.—Ludwig Simon kindly translates for us a clipping from a German paper, regarding new values added to the current German Imperial series, owing to the increase in the postal rates. These new values were issued to the public on July 28. The design is the same as the 1906-11 series, except that the background of the inner field is colorless instead of lined in color, a novelty which renders them easy to be distinguished. There are also new post and response cards, but particulars regarding these are lacking.

Adhesives.

2½pf gray.
7½pf orange yellow.
15pf brown.

Offices in Belgium.—Stanley R. Massman informs us that only the 3pf has appeared with change in spelling of "Centime."

Ewen's Weekly translates from the Schweizer Briefmarken-Zeitung as follows:

"Many of our readers have heard that there are two types of the 25 centimes value of the German issue with surcharge 'Belgien', without really knowing the difference which exists between the two types. It is not very important and exists simply in the placing of the figure 25 from the word centimes. In the first printing of these stamps the figure 5 is placed 1¼ mm. from the 'c', whilst in the later printings this space is 2¼ mm."

INDIA.—The Philatelic Journal of India has the following regarding the Indian stamps overprinted "I. E. F."

The subjoined numbers compose the second printing of this series for each denomination:—

Adhesives.

1r green and brown, 4,800.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The branch office of the WEEKLY at Beverly was favored last week by a visit from Mrs. E. W. Oughtred of Montreal. After attending the A. P. S. convention Mrs. Oughtred made a tour of Massachusetts and Connecticut prior to her return to her home city.

—J. M. Bartels supplements the information conveyed by A. A. Jones, Herrin, Ill., in regard to the inability of securing residence address of G. W. Faber, formerly 189 Grand River Ave., Detroit, Mich. Interested parties will do well to correspond with either of these two dealers.

—A Washington, D. C., subscriber sends us a portion of the Congressional Record for August 25. Legislation is being put through for a special cancelling die to be used by Springfield, Ill., in connection with the 100th anniversary of the admission of the State of Illinois into the Union. We note also a similar action in connection with the 100th anniversary of the admission of Mississippi. The city of Gulfport desires the publicity in question.

—We are indebted to several subscribers for further information concerning the 12c U. S. with pink back. Among those who have written us are Alfred Wilson, Arthur Hurlin, Robt. Ruebsamer, Jr., and H. F. Metz.

—The Globe of Hartford, Conn., published on Sunday, August 6, a most admirable article dealing with stamp collecting occupying nearly a half page of this influential daily. Had we space at our disposal we should be glad to reprint the article as an indication of

A new advertiser will be noted this week in the person of G. Stanley Haines, 17 Charlotte St., Peabody, Mass. Mr. Haines comes to us with bank references and has been a subscriber to the WEEKLY for several years. We give him a cordial welcome and trust his stay with us will be a long one.

The large advertisement of Andrew Sledd, Decatur, Ga., offers an opportunity for those who like to patronize an auction. Mr. Sledd calls attention to the fact that the catalog prices quoted are those for 1915 and that the catalog for 1917 would naturally show numerous advances in prices.

C. G. Gardner changes over this week from adlets to displayed advertising. He writes:—"I am doing sufficient business through your columns to warrant this change and later hope to use even more space than at present." The WEEKLY is glad to encourage the young dealer and will give him every consideration possible.

J. A. Galbraith has added materially to his stock as indicated in his advertisement elsewhere in this issue. He has also increased his office force and is prepared to handle a large approval business. Mr. Galbraith specializes in new issues and used war stamps.

There is no stamp paper in the world that can approach the WEEKLY in business getting properties. If you have stamps to sell, we can sell them, and if your advertisement does not appear in the WEEKLY—"we both lose," as the Sterling Co. says.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

NOTES ON THE STAMPS OF THE FEUDATORY STATES OF INDIA.

By B. GORDON JONES.

The stamps (native types) of some of the Indian Feudatory States offer a most interesting group to a specialist wishing to get off the beaten track. The entire group is still rather unpopular and most imperfectly understood, and bargains may be picked up very often. Some of the States will well repay study, and on closer acquaintance will be found to be most interesting. Undoubtedly a large number of the issues were only made for collectors, and reprints abound of many, but when the rubbish is weeded out, a great deal of the residue is really of sterling merit.

Major Evans has written a series of excellent articles on these States, which appeared in Messrs. Stanley Gibbons' Monthly Journal, and various other magazines, mostly in the Indian Society's Journal. To anyone taking up this group, all the "literature" available can be got together for a few shillings. In a few instances special handbooks also exist, such as Masson's "Jammu and Kashmir," Anderson's "Bhopal," and one or two others, but all are cheap editions. Scott (New York) has also issued a very fine series of reproductions of many of the plates, and these will be found invaluable for plating.

Many of these States may be coming countries, though at present they may seem more like gone ones, and time may bring its revenges. Before "the day" comes for them, wise people will have arrived first, and when they attain to the pinnacle of desire, those who have already climbed there cheaply will feel exceeding wise!

I have set down some desultory remarks about a few of the most interesting of these States, but I do not expect everyone to agree with me. The States mentioned in the beginning are, I think, quite the best, but it must remain with each of us to have our own preferences.

Before proceeding further, it is as well that the status of these issues should be understood. The stamps of the "Convention" States (overprinted on the Imperial issues) will carry letters and other mail to any part of India, but the stamps of the Feudatory States are purely locals and can only be used within the confines of each State itself. The Imperial Post Office maintains offices in all these latter States to deal with correspondence going out of them.

BHOPAL: This is one of the largest States of Central India, and is in extent about the size of Wales. Its many issues afford a large field for study to the specialist, but to shade and plate all its numerous sheets from single copies would nearly mean the work of a lifetime. To collect "by catalogue", taking only the main varieties, will be found most interesting, but to anyone wishing to reconstruct all the plates, though this may prove an absorbing labour of love to an enthusiast, it will be a weariness of the flesh to most.

Entire sheets of nearly all the earlier issues can still be met with, and this simplifies the plating work. The Indian Society has published a book on "Bhopal" (G. A. Anderson), but it is very sketchy; the reproductions in colour of the earlier sheets will, however, be found useful. Gibbons' catalogue lists (excluding errors) about 150 varieties, and as each variety has from 20 to 30 types on the plate, it will be seen that plating all the issues is an endeavour not to be lightly undertaken.

HYDERABAD (DECCAN): This is the premier State of India (though Kashmir is slightly larger), and in extent it is about equal to England, Scotland and Wales combined, the income of the Nizam (king) being about £3,000,000 annually.

The first stamps were issued in 1869-70, and the two "skeleton" values of this series can be plated if desired. This issue was perforated 11½, reprints made about 1880 being perforated 12½. In 1871 a fresh series of stamps appeared, which are given in Gibbons' catalogue as perforated 12½, and it is only recently—forty years after they first appeared—that copies have been found with the earlier 11½ perforation. In 1905 a new series of stamps began to appear, and since then three distinct sets of perforations have come on the scene, some being very rare.

This State is the only one of the Indian States that affords scope for the energies of the perforation hunter, and if they are followed into the later service (Serkari) issues, a fine crop of finds may result at the expenditure of little money. Collectors must, however, beware of forged Serkari surcharges, as their number is legion.

JHIND: This is one of the smaller progressive States in the Punjab. The native types of stamps went out of use in 1885, but the State still survives as one of the "convention" group. The early issues of Jhind are of great interest, and it is a fine country for plating, as each value has fifty types to the sheet. As a rule, the stamps of these States are overpriced in the catalogues; Jhind is, however, an exception, and perhaps, barring the 1876 issue, all the other stamps seem underpriced. Sooner or later prices will find their truer level, and Jhind will then "arrive." The letter "R" on all Jhind stamps is stated by Gibbons' catalogue to be the initial letter of a previous Rajah's name, but this is wrong. It merely denotes the first letter of the word "Raj" (kingdom), and as the stamps were for internal use only this was intended to clearly imply what was meant.

KASHMIR: This is the most important State in Northern India, being slightly larger than Hyderabad. From the general point of view the stamps of this State constitute the fairest field in Indian philately. Sir David Masson's handbook on "Jammu-Kashmir" is the standard work on the country, and it is perfectly indispensable to anyone seriously taking up these issues.

Kashmir is, however, much marred by reprinting, and in collecting its manifold issues the collector must "gang warily."

Beginning with the circular stamps, reprints exist from the original dies and also counterfeits from imitation dies, but with care these can soon be detected. The 1867 Jammu rectangular (blocks of 4) stamps cover a large field, but the greater number are practically unobtainable. The 1866-67 Kashmir series is also most interesting, some of the stamps being extremely rare. Gibbons' catalogue omits to state (as in earlier instances) that all (Nos. 86-101) are in water-colours. A common mistake made by many is to confound S. G.'s Nos. 91-92 (½ anna) with the 1867 Jammu plate, but the differences are plain enough if the stamp is intelligently examined. There is no space here to even begin discussing the subject of Kashmir stamps, but their collection will well repay much study. Owing to the numbers of reprints and forgeries in this State, the issues are rather neglected, yet with knowledge it is fairly easy to still pick up some of the greatest rarities for a few pence from careless dealers and others who neglect all these stamps, and also in "mixed" auction lots. Kashmir stamps went out of use altogether in 1895, and all the plates were publicly destroyed. Several very fine collections of this State exist, the best known being those formed by the late Sir David Masson and by Colonel F. H. Hancock.

POONCH: This is a minor State in the Punjab Himalayas, and its issues, though manifold, are absolutely above suspicion. Essentially the collection of Poonch stamps is purely one of collecting varieties of paper. About 1875 two early dies were in use, but these seem to have disappeared later. In 1880 a fresh set of five dies was prepared, remaining in use for about 15 years, and when Poonch stamps became obsolete they were publicly destroyed. For ordinary use these stamps were struck in red, and for service use in black. All the resultant varieties are caused by the numerous kinds of paper brought into use each time stamps were required. Some of the papers were used in small quantities and many varieties are thus of extreme rarity. These crude labels are most interesting, and they are worth studying. Collectors should, however, be on the alert for forgeries, as many exist.

SIRMOOR: An important State, near Umballa in the Punjab. The "head" stamps of 1885-1900 exist from several printings, and their classification and collection form one of the most interesting subjects in Indian philately. The catalogues put all the printings together, only differentiating them by shades. Some of the rarer printings are worth quite a good price, and with knowledge may be picked up for pence. Roughly, these "heads" may be classified as follows (the variations are caused by the head die being inserted separately to the rest of the design), all the printings being lithographed by Messrs. Waterlow and Sons, in blocks or strips, multiplied to make up the sheets:

3 pies, brown, 3 printings; I (7 types), IV (5 types), VI (4 types). Of these the 1st printing stamps are uncommon, the 4th common (both being S. G.'s A), while the 6th printing is very common (S. G.'s B); total, 16 types.

3 pies, orange, 6 printings; II (4 types), III (5 types), IV (5 types), V (2 types), VI (4 types), VII (4 types). Of these the 3rd and 4th printings are very rare, the 2nd fairly rare, while the 5th is common, though all are S. G.'s A; the 6th printing, S. G.'s B, is very common; the 7th printing only exists surcharged for Service use (1900 Waterlow overprint); total, 24 types.

6 pies, green, 7 printings; I (7 types), II (4 types), III (5 types), IV (5 types), V (2 types), VI (4 types), VII (4 types). Of these, the 3rd printing is of the greatest rarity, the 1st, 2nd, and 4th printings are good, while the 5th is common, all being S. G.'s C; the 6th printing, S. G.'s D, is very common; the 7th printing only exists with the Waterlow Service overprint; total, 31 types.

1 anna, blue, 6 printings; I (7 types), III (5 types), IV (5 types), V (2 types), VI (4 types), VII (4 types). Of these, the 3rd and 4th printings are rare, the 1st is good, the 5th and 6th are common, and the 7th only exists with the Waterlow Service overprint; total, 27 types.

2 annas, rose red, 4 printings; I (7 types), V (2 types), VI (4 types), VII (4 types). These are all rather common, the 7th printing, as in all the other values, only existing with the Waterlow Service overprint; total, 17 types.

Apart from identification by examination, some of these printings can be picked out at once by their shades, certain shades being peculiar to certain printings. The two stamps of the second printing can easily be identified by the lack of shading on the turban and the face. The fifth printing is peculiar in showing the lines of background behind the head very blurred. The seventh printing only exists surcharged by Waterlow for service purposes. In many cases it will be found easier to complete plates with the help of overprinted "On S.S.S." stamps, which, in some instances, are easier to get.

SORUTH: This is one of the larger States of Kathiawar, and one of the earliest stamp-issuing States in India. The early type-set stamps are of extreme interest, and plating the sheets is most absorbing, some of the varieties being very rare indeed. The later stamps from 1877 onward do not call for much remark, but some, especially the blue colour-errors, take finding. Reprints exist of some of the type-set stamps, but they are easily distinguishable from originals, especially in sheets.

The above noted States are, to my mind, the most interesting of all this Indian group, but many of the other States, to which I may refer in a future article, will be found not unworthy of attention. Some of them, however, like Bamra, Bussahir, Charkhari, Dutia, Faridkot, Kishengarh, Orcha, etc., are more or less of the made-for-collectors order, and do not deserve overmuch notice.—Stamp Collectors' Annual.

NEWS FROM THE ORIENT.

By THEODORE SIDDALL.

(It has been some time since we published this letter, news as it is, will be read with interest. After several years' residence in Manila Mr. Siddall is now temporarily located in Shanghai.—Ed.)

I notice that Scott's catalogue of 1916 lists the Philippine 2 and 4 centavo stamps with the perforation 10. The 2 centavo with this perforation has been out for about a year in booklets, but only since about July 15 in sheets. The 4 centavo, it is understood, has been printed and sent out to Manila in booklets, but at the time I left there none had been placed on sale at Manila, which is perhaps where they would first appear, as only the offices where there is a considerable American population would find any sale for booklets. The natives would never think of paying the extra 2 centavos for a booklet—in fact, they seldom buy more than one stamp at a time.

The Russian China 10 ruble stamp is now obsolete, all having been used up and I have seen an official letter from the postmaster in the Russian office here in Shanghai stating that no more would be issued.

The Japanese China set surcharged on the new issue of Japan (1914) is with one exception on sale now, only the 4 sen remaining unissued—or at least, it is not yet on sale in the Shanghai office.

The German China 4 cent on 10 pfennig has been exhausted at the German offices, but as these offices are doing very little business nowadays during the war, the absence of this value is not seriously felt. No American ships call at Shanghai since the Pacific Mail quit, and no one of the other neutral nations has any regular lines of steamers to this port, so that the German post office can not send mails outside of China, as the Allied lines will not handle them. Its business is confined to a few Chinese and Americans within China (and of course the Germans here) and the stamps are becoming harder to get.

There are a few additions to be made to the 1916 "standard" catalogue, of stamps that were issued as long ago as 1912, as follows: China, Shanghai surcharge, inverted, 1 and 3 cent, not listed. London surcharge, 3 cent inverted surcharge, not listed. Postage anything from the pen of Mr. Siddall and this letter, news as it is, will be read with interest. After several years' residence in Manila Mr. Siddall is now temporarily located in Shanghai.—Ed.)

Due, Shanghai surcharge, 1 cent brown, with inverted surcharge, not listed.

The set under numbers 109 to 118 are fakes pure and simple, and were not issued by the Chinese post office.

I receive want lists from many correspondents who wish to get the various special delivery "stamps", listed under numbers 271 to 277. These are not stamps, are not sold to the public, are not allowed to go out of the post office except by favor and if so allowed to get out would not be good for postage or any payment of any sort. They are furnished to the post offices in books of 100. When an express letter is presented for mailing, the sender receives one section of the stamp as a receipt for the letter, one section is retained in the sending office, one is signed by the recipient and filed in the records of the delivering office, and the fourth section, I suppose, is kept as a sort of check on all hands. The stamp could not be used as the American special delivery stamp is used, and if an ordinary citizen presented one of them, together with a letter for mailing, he would probably get the secret service after him to inquire how he got the stamp. It certainly would not serve to pay postage, and is lacking in at least one of the essentials of a postage stamp, in that it is not sold to the public for the prepayment of postage or any other charge. However, I have seen entire specimens, and if you were a personal friend of the Postmaster General of China perhaps you could buy a book of 100—but they would not be good for use as stamps.

There are two types of the Shanghai Republican surcharge, that occur on the 1 and 2 cent values only. When these stamps were put in use, the Statistical Department was unable to surcharge all the stamps required in the short time available, and a quantity of the 1 and 2 cent were surcharged by a private concern, the Commercial Press. The distinguishing mark is in the bottom character, which in the Commercial Press print is wider than the same character, in the ones printed by the Statistical Department. One type of surcharge is as common as the other, apparently, and the 1 cent Commercial Press print has also been found inverted.

On one stamp on one of the plates of the 1 cent stamp which was in use about 1912 there is a curious slip of the engraver in the upper right corner, which is quite easily seen, once it has been found. This "error" occurred once on the sheet, and comes with both the Shanghai surcharge and with the London surcharge, but if you can find one without any surcharge, you have got a good stamp. The "error" was noticed before it had been in issue very long, and the plate was retired, and copies are reasonably scarce.

CHARLES BEAMISH, Secretary-Treas.

HOW TO ARRANGE A COLLECTION OF GREAT BRITAIN.

By A. B. CREEKE, JR.

The stamps of our own country constitute a group requiring special treatment, by reason of the circumstances attending their issue, so different from those of other countries.

Until 1880, values were created as and when required, and colours were changed every now and then—all in a more or less haphazard sort of way. The only features which remained constant for any considerable period were the watermarks and the perforation.

There were altogether, up to 1880, three kinds of postage stamps in use, two being the line-engraved, consisting of the 1d, 1d, 1½d, and 2d; and the surface-printed, comprising all the values from 2½d to £1, inclusive. Of these, the lower values form a series by themselves, not only because of their method of production, but also on account of the One Penny value, which exhibits a wonderful range of plate-numbers, to say nothing of tones and shades of colour, with a few variations of die, watermarks, and perforation thrown in.

The surface-printed stamps also are, as a whole, remarkable for the number of plates, changes of colour, and minor variations in the design.

Sandwiched in between these two great divisions we get the embossed stamps of 1847-54, forming, by reason of the mode of manufacture, a distinct class by themselves.

From 1880 onwards the new stamps are easily separated into issues, for the changes which took place after that date affected most, if not all, of the values for the time being in use; the present remarks are therefore mainly directed to the stamps of ante-1880 design.

There would seem to be three reasonable ways of arranging the earlier stamps of Great Britain: First, the strictly chronological, prima facie the correct and most scientific method; secondly, in groups, according to the manner of production, sub-dividing the surface-printed into periods by the watermark and the corner-lettering—as in the catalogue; and thirdly, according to styles of production, in order of value, exhausting each value before another is commenced.

The first I do not like, and candidly consider it liable to cause great confusion. The stamps would follow on somewhat in this fashion: 1840, 1d black and 2d blue, no lines; 1841, 1d red-brown, 2d blue, white lines; then would come the embossed 1s green (1847), and 10d brown (1848), followed by the line-engraved of 1854; after which would come the 6d embossed; then another batch of line-engraved; then the surface-printed stamps of 1855, and so on, until, somewhere between the Shilling, green, small letters, and the Threepence, rose, large white letters, we get several pages of the Penny, rose-red with plate-numbers.

The result is that, if you wish to trace any particular value through its changes of watermark and colour, you must perforce keep skipping a page or two every now and then.

The "catalogue" plan is much better—you can study it at your leisure, after you have considered the scheme advocated here, one which I followed in the very good collection I possessed years ago, and also (with slight variations) in a very fine and large accumulation recently arranged by me.

First of all, divide your stamps of ante-1880 designs into three main sections—line-engraved, the earliest of all; embossed, the next venture in stamp-production; and lastly, the permanent surface-printed, which first appeared about the middle of 1855—and exhaust one section before touching another, taking the stamps in each section in their order of value.

Thus, we keep to the design, until all the stamps conforming to it have been dealt with; and, a great consideration, it is quite easy to find any value required. Try even the system of arrangement in "Gibbons"—excellent though the catalogue is as a whole—and find, straight away, the 2s brown, or the 6d grey, plate 17, on Spray.

"Philbrick and Westoby" (1881) adopts the group-system, but takes the values in their order of issue; "British Isles" (1899) also follows the group-system, but gives the stamps in the order of value. Can you, off-hand, name the first four surface-printed stamps in their order of issue? I cannot.

Now for the plan advocated: It seems, as a well-known advertisement has it, "so easy":—

LINE-ENGRAVED.

Halfpenny (1870).—Plates 1, 3-6, 8-15, 19, 20.

One Penny.—(1840) black; (1841) red-brown; (1854-55) red-brown, dies I and II, Small Crown, perf. 16 and 14; (1855-57) red-brown, die II, Large Crown, perf. 16 and 14; (1857-58) rose-red, die II, Large Crown, perf. 14 and 16; (1864), plates 71-74, 76-125, 127, 129-225.

Three Halfpence (1870).—Plates (1), 3, Error: "OP-PC" on plate (1).

Twopence.—(1840, no lines) blue; (1841, white lines) blue; (1854-55) blue, Small Crown, perf. 16 and 14; (1855) blue, Large Crown, perf. 16 and 14; (1858, thin lines) blue, Large Crown, perf. 16; (1858), plate 7-9, 12-15.

EMBOSSÉD.

Sixpence (1854).—Mauve, etc.
Tenpence.—(1848) brown, dies (—), 1-4.
One Shilling.—(1847) green, dies 1 and 2.

SURFACE-PRINTED.

Twopence Halfpenny.—(1875) lilac-rose, Small Anchor, plates 1-3. Error: "LH-FL" on plate 2; (1876) lilac-rose, Orb, plates 3-17; (1880) blue, Orb, plates 17-20; (1881) blue, Crown, plates 21-23.

And so on through the remainder of this series, first issued before 1880—3d, 4d, 6d, 8d, 9d, 10d, 1s, 2s, 5s, 10s, £1—taking each value to a finish, and ending with the famous £1 "anchor."

Then, in 1880-81, we have the new 1d green, 1d (Venetian red), 1½d, 2d, and 5d.

In 1881, the unified lilac Penny, 14 dots and 16 dots, was issued.

During 1882-84 an entirely new set appeared—1d slate (of type in last issue), 1½d, 2d, 2½d, 3d, 4d, 5d, 6d, 9d (1883), 1s, 2s 6d (1883), 5s, 10s, the oblong £1, brown-lilac, Crown, and (in error) Orb, and £5 (1882).

The "Jubilee" set of 1887-1902, including the preceding £1, in green, is fairly simple; but the Edwardian series is somewhat complicated, though not really difficult. First pick out the De La Rue prints, and remember that Somerset House and Harrison prints do not overlap.

"Georgians" are confusing so far as the Halfpenny and Penny of the original types are concerned, otherwise they are fairly straightforward. For the Postal-Fiscals, the Officials and the "Dues", follow the Catalogue.—Stamp Collectors' Annual.

EDITORIAL.

Off—Speculation is rife as they say when "they" are groping in the dark, as to the effect that the repeal of the documentary and proprietary taxes will have on the stamps whose use was abolished September 9th, 1916. The collectors of internal revenue throughout the country have been notified from Washington that Congress has nullified schedules A and B of the emergency tax law. The two schedules in question have to do with the stamp taxes on documents and proprietary articles respectively. Here it is to be said that the wine and cordial tax is retained with some revision. The future of the proprietary issue gives no such range for discussion as does that of the high value documentary stamps, thirty dollar to one thousand dollar, inclusive. Through circumstances, we have been allowed to peep on some of the largest users of high values in the country and we have some basis for our calculations. We shall assume that our observations strike something of an average of conditions generally. Today, the high values are surprisingly scarce and if it were not that stock market transfers will come to swell the visible supply their strong position would be secured. Still, many of the high taxes were paid by quantities of five dollar for instance and three $10 stamps for the thirty dollar payment were popularly used. The fact that the sixty dollar revenue stamp was not on the earliest lists weakened the demand for it. As for the fifty dollar which was withdrawn, it is now a seasoned rarity and remarks made some months ago on the stamp need no revision. There are some big notes that will yield their treasures as they become due but underlying all speculations is the fact that the number of high values actually sold is comparatively small. There is a minor consideration at least in dealing with the $500 and $1,000 stamps and that is in the method employed to a very limited extent in cumulating small taxes on account (notice to that effect appearing on the document) until they reached the specified sum, say of one thousand dollars, when the stamp was canceled. Without prejudice, we say that the high values under discussion will be good property, though, of course, one should not close one's eyes to the possibility of the horde of stamped stock transfer slips that will now be available for distribution.

Halt—A correspondent, Mr. Raymond D. Foley, Natick, Mass., who reads and remembers, says: "You promised the 'patrons of pulchritude' a picture of Bill Bloss. Have I missed it by any possibility or does Bill refuse to pose?" Our correspondent unwittingly touches a tender spot. When we promised our readers a picture of Bill, we thought in our artless way that we were showing Bill a flattering attention that would be graciously accepted. There was a painful contretemps; and Bill invaded our sanctum in high dudgeon to hurl verbal bombs at us in consequence of our light-some words. The scene was a harrowing one and even our magnanimous offer to advance Bill the money on his mere note did not improve the situation. The case is very much in statu quo but so hopeful is our nature that we think that Bill will ease the strain on our present relations and allow himself to be prevailed upon to give us a photograph in time for our Christmas number, or, failing that, our St. Valentine special.

Another—From Mr. C. G. Adams, St. Paul, we have received an envelope with "Soldier's Letter" printed in the upper right hand corner, in the wake of our remarks some time ago concerning the scarcity of the printed inscription under notice. Moreover, a bit of sentiment attaches to Mr. Adams' contribution, which is reflected in his annotation: "I have a number of these letters with Soldier's Letter printed on them that were written by my father during the war. The one I enclose is unused and was found recently at my home in Massachusetts."

Invalid—Latterly, one seldom finds a letter with a U. S. postage stamp on it that is invalid for postage. Mr. Roscoe L. Wickes shows us an envelope with a one cent 1857-60 stamp on it, mailed in New Orleans in the late '60's we should say and on the cover is the impression in black, "Illegal Stamp," while the postage stamp is unmarked. When the 1861 issue appeared, the U. S. stamps of preceding issues were rendered invalid for postage and consequently, the stamps of the 1857-60 issue, in particular, that were retained in the south were made valueless postally. For some time, there was use for the "Illegal Stamp" marking but as time went on, it practically disappeared from the surface. Unknowingly, postal clerks have passed the three cent, 1857-60, on letters to philatelists but these envelopes mean nothing without the "Illegal Stamp" impression. In a circular issued by the post office department so late as February 20, 1890, a detailed description was given of the stamps that "are no longer recognized in payment of postages." Matter bearing stamps of the kind were to be treated as "held for postage." In the list of interdicted stamps were the eagle and Franklin carriers as well as the issue of 1847 and of 1851, no distinction having been made by the department between the imperforate 1851 issue and the perforated 1857-60 issue.

Query—We have received an interesting letter from Mr. H. M. Norton, St. Paul, Minn., as follows: "In your editorials of August 19th, you report that Mr. S. H. Barnes has a strip of seven one dollar parcel post stamps and says that there is no possible way that seven dollars' worth could be used on one package. I have a block of fourteen one dollar parcel post stamps canceled 'Washington, D. C.' The person from whom I purchased them bought them from a non-collector who removed from the block the upper right hand stamp to send him as a sample. The block therefore as originally used was a block of fifteen (5 perpendicularly by 3 horizontally). Is this a case of some postal clerk being short $13.86, or if the fifteenth stamp be not a myth, $14.85? Postal clerks do not make that kind of mistake frequently, I imagine." This testimony is interesting. It will be remembered that Mr. Barnes said that it would require a weight of 22 pounds, first class mail, to counter-balance a postal charge of seven dollars, and fifteen dollars' postage would reach almost to the limit of weight of first-class matter, fifty pounds, in the first and second zones. Be it understood that the limit of weight of first-class matter is the same as the limit of weight of fourth-class matter. We commented on the "mistake" theory of Mr. Barnes' speculatively rather than confirmatorily.

Again—Colored cancellations on U. S. stamps are no treat to our friend, Mr. Silas Weatherby, Medina, Ohio, and he now sends as a supplement to the host of cancellations in other than black that he recently forwarded to us, a colored ink postmark, "Higginum, Conn.—Parcel Post"; and a letter the stamp on which is obliterated most crudely, with a big figure 1 in rose ink. We should say that black ink does not strike the fancy of many a lively rural Nasby, notwithstanding the edict of the department that black is the color ordained for use.

NEWS CLEANINGS.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from J. W. Dickinson, Benj. Cadbury, L. A. Judkins, John McKittrick, Wm. F. Goerner.

—We have been informed by the Acting Third Assistant Postmaster General that several denominations of postage stamps of the current issue have been printed on unwatermarked paper but none have yet been issued.

—"Bill Bloss" made a serious mistake in his answer to "H. D. W." He speaks of "reprints of Hawaiian numerals." I wish he would send me a dozen or so, I have never seen or heard of them, but have quite a few originals and some counterfeits—would be very glad to get reprints. This item is so misleading that it should be corrected.—A. H. WEBER.

—Prices on onion-skin, the thin paper used in making peelable hinges and Glassine paper, have advanced from 125 to 300 per cent., since the opening of the European war.

THE STAMP DEALER AND HIS STOCK.

By BILL BLOSS.

CHAPTER VI.—Packets, Sets and Accessories.

Continuing our discussion on stamp dealing for the amateur, we will now consider the above articles. Just what the dealer should carry in these lines will depend largely upon his situation. If he does business by mail he will not need as large a stock of these as he would if he did a counter business. These various articles sell, as a rule, better over the counter than they do by mail. One reason for this is that many stamp accessories and packets do not readily sell "sight unseen" no matter how good the description. It is sometimes true that an article which sells well over the counter will not sell at all by mail, as the mere sight of the article often sells it.

The packet was very popular with collectors, and is still in favor, especially among the beginners, as it offers large variety at little money. The set is growing more popular every day, and is gradually taking the place of the small packet. Every dealer catering to general trade should carry a few packets in stock, such as 100, 250, 500, 1,000 and 2,000 varieties, as these packets are the most essential to the collector and are the ones that sell easiest.

as 100 varieties of Austria, etc., often prove quite popular with collectors, though these necessitate a considerable outlay of money, and it is doubtful if the results warrant the investment unless the business is great enough to permit of large sales. Such a series is excellent for stamp-shop and candy store trade. Special packets of 10 varieties of unused, 10 animal stamps, 10 French Colonials, 50 British Colonials, etc., may be included in the series. Low priced packets sell more readily than higher priced ones, for the reason that the collector has learned of the element of chance involved in buying stamps "unseen" and often hesitates to risk a large amount. Also since the greater majority of packets are purchased by children, whose money is usually limited, the cheaper ones are often purchased where the more expensive would have to be declined. In my experience with a chain of packets in the candy stores in Chicago, I found that the 10c packets sold best of all, and that the special packets aforementioned sold readily.

So many dealers have taken advantage of the fact that packets were purchased unseen, and have used them to work off all the trash they had, that collectors have grown very cautious. If these same dealers had the foresight of a field-mouse, they would realize that these buyers could be made continuous customers, with little effort. However, they believe it better to sting a man once than to sell him twice. Therefore, if you value your good name and want to build up a business, make the most of this opportunity to reach the new collector, and give value for his money. If necessary, cut down your own profit a little, and charge it to advertising. A 1,000 variety packet that had just a little better value than any put on the market heretofore would be a big drawing card for a dealer. Remember,

The New Collector Buys Packets First, usually before he knows much of the ways of stamp dealers, and if you secure his good-will at the start, he will remain your customer. Use the packet as a means to distribute your advertising matter, by enclosing a coupon offering a premium for every collector trying your approvals, or for the names of three collectors, or something of a similar nature. Avoid "stuffing" the packet with advertising matter that might tend to make the collector think he was getting a larger quantity of stamps than the number enclosed. Also, if practical, put a "money-back" guarantee on the packet, and announce it on the outside. It will pay in the long run, as it shows that you are striving to please. Use attractive envelopes, and pack the stamps neatly. If the contents warrant it, and advertising matter is enclosed, put the stamps in a separate small envelope. Also, keep out the damaged and the trash. Sell these as such, if you must, to somebody who buys with his eyes open and knows what he is buying. Most of the wholesale dealers can assist you in putting out a line of packets, and many offer packets already put up. These are not always advantageous, for the reason that they do not permit the dealer to put "personality" in his goods, nor can he be sure of the quality. In my opinion, the cheaper variety packets can best be secured ready-made, and the smaller "special" packets can best be made up by the dealer. The former require considerable work and do not warrant quite as much care as the latter.

A Popular Way of Selling Packets and, accordingly, reaching collectors, who might not learn of the dealer's existence, is by mounting them on cards for display and selling through the candy, notion, cigar and other small stores of the town. In this work, a commission ranging from 20% to 40% is usually allowed the store-keeper, and the larger the commission, the more effort will be made to sell the packets. For convenience, it is best to prepare cards in multiples of $1.00 and to make all cards alike, or in series. This eliminates dispute and aids in checking up the amounts by the vacant spaces on the card. Candy, book and cigar stores are the best packet sellers, and stores situated near schools, or patronized by children, are especially good. I have had some quite high sales from hotel shops, railway station novelty counters, and find that some most unusual places often bring results.

A Special Christmas Package

designed to start collectors should prove popular at the toy counters and with the small stores. This package should include a cheap album, package of hinges, package of stamps (a variety and a "special") and a small pamphlet describing the benefits of collecting and a few of the essentials that every collector should know. These packages could be put up in different sizes, some including a catalogue, a hand-book on collecting (of which there are many to be had), and different size packets of stamps. These latter should include a good general assortment, rather than a group of any special country. Needless to say, the dealer will put his card or a little advertising matter in the lot. As people do not like circulars in connection with their Christmas presents, a card simply stating that "further orders or information on stamp collecting can be obtained from—" is most advisable. If the collectors are interested enough to buy, they will write you.

Sets Are Proving Popular Sellers, and can be obtained very easily from the various wholesale dealers. Sets retail-

IMPORTANT NOTICE

M. Giwelb begs to announce that for reasons of health, he has removed to Brighton where he has secured superior shop premises almost on the sea front.

All Postal Business will be carried on just the same as hitherto and correspondents may rely on prompt and careful attention.

Books of stamps of any country neatly arranged and priced low will be sent on approval to responsible applicants. Want Lists solicited. Address all communications to ing from 5c to 25c are the most popular, though the higher priced ones sell quite well. As in all other branches of the stamp business, or any other, "personality" counts, so offer different sets from those of your rival if you can, and the field is large enough for you to do so. Use cards of uniform size, and mount the stamps with hinges, not with fish glue or tire cement. Some dealers think it is a good joke on the collector when he tries to remove the stamps from the card and succeeds in tearing large pieces from the stamps. The collector also thinks it a good joke on the dealer when he sees the "For Rent" sign in his window. A neatly mounted set will sell far better than one stuck on any old way. Remember this when you mount the cards. Price lists of sets may be issued advantageously, though a stock sufficient to sell all orders should be maintained.

Hinges Are Absolutely Essential to all dealers. Certain firms throughout this country and abroad are offering these in quantity, at figures low enough to allow a good profit, and it is possible to purchase them put up with the name and trade-mark of the dealer retailing them on the box or package. A certain English house issues an attractive circular on their stock of accessories, and includes some unusual offers in high grade hinges, put up in little tin boxes, bearing the retailers label, and also a watermark detector on the reverse of the box. This same firm can offer an excellent line of all other accessories, in fact, they are one of the few concerns manufacturing stamp accessories exclusively.

Magnifying Glasses, Tongs, watermark cups, gauges, catalogues, stock books, and albums, should not be stocked unless the dealer has a local shop where he can display same, and has trade enough to warrant the expenditure. The larger dealers will gladly enter into a proposition to furnish the small dealer with whatever he needs in these lines as ordered, at reduced rates. Much money can be sunk in this sort of stock, and unless care is used, loss will result. Rather than buy the stock and be unable to re-sell it, make an agreement with some large dealer to supply you with the goods as needed, or turn the orders away.

A PUBLIC APOLOGY.

It has been called to our attention that our issue of July 29, 1916, contained in the Chronicle of New Issues certain matter reprinted from Ewen's Weekly Stamp News without in any way giving acknowledgment to that publication. In connection with news matter concerning recent issues from Australia, Falkland Islands, Malta, New Zealand, Russia and Trinidad credit was given to the original sources of information, when in addition Ewen's Weekly Stamp News should have been noted as the channel through which the information came.

We regret the fact that our Chronicle neglected to give proper credit where credit was due, and have requested Mr. Kidder, the editor of the Chronicle, to give full credit in the future to any and all sources from which news matter is secured. We make this public apology, as we are always anxious to extend the same credit in the use of matter from other publications as we desire extended us.

THE PUBLISHERS.

ARGENTINE.—Frank R. Elliott also reports the 12c Commemorative stamp, chronicled last week.

BARBADOS.—We illustrate herewith the type of the new design already chronicled in this column:—

BRITISH HONDURAS.—Ewen's Weekly reports the 1c in yellow green instead of blue green, with also a slight change in the tint of the paper.

Ewen is officially informed that a re-issue of the 1 cent with violet network overprint was placed on sale on June 6 last, but that stock was soon after withdrawn.

The embossed 2c Postage and 3c Registration Envelope (5c) with the special violet network overprint is also at last to hand in the two sizes. This appears to have been placed on sale about the middle of July. The overprint in network device is in oblong shape 1 1/2 inch x 1 inch with rounded corners placed over the embossed stamp, excepting the inner circle, enclosing the head of King George.

Provisional Envelope.

5c Registration Envelope.

CANADA.—G. Stanley Haines has shown us the new 2c "ITC" from Canada. The color is that of the 6c maple leaf and figures of 1907 and 1908, making it a very handsome stamp. There is no change in the design.

Adhesive.

CAMEROONS.—According to the Champion's Bulletin certain stamps of German Cameroons were found by the French army of occupation and have been overprinted "Corps Expeditionnaire Franco-Anglaise." The editor has been shown one of the stamps. The total number found was only 13,000 and the values overprinted were 3, 5, 10, 20, 30, 40, 50 and 80pf. The overprinting was done at Brazzaville. Up to this time the stamps have not been put on sale and it is not certain that they will be. The small quantities which exist of each value would make them scarce.

EAST AFRICA AND UGANDA.—Ewen's Weekly reports the 25c value on lemon yellow paper colored through, with chalky surface.

GERMANY.—Scott's Circular says: Owing to changes in the postal rates new denominations of stamps will be required and the early appearance of stamps of 4, 7, 12, 15 and 35 pfennigs is announced. At the same time the 3pf stamp will be discontinued. Probably the 7pf announced above is a mistake for the 7 1/2pf announced in MEKEEL'S last week.

HAYTI.—Three values of the current series, with portrait of Zamor are reported by our English contemporaries.

Adhesives.

- For Foreign Postage.
- 15c de piastre olive and black.
- For Domestic Postage.
- 2c de gourde yellow and black.
- 7c de gourde red and black.

NAURU.—The Australian Stamp Journal writes:—

"We received on 30th ult. a circular letter from the accountant of His Britannic Majesty's Administration in Nauru, to the effect that 'no stamps of English issue will be available for sale until those at present current, Australian stamps surcharged 'N. W. Pacific Islands'—have run out. . . . It is considered, however, unlikely that the new issue will come into use for a few months."

NEW ZEALAND.—Frank R. Elliott reports having seen the 1/2d and 1d of the 1909 New Zealand issue, surcharged "Samoa" in black. The envelope bearing these stamps was rubber-stamped—"Passed by Censor 2. G. R. I.—Samoa."

ST. LUCIA.—Ewen's Weekly gives the official decree regarding the 1d War Tax stamp, as follows:

SAINT LUCIA.

Regulations made by the Governor in Council under the authority of section 17 of the Post Office Ordinance, 1881.

[20th May, 1916.]

1. There shall be paid in addition to the present rates of postage on all letters and parcels (other than postcards, books, newspapers, commercial papers and samples) posted within the Colony to a destination outside of the Colony within the British Empire a war tax of one penny.

2. Such tax shall be paid by affixing to each letter or parcel a special penny stamp overprinted with the words "War Tax," which shall be sold at the Post Office for the purpose.

3. These Regulations shall take effect on and from the 1st June, 1916.

Made by the Governor in Council this 17th day of May, 1916.

B. P. E. BULSTRODE,
Clerk of Councils.

The overprint is in two lines, sheets of the 1d in the new printing, scarlet from plate 3, being appropriated for the purpose. For the machining of the overprint each sheet was divided at the left of centre margin, and all the right side panes had the right outer margin torn off so as to make each left and right pane about the same width. The process of overprint was made from a setting of 30 pieces 6x5, two impressions completing the pane of 60 stamps.

TURKEY.—This country has found another excuse for surcharging stamps. This time it is to celebrate the occupation by Turkish troops of some Egyptian territory near Mount Sinai. The surcharge is said to be "Tursina," in Arabic letters and to be applied to stamps of 5, 10 and 20 paras, 1 and 5 piastres. Scott's Circular says it is not stated if the stamps used for this surcharging were of the 1913 pictorial issue or of some older series.

THE LATEST CANADA STAMP.

We have received from E. H. Paterson, St. John, N. B., a specimen of the new war stamp printed in a rich shade of brown instead of carmine. This is the 2c stamp with "1Tc" recessed in the plate, the change in color being made because of the great confusion between its predecessor and the regular 2c stamp. Mr. Paterson states that the stamp appeared in St. John Sept. 8. It is a very handsome one.

BRITISH HONDURAS.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

From British Honduras, effective April 1st, 1916, the postal rate on letters to the United Kingdom and British Possessions, and to the United States, was increased to three cents for the first ounce. This accounts for the extra 1c stamp appearing on recent mail matter from the Colony. The rate is the same on inland letters.

The 1c stamp with the burele overprint, has been further overprinted lo-

Advertising Chat

H. S. Dickey of Newton, Kansas, began last week a series of advertisements and will be with us right through the season. Among other things Mr. Dickey sells pre-cancelled stamps, of which he has a large stock. He writes us that he came east headed for the A. P. S. convention at Boston, but got only as far as Washington when visions of a possible railroad strike and a walk home caused him to forego his visit to New England.

The old and reliable firm of J. C. Morgenthau & Co. resumes its auction advertising and will no doubt be a most prominent factor in the auction business of the coming season.

We announced two weeks ago that W. W. Phillips of Lewiston, Cal., was anxious to hear from any parties whose correspondence had been in any way neglected. Through peculiar circumstances Mr. Phillips has been placed in an unenviable light and letters sent him will be promptly answered.

Elsewhere will be seen an advertisement of Geo. C. Ginn & Co., one of our oldest advertisers, whose announcements are always of interest. We welcome the business of this firm and hope to have its continued patronage.

The attractive advertisement of Chas. A. Townsend will undoubtedly meet with good business. Mr. Townsend has a goodly stock of these Dutch Indies stamps and his prices are very reasonable, as a careful examination of wholesale lists would show. He asserts that in the majority of cases his prices are "lower than wholesale."

Mr. Townsend also calls our attention to the operations of the Peoples Stamp & Coin Co., 920 Independence Blvd., Chicago, Ill., and they are not at all creditable to this concern. Our columns are open for an explanation and in the meantime interested parties will do well to correspond with our Akron dealer-friend.

J. E. Guest, Commerce Sta., Minneapolis, Minn., is interesting himself in the claims against George Liden of that city. We have made several references to Liden's shortcomings and any unsettled claims may be submitted to Mr. Guest.

Please note this week the change of address of Joseph D. Amey who will now be found at 2765 N. 23 St., Philadelphia. Mr. Amey is desirous of becoming better acquainted with collectors in Philadelphia and vicinity and at the new address he will be able to entertain any who may call upon him.

For some little time our erstwhile regular advertiser, M. Giwelb, has been ill, and under the advice of his physician he has removed from London to Brighton, where he expects to speedily regain his health. His former patrons will be interested in his announcement.

Reference to the adlet of Wm. v. d. Wettern, Jr., wholesale dealer in postage stamps, indicates that he has changed his address to 2329 Edmondson Av., Baltimore, Md. He will issue a new list October 1 and promises to be heard from regularly during the coming season.

It has been found necessary for Percy McG. Mann to postpone the date of issue of his U. S. catalog to January 1, due to a further re-arrangement to include new varieties and prices and the preparations of cuts for purposes of illustration. Due notice appears elsewhere.

It cannot be expected that the mere insertion of an advertisement in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY will overwhelm any dealer with business. An advertisement must be well written, offer desirable stamps and at prices that compel attention.

Subscribers to the WEEKLY are no different from subscribers to other publications in that they are looking for things that they need, and they want them at as reasonable prices as they can be secured. Make it easy for a collector to answer your adv. and remember that definite offers of stamps at reasonable prices will secure patronage.

SEEK AND YE SHALL FIND.

(Our editorial eye caught this news story last week. It has little of a stampic flavor about it except that it deals with a stamp man. Persistency brings its own reward in other things than the stamp business.—Ed.)

HANOVER, PA., Sept. 8.—J. Emory Renoll of this place, who has not missed a session of Sunday school for 19 years, traveled 60 miles to maintain an unbroken record. Renoll is secretary of Trinity Reformed Sunday school, and when he learned of the edict of Dr. Samuel Dixon closing all Sunday schools in Pennsylvania he decided to go to Maryland.

Arriving in Baltimore on an early train he found all the schools closed, but after searching for hours found a school in session six miles from Baltimore.

Incorporated.

E. M. CARPENTER, Pres.; A. P. BROWN, Vice Pres.; F. W. STILES, 310 Warren St., Roxbury, Mass., Sec.; OSCAR HILL, 60 State St., Boston, Mass., Foreign Sec.; G. CARLETON RUSSELL, 38 Wellesley Park, Dorchester, Mass., Treas.; A. M. WRIGHT, Supt. Auctions; C. W. TUTTLE, Supt. Sales and Bourse, 1060 Tremont St., Boston.

Meetings first (informal) and third (regular) Tuesdays, Room 322 Tremont Bldg., 8.15 P. M.

Although the Boston papers and some of the philatelic papers have noted certain of the happenings during convention week, no one as yet has given any sort of a complete record of what was probably the largest and best convention ever held by the American Philatelic Society. Starting with the meeting of the Boston Philatelic Society on Monday evening which was practically a reception to the visitors and ending with the all day trip to Plymouth on Friday, there was hardly any time when there was not something doing in the nature of entertainment.

On Monday the visitors began to arrive early in the morning and at 7.30 p. m. there was a large number of the A. P. S. members on hand at the Hotel Bellevue, the headquarters of the Convention. As fast as they registered, identification badges were made out and handed to them with the official program for the week.

A speech of welcome by Pres. Carpenter of the local society was followed by one by the president of the American Philatelic Society, C. A. Howes. An exhibition provided by the Boston Philatelic Society included A. P. Brown's collection of 20th Century British Colonials, Oscar Hill's Finland, the collection of China belonging to C. A. Howes, a fine collection of covers, the property of L. L. Green, a splendid specialized collection of "Penny Reds" which W. A. Rowell exhibited, Frederick S. Cook's book of "Commemoratives" and Ralph N. Hall's collection of U. S. That these stamps were appreciated was evidenced by the fact that it was long after 11 o'clock when the different books were taken away by their owners.

Tuesday morning at 10.30 the convention was formally opened. After the transaction of the regular business, the members were addressed by Edward M. Hartwell who represented the Mayor, Hon. James M. Curley, the latter not being able to be present owing to an important hearing at which he was obliged to preside.

In the afternoon two cars started from Harvard Sq. and took about 95 members and friends to Lexington where, after a short stay on Lexington Common, George L. Gilmore, who is a charter member of both the local society and of the A. P. S. escorted them to the Hancock-Hall house, a fine old specimen of early building which belongs to the historical society of the town. A stop of about half an hour was made here and then the cars were again taken and they continued on to Concord. After a walk to the old bridge over the Concord river and back they came back to Harvard Sq. and thence to Boston. The evening was devoted to exchanging and selling stamps at the Boston Society's club room in the Tremont Bldg., and was much enjoyed by everyone.

The ladies had been notified on the previous day that there would be a special trip arranged for them on Wednesday and in the morning A. P. Brown and Oscar Hill took them through the candy factory of Page and Shaw where everyone was given a box of the confections for which this firm is so famous.

After the meeting of the visiting society, the convention photograph was taken in the rear of the State House and then after lunching the party was taken aboard the Monitor, the City boat, which had been placed at their disposal for the afternoon through the kindness of the Mayor, and a sail around Boston Harbor for about 2 1/2 hours was greatly appreciated by it.

After dining at various hostilities, the ladies were sent to Braves field to witness the exhibition of fireworks while at the same time B. L. Drew held an auction at the Club Room. The stamps sold were all the property of A. P. S. members.

On Thursday the Society held its last meeting and at 1.40 the train for Salem had 79 of the local and visiting philatelists aboard, in two special cars. Arriving at Salem, the number was increased to 117 by local members and friends and they were assigned to places in 20 automobiles which were waiting in the square near the station. These autos were furnished by the courtesy of the Salem Chamber of Commerce and through the indefatigable efforts of its Secretary and of E. M. Carpenter and A. W. Batchelder, of our society.

The trip was one long to be remembered. The day was slightly overcast thus enabling one to avoid the glare attendant on a sunny day and in consequence to enjoy viewing the different fine estates for which the north shore is famed. After a run through the so-called "fire district" in Salem, we went down through Beverly, Wenham and Hamilton to Essex and Manchester, returning to the estate of one of our Boston Society members, Dudley L. Pickmann, where a light collation was served on the piazza of his fine residence. Then the party went back through Salem to the Willows where it partook of a shore dinner. Return was made to Boston at about 8.40 p. m.

On Friday, a trip to Plymouth on the boat had been arranged and there were about 80 in the party when it started. At about 11 o'clock dinner was served. Upon their arrival in Plymouth, after a delightful sail, the different points of historical interest in which Plymouth abounds, were visited. Nearly everyone visited the monument on the hill from which a splendid view of the harbor was to be obtained. On the way back a light lunch was served, after which an entertainment was provided. Mrs. Sebbens, of Worcester, and her daughter played and sang and Miss Frances Aldrich danced at the head of the stairway to the dining saloon. Her dancing was very pleasing and was especially creditable in consideration of the limited space in which she had to perform.

Many of the visitors said goodbye at the wharf in Boston as they were obliged to leave that evening for home. A party of about twenty or so dined and attended theatre together thus winding up an enjoyable four days in a pleasant manner.

There were 105 A. P. S. members registered during the week. They represented cities which were widely separated; Mrs. Oughtred coming here from Montreal, and our former President, C. T. Rothfuchs, journeying from Los Angeles to be present.

The general consensus of opinion as expressed to the writer was that it was "the best ever" and more than one of the visitors stated that other societies would hesitate before inviting them to convene in their city or town after the many good things which they had enjoyed as the guests of the Boston Philatelic Society, Inc.

BOSTON, Sept. 11, 1916.

The 364th (regular) meeting of the society will be held at the club room on Tuesday, Sept. 19th at 8.15 p. m. As this is the first of the fall meetings let us start off with a good attendance. Those who are competing for the prizes offered for getting new members will have to put in the names of proposed members by the November meeting in order to have them count. Come to the meeting and hear about the convention, the best ever held according to the talk of the visiting members of the A. P. S. The application of Mr. C. R. Hurd will be voted upon.

Those wishing to dine together before the meeting will meet at the room at 6 p. m.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF OAXACA. A STATE IN MEXICO.

CHAPTER I.—Historical.

The state of Oaxaca is one of the southernmost of Mexico, lying on the Pacific coast, westward from the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. It is one of the richest parts of Mexico, and Cortez asked that, in reward for his services in conquering Mexico, he be made Marquis of Oaxaca, by the King of Spain. The present seal of the State of Oaxaca comes, through the family of Cortez, from Spain and the Moors; it consists principally of a severed head, crowned with a laurel wreath, resting on a bow and arrows and a roll of papyrus, and was adopted during the short time of Cortez' power in New Spain.

The state of Oaxaca is largely covered with steep mountains, difficult of access, in the center of which is the very rich valley of Oaxaca and the city of the same name.

The city of Oaxaca has a population of about 45,000, and is the largest city of extreme southern Mexico. It is located on the river's bank—the mountains rising abruptly to the north and west.

The people of Oaxaca contain but little of the Spanish element; they are the purest of the old Indian tribes of Mexico and the least corrupted by the invader. Though they joined the Mexican union, they retained a great measure of local freedom and their communities, remote in their mountain fastnesses, are still governed by their tribal councils as they were at the time of the conquest, and they still speak their native Indian language, the cities, only, using Spanish. It is worthy of note that the two great men of Mexico, Juarez and Diaz, were Oaxaca Indians.

The state of Oaxaca occupies a somewhat different position in relation to the Mexican Union than do the other states; it is a federated state, having much greater power and rights in self government. It has not taken sides with any of the various revolutionary factions and all officials have been regularly elected according to constitutional provisions, and the government has been conducted according to strict legal requirements.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

The people of Oaxaca took the stand that they would maintain their government under the established laws, and would not take part in any revolutionary proceedings, nor would they allow any of the revolutionary parties to interfere with their affairs. Their aim was to continue in this course until there was a stable, central government established in Mexico, when they would resume their relations and position in the union. And they refused to further permit their people to be dragged out as prisoners, and forced to fight in the factional armies. Because of their desire not to hamper the solution of the nation's difficulties, Oaxaca voluntarily relinquished sovereignty over the Isthmus of Tehuantepec—hoping thus to avoid the interruption of inter-oceanic commerce on the Tehuantepec railway and possible international complications. Thus the administration of this territory and railroad was left to any government that was strong enough to maintain it. Oaxaca also stated that it would not interfere in any matters outside of its own boundaries.

CHAPTER II.—Neutrality Scorned.

The Carrancistas were not content to get along without trouble and, on the fourteenth of November, 1914, a Carrancista force, under the command of Jimenez Figueroa, entered the city of Oaxaca and, without resistance or firing a shot, took possession of it. After spending several days in placating the inhabitants and firmly establishing himself in power, he ordered the convening of all members of the state legislative and executive bodies, in the state palace. This included the most prominent men of the state. He ordered them to appoint him and his men to all offices and then to resign in a body. They refused to do so and he ordered them to be shot; but the inhabitants, anticipating some such move, arose as one man and rushed to the assistance of their countrymen. At the same time, two of the officials jumped from a rear, second story window of the palace to the pavement; one of them broke his thigh, but the other,

H. F. COLMAN,

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG.,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Meixuero, hereditary cacique of the Sierrano Indians, escaped and, on the fourth day thereafter, returned at the head of all his people, amounting to several thousand, and recaptured the city of Oaxaca.

Meixuero and his men came, in two days, from their homes in the mountains, a distance that it would take a good horse four days to go. It was an imposing sight, to see these several thousand men coming down the mountain side, in plain view of the city though three miles away to the north, traveling in their dog-trot fashion, one behind the other, carrying nothing but their weapons, which consisted principally of machetes, some muzzle loading shot guns and rifles, and a very few modern fire-arms, and small bags of ammunition. They came, dirty, dusty, sweaty, with their tongues lolling out, weary from their long, hard journey.

The fight commenced as soon as the Sierranos reached the outskirts of the city; about 8:30 in the morning of the 18th of November, 1914. It lasted all day and the greater part of the night, and, though the Carrancistas defended themselves with rapid-fire guns, cannon, and were well armed and supplied with ammunition, they were defeated and all killed except Figueroa and twenty-two of his men, who escaped and rode, with relays of horses, nearly to the City of Puebla, a distance of two hundred miles. When nearly to Puebla, they were captured by the Indians, who had followed them on foot through the mountains, and taken back to the City of Oaxaca, where they were tied to trees and their throats cut, thus exterminating entirely the first band of Carrancistas who attempted to forcefully take possession of the government of Oaxaca.

When the Oaxacanas had regained possession of their capital, they immediately re-established their legal government. A general, Meixuero, was appointed to command the troops, with full power to take measures for the protection of the state against aggressors of whatever name. And the government was continued in strictly legal form.

After the failure of the Figueroa expedition, the Carrancistas declared open war on the people of Oaxaca. They denied them all supplies, the free passage of people and commerce, and, by capturing the sparsely populated sea coast, cut off communication from that direction. It was with the greatest difficulties of contrabanding that any food supplies or other necessities, as medicines, clothing, paper, etc., were gotten into the state, and then only in the smallest quantities. Hundreds and thousands of people died from exposure, starvation, and lack of medicines and disinfectants during the typhus epidemic. The American government and the American Red Cross were asked for relief from this situation, through the then official channels. The Red Cross and many private parties desired to respond, but they were denied for political reasons and thousands of people were allowed to die of the typhus and starvation.

CHAPTER III.—Postal Issues.

When all supplies were cut off, Oaxaca had on hand a fair supply of postage and revenue stamps and the Carranza paper money was in general use, as well as the old silver money. These supplies of stamps they continued to use, keeping their records in proper form for future accounting with the National government. As their supplies of stamps were used, the state authorities applied to the forces in Mexico City (the Carrancistas) for further supplies; these were refused. The state legislature then authorized an issue of money in the form of metallic coinage, paper money guaranteed by the state of Oaxaca, and postage and revenue stamps. This bill provided for the emission of $2,000,000 in paper money, the free coinage of gold, silver and copper, though with the peso to be much smaller than the old National peso, 420,000 postage stamps and 50,000 revenue stamps,—but a part of which were made. The old postage and revenue stamps, and those of the Carranza government, were used, without any discrimination or distinguishing mark, as long as the supply lasted, and, as they were used, were replaced with the new Oaxaca-made issue.

Postage stamps were made of the values 1, 2, 3, 5 and 10 centavos. The designs are all the same—a wood cut of the Mexican eagle, standing on a cactus and holding a snake in its bill and claws, surrounded by the words "Estado Libre y Soberano de OAXACA", in a circle, with the figures of value forming the four corners of the design; above are the words "CORREOS Transitorio", and below, the word "CENTAVOS", the whole surrounded by a border of plain printers rule; the entire design being typeset, and containing the usual minor errors found in typeset stamps. The design measures more or less 20x27 mm., with a 5 mm. space between the designs of the separate stamps and the sheets measure 145x220 mm. to the outside of the design. The stamps were printed in two panes of three stamps horizontally by seven stamps vertically, making the finished sheet of six stamps horizontally by seven stamps vertically,—a total of forty-two stamps. The sheets were first printed with a tinted background of the same color as the stamps, and the same size as the individual stamps; the design was then printed on this background. The background varies from a strong tint to a tint so faint as to be scarcely noticeable.

The colors were intended to be the same as those of the regular issue of 1910, and were, as nearly as they were able to make them; however, they vary greatly, due to the lack of printing ink; they not only used all the good ink available, but worked up old, dried and spoiled ink and used it, and made ink of such materials as were at hand. Later, as further supplies of stamps were needed, it was impossible to make them, owing to this lack of ink, though they still had a little paper on hand.

The stamps were printed on the backs of postoffice report forms; the printing on the backs of the stamps varies, depending on the part of the form from which it comes. There were some blank spaces in the forms, and individual stamps, and even blocks of four and six, are found with plain backs. The ten cent is also known on paper, ruled on the back, with blue lines vertically of the stamps and black column ruling horizontally of the stamps. Also, the 1 cent. is known on a thicker, yellowish paper, with plain back. What little printers' waste there was, was, for the most part, destroyed, but a little of it got out and was sold;—this consists of trial impressions on scraps of various kinds of paper, including news-print, printed on both sides, black trial impressions, etc.

The stamps were gummed by hand; in the first work the gum is very heavy, but later of the other extreme, and, particularly on the late, blurred, impressions, not sufficient to hold the stamp to the envelope.

The perforation is 12 until near the last of the early impressions, when the twelve machine was broken and a ten machine was put in use for a short time. The stamps are found perforated ten and compounds of ten and twelve. The ten perforation is quite scarce and it is possible that more of them existed than here reported. The later blurred impressions perforated twelve again.

The first stamps printed were the 5 cent., and the first sold were the 5 cent. and 1 cent., put on sale on the afternoon of June 26, 1915. The first sheets were numbered but this was soon discontinued.

POSTAGE STAMPS OF THE CANAL ZONE.

By WILLIAM EVANS.

CHAPTER XI.—Issue of 1909.

The designs of this series are similar to those of the previous one, the differences being in the size of the portraits and in the frames. The stamps were printed by the American Bank Note Company, of New York, and the name of the company appears in small capitals on each stamp just below the design. The paper used is much thinner than that of the seventh series. The first value of this series to appear was the ten centesimos de balboa, about January 19th, 1909. The two centesimos de balboa was issued May 20th, the is of a reddish purple shade, differing only very slightly from that of the ten centesimos de balboa.

The portrait of Hurtado on the eight centesimos de balboa faces the left in this series instead of the right as in the seventh series.

The only errors thus far discovered in connection with the New York surcharge are a sheet of the eight centesimos de balboa on which the top horizontal row appears without the words "CANAL ZONE", a double surcharge on the five centesimos de balboa, and pairs of the two centesimos de balboa imperforate between the stamps.

In 1913 the letters of the surcharge were changed from antique to block type on the one, two and five centesimos de balboa and in 1915 the same change was made on the ten centesimos de balboa. In the early part of 1916 the surcharge was applied at the Government Printery at Mount Hope in the Canal Zone to the one and five centesimos de balboa. The type used was antique and closely resembles that of the first New York surcharge, but the distance between the two words is 1/2 mm. less than in the New York surcharge. In June, 1916, the ten cents de balboa was issued with this surcharge.

In the fall of 1915 a few copies of the two centesimos de balboa were discovered with the head inverted. An investigation showed that three sheets of this variety had been sent to the Zone and cut up to be made into booklets. Most of them were used before the error was discovered, and the consequence is that this is one of the rarities of the Canal Zone stamps.

CHAPTER XII.—1911-14 10c Values.

This issue consists of two stamps both having the value of ten cents. The first one was a 13 centesimos de balboa which was ordered by the Panama authorities to be used in the Canal Zone as a registration stamp. At the time it was ordered the foreign registration fee was eight cents, but before the stamps arrived the fee was changed to ten cents. The 13 centesimos de balboa stamps were therefore surcharged "10 cts", in addition to the "CANAL ZONE" surcharge. The stamps were printed by the American Bank Note Company, at the same time as the stamps of the eighth series. In January, 1911, the supply of the ten centesimos de balboa purple became unex-series, and also of a different size. The word "CANAL" is at the left of the central portrait, and the word "ZONE" at the right. The former is ten mm. and the latter eight mm. long.

The colors used for this series are nearly the same as those of the preceding series except that of the two centesimos de balboa which has been changed to a bright vermillion, and that of the eight centesimos de balboa which pectedly exhausted and this stamp was surcharged to meet the needs of the service.

The words "CANAL ZONE" appear as upon the stamps of the eighth series reading up. The type used is antique but much smaller than that used upon any other value. The word "CANAL" is nine mm. and "ZONE" seven mm. long, and the letters are 1/2 mm high. The two words are 13 1/2 mm. apart. The "10 cts." surcharge appears between these two words and is ten mm. long.

The color of this stamp is olive gray and its design is almost identical with that of the one cent and two cents of the third series. The differences consist of the figures of value in each lower corner and the words "centesimos de balboa" instead of "centavos" at the bottom. The surcharge is in black.

The "CANAL ZONE" surcharge was applied in New York and the value at the Government printing office at Mount Hope.

One sheet has been reported which shows the "CANAL ZONE" surcharge upon the lower margin as well as upon the stamps.

Specimens have been found with the surcharge of value inverted, and others with no value surcharged upon them. Neither of these is plentiful, though the latter is more so than the former.

In 1914 the value of the stamp was changed to ten centesimos de balboa. The design remains the same except that the figures of value in the lower corners are changed from "13" to "10". The color of the ten centesimos de balboa is not different from the thirteen, and the "CANAL ZONE" surcharge remains the same.

CHAPTER XIII.—Issue of 1915.

On March 1, 1915, a set of four values in new designs was issued to commemorate the opening of the Canal. These stamps were quite different from any of the previous issues in shape and design. They are shaped like many of the commemorative stamps of other countries being 34 1/2 mm. long by 21 1/2 mm. wide.

1915", and the value "UN CENTESIMO DE BALBOA" in two lines. Figures of value appear at each side of this inscription.

The picture of the two centesimos de balboa is that of Balboa taking possession of the Pacific Ocean, "Balboa Tomando Posesión del Océano Pacífico". The colorless inscription reads "EXPOSICION DE PANAMA 1915" in one line and "DOS CENTESIMOS DE BALBOA" in the other. The figures of value are at the sides just below the center of the stamp.

The five centesimos de balboa shows a picture of the Locks at Gatun, "Exclusas de Gatun." The two lines of words at the bottom read "CANAL DE PANAMA 1915," and "CINCO CENTESIMOS DE BALBOA". The figures of value are at each side in the center of the stamp. The word "Exclusas" is mis-spelled the correct spelling being "Esclusas".

The ten centesimos de balboa has a picture of the famous Culebra Cut, "Corte de Culebra." The inscription at the bottom is the same as that of the preceding stamp except that the word "DIEZ" takes the place of "CINCO". The figures of value are at the sides slightly below the center.

The colors are dark green and black, carmine and black, blue and black, and orange and black.

The "CANAL ZONE" surcharge is in blue antique type reading upward. The word "CANAL" is 10 mm. long and "ZONE" is 8 1/2 mm. long, and they are 9 mm. apart except on the 71st stamp of the sheet where the space is wider.

The engraving and printing of these stamps was done by the American Bank Note Company of New York, and the surcharge was also printed by them. There are therefore in this series:

- 1c dark green and black.
- 2c carmine and black.
- 5c blue and black.
- 10c orange and black.

CHAPTER XIV.—Postage Due.

For several years after the United States took charge of the Canal Zone no postage due stamps were issued. Letters upon which the postage had not been fully prepaid were, when received at the office of delivery, hand stamped "POSTAGE DUE 10 CENTS", or some other amount. On the delivery of the letter and the payment of the amount due, an ordinary postage stamp of the value required, was affixed, and cancelled with the regular cancelling stamp of the office.

In 1908 the postmaster of the office at Pedro Miguel conceived the idea of precancelling a sheet of stamps at a time with the Postage Due cancelling stamp. This was, of course, not official and was done for no other purpose than that of saving time when an unpaid letter was called for. It obviated the necessity of having to stop to cancel a stamp upon the delivery of each one of these letters. The ten cents stamp was the one most used but all of the values of the 1906, 1909 and 1910 issues were precancelled in this manner.

In 1914, however, Postage Due stamps were issued. These were the current Postage Due stamps of the United States, of the values of one, two and ten cents surcharged with the words "CANAL ZONE" in one line, diagonally across the bottom of the stamps. This surcharge is 16 mm. long. The stamps are on the paper with double line watermark and perforated 12. Strict orders were issued not to sell any of these stamps to the public in unused condition and the orders appear to have been obeyed, as none of the unused stamps have been reported. In April, 1915, these stamps gave way to a set of Postage Dues supplied by the Panama Government, and those remaining in the Post Offices were called in and burned.

The new stamps present a very pleasing appearance. There are three values, one, two, and ten centesimos de balboa, and all three are the same color, olive brown. The one centesimo de balboa is 29 mm. long horizontally, and 19 mm. vertically. At the top are the words "REPUBLICA DE PANAMA" in a straight line and under them curving slightly over a central picture, the words "CORREOS NACIONALES", in smaller letters. At each end of these words appears the value, expressed decimally, "B/o.01". The picture in the center represents the "Castillo de San Lorenzo Chagres". At the bottom are the words "CORRESPONDENCIA A DEBE".

The two centesimos de balboa is 19 mm. horizontally by 29 mm. vertically. In the center is a picture of a statue of Columbus, "CRISTOBAL COLON".

This picture is on a tablet with a scrolled top. Curving over the picture are the words "CORREOS NACIONALES". At the top of the stamp is the name of the country, "REPUBLICA DE PANAMA". Below the picture are the words "CORRESPONDENCIA A DEBE", and at the bottom of the stamp the value "B/o.02" with scrolls at each side of it.

The ten centesimos de balboa differs from the two in having in the centre a picture of Pedro J. Sosa upon a tablet with a differently shaped bottom, and that the value reads "B/o.10". In other respects the designs of the two stamps are alike.

These three stamps are surcharged "CANAL ZONE" in blue, and this surcharge is the same as that upon the tenth series of postage stamps.

Early in 1916 the color of the surcharge was changed to red, and large figures of value were added between the words. These figures are 9 mm. long, and the space between the words is 9 mm.

INDIA.—Hyderabad.—Paul E. Hollister calls attention to variations in the printing of the 1/4a and 1/2a stamps of the "Postage" type. The differences are such as to almost justify the suspicion that some counterfeiting has been done. One design is 2 1/2 mm. in height, while the other is 2 1/2 mm. The width is the same, but the large stamps are much better printed, with the lines of the engraving brought out much more clearly. The whole appearance is greatly improved.

THE AFRICAN BLACK REPUBLIC.

By J. B. CHILDS.

Liberia, the black republic on the west coast of Africa, does a very small amount of postal business for a country of its size, approximately the same as that of the state of Ohio. For the year of 1904 the entire receipts of the Post Office Department amounted to about $7500; and this includes other items than postage stamps. Moreover a number of the principal towns had special issues of Registration Stamps, general types with the name of the town alone differing. Monrovia, the capital city of Liberia, has the largest population of the towns for which special issues were made; and it might be well compared to some county seat town in the Middle West, the others to country post offices. Still Liberia has an enormous population, probably several millions, but only 6000 voters (1904). By far the greater proportion consists of uncivilized blacks living back from the coast, neither needing or using the postal service.

The Mandingoes ($2, 1906) are by far the most important of these back country tribes. Originally their ancestors were dark-skinned Caucasians from the north of Africa and negroes from Senegal. Their name of Mandingo comes from the native word meaning hippopotamus, which was adopted as the emblem of their tribe. Long before the twelfth century of this era they had established a mighty Mohammedan empire along the Niger valley. And even now they are of no mean importance, especially in Liberia. Since they are industrious and well-disposed towards the government, it is predicted that they will be an important factor in the future of the country.

Liberia itself was established almost a century ago by freed negroes from the United States, but the constitutional government was not made a thing of reality until 1848. The convention meeting at Monrovia had in addition to the formulating the constitution provided a specific design for both the flag and the seal of the new republic.

Flag (50c, 1906). "Six red stripes with five white stripes alternately displayed longitudinally. In the upper angle of the flag, next to the spear, a square blue ground, covering in depth five stripes. In the center of the blue, one white star."

Seal (20c, 30c, 1897). "A dove on the wing, with an open scroll on its claws. A view of the ocean, with a ship under sail, the sun just emerging from the waters. A palm tree, and at its base a plow and spade. Beneath (sic) the emblems, the words 'Republic of Liberia,' and above (sic) the emblems the national motto, 'The love of liberty brought us here.'"

This last sentence seems rather misleading, as I have noted; provided that one glances at the stamps mentioned, where the national motto reposes beneath the emblems.

But of the presidents very few of them have achieved a state of sufficient importance to provide for themselves a place on the postage stamps, probably owing to the short term of two years, which, however, has recently been changed to four years.

Hilary Richard Wright Johnson (8c, $2, 1892) in 1884 was the first native born citizen of Liberia to be elected president. His father was Elijah Johnson, the leader of the first colony and the principal founder of the permanent settlement. From the very first the son followed in the footsteps of his father as a prominent citizen of the republic; he was the private secretary to the president, the editor of the only newspaper then in Liberia, a Member of Congress, Secretary of State, a professor in Liberia College, and finally President. During his eight years of service in this office treaties were arranged with both England and France, definitely fixing the boundary of Liberia with respect to the adjacent colonies of these two countries. After his retirement in 1892 he was appointed Postmaster-General; and this is probably the way in which his portrait arrived on the postage stamps. Hilary Richard Wright Johnson died at Monrovia in 1900.

Garretson Wilmot Gibson (Registration Stamps, 1903) in 1900 became the heir to the presidential chair, the legally-elected president having resigned; and he sat in it until 1905, during the course of which time his portrait appeared on the postage stamps. Gibson, altho born in Baltimore, Maryland, was taken to Liberia while still a babe in arms, and ultimately was associated with the missionary work there. He became the first ordained deacon in the African field. After coming to Monrovia, however, he took considerable interest in politics, his political career winding up with his occupying the presidential chair. Also he was the head of Liberia College for a number of times. In 1910, Garretson Wilmot Gibson died.

Arthur Barclay (2c, 30c, 1909), the successor to the preceding, was likewise a foreign-born president. His father had emigrated from Barbadoes, where he had become obnoxious to the British authorities. The son became a lawyer, entering into the public service, and at one time being the Postmaster-General. Probably his most important act while in these subordinate offices was his arrangement as the Secretary of the Treasury for the honorable settlement of a foreign debt amounting to $400,000. The Liberian Government had been inclined to repudiate it, but he upheld the national honor. When continuously from 1904 to 1912 Arthur Barclay was the occupant of the presidential chair; during this period he, like his two predecessors, secured a place for his portrait on the postage stamps. At present I believe that his only distinction is being the leading lawyer in Liberia.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—We are asked by F. L. Pauly, Lebanon, O., for the address of an insurance company that will insure a stamp collection. Who will help him out?

—The Utica Herald-Despatch of Sept. 8 contained an editorial more than a column in length giving a history of the stamps of the Danish West Indies. It is the leading editorial of this issue and is written by one who is more than an ordinary stamp collector.

—After all these years Charles A. Townsend, the well-known dealer of Akron, Ohio, makes a public confession. It is contained in a letter just at hand and has for its topic the use of many stamps on a single parcel, together with his relationship with one that came under his observation. He writes:—"In 1876 or 77 I saw at the depot at Dunkirk, N. Y., a package with an entire sheet of one hundred 90c Treasury stamps franking the same. I was a pretty small kid then but I slipped off a few with my pocket knife."

—"As my contribution to the collection of covers bearing many stamps I offer one mailed from China to one of our newspapers in Jacksonville which bears thirty-two Scott's No. 134 1/2 London Print."—CLAUDE B. VAIL.

—At a meeting of the Cincinnati Philatelic Society held recently at the Gibson Hotel, Erwin L. Fischer who attended conventions of the Southern and American Philatelic Societies at Washington and Boston, briefly outlined the work in which the club was engaged and expressed his great pleasure in attending the conventions of the national bodies.

—The Post-Intelligencer of Seattle has a department devoted to philately. It is entitled "A Corner for Stamp Collectors". It is conducted by C. Utermark and the example may well be emulated.

—"Last April I sent the necessary money to the Postmaster at Nauru Island with a request for a copy of each of the Great Britain stamps surcharged 'Nauru'. I have just received a communication from him in which he states that these stamps will not be put on sale until the supply of 'N. W. Pacific Islands' stamps is exhausted. Probably not for some months yet. He is keeping all money sent him until the stamps are for sale. This would seem to indicate that Nauru stamps can be bought sometime in the future. The envelope was postmarked 'Nauru Island' and bore a 2 1/2d 'N. W. Pacific Islands' stamp. It had been hand-stamped 'Censored' in violet ink."—MARTIN W. HOOSE.

—S. L. Schillig.—It is no unusual thing to find postage due stamps precanceled. This is a practice of many post offices where a goodly number of these stamps are used.

—I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter asking to be advised as to the date of issue of the new Canada recessed plate, 2c postage and war tax stamp. In reply, I beg to inform you that this stamp was issued on the 29th August, 1916, in brown instead of in red, the desire being to overcome the difficulty experienced owing to the similarity of this stamp in red to the ordinary 2c postage stamp."—E. THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Annually—Following a time-honored custom, we descant at this time of year upon the glories that are to be unfolded by the philatelic season about to open. This annual exercise is supposed to formally dedicate the stamp season and a rare optimism always pervades the predictions made by dealers from coast to coast. It would be unnatural if the prophecies of those who were sustained by stamps were not somewhat flattering to the future of philately; and so the tenor of the dealers' credo is one of surging hopefulness. However, the forecasts of the dealers are pleasant reading and in a relative sense, they are of value to those who must anticipate the current of philatelic affairs; and next month, we shall have our season-opener.

Bestir—Now is the time though for collectors to resume collecting operations, so that they may be in full stride by the time the season really opens. In fact, it seems as though there will be so great a crush later that it is well to start now in order to get the best vantage-ground. We should settle down comfortably in our seats to await the raising of the curtain on the greatest season that philately ever knew, chatting congenially in the meantime. The weather is conducive to stamp work and the collecting spirit will manifest itself if the album is brought out into the cheerful glow of the evening light. We urge collectors to begin the season in

* * *

Auguries—Philately has fared so well during the summer that it is certain that the activity will reach a high mark soon; and mid-season will see a wonderful degree of philatelic interest generally. In the year past, philately has broadened as it never has before and we welcome this strengthening influence. We need not revert to the opinion felt by liberal-minded followers of the pursuit that stamp-collecting has been restrained by a sort of provincialism from obtaining the fullest commendation. The blame is not charged to stamps themselves, but to their followers. The cross-currents of self-interest, sharp practice and commercial jealousy, to say nothing of factional difference between collectors whose amateur spirit is not undeveloped, are running less strongly; and philately has emerged from that condition where any set of collectors can dictate philatelic policies or dominate general opinion. In truth, it has become a world of philately and is no longer a "pent up Utica" and the freer swing that collectors will have will conduce to their greater contentment.

* * *

Proper—We are vastly interested in the proposed publicity plan of the American Philatelic Society which is to be conducted by New York members and needless to say, we pledge it our support. The determination that has been expressed by several workers in philately, previously, to promote the dissemination of information about stamp collecting shows that unselfish minds have been occupied with the problem of how best to spread the gospel of philately. We have had occasion to commend the volume of publicity that has been given philately in the newspaper press particularly by special articles recently and here it is to be said that this standard form of exploiting philately should always be in mind for emulation. It is an effective means for proclaiming the attractions of stamps to the hurrying and often heedless public. Just what departures will be adopted by the New York campaigners we cannot say, but we are sure that the measures enforced will be human and intelligent and artfully calculated to fulfill their purpose.

* * *

Books—On occasion, we receive words of praise for our book service. We have published fifteen popular-priced books that cover a wide range of subjects; and some of our readers have realized the advantages to be derived from the possession of these publications at a small outlay. For the most part, these helpful little books are instructive and cover their subjects so that the owner becomes equipped with all the information available in their fields. While it is a source of comfort for us to know that the circulation of our books has already extended much farther than that of the average class publication, yet there is no doubt but that the maximum of the usefulness of the publications has not been reached. We are concerned more with giving the buyers of the books full value than profiting ourselves through the transactions. At any rate, we shall continue to produce these handbooks and in time we expect to girdle the philatelic earth with them. Forthcoming books will be of the kind that really will be indispensable to the philatelist.

Revenues—Last week, we had some observations to make upon the revenue stamps, proprietary and documentary, whose use has been discontinued. Nothing was said about the third set of stamps, the wines and cordials, as we wished to secure more information in order to refer to them with a feeling of some authority. The radical difference in the application of the new act, in contrast with the old, is that the tax is not paid by the consumer, but at the source by the distiller or manufacturer. The tax on sparkling wines has been reduced from twenty cents to twelve cents a quart and consequently, a twelve cent stamp would seem a certainty. There is a possibility that tax paid stamps will be adopted for use in payment of the tax on still wines and we suppose in some way, the tax on sparkling wines could be tax paid, likewise. However, we shall soon know just how the provisions of the new enactment will be worked out in this regard.

Old—One of those inconsequential items is going the rounds of the newspapers to the effect that three unused postage stamps, minus gum, were recovered in good condition from the carcass of a chicken. The issue of the stamps is not mentioned, but the stamps must have been of the early issues judging from the age of some chickens that come on the market.

Sardinia—Sardinia is seldom seen in connection with stamps nowadays, but in the old albums and catalogues it made a brave showing. For instance, a catalogue note says: "From 1859 to 1862, the issues of the Kingdom of Sardinia were used provisionally in those States and parts of Italy which from time to time during that period were united with the Kingdom of Sardinia, until they were superseded by stamps for the Kingdom of Italy in 1862." Our friend, Mr. G. C. Cuenod, Galveston, Texas, in correcting a mistake in a recent number gives some interesting information on the subject, incidentally:—

"I could not help smiling when reading in your No. 1339 the article, 'Sardinian & Italian', quoted from the Stamp Collector. The writer believes that the so-called Sardinian stamps were used in the island of Sardinia exclusively. If he had opened any encyclopædia, he would have found that the Kingdom of Sardinia, re-organized in 1815, consisted of several provinces, Savoy, Torino, Alexandria, Genoa and Nizza (Nice) all on the Italian mainland, with a population of 4 to 5 millions, plus the island of Sardinia with about 500,000 inhabitants, mostly all farmers or fishermen. The Kingdom derived its name from the island, but was generally known as Piedmont.

Savoy, the cradle of the reigning house of Sardinia, and Nice, were ceded to France in 1860.

The stamps of Sardinia, Nos. 1 to 3 of Scott's are generally found cancelled with dots, but I have a cover of that issue (1851) stamped at Genoa (Genova), further my collection of Italy shows No. 4 cancelled by postmark 'Chiavari', No. 5, postmarked 'Novi', No. 7, postmarked 'Saluzzo', No. 8 postmarked 'Nizza' (Nice), No. 9, postmarked 'Genova' a pair of No. 13 postmarked 'Thonon' (now a French town on the lake of Geneva, opposite Lausanne, Switzerland). All the towns referred to are located on the mainland of the former Kingdom of Sardinia.

So few stamps were used in the Island itself that stamps of the first 3 issues postmarked in towns of the island of Sardinia would prove real rarities, and I feel certain that specialists would pay high prices for such."

THE STAMP DEALER AND HIS STOCK.

By BILL BLOSS.

CHAPTER VII—Buying.

This is the hardest feature of the stamp business, in the writer's opinion. In the first place, the small dealer is apt to over-stock or load up with a lot of junk that is practically impossible to dispose of; and much care is needed to prevent this. Secondly, it is far harder to buy desirable stamps than to sell them. Thirdly, buying the material is half the transaction, and costs must be watched very closely to prevent the profit from slipping away. I am firmly convinced that the dealer must use more "head-work" in buying than in selling, because poor stock is hard to turn, and good stock will sell itself in many instances. I believe that poor buying has wrecked more stamp dealers than "hard times." In the first place, stamp dealers rarely feel "hard times." At the present time the country is suffering a depression due to the European situation, yet the stamp dealers report from the various sections that they are finding business good.

As soon as a new dealer enters the market for stock, he is eagerly beset by wholesale houses everywhere, good, bad, and indifferent. Unfortunately for his purse, the new dealer will find that the undesirable dealers make considerably more effort than the better concerns to secure his money. He is offered large stocks of packets, collections (usually the made-to-order kind), and various wholesale items consisting of stamps that are a "drug on the market." Until he gets experience he is certain to take in a few of these so-called bargain offers, and will find that many of them are with him to stay. If he has bought too many, he is liable to retire from the business about as soon as he entered it, minus his capital, and a "small dealer's stock" will be offered in a coming auction sale to trap some other victim.

In Buying Stock,

the dealer should see his market for every item he buys, and if doubtful, he should consider same carefully before purchasing. "Feeling around" at first will often save severe losses. Of course, I do not mean to imply that the dealer should pass up any genuine bargains, but merely wish to caution him to be sure that they are bargains before buying. Many lots that appear excellent on the face, will turn out badly. There is really no fixed rule for buying stock. Many lots are cheap at half or three-quarters catalogue, and more are expensive at a tenth or a fifth.

We will, for convenience sake, consider that our new dealer has decided to carry a general line, but to specialize in the United States, which is, by the way, probably the most staple "specialty" in America. If he buys at first a large stock collection, as made up by the wholesale houses, he will find that he has practically every speculative stamp to be had, and practically no good United States. These former are to be had in great quantities at a little money, while the latter, in most instances, cannot be secured in quantity, even for a great deal of money. As a result of his purchase, he will find that he has to sacrifice many of the stamps in order to dispose of them, and that he has to turn down orders for his United States, by doing which, he loses his customers and his reputation as a United States specialist. Of course, when he decides to specialize, he will try to get in touch with as many customers as possible interested in his line.

Had he purchased instead

A Good United States Collection, made up by a collector, and a smaller foreign collection, also made up by a collector, he would probably have more success in catering to the wants of his clients, as more staple stamps would be included, and fewer of the speculative. As a collector, and practically every dealer collects before dealing (and we will assume that our "example" has), our dealer learned which stamps were hard to get, and which were common. It is the hard-to-get stamp that is sought after. Therefore, it is that stamp that the dealer should stock. For instance, in stocking twentieth century America, I know that the 12c and 14c Chile, the 4c Peru and Uruguay, and 8c Bolivia, etc., are the scarce values, as also are the high values. Therefore, when any of these are offered me, I consider the cost compared to my selling price, the condition, and if satisfactory, I buy them. I am safe in buying quite a quantity of these values. However, if I lay in a stock of the 10c Chile, 5c Argentine, 5c Bolivia, etc., I will find that I have a supply of stamps that every collector has, and, as a result, I am liable to keep them, or be compelled to sacrifice them by making them up into packets. In buying single items, consider well whether the stamp is a scarce value or not. A great deal depends on

The Line the Dealer Decides to Carry.

If he intends to supply the boy collector through the medium of cheap approvals, let him seek large, showy stamps, cataloguing from 2c to 10c, seldom higher. In order to handle these at a profit, he should pay about one-fifth of catalogue, never higher, as it is necessary to sell them at 50% discount. If a greater discount is to be allowed, the stock should be purchased at a lower rate. At first sight, to buy a stamp at a fifth of catalogue, and to sell it at a half, appears to leave an enormous rate of profit for the dealer. However, by the time the dealer has considered his labor, advertising, postage, time, and also the ten per cent. he will lose by theft (my experience for two seasons in this line shows a loss of one lot in every ten), there is not a whole lot left for his profit. Therefore, it is necessary that he buy at a fifth or less. Speculative stamps often sell well through this medium, and when purchased at a low rate cannot cause a very heavy loss. Until the dealer "finds himself" in the business, he should be content with twenty-five or at the most fifty copies of a stamp. Buying in small quantities will insure him a larger variety and less aptitude of loss, should any particular item turn out badly. Most of this sort of stock can be purchased from the large wholesale houses advertising in the WEEKLY. Many of these dealers issue attractive price lists, and some few do an approval business on a wholesale basis. This last is advantageous for the small dealer inasmuch as it allows him the opportunity of viewing his stock before purchasing.

Purchasing Through Auction Sales

is a popular means of obtaining stock, but like all other sources, many ways are clear for the amateur to run onto the rocks. The more reliable firms are quite particular as to description, and until the dealer is experienced, he should confine his purchases to them. The question will arise as to how to decide whether or not a firm is reliable and that is one that cannot be answered through these columns, of course. Under present day competition, the auction houses have been compelled to give the buyer a fair description and to refund the money if unsatisfactory. Formerly, many ways were left clear in the terms of sale whereby the dealer could foist his undesirable on the unsuspecting public and leave no chance for recourse. As the field has enlarged, however, every dealer recognizes competition and knowing that his "business life" would be short and stormy if he did otherwise, he has discarded any little tricks and sells the stamps for what they are. There was more trouble formerly than of late.

In Buying at Auction,

remember that the collector will usually go for the single lots, and accordingly they will bring higher prices than the large assorted lots, containing too many duplicates for the collector. After the dealer has entered his bids on the lots he really wants, it is a good plan to place a few "flyers" on some of the other lots, with the possibility that the others will overlook them. Many desirable purchases are made in this way, as certain lots are always overlooked in a catalogue. The writer recently purchased a beautiful collection of a South American country, including recent issues, at less than face value, and at a large discount from catalogue. This lot was included in the wholesale section, and offered seventy varieties, all unused, and rated as perfection. A "flyer" on this lot resulted in the purchase of the lot at a price which enabled me to double my money easily.

Lots Described as Perfection, fine, very fine, good, very good, are worthy of more consideration than those listed as fair, very fair, slightly defective, etc. Also, the rule seems to be in auction catalogues that when a stamp or lot is fine, the dealer will mention it. If no description is given, it may or may not be fine, usually not. Such a lot may be considered in good condition, however, as no statement to the effect that it is defective is made. Any lot so listed which proves defective should be returned. Large lots do not permit of as accurate a description as smaller ones, hence a few more or less defective stamps may often be counted on. As the auction firms realize, like everyone else, that their success hinges on the satisfaction of the patron, nearly every firm is willing to make amends for any error in description, and practically all of them will go even more than half way to give satisfaction. Therefore, when you justly are not pleased, do justice to yourself and to the auction house by returning the lot.

A careful watch of the wholesale catalogues both at home and abroad, will often result in the purchase of many desirable items. Certain stamps common abroad are scarce here, and many times the dealer will find that he can import stamps he cannot secure in this country. It pays to keep an eye on the lists and on the philatelic press, to watch for stocks of remainders and stocks otherwise dumped on the market. Such a procedure usually foretells a slump in the price of the stamps in question.

The amateur should be very careful in buying mixtures, until he is sure of himself. Many of these mixtures contain a surplus of certain lines, resulting in over-stocking. Also, many contain a certain percentage of unsalable stamps often dead waste. I think that the firms of Powell, Ohlman, and many others are putting out some very good mixtures and packets. A good assortment, containing not too many of any one kind, offers a fine foundation for a stock.

A Basic Rule In Stamp Buying should be "quality first." Poor copies are hard to dispose of, as a rule. Good stock is in demand. As in the case of United States early issue, and others of like popularity, there is not enough stock to be had to supply the demand. Don't be afraid to pay for good stamps, if you are sure that they are good. If a collection of early U. S. was offered me at a tenth of catalogue by a professional dealer, I should hesitate before I bought it, to see what was wrong. After you find the wants of your clients, go after the stamps to supply them. The better grade of stock you buy, the easier it will be to sell it, and the more money you will make. Sometimes a stamp bought at a half or a third of catalogue proves a far better investment than a stamp bought at a tenth. Insist on fine condition, and pay for it. When you sell, charge for it, according to your costs.

It is not the intent of this article to take up all the sources of buying. This has been done too many times, and there are other works on the market giving information on this subject. Dealers interested should address the publishers of this paper for their handbook, "How to Deal in Stamps." The price is one little dime (and I get no commission for selling it). These articles merely include some of my personal views and experiences, and are complete in no sense of the word.

STAMP MAN LOSES HIS PLUMS.

(Chas. A. Townsend of Akron, O., has recently played the role of the amateur detective according to the following clipping from the Akron "Beacon-Journal."—Ed.)

Have three influential men of West Hill reverted to boyhood habits of raiding orchards?

Charles A. Townsend, letter carrier, stamp collector and amateur gardener, who lives at 848 W. Market St., near Portage Path, would like to know.

His garden was visited two nights in succession by persons who trampled down the flowers and made way with choice plums.

The third night Townsend hid behind bushes. He surprised three men and got close enough to one to whack him over the back with a broom stick.

One man scrambled away in such haste that he dropped a golf club.

Townsend has the club and would like to meet the owner. He doesn't play golf himself, but would like to find out what golf player raids plum trees.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF CANADA.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XVII.

The "2 Cents" Provisionals.

One result of the Imperial Conference on Postal Rates held in London, in addition to the inauguration of Imperial Penny Postage, was to revive the agitation for the reduction of the domestic rate on postage in Canada from 3c to 2c on letters weighing one ounce or less. Indeed just prior to this Convention a bill in amendment of the Post Office Act had been assented to by Parliament under which it was agreed the reduced rate of postage should prevail, but no immediate steps were taken to enforce the reduction, it being left to the Governor General to name a date when the change should take effect. The establishment of Imperial Penny Postage, however, brought matters to a head, for it was a ridiculous state of affairs under which a charge of 3c had to be levied in carrying a letter from one town to another in Canada while 2c would carry a similar letter (if under half an ounce in weight) to any point in the British Isles. Consequently the Governor General named New Year's Day as the date when the reduced rate of domestic postage should come into force as shown by the following "Order in Council":—

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

By Proclamation dated the 29th day of December, 1898, in virtue of the Act further to amend the Post Office Act (61 Victoria, Chapter 20) and of an Order in Council in accordance therewith, it was declared that the postage rate payable on all letters originating in and transmitted by post for any distance in Canada for delivery in Canada, should be one uniform rate of two cents per ounce weight, from the 1st January, 1899.

The immediate effect of this change of rates was a vast increase in the demand for 2c stamps and a corresponding decrease in the use of the 3c. Also, to fall in line with Postal Union requirements a change of color was necessary, but this did not take place at once, the postal authorities preferring to follow their usual precedent of using up the old stamps first.

The 3c, which had been printed in large quantities, moved so slowly that the Post-Office Department decided that the only way the stock could be used up within a reasonable time would be to reduce the stamps to the value of 2c by means of a surcharge. This intention, as well as a change in the color of the regular 2c stamps, was set forth in a circular issued on July 1st, 1899, from which we extract the following:—

Owing to the reduction in the Domestic letter rate of postage, the issue of the 3c letter-card, the 3c stamped envelope, and the 3c postage stamp from the Department has ceased. Any unused 3c letter-cards, 3c stamped envelopes or 3c stamps, still extant, will, however, continue available for postal purposes, or may be exchanged at any Post Office, at their full face value, for postage stamps of other denominations.

The color of the Domestic-rate postage stamp, as prescribed by the Universal Postal Union, is red, and it is intended to discontinue the issue of the ordinary two-cents purple colored stamps as soon as the present supply on hand is exhausted. This will be about the 20th July, 1899. Thereafter the Department will issue two cents stamps in red, first, however, surcharging down to two cents the unused remnant of the three cents stamps in red, now in the possession of the Department, and as soon as the supply of such surcharged threes is exhausted, the issue of two cents stamps in red will begin. The surcharged stamps will be issued to Postmasters as 2c postage stamps and be recognised as postage stamps of that denomination.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

The official estimate of the time the then existing stock of 2c purple stamps would last was not far wrong for on July 20th the first of the surcharged labels were issued. The surcharge follows a somewhat peculiar arrangement the numeral "2" and "S" of CENTS being larger than the rest of the inscription, which is flat at the bottom and concave at the top. This distinctive type is said to have been adopted to make counterfeiting difficult, though it is hardly likely anyone would have reduced a 3c stamp to the value of 2c with the idea of defrauding the Government! Evidently the inscription was specially engraved and from it a plate was constructed so that a sheet of one hundred stamps could be overprinted at one operation. Some little variation will be found in the thickness of the type of the surcharge though whether this is due to the use of more than one plate or simply to overinking or wear is a doubtful matter. The normal position of the surcharge is horizontally across the bottom of the stamps but owing to poor register it is sometimes found much out of position, and specimens with the overprint across the centre of the labels have been recorded.

The surcharge was, at first, applied only to the 3c stamps of the numeral type but it was soon decided to also use up the unused remainders of the 3c "maple-leaf" design by surcharging them in the same manner. These stamps were first issued on August 8th. Both varieties are known with inverted surcharge. How many of each of these three cent stamps were surcharged is not known for certain as the official figures dealing with the issue of stamps makes no distinction between the two varieties. It is stated that altogether 4,120,000 were surcharged and as the varieties are equally plentiful it is only reasonable to suppose that approximately equal numbers of both types were used up.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Bi-sected Provisionals.

The somewhat sudden reduction of the domestic postal rate from 3c to 2c on single letters led to the production of a few provisional stamps of peculiar character at Port Hood, N. S., the postmaster of that town dividing some of his 3c stamps into two unequal portions and using the smaller parts as 1c and the larger ones as 2c. In the Monthly Journal for January, 1899, they are referred to as follows:—

In some offices 1c and 2c stamps ran short, and their places were supplied by one-third and two-thirds portions of 3c stamps divided vertically. In some places our correspondent says, these divided stamps were employed without further alteration, but in others we regret to hear that they were surcharged with a figure "2" in purple, upon the figure "3" of the larger portion or the word "one" in green, upon the smaller part; or, to further complicate matters, when thirds of two adjoining stamps were used for 2c each part was impressed with a figure "2." Our informant's letter is franked in part by ⅔ of a 3c stamp surcharged "2" so we fear that this horrible tale is founded on fact.

In the same journal for March further reference is made to these provisionals, viz.:—

The surcharged fractions appear to have been used only at Port Hood, N. S., where the Postmaster apparently did not consider it safe to use divided stamps without some distinguishing mark. We have seen other copies since, and find that a figure "1" was struck upon the smaller portion; not the word "one" as previously stated. Again in the April number of the same paper these split stamps are referred to:—

In reference to the cut and surcharged 3c stamps, a correspondent sends us the following extract from a letter from the postmaster of Port Hood:—"When the change in Canadian postage was made—of which we got notice by wire—I had only a very few two cent stamps in stock, so that before I got my supply from Ottawa I ran completely out of them, and, to keep my account straight, I was compelled to cut threes. This was for one day only, and not over 300 stamps were cut. I would say about 200 '2' and 100 '1' were used. About 100 '2' and probably nearly as many '1' were marked with the figures '2' and '1' as you describe, and were placed on letters for delivery in towns throughout the Dominion. Those were the only provisional stamps used by this office."

Once more, in June, the Monthly Journal refers to the philatelically notorious Port Hood office:—

A correspondent tells us that the surcharged provisionals were not the first instances of the use of the scissors at Port Hood, an envelope emanating from that office and bearing the half of the 2c stamp, divided diagonally, having been found with the date July 27th, 1898. We do not know what the regulations are in Canada on the subject of receiving postage in cash, but we should suppose that if a postmaster runs out of 1c stamps, receives postage on certain letters, in cash, and then, to save an entry in his accounts, cuts 2c stamps in half and affixes the halves to the letters, it would not be considered a very heinous offence, and it would account for curiosities of this kind occasionally turning up.

But Port Hood does not seem to have been the only office in which the scissors were used, for the following letter from the Montreal Philatelist shows that stamps were bisected at at least one other office. In this instance the postmaster divided 5c stamps as well as the 3c though, apparently, he did not apply any surcharge to the fractions:—

CROSS ROAD, COUNTRY HARBOR,
April 17th, 1900.

Dear Sir,—Your enquiry re stamps to hand. At the time you mention the 2c postage was given us so suddenly that I was about out and all my neighbour P. M. was also out and as I could only charge the public 2c I could not afford to put on a 3c stamp so cut 3c and 5c to about even the thing up and sent them along. Three or four days' letters were mailed in this way, but I do not know where they went to.

Yours very truly,
E. S. SWEET, Postmaster.

The same journal in referring to the Port Hood provisionals makes some interesting comments which are worth reproduction, viz.:—

This postmaster must be a relic of the anti-confederation regime, when such mutilations were allowed, as even an entire absence of the required values would not warrant, under present regulations, this antiquated process. In such cases the postmaster should forward the money to the office on which his mail is forwarded with a request to affix the necessary stamps; he can handstamp or write the amount paid on each letter if desired, but that is not necessary. As these fractional provisionals of the Port Hood P. O. were never issued to the public, but were affixed by the postmaster and the amount paid stamped on them, they are no more deserving of collection as postage stamps than the hand stamp or pen mark on an envelope would be if no stamp or portion of a stamp had been affixed. If it is asked "Why cut up and affix the stamps then?" the answer is the postmaster knew no better and wanted to make his cash account correspond with the total of stamps sold and on hand. He tried to simplify his book-keeping—nothing more—but went about it in an antiquated and unlawful way.

While genuine copies of these splits on original covers are interesting curiosities their philatelic value is not of the greatest importance, for they were, seemingly, never sold to the public but simply affixed by the postmaster after he had received payment in cash, to simplify his accounts. They were certainly not authorised and if they had been detected at the larger offices they would not have passed as valid for postage.

In concluding our notes with regard to these cut stamps we reproduce a letter from the Post Office Department in reply to a collector who had made enquiry about the validity of the splits:

P. O. Dept., OTTAWA,

March 30th, 1904.

In reply to your letter of the 24th March, re stamps '1' in blue, on $\frac{1}{2}$ of 3, and '2' in violet on $\frac{2}{3}$ of 3 cents, I beg to say that the Superintendent of the Stamp Branch assures me that no such stamps were ever issued or recognised by this Department, and if affixed to letters would be treated as ordinary mutilated stamps of no value. It appears that the Postmaster of Port Hood, N. S., at the time of the change of rate found himself short of 2 cents stamps, and, acting on the advice of some stamp fiend apparently, cut up a sheet or so of stamps to make twos and ones. He nearly lost his job over it, but the Department never got hold of any of the mutilated stamps. Anybody could make similar stamps by cutting up and marking old threes. Hoping this may be satisfactory to you,

Yours, etc.,
W. H. HARRINGTON.

CHAPTER XIX.—The 2c Carmine.

According to the Post Office circular quoted in our last chapter the issue of the 2c stamp in carmine—or red, as the color was officially termed—was to begin when the supply of surcharged 3c stamps was exhausted. The new 2c stamp was eventually placed on sale on August 20th, 1899, and it is, of course, exactly like the same value previously issued in purple in all respects except that of color. The same plates were used and later many new ones were put to press. No accurate record of the different plates used for this denomination has been kept but, in addition to plates 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 listed by Mr. Howes, there were probably many others.

In 1900 Canada followed the lead of many other countries by issuing the 2c value in convenient booklet form. The Postmaster-General's Report for 1900 refers to these booklets as follows:—

In the month of June, 1900, the department commenced the issue to Postmasters, of a small book of 2 cent postage stamps, containing 12 stamps, disposed on two sheets of 6 stamps each, and interleaved with wax paper to prevent adhesion of the sheets. The size of the book is such as to make it convenient to be carried in the pocket or pocket-book. Printed

"ASK DAD—HE KNOWS"

9 chances to 1 he read St. Nicholas when he was a boy and collected stamps, too.

A prominent business man writes: "I have a young son just beginning to get interested in collecting. In helping him arrange his stamps, etc., I became deeply interested, and the old craze came back like a flash. Quite frequently I lunch with a Wall Street man and I discovered recently that his experience was the same as mine. My friend is spending more money today in buying stamps for his son than he ever thought of spending on his own account when he made his collection twenty years or more ago."

It is this very influence that is making the Stamp Directory of St. Nicholas a very profitable thing for stamp dealers. The father of the St. Nicholas youngster today is the man who is willing to spend money in buying good stamps for his boy's collection. Are you tying up to this source of income? Are you developing it? You can reach the fathers of the St. Nicholas boys and girls through the Stamp Directory, and you'll catch them on their second wind—which means a lot from the pocket-book standpoint.

on the cover is postal information calculated to be of interest to the public. The price at which the book is issued is 25 cents, one cent over the face value of the stamps being charged to cover the cost of binding, etc.

These stamp books were first placed on sale on June 11th and they rapidly came into public favor as is evidenced by the increasing sales every year since. Mr. Howes tells us that "the books are about two by three inches in size, with stiff cardboard covers which are bound together by red cloth. The coat-of-arms of Canada with the words CANADA POSTAGE beneath are engraved in red on the front cover, while inside are four pages of postal information and the two sheets of six stamps each—three horizontal pairs—backed by leaves of paraffined tissue paper."

CHAPTER XX.—The 20c Value of 1900.

On the 29th of December, 1900, a 20c value was added to the numeral series, its advent being quite unannounced. The large 20c stamps of 1893 had been finally used up and the new label not only conformed to the others of the series in design but also took on a new color—olive-green in place of scarlet.

It was printed from the usual style of line-engraved plate with the usual sheet arrangement of 100 stamps arranged in ten horizontal rows of ten each, with the imprint and plate number in the centre of the top margin. Only one plate—numbered "1"—seems to have been used and Mr. Howes tells us that "an examination of the stamp accounts during its term of life make it appear probable that approximately 500,000 were issued."

MOST INTERESTING STAMP ISSUED.

(United Stamp Co. Herald.)

In our opinion we have to go beyond the bounds of our own country to find this stamp, even though a sense of patriotism would make us wish otherwise. But from a philatelic standpoint we must yield the palm to the one penny red stamp of 1864 of Great Britain. More legitimate varieties may be found of this stamp than of any other ever issued. Just to begin with there are 151 different plates of it, each bearing its own plate number as a part of the design. Then every stamp in each sheet of 240 bears a different combination of letters in the corners. This gives us 36,240 legitimate varieties to collect to begin with: One does not need to collect any other countries, there is field enough right here in this one stamp.

Let anyone think we are joking, we will state that we know of collectors who are endeavoring to make the collection enumerated above, although it may seem a Herculean task. Even to complete one sheet of any one plate is a great task and when it comes to getting the 240 varieties of plate 225, which is the scarce one, we believe that no one has ever yet attained it; in fact, this stamp, catalogued at $3.50, is lacking in most collections even as single specimen. The first step is the collecting of the different plate numbers and this is a comparatively easy matter if one has a large quantity to look over, except for the last plate, 225. A thousand mixed stamps will ordinarily yield the whole lot except the one rare one. We well remember a humorous incident of our earlier collecting days. It will be noticed that there is no plate number 126, but in drawing and numbering the spaces for a set we overlooked this and included it. We laboriously went over a lot of 10,000 with a glass looking for this stray number, having found all the others in the first thousand or so. Then we turned to our catalogue to see if this was priced very high and discovered there was no such number. Try a search of 10,000 if you want to realize how sore we were with ourselves.

JAMAICA WAR STAMPS.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

The recently issued 1 1/2d orange, has received a local surcharge, in black, consisting of the words WAR STAMP, in two lines. The font used for this surcharge is the same as that for the 1/2d and 3d—the words are spaced 3 mm. apart. The change to two lines is probably due to the fact that on both the 1/2d and 3d, the surcharging cannot be much off center without running into the adjoining stamp.

The authorities had not intended to surcharge this 1 1/2d stamp, but the people have gotten the habit of using the 1d and 1/2d, and continue to do so, instead of making use of the 1 1/2d. It is desired to discontinue the 1/2d War Stamp now that the combined rate stamp is available—and the surcharging is to draw attention to the fact that one stamp may now be used instead of two as formerly. The 1 1/2d surcharged stamp was issued Sept. 1st, and there are the usual varieties—no period, small "P", etc.

STAMP NOTES AND NEWS.

British Honduras.—The whole stock of 1c stamps with moire overprint has been withdrawn to be overprinted with the word "War". The ordinary 1c stamps now in use are without overprint of any kind.

Cameroons.—This former German Colony now appears to be administered by France alone, the French Colonial stamps of Middle Congo having been overprinted "Cameroun Occupation Francaise," the denominations issued are as follow: 1c, 2c, 5c, 10c, 20c, 25c, 30c, 35c, 40c, 45c, 50c and 1 franc. These stamps were put on sale in Paris, and were all sold out within a few days.

Chinese Turkestan.—The long expected parcel of these interesting stamps has at last arrived, and we are making a complete distribution at new issue rates. The stamps are the current issue of China, overprinted with five Chinese characters in black, except the $1, on which the overprint is in red. The stamps are in sheets of 200, there is a variety of overprint on every sheet, the last stamp on the third row, the left half of the fourth Chinese character being missing, no doubt due to an accident to the type. The overprint signifies "For use in Sinkiang".

Danish West Indies.—Owing to the expected sale of these Islands to the United States considerable demand has arisen for the postage stamps, and we advise collectors to fill up their blanks as soon as possible, as prices are bound to appreciate.

Hong Kong.—We are officially informed that the 12c stamps are exhausted, and that no more will be issued, as this value is not required.

Jamaica.—We have received supplies of the 1/2d and 3d War stamps, which will be included in our September distribution. The 3d stamps are on paper coloured throughout, the Postmaster has refused to supply us with even a single copy of the 3d stamps with white backs, notwithstanding that we sent a remittance for them as soon as they were issued to the public.

North Borneo.—Three provisional stamps have been issued overprinted on the issue of 1909, 2c on 3c, 4c on 6c, and 10c on 12c. A remittance which we sent to the Postmaster General of North Borneo has been returned with the information that the stamps were all sold locally, that there were only a few thousand issued to meet with bona-fide necessities, owing to the loss of the stock on board the s. s. "Persia".—Whitfield King & Co's List.

THE INTEREST AND PHILATELIC VALUE OF PLATING.

By A. J. WARREN.

Personally I would have liked to add the words "and perforations," but one is a little shy of alluding to any such matters just now.

Those who know me are aware that "entre les deux mon coeur balance," and to judge from the position that some would assign to "perforations," this balancing between the two enables me as I pass from one to the other to enjoy in a special manner the whole gamut of philatelic music—shades of colour, changes of colour, methods of printing, errors, retouches, dates of issue, etc., etc. For I certainly place "plating" at the apex, the zenith of philatelic work.

"Plating" belongs, of course, essentially to the earliest period of stamp production, to the time when each stamp on a plate was a separate impression from a die, and in this early work each one frequently presented to an enquiring mind special peculiarities of its own, distinguishing it from its neighbours. To the general collector these older stamps are chiefly of interest from the many varieties of shade arising from the irregular work of those early days when apparently a "blue" or "red" was but a "blue" or "red," whether light or dark or otherwise "hyphenated." But once the general collector has, as he surely will, become specially attracted to one country or group, these very points will attract his special attention and lead him on to further study of these older issues and how they were made.

The fact that these stamps were divided up for use by scissors and not by perforations, and that these scissors were but too often used in a hurry and with a careless disregard of the morrow, some pairs or strips being cut off vertically, others horizontally, now from one end of the row, now from the other end, with the margin and without, cutting into a stamp or snicking off a bit of its neighbour—oh! all very unsightly for a place in a tidy collection, but extremely helpful for the piecing together again of the original block, whether it be of nine, sixteen, twenty-five, or a hundred pieces. Those handlers of scissors in the long ago were kinder-hearted than they knew, and those collectors who yearn only for well-centred copies will understand that even the wrecks have their use!

But even with well-centred stamps of these early days, besides the many changes in shades of colour, the collector has also to deal with the evidences of much work effected upon the plate before being put to the press, and this work, as with the Dutch stamps, was often rather roughly done; and in some cases, with printings from worn plates and the retouches effected upon them, forming a "later state of the plate." A "worn plate," as with Belgium, a "worn plate," "retouched" once, nay twice, as with the early "Sydney" or a plate "retouched" in the beginning, and once for all as with "Holland." Truly a most interesting and varied study.

Of course, this is "study" and not merely collecting. Indeed it is rather the antithesis of ordinary collecting of current issues, i. e., clean, unused stamps for the clean unused of these early times are, for the most part, rare and expensive. It is a study of early struggles and endeavours often foiled by bad material and also by bad workmanship. The inferiority of the metal of which the plates were made produced in many cases blurs or lines between the rows, and these form an active guide in reconstruction.

The very defects of these early line-engraved stamps facilitate the study of them and the reconstruction of the plates, so that this work ceases to be of a recondite nature, but can be undertaken by any assiduous worker with a little spare time and good eyesight for minute details and defects.

In some cases the original plates have been found or rendered available for philatelic study, while in others large blocks of remainders have been unearthed, but in others again no such help is forthcoming, as in the case of Holland, in which I am specially interested, and where we have had to learn everything from the face of the stamps themselves. The success attained in this latter case is perhaps all the sweeter.

To look back over what one was inclined to aver a few years ago is both to realise we have learnt much, but also to convince us that we have still much to learn regarding these older stamps and the manner of their production; and it is to be hoped that rising generations will not be content with what others have done, but prove once more that they can advance the cause. I would like to indicate the directions in which further research would be profitable, but I hope to carry on in my own special line a little longer, and then hand it on to others with the consciousness that they will find out what has still to be done.

The stamps of what I call the second period are not so readily brought into the magic of plating, partly because the "side" aids in the case of the line-engraved stamps were generally wiped out by the newly-introduced perforations, and partly because with surface printing the interest and value—one might even often say the possibility—of plating disappears. And yet, in making up the plate for the first issue of Dutch Indies, 10c lake, I was greatly helped by two strips of the perforated issue, which showed the kink at the top of the fourth vertical, so that I knew exactly where they must come in the row, and was gradually able to discover in which row they would be at home. In this case "perforations" were a help, and in the case of the second or 1864 issue for Holland they would partly help and greatly hinder—to search for the "side" helps in these line-engraved stamps when partly obliterated by perfs., and that over a continuous sheet of 200 stamps, is at present a little beyond my powers.

I should like it to be understood that I cannot claim to be an authority on plating, but only a learner. I am learning to plate, and thus studying the methods of construction, and trying to understand why certain results appear, not always apparently strictly in accordance with official descriptions.

Now that I have devoted myself more particularly to the plating of the early Dutch stamps, I would like to emphasise the fact that the great interest I had formerly taken, not only in perforations but also in postal methods and cancellations, as well as in getting the shades of colour arranged in their proper sequence, has proved in many cases of great assistance. I am greatly strengthened in my belief that every collector should as he goes along always study even minor points connected with his stamps, and never listen to anyone who would persuade him that this, that, or the other is unnecessary, "too much" or futile!—Stamp Collectors' Annual.

Advertising Chat

Harold Bell Wright in his latest book makes Phil Acton say as some unbroken horses race wildly away: "There's bound to be some good ones in every bunch" and in reply, Mr. Baldwin said: "Yes and some no account ones too." This is true of other things besides horses—advertisements for instance.

If your advertisement does not "pull", study your method and study other people's methods. Observe under all circumstances these fundamental principles:

A close to cost price on all offers.
Year, value, color—full description.
Change your advt. every week.
Use your offers to get app. business.
Keep your advertising out of the "no account" class and you can do this if you follow Bill Bloss in his serial.

There is some advertising we do not want and will not accept—in that we differ from some of our contemporaries. Every month justifies us in our course. We do not want the advertising of any dealer unless he complies with our rules:

Pound mixtures are tabooed; also repairing and repaired stamps; cheap mixtures both U. S. and foreign are under the ban; better than 50% discount can only be used when stamps are definitely indicated.

It is our purpose to raise the standard of advertising ethics. They will never be perfect but we can improve them.

It will be generally admitted that this issue of the WEEKLY is a "humdinger". If you don't know what this means it will be a good excuse for you to consult the dictionary. The issue bears the marks of a prosperity in the stamp business that cannot be misunderstood, and we welcome the auspicious opening of the fall trade. Our columns fairly bulge with bargains and lean pocketbooks must result. It will be a time when money will be well invested.

The most attractive feature in this number is the page advertisement of W. E. Coburn and we shall mistake the temper of our subscribers if Mr. Coburn does not receive a large amount of patronage.

We have editorially mentioned the splendid campaign that "St. Nicholas" is waging in the interests of stamp collecting and we predict many accessions to the ranks of philately through Mr. Guion's publicity movement. "St. Nicholas" will use our publication right through the coming season.

A priced catalog of war stamps has been issued by Bright & Son. It is well worth the price charged, 7c, and if you write to the firm at 164 Strand, London, Eng., you may enclose this amount in stamps and mention the WEEKLY as the source of your information.

When sending in her adv. copy this week Mrs. L. W. Kellogg states that she has had the pleasure of a brief visit from Mrs. E. W. Oughtred. Mrs. Kellogg expresses her keen enjoyment of the Boston convention and the hospitality extended. In our book publishing efforts this winter we hope to use Mrs. Kellogg's bureau of auction pricings which she is featuring.

L. T. Brodstone writes us that on his trip east he got into an auto accident on Nassau St., N. Y. City. He was laid up for ten days or more and this accounts for the delay in issuing his publication, the "Philatelic West." It will shortly appear.

Charles H. Stone of Cambridge, Mass., enters the ranks of auction dealers this week, as will be seen by his advertisement elsewhere. Mr. Stone is not very well known to our newer subscribers, but he is a long-time dealer in stamps and has given special attention to envelopes.

The lover of new issues will find much of value in List No. 13, just issued by Fred Michael of Chicago. Mr. Michael is one of the leading handlers of new issues in America and has developed a large business.

A perusal of our columns this week will reveal the fact that many of our old advertisers are again on deck. W. W. Walsh, Halifax, N. S., L. V. Lindsey, Norwich, N. Y., Simon Haas of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and Emily King of Halifax, N. S., advertised regularly last season. H. H. A. Fox, Oswego, N. Y., and B. Max Mehl, of Fort Worth, Texas, also have advertisements of interest.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF OAXACA. A STATE IN MEXICO.

By RODERICK ENFIELD.

CHAPTER IV.—The One Centavo.

This stamp is in purple, the first printings in bright colors, but later they became dull and smeary and the design blurred, and the last printings were but little better than a dirty black, having the appearance of a poor, home-made ink.

There appears never to have been but one pane of three stamps horizontally by seven vertically, of this value, set in type,—hence two impressions were necessary on each sheet and the two halves of the sheet are frequently in different colors. Care was taken that both halves were printed erect and no tete-beches occur. Any peculiarity that occurs in one pane is repeated in the corresponding stamp in the other pane. It was necessary, at various times, to correct errors or repair damage to the forms, and when this was done, the forms for the individual stamps were not put back in their original positions, and it is quite noticeable that stamps with marked peculiarities change position in the sheet.

In the earliest impressions, the numeral in the SW. Cor. of 31 and of 34 is broken and looks like a broken slug and the numeral is entirely omitted from the SE. Cor. of 37 and of 40.

A little later the forms were shifted and this same peculiarity of a numeral, looking like a broken slug, occurs in the SW. Cor. of 27 and of 30; and the numeral in the SW. Cor. of 26 and of 29 shows as a mere dot and in the SE. Cor. of 14 and of 17 shows as a mere trace, or does not show at all.

In the consignment to the postoffice of Oaxaca on August 14, 1915, there were two sheets that were perforated vertically only and three sheets that were imperforate; there were also some found imperforate horizontally and with but four rows of vertical perforations.

In the last, blurred, impressions, not only was the ink poor, but the press work was also poor and the forms not always evenly set and some figures and letters sometimes do not show at all, sometimes show faintly and sometimes clearly in the same positions: For example, the "C" is missing from "CORREOS" in No. 32 and the "S" in No. 33; the numeral is missing from the SW. and NW. Cor. of No. 32 and from the SW. Cor. of No. 37. In this last printing the numeral is omitted from the SE. Cor. of No. 38 and of No. 41.

CHAPTER V.—The Two Centavos.

These are in yellow green, the first impressions bright and clear, but the ink used for the last printing was far from adaptable to the work and the impression is blurred and smeary and very poor and the background very faint. The 2 cent. was first sold on July 2, 1915.

Design of the Oaxaca Stamps.

This value appears to have been printed with but one impression for each sheet of forty-two stamps; there is no variation in color between the two halves of the sheets nor do the peculiarities found on one side appear on the corresponding stamps on the other half.

First Printing.—In the first setting there were dashes under many of the numerals:—nine stamps lacked these dashes entirely, eight had them under the SW. numeral only, nine had them under the SE. numeral only, fourteen had them under both of the lower numerals and but two stamps had them under both of the left hand numerals.

TO MY CUSTOMERS:—
I very much regret that on account of illness I have been unable to attend to my stamp business for the last month, and hope by the time this copy is out that all letters will be answered.

I beg indulgence for this long delay and trust that the same will not occur again.

Best regards to those to whom I have caused so much trouble.

Yours respectfully,

F. P. GIBBS.

H. F. COLMAN,

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG.,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

At the very first No. 37 showed a very light impression but with a very heavy impression of the frame line.

The numeral is found inverted in the SW. Cor. of No. 21, when this was corrected, the "S" was omitted from "CORREOS" in the same stamp and a few impressions made before it was corrected.

A very peculiar thing is an albino numeral in the SE. Cor. of No. 15, which was quite persistent; the numeral is clearly impressed in the paper, but for some reason did not ink.

This printing is known with a faint double impression.

Second Printing.—The forms were re-set, omitting the dashes under the numerals.

Through part of this printing, the numeral was omitted from the SW. Cor. of No. 13.

There are two sheets found with a faint double impression.

The "O" of "OAXACA" is spread open in No. 35.

This printing is found imperforate horizontally, double perforate and perforate ten.

Last Printing.—Very poor ink, giving blurred and smeary impression; background faint. The forms were in very bad condition, the gum very thin.

The "C" is missing from "CORREOS" in No. 1, No. 36 and No. 37, and shows but a speck of color in No. 3, No. 4, No. 8, No. 13 and No. 26.

CHAPTER VI.—The Three Centavos.

These are supposed to be orange brown, but they vary greatly, and particularly in the depth of color in the background.

The numeral in the NW. Cor. No. 2 was inverted in the early printing, but was later corrected. Albino numerals are found on the left side of No. 23 and No. 38, they are deeply impressed in the paper but did not take ink. There is a faint double impression known. They are also found with the ten perforation horizontally.

In the last printing the ink is dull, the impression blurred, the gum very thin, and the forms in bad shape.

The "C" is missing from "CORREOS" in Nos. 1, 4, 31, 32, 37 and 38 and shows but faintly in Nos. 8, 13, 23, 25, 26, 27 and 40.

The three cent. were all printed from a setting of the complete sheet of forty-two stamps; the peculiarities are not uniform in the two halves of the sheet and they are not found with different shades of color in the same sheet.

CHAPTER VII.—The Five Centavos.

The 5 cent. is supposed to be yellow but the color varies more than in any of the others,—buff and orange predominating. This was the first value made and was put on sale in the afternoon of June 26, 1915.

First Printing.—The first forms were set in a pane of twenty-one stamps,—three stamps wide by seven high. When one-half of the sheet was printed, the paper was reversed in the press and the other half printed from the same form, in the same position,—resulting in the two halves of the sheet being tete-beche with seven tete-beche pairs, vertically, through the middle of the sheet. This method was changed on July 5th and the stamps were printed so that both sides were erect.

In this first setting the numerals were in large, heavy type; the forms were soon reset with a lighter numeral. While the forms were being changed there were nearly a hundred sheets printed, in which one half was printed from the old forms and the other half from the new forms. It seems strange, but in these sheets, showing both types, the old type is clearer than the new one. Beginning on July 26, all stamps delivered to the postoffice were of the new type.

The color of the first printing is a quite uniform buff. Copies are known, with the background misplaced, showing "CORREOS" on a white ground.

Second Printing.—The background varies from a faint tint to a deep, dull yellow, and the design varies still more, but is mostly buff, orange, or red orange. The gum varies from heavy to the very thin gum, used in the latest work. The perforation is mostly twelve, but the ten is also found. There were a few sheets imperforate, and imperforate vertically. An occasional double perforation is found. They are known with the background shifted, showing "CORREOS" or "CORREOS TRANSITORIO" on a white ground and also with a faint double impression.

The combination of this type with the first type is the only instance noted where this second type was printed a half sheet at a time; all the others of this type appear to have been printed in one impression for the entire sheet, as evidenced by the uniformity of color and impression over the entire sheet; and the two halves are not printed from the same form as is evidenced by the fact that the peculiarities of one half are not repeated on the other half.

CHAPTER VIII.—The Ten Centavos.

The ten cent. is printed in two colors: the eagle and the numerals in red and the inscriptions and the border in dull blue, with the background tinted a very light blue.

There is but one real error in the ten cent.; the numeral "1" is omitted from the SE. Cor. of No. 39. There are several other places in the lower part of the sheet where the numeral "1" sometimes does not show, or shows very faintly,—due to depressed or broken type.

There appears to have been but one printing. Two sheets have been found with blue ruling vertically of the stamps and black column ruling horizontally of the stamps,—this in place of the printed forms mostly used.

This ten cent. stamp was issued on October 26, 1915, and completes the series.

Errors in perforation are quite likely to effect three sheets the same as they apparently, usually, perforated that number together. The ten perforation is always ragged.

The forms, from which these stamps were printed, were turned over to the postal authorities about December 15, 1915, and are supposed to have been destroyed.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Prof. Frank Dempster Sherman, head of the department of graphics of the School of Architecture at Columbia University since 1904, died Sept. 19 following an operation for appendicitis. He was 56 years old. Prof. Sherman enjoyed a national reputation as a poet and was a noted genealogist. We do not know the extent of his stamp collecting activities, but we recognize the name of Prof. Sherman as having been upon our mailing list for years.

—W. Ward of England who will be remembered as a former contributor to the WEEKLY writes us that he has just returned to civilian life after nearly two years in the British Expeditionary Force in France. He was discharged because of injuries. He gave up his stamp store in Manchester at the beginning of the war and both of his assistants also enlisted.

—F. W. McCreery of Rockville, Conn., wishes us to call the attention of his patrons to the fact that he has passed through a severe illness and is now on the road to recovery. He has been compelled temporarily to discontinue his stamp business, but hopes to resume in the very near future. Any matters of correspondence held over will be given immediate attention.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from John McKittrick, M. Casper (2), I. B. Robinson (2), Claude B. Vail, "B. S. W."

—At the suggestion of the Western Philatelic Association a "Get-Together" banquet of all collectors around the Bay Cities was held at the German House, San Francisco, September 15, when one of the largest gatherings of the kind assembled. An informal supper, provided by the committee of arrangements, was enjoyed, after which speeches were made by various well-known collectors and dealers, a stamp auction held and an ment thoroughly appreciated by all who were present. A resolution was passed to hold several such meetings every year.

—The annual election of officers of the San Francisco Stamp Society was held, September 4, and the following were re-elected: President, Henry J. Seiler; Vice Pres., Chas. W. Arp; Sec-Treas., Donald Piercy; Auction and Sales Manager, Edwin P. Seeborn; Librarian, Oliver G. Beardslee. The Secretary-Treasurer's report showed a flourishing condition, total membership being 52 with an average attendance for the last six months of 23.

was a famous character nearly 2,000 years before his picture adorned a stamp. Fame is funny stuff, isn't it? Those who need it the least get the most of it and the rest of us get—oh well, here's where the good sports get a chance to dig up a fraction of a bone for a miniature steel engraving of the Biblical scene, with the hero "close up" and the priest and the Levite way, way back.

OUR OCTOBER SPECIAL.

On Saturday, October 28, we shall issue a special number of the WEEKLY that will be designed to hasten materially the progress of the stamp season. Already trade conditions look very favorable and the issues of the WEEKLY indicate the prosperity that awaits the stamp business.

We have issued a pretty coupon giving premiums to both new subscriber and subscription-getter. It is a six months subscription coupon and we shall gladly send a supply to any who may apply.

Our new book on U. S. Grills by Stevenson, is now ready. It is an attractive booklet and is sold at an attractive price, 10c.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

High—Several correspondents have written to assure us that blocks of dollar denominations up to sixteen dollars are not uncommon. Large blocks of one dollar parcel post stamps have been cited and we assume that they have paid first class postage as the limit of weight of first class mail is fifty pounds in the first and second zones, as calculated for fourth class matter. It may be seen how large used blocks come to pass. If we analyze closely the possibilities for the use of many high values, it is to be seen that there are opportunities despite weight limitations. For instance, currency from Washington until recently could be sent regardless of weight with payment of postage in stamps but latterly the use of "Permits" has dispensed with the stamps. Postage, etc., stamps are not subjected to the limit of four pounds; and "printed or written official matter weighing in excess of four pounds, emanating from any of the departments of the government or the Smithsonian Institution" may be accepted for mailing at other post offices when the postage is paid thereon.

Thus—A reader who was interested in our description of thirty or forty stamps of Guatemala, ten centavos, on a cover writes to inquire how it was possible that an ordinary letter could require so much postage. The letter rate postage for the first weight unit from Guatemala to this country is fifty centavos and the same rate for each additional weight unit. Inasmuch as Guatemala's weight unit is fifteen grams or about a half-ounce, it will be seen that the postage on a letter that enclosed a few legal documents, for instance, and weighing about four ounces would amount to four hundred centavos at this rate. The table of rates of postage from foreign countries to the United States is an interesting compilation and is worth the attention of the cover enthusiast.

Varied—From Mr. Thiede, Appleton, Wisconsin, we have received a portion of the cover of a package on which the two stamps are practically blotted out by the cancellation; the cancelling pad was "worked out" with a vengeance in this case. This is the extremest example that we have seen for a long time. From McAllen, Texas, we have received a picture postal card on which a vertical half of a two cent stamp pays the one cent postage. The official seals now come black on pink paper. A caller has shown us a pair of the fifty dollar documentary revenue used.

Haiti—A valued correspondent in commenting upon references recently to Haitian stamps and political affairs in this column speaks of the turbulence that has distracted the country for some years past. Many of our readers are aware that since our government sent Admiral Caperton to Haiti, our country has practically maintained a protectorate over Haiti. We have assumed control of the customs and finances and our good offices are manifest in keeping Darguenave in the chair of president. Several years ago, the legitimate president, Oreste, was overthrown by Zamor in conspiracy with Theodor. Zamor soon squelched the ambitions of Theodor and became absolute in power through means that are said to have been autocratic and barbarous. While Darguenave with our support is restoring comparative tranquility to the distracted country, yet rapine and sedition have not been wholly suppressed. The recent stamp issues reflect the unsettled conditions of Haiti and our informant hints that if the truth were known about these emissions, some remarkable stories would become known, albeit the postal authorities have a clean bill of health from surface indications, having met emergencies with some degree of resourcefulness and legitimate enterprise. We trust that our correspondent will inform us further on the subject of the Haitian stamps with "stories".

Bequests—A suggestion has been made that we say something in our columns about a subject that in all probability has never been advanced openly heretofore. Why should not collectors when circumstances allow bequeath their albums to collecting companions? Of course, usually it is inexpedient to dispose of a valuable collection in this way, as a proceeding of the kind would not be fair to the estate of the decedent although, if the collector were very wealthy, he could conscientiously consult his own option in the case and bestow the collection on a surviving philatelic friend, if he cared to do so. However, it is the great middle-class collectors that we have in mind. In many instances these collectors, while possessing interesting albums have not sufficient stamps to make an impression in auction circles and there may be some sentiment against closing out the stamps to a dealer. The owner who feels that these conditions apply to his case could consider the idea of leaving his stamps to a philatelic pal with satisfaction.

It is certain that the recipient would appreciate a remembrance of this kind, even though it would not be needed to add fragrance to the memory of the one who had gone on. Only in exceptional cases is the stamp collection deemed of sufficient importance to be mentioned in a will and as a consequence, not a few collections have been frittered away, lost or stolen because of this omission. Now is the time to repair this heedlessness; the stamp collection that is worth so much in life is worth some post obitum consideration.

Dumb—We have heard nothing further of the organization in New York City of the big company that almost at once is to be destined to take front rank in commercial philately. We have heard indirectly of developments but we prefer to speak only with that assurance that comes with first hand information. We regard the enterprise with favorable interest and at any rate it merely is a question of time before some sharp mind will see that liberal and modern methods will have their fruition in a business that not alone will achieve first place, but deserve it, as well.

Fiasco—We have refrained from dwelling on the Long Island issues of type-written British provisional occupation stamps; and it is just as well that the echoes of the scandal did not carry to our shores. These type-written labels, a la Uganda, were touted by claquers ad nauseum before they were emphatically and categorically repudiated by the postmaster-general of England. The unsavory affair has given us a shock and our faith in the purity of the motives of several of the philatelic personages of England has been jolted. It is reprehensible enough to bolster up suspicious issues in ordinary times, but it seems almost incredible that the possibility, nay, assurance of profit out of questionable issues could blind the mind of average decency to the wrong of using the war as a pretext for courting the favor of the buying public. There has been some tall explaining to account for the lapses that lead to the unhappy denouement and we must believe that the foisting of the Long Island issues on the market was not a coldly calculated plot to bilk collectors.

FORGERY OF NAME AND S. P. A. NUMBER.

H. M. Norton, 48 E. 4th St., St. Paul, Minn., sends us the particulars of the forgery of his name and S. P. A. number in a recent stamp transaction. From Sept. 11-14 he received various pieces of mail addressed to him at 648 E. 14th St., two of these being by registered mail. We quote from Mr. Norton's letter:—"That they were delivered to me was due to the fact that I am the only H. M. Norton in the city, am well known at the Post Office, and there is no 648 on E. 14th St. I wrote two of the dealers each of whom sent me their original letters.

Some days since the P. O. had a request from Pine City, Minn., to forward any mail that might come addressed to H. M. Norton at 648 E. 14th St., St. Paul, but the address being incorrect the local office wrote to Pine City for a better order, and the letter was returned with the statement that the party could not be found."

Mr. Norton is of the opinion that he knows the party who used his name, in view of comparisons in handwriting that he has been able to make, and as he is a member of the S. P. A. it is possible that action may be taken by that society. We mention these facts as stated by Mr. Norton for the public good.

CHAPTER VIII—What of New Issues?

The question, whether to buy new issues or not, is one that confronts every collector and dealer at some time or other. The beginner picks up his catalogue and notes, for instance, that the shilling Cayman Islands, black on green paper, issued in 1909, watermarked Single CA catalogues $1.75. He knows that this stamp would cost him at least 75c, and more probably $1.50. At best, he would pay two hundred per cent. over face for it at the present time. Purchased at 30c through a new issue service at the time of issue, this stamp would have realized a profit of probably three times the original price. The collector wonders if it would not be a good idea to buy all stamps at the time they are issued. He considers the matter in detail and studies the various new issue price lists. He finally draws his conclusion that new issues pay or do not pay. Usually he decides that certain new issues cannot fail to bring splendid returns on the money invested, and he soon learns by experience which class of countries to collect. The are almost sure to increase rapidly in value. Very few remainders have been put upon the market by any of the colonies. The Edwardian issues have proven to be excellent purchases at the new issue rates. The Colonial Color Scheme sets of the Edwardian stamps have already started to climb upward in the catalogue, and in some instances, they will not stop until they have reached heights too dizzy for the average collector. The 5 shilling Gold Coast King Edward, issued in the new color scheme, was distributed less than two years ago at new issue rates of $1.37 to $1.50. To-day this stamp brings $12.50 to $15.00, and is very scarce at that.

Even the Georgian Issues

have increased considerably in some instances. The stamps with white backs, or rather, on surface colored paper, are beginning to show signs of becoming obsolete, and hence, will soon increase at a speed depending upon the demands of collectors, and judging from the demand for stamps with slight differences in watermark and varieties of less importance than these "white backs", they will bring some very fancy prices in some cases. British Colonials have an established face value. The increases in value have so far exceeded losses by demonetization, or disposal of remainders, that the objections can scarcely be noticed.

Buying the

New Issues of Other Countries,

however, is quite another story. The South American and Southern European countries are not, as a rule, good purchases on a face value basis, for the reason that as fast as a new set is issued (which is sometimes once or twice a year) the old series is made invalid for postal use, is cancelled-to-order, or even sold unused, and the high values are worth but a few cents more than the lowest value. The Portuguese Colonials have appreciated in value to quite an extent in many instances, but on the other hand, include a host of speculative sets issued to separate the easy philatelist from his good money, and as it is the habit of the money-loving Portuguese to use up every remainder by applying a new surcharge, or by cancelling whole issues to order, one can never tell when that government will decide to dispose of the remainders without treating them to a new value, thus saving the additional cost of printing, but hitting the fellow who bought them at their face value.

The French Colonials Are Clean

in general, but quantities are sold from Paris to collectors, so they are easy to obtain, and as they usually remain in issue several years, do not seem to increase in value. Up to the present time, however, these stamps have been priced at a very low per cent. over face in the catalogue, making it unprofitable for the dealer to stock them, and hence they are not common in this country.

The Northern European Countries are stable in their financial foundations, and can afford to look beyond the stamp collector to support their postal systems, so their issues do not depreciate, and almost always increase in value. Of course, in most of the countries philately is well represented, and more of the stamps are purchased and stocked than in the small out-of-the-way places. Even at that, though, fine copies with gum, of these countries sell readily.

Heretofore, I have treated this subject from a financial standpoint. From the point of view of the collector who has the money to purchase stamps without regard to their financial standing (and he is a very scarce and desirable person for the dealer to do business with) I would say collect everything. The man who first said "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush" was the ancestor of the first Nicaraguan specialist, and had reference to certain surcharges of that country. If a collector can afford to buy everything that comes his way, by all means let him pursue the new issues in all its branches. He will find it far easier to buy his stamps as they appear than to attempt to complete his countries long after the stamps are obsolete. Unfortunately for him, however, the new issue service has never been established which can supply every stamp issued. He will always have a few provisionals to look for. Usually the scarcest ones, too, are the ones left out. Also, a collection of new unused stamps

Cannot Be Surpassed for Beauty.

The writer has seen collections of as many as ten thousand varieties of twentieth century stamps unused, and always feels like burning his own collection after seeing one of these "new issue" collections.

To summarize the above, if the collector buys "new issue" British Colonials and uses discretion in buying the other countries, he cannot "go wrong." If the collector intends to collect unused stamps, surely the time to buy them is when they are current, and just come out.

The new issue question as it confronts the dealer must be handled differently. Whether or not the dealer can carry new issues in stock at a profit depends largely upon the class of trade he caters to. If he sells only to the beginner or does "kid" business, he cannot readily dispose of new issues, excepting the very low values, which sell very easily. If he sells to the advanced collector, he must carry new issues, and as nearly a complete line as possible, in order to supply all wants. The question of new issues must be decided by every dealer for himself, as no fixed rule can be laid down. Success in handling any line, stamps or merchandise, depends upon the selling of that line. In the stamp business, the writer is of the opinion that rather than buying and holding for speculation. The looked for increase may be slow in coming, resulting in loss of interest on the capital involved, as well as loss of profits on sales of stock which could have been turned over many times. Of course, face value stamps are an almost certain security, and can command more of a fixed price than odd lots or collections of stamps based on catalogue. These latter must bring what the buyer chooses to give for them, as they have no real value aside from a philatelic sense. The face value stamp represents money invested, and if it is still in use, can be collected on, at or near its face value by the holder. Therefore, the dealer who stocks new issues is assured of a loss of not much more than the per cent, he paid over face in the event that he be forced to dispose of them at a forced sale.

For the Benefit of the New Dealer who lacks experience with new issues, however, let me caution him to "go easy" and not to buy every lot that is offered him. Lots of odd values, and broken sets, do not sell readily at retail, and are equally hard to dispose of at wholesale. The writer was "caught" with quite a lot of miscellaneous new issues at one time, and after placing them before half a dozen of the large dealers and being advised "that they had too many lots like that already" was forced to dispose of them at nearly twenty per cent. less than face value.

By careful study and judicious buying, new issues may be laid away for a rise, and a Handsome Profit Realized From Them.

ALL stamps do not increase soon enough to pay to hold them. The secret lies in picking the stamps that are bound to jump up. By carefully studying the past issues, the saleability of the country, and the characteristic of the new stamp, the dealer soon learns what to hold and what to turn at once. In the case of the 4d Jamaica, black on yellow, the writer reasoned that as the colonial color scheme called for black and red on yellow, this stamp might be recalled at any time. Also, Jamaica is a good country to stock up on. Accordingly, when the 4d stamp was changed suddenly, the writer was able to realize 75c each for one hundred copies of a stamp that cost him 10c each not many months before. In speculating in British Colonials, the dealer finds it a one-sided gamble in his favor. If he buys at or near face,

He Cannot Lose, and May Win.

For the specialist who stocks only a few countries, it is necessary that he carry all issues of that country in stock, and accordingly, he should invest in enough new issues to last him for some time.

New issues, like every other branch of the stamp business, must be stocked carefully. Under the new issue service system, it is necessary to buy all stamps. All new issues are saleable at time of issue, and the wise dealer sells them at that time at a profit, laying away only such surplus as he thinks may increase for some reason, or as he thinks necessary to keep his stock in shape. A good rule to follow is the one used by the large merchants throughout the country.

"Keep your stock moving and turn over your money as often as you can."

CANADA.—J. D. Cox has kindly favored us with a copy of the official circular of the Canadian Post Office Department regarding the new 3c brown stamps:

"Post Office Department, Canada, OTTAWA, 28th August, 1916.

Memorandum for The Postmaster, Halifax
TWO-CENT SURCHARGED POSTAGE and WAR TAX STAMP.

The Postmaster will please observe that the 2c Surcharged Postage and War Tax stamps, herewith enclosed, are printed in BROWN instead of in RED, as formerly. In future these stamps will be issued in the colour mentioned so as to overcome the difficulty experienced owing to the similarity in colour to the ordinary 2c stamp.

Before offering to the public any of the new stamps it is very desirable that the old stock be entirely sold.

R. M. COULTER,
Deputy Postmaster General."

This circular gives instructions it will be noted, not to issue the new 3c stamps until all the old ones are gone.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—The London Telegraph says:

Early this year the Cayman Islands, a dependency of Jamaica, which derives its chief income from postage-stamp sales, proposed to issue a set of war stamps, but the Governor of Jamaica is said to have vetoed the proposal. Now that the Mother Colony has issued war stamps it is reported that the Cayman Islands will have a similar overprinted issue.

ITALIAN SOMALILAND.—The London Telegraph says that the postage stamp supplies for Italian Somaliland have been deranged, for the steamship which carried the latest consignments was sunk by a submarine. The Governor of the colony was subsequently authorized to convert 35,000 1-lira stamps into 20c stamps by surcharging and 25,000 50c stamps have been surcharged to supply a deficiency of 5c stamps. The lost consignments included stocks of 5 and 20c stamps and the 15c grey and 20 on 15c Red Cross stamps of Italy overprinted for use in Italian Somaliland.

JAMAICA.—Hermann Focke also reports having seen the new 1 1/2d stamp of Jamaica, overprinted "War Stamp" in two lines, as reported by Mr. Galbraith last week.

KIONGA.—Maury's Collectionneur de Timbres-Poste records a new issue of provisional stamps for the German Colony of Kinga Gebirge, which the Portuguese have invaded and added to their possessions around Lake Nyassa. The Portuguese authorities have issued four stamps all surcharged on the 100r dark blue on blue King Carlos stamps of the 1898 issue, surcharged "Republica". The word "Kionga" is placed at the lower left, the old value being obliterated by a small black square.

MEXICO.—Hermann Focke has also shown us the 5c of 1910, surcharged "G. P. de M.—25—Centavos" in ornamental frame as noted last week. At the present rate of exchange of 3 1/2 cents gold to the peso, the value of this stamp is only a little over eight-tenths of a cent.

S. B. Hopkins reports a provisional post card and a provisional wrapper, the surcharges being the same ornamental design as on the current provisional adhesives. On both the overprint is placed below, not on the stamp.

ROUMANIA.—Roumania has added two denominations to her war charity stamps overprinted "Timbru de Ajutor" (aid stamp) says the London Telegraph. These are the 1-liu brown of the issue of 1908, and the 5-lei, which is an overprint on a 5-lei red fiscal stamp, there being no postal denomination of 5-lei. These stamps, together with the five others already in circulation, are sold at a premium, and the supplementary charge is collected for the benefit of the families of Roumania's mobilised soldiers and for the refugee funds.

TUNIS.—Maury's Collectionneur de Timbres-Poste notes the issue of a series of Red Cross stamps on a different plan from any previously chronicled. The current stamps 15c to 5fr have been printed in new colors. These stamps have been overprinted a Red Cross and "10c", this being the face value available for postage, the contribution to the charity being the nominal value, which makes it of considerable value in the higher values.

DEATH OF JACQUES KREBS.

We are advised of the death of Jacques Krebs, the New York dealer who has been for many years a patron of our advertising columns. Mr. Krebs has been ill for some weeks and passed away Sept. 18. The Managing Editor on his visits to New York has called upon Mr. Krebs several times and found him a genial and companionable acquaintance. So far as his dealings with our subscribers are concerned, we do not recall that a single complaint has ever been filed against him.

ADLETS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

Advertising Chat

There is no man who does not think that he is less homely than he really is. It's born in us and sometimes we need to have a kind friend hand out to us an eye-opener.

So with the ad-writer. He looks upon the creation of his brain and in a burst of admiration says "Some stunt" but somehow the ad does not get the business. What is the matter? One of two reasons, that's all:—

(a) Goods are not seasonable.

(b) Prices are too high.

Around these eight words can be circled "failure." We know because our education came from experience. If your advt. does not get business ask yourself why and try another method. One thing is sure, you can't expect to sell many stamps when you advertise like this:—

Holland No. 3006 22c

Make it easy for the collector to buy from your advt.

We shall issue October 28 our "Season-Opener Special." It will breathe a spirit of activity that will arouse and intensify collecting enthusiasm. Bear in mind the date.

Already old advertisers are returning and new advertisers are coming to the front. This issue of itself indicates the trend of the season's business.

The announcement made elsewhere by F. P. Gibbs will explain any inattention to business that may have been charged against him in the past few weeks. Mr. Gibbs has been ill but is now on the mending hand, and a large accumulation of mail will be given immediate attention.

As per announcement elsewhere in this issue the Stamp Shop, Chicago, is compelled to suspend business for four weeks, due to unforeseen circumstances that have arisen. Mr. Eisendrath, the manager, was a recent caller at the WEEKLY office and expressed his great satisfaction with the business he has secured through WEEKLY patronage.

We do not make a practise of going out after general advertising. Occasionally an advertisement comes our way that we accept, and especially when the goods are offered by a well-known stamp man. W. F. Slusser has for the past year been located at Corregidor, P. I., and has advertised cigars regularly in our columns. This week a quarter page advertisement accompanied by the cash was received, and we felt constrained to meet his wishes with the desired publicity.

In writing us Mr. Slusser says:—"When I was ordered to the Philippine Islands many of my Key West customers asked me to supply them if possible with Manila cigars. I put the proposition up to one of the leading Manila manufacturers—explaining my philatelic connections—and he was so impressed with the possibility of securing business from the stamp trade that he offered a supply of his best cigars under an exclusive name. I have built up a large business through circulars mailed to stamp collectors and dealers and advertising in the philatelic press."

Information is wanted in regard to J. A. Yunker, 649 Jackson St., Louisville, Ky., and also F. H. Russell, 24 Henry St., Clinton, Mass. Interested parties will please write Mr. Ohlman, 75 Nassau St., N. Y. City.

Have your advg. copy in Saturday.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

members, Mr. George L. Toppan, was brought to the attention of the Society. Mr. Toppan had been both President and Secretary of the organization and his loss will be keenly felt by all who knew him, both as a member and a friend. An appeal was made for advice and suggestions for entertainment at our meetings, and it was voted that at the next regular meeting there should be an auction at which all who enter lots shall auction off a certain number of them, personally. These lots should be sent to the auctioneer, Mr. Wright, or to the Secretary on or before Saturday, Oct. 14th. The chairman then called upon different members present to talk on subjects which he suggested to them. Messrs. Howes, Barker, Clark, Dodge, Oscar Hill and Bail and Hurd spoke. There were 26 members present during the meeting, which adjourned at 10 p. m.

The total issue, of all values, was about 225,000 stamps; these were distributed throughout the territory controlled by the Oaxaca government,—all the central portion of the state. There were some stamps saved by collectors living in the city of Oaxaca, but as the supply was never equal to the demand for actual postal needs, it was impossible for anyone to get very many new ones, and the number that can be saved, of used ones, from a total issue of 225,000 is not large. Paper was so scarce that every possible scrap was used for some purpose, and there are no more accumulations of old papers, of any kind, left in Oaxaca.

An attempt was made to let a contract for a further printing, but it could not be done as there was no ink to be had. Work had already been begun on an engraved issue but was never completed.

Conditions were rapidly becoming worse; supplies of all kinds were impossible to get; the Oaxaca forces were out of ammunition,—they had been making their own,—the people were starving, and the Oaxaca forces finally withdrew from the city in February of 1916.

However, the story is not yet finished: the Indians who cut the throats of Figueroa and his band are not defeated as long as there is one left; they secured some more supplies and there have been several bloody battles; the Carrancistas have lost more heavily in Oaxaca than any place else and in July, 1916, though they had possession of the city of Oaxaca, as well as the sea coast and the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, they were practically bottled up and could do nothing. These Indians of the Oaxaca mountains will join and support any government that can bring order out of the chaos that exists in Mexico but, though they may starve in their mountains, they will never be conquered. They are still carrying on their legal government, as best they can, and fighting for existence.

CHAPTER X.—The Revenue Stamps.

As the regular supply of revenue stamps began to be exhausted it became necessary to make new ones. These were made with detachable talon,—as is customary with Mexican revenue stamps. The main part of the stamp bears the seal of Oaxaca, already described, and the inscription "Renta del Timbre, Estado L. & S. de OAXACA" with the value. The talon bears the inscription "Estado L. & S. de OAXACA" and the value. They were printed on whatever paper was obtainable,—very thin to very thick, ruled, plain and colored. They were mostly imperforate vertically, but where perforated are pin perforation 12. The set is:

- 1c red.
- 2c green.
- 5c brown.
- 10c blue.

There were but a few thousand made.

About Cigars...

The true fragrance of a high-grade Manila cigar can only be appreciated by those in a position to command this export service.

All smokers are interested in getting a good cigar at a fair price.

Manila cigars are, as a rule, excellent, and those of "EL TRIO" make are recommended as being decidedly better than one would expect for the money.

These cigars are made at Manila's largest and most sanitary factory, to my order, and under the "EL TRIO" name are now offered under a double guarantee to all discriminating smokers of fine cigars.

Brand	Shape	Box of	Price
T E R L I O	Excelentes (perfecto).....	25	$2.50
	Especiales (semi-blunt).....	25	2.00
	Manila Needles (panatela).....	50	2.50
	Club Specials (regalias).....	50	2.50

Special price for these three boxes, Once Only, $6.00.

All cigars are shipped to you direct, fresh from the factory, air tight, by Registered mail and with U. S. revenue paid. Quality, condition and delivery guaranteed. Please remit by postal money order only.

Orders received up to November 15 will be assured of Christmas delivery to any place in the United States. Letters reach Manila in 30 days.

To the ladies: The cigars you have been buying "him" each year have not always proven satisfactory. For your especial benefit I have had prepared a Holiday box containing 25 cigars, assorted sizes, which are the pick of Manila's best. You will make no mistake in ordering this. Sent anywhere in the United States, under the above conditions, for $2.75.

All cigars sold by me are strictly hand made, long filler, and of the choicest Philippine Islands leaf. They have twice the smoking value, cost for cost, as cigars sold in the United States. Circulars free.

Order right and smoke right. "El Trio"—the Cigar of no regrets.

NEW UNITED STATES LOOSE LEAF ALBUM

AN ALBUM SECOND TO NONE.

This Album is the only practical and feasible Loose Leaf Book on the market today. We have put this Album up in three sections so a collector is able to purchase such branches as he desires at a comparatively low cost. It is 9 inches long and 7 1/2 inches wide, very handy; there is but one set of stamps to a page artistically laid out. Spaces have been provided for imperforate and part perforate pairs and the beauty of all; it is right up to the minute. What is more we will add new leaves each year with spaces for the latest stamps and if you are an owner of one of our Albums, latest sheets will be promptly sent you when issued. After you have transferred your stamps into this Album, you cannot help realizing the great advantage in a practical up-to-date Album.

U. S. REVENUE STAMPS. DOCUMENTARY AND PROPRIETARY.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

FOREWORD.

The basis for nearly everything we know about our revenue stamps (except the beer, tobacco and other stamps which are commonly called tax paid), and particularly those adhesives first issued fifty odd years ago primarily in order to help defray the enormous cost of keeping these states of America united, is contained in the records of the engraving and printing firm of Butler & Carpenter of Philadelphia and other contractors who succeeded them in the work of printing the various documentary and proprietary stamps which we are accustomed to call the Civil War revenues.

From these records Messrs. Hiram E. Deats, Alexander Holland and the late George L. Toppan, with the assistance of many collectors and dealers who loaned specimens of the stamps compiled a history of United States Revenues, a most comprehensive work of over four hundred large pages, which was published in Boston in 1899, and is usually spoken of as the Boston Revenue Book. The Scott Stamp & Coin Company has kindly given its permission that data in the Boston book may be used in this article and the writer wishes to extend his thanks for the courtesy. The reader, therefore, is referred to the Boston book for descriptive details, official correspondence and much other matter which, though interesting, it is unnecessary to re-publish, since to include more than the main facts with some notes and comment would make this story too lengthy.

CHAPTER I.—First Issue.

Butler & Carpenter's first contract with the Treasury Department ran for one year, from October 1, 1862, and they were notified of the department's acceptance of their bid on August 8, immediately preceding. On September 27, they made their first delivery of stamps—the one cent proprietary in red and the two cent proprietary in orange. Originally it had been intended to print the one cent stamps in black, but owing to the ease with which black could be photographed and the difficulty in effectively cancelling black stamps, red was decided upon. Although yellow, or orange, was not open to these objections, the yellow stamps met with considerable criticism and soon, (October 10, 1862?), the color of the two cent stamps was changed to blue and all of this denomination were printed in blue until August, 1864, when all except the two cent proprietary, were again printed in orange, and this arrangement was continued until the series went out of use.

Unless a few happened to slip through by accident, all the stamps delivered by the contractors up to within a day or two of November 7, 1862, were completely perforated. On that date Butler & Carpenter acknowledged the receipt of a telegram instructing them to fill all requisitions for stamps with the utmost dispatch without perforating and the correspondence between them and the department indicates clearly that their facilities for perforating were inadequate to keep up with the demand for stamps and that for some time thereafter they were obliged to include some "unfinished stamps", that is, imperforate or partly perforate, in their deliveries. It is thus evident that the imperforate and partly perforate stamps were not distinct issues and were not issued before the completely perforated stamps, but were issued along with perforated stamps after the latter had been in use about five weeks.

It is impossible to state how long this condition lasted or whether it was continuous or intermittent. There is good reason to believe it was continuous until the middle of 1863, if not longer, as will be shown later. Undoubted imperforates cancelled in 1864 are frequently seen but is the size of the special delivery stamp of China, now obsolete, Scott's No. 277. It is the biggest stamp of the world and is a hard thing to get complete. We believe one has five years imprisonment or something if one has them unused. Anyway we're not in China and we have the stamp.

unfortunately cancellations on these revenues do not prove anything. There is an unsevered strip of imperforates on part of an original document in existence, each stamp cancelled in the usual manner and dated 1872, and stamps cancelled as early as 1857 have been noted. Often there were legal or other reasons for back dating cancellations and stamps were frequently not used until a long time after they had been issued.

Following are the dates of the first deliveries of the various stamps to the department. All titles and denominations not given were first delivered during October, November and December, 1862.

Certain stamps may have been first issued imperforate or partly perforate, and some probably were, but there is no way of ascertaining the truth in any individual case, for, as will be seen by the above table, the first deliveries of most of the different stamps were made to the department during the last three months of 1862 and it is known that until some time after May 15, 1863, imperforate stamps were still being delivered, for the $50 stamp was first delivered on that date and it is well known imperforate. Eight other stamps first issued in 1863 are also well known imperforate, but of the remaining five varieties first issued after 1863 only one, the $200 stamp, is known imperforate. The $200 was first delivered more than a year after the first $50 stamps and about twenty months after the order to Butler & Carpenter to deliver unfinished stamps was given. Whether this indicates that Butler & Carpenter were unable to completely perforate all the stamps printed until after July, 1864, or that the perforating machines fell behind for a while at about that time, the reader will have to decide for himself. Perhaps there was another reason for issuing some of the $200 stamps imperforate. It is rather odd, however, that the records do not indicate the delivery or the return of any imperforate $200 stamps.

Another circumstance should be borne in mind in this connection—many stamps delivered by Butler & Carpenter in imperforate or part perforate condition were not so issued by the department, but were "returned for perforation" and issued later when finished, or perhaps in some cases destroyed. The records are either incorrect or incomplete in regard to a number of the stamps, as for instance, the $15 Mortgage, where there appears to have been an imperforate supply of 162, of which 90 were returned for perforation, leaving 72 imperforates—less than the number of imperforate copies known to exist. The 40c Inland Exchange and 50c Entry of Goods present just the opposite situation, particularly the 40c stamp. There seem to have been 86,730 imperforates, of which 204 were returned for perforation, leaving 86,526, an unbelievably large amount, since very few copies with satisfactory margins are known and no record of a block or horizontal pair can be found. As both this stamp and the 50c Entry of Goods are common part perforate, it is at least possible most or all of these stamps were delivered and issued part perforate and not imperforate. Either way they would have been recorded as "unfinished".

The one cent proprietary is not now catalogued imperforate, but some of the 794,045 unfinished stamps delivered were issued imperforate as is shown by two pairs seen. These, though vertical, have satisfactory side margins, and single copies with large margins all around are also known. One of these latter evidently came from a partly perforated sheet which had been run through the perforating machine in such a manner that part of the sheet escaped perforation. Occurrences of this sort may account for other apparent discrepancies in the records. The two cent Bank Check in orange is not known imperforate and in all probability none were ever issued imperforate or part perforate. The color was changed to blue before any unfinished stamps of any values were delivered.

Referring to the list of dates of first issues, there is only one small stamp, (values 1c to 20c), first issued after Dec. 31, 1862, that is known imperforate or part perforate, the 3c Playing Cards. The records show not over 7,000 of this stamp delivered imperforate, and it is so rare that the number actually issued was probably much less. The other small stamps first issued in 1863 are not known to exist otherwise than completely perforated. Possibly some of the 9,000 unfinished 5c Playing Cards or the 17,000 unfinished 4c Playing Cards in the vault at one time were issued—if so they are not known to collectors. However, comparatively large quantities of the 4c and 6c Inland Exchange were delivered and issued commencing May 12, 1863, and the records make no mention of either of them existing unfinished.

Is the situation regarding the large stamps (values 25c and over), first issued in 1863 similar to that of the small denominations just mentioned? Not at all! Every one of the large stamps first issued after December 31, 1862, is well known imperforate.

From all these facts we may deduce—(1) that after December, 1862, the perforating machines were able to keep very close to the demand for the small stamps, and (2) that the perforating facilities were inadequate most of the time from November, 1862, until the latter part of May, 1863, at the very earliest, for the large stamps. Then it is reasonably safe to state that the unfinished small stamps were nearly all delivered in November and December, 1862, and that most of the unfinished larger stamps were probably delivered during the six months between November, 1862, and June, 1863. Going further along the line of logical sequence, it may be assumed that the same reasons prompting the department to require and accept un-

TWO KINGS OF SIAM.

By J. B. CHILDS.

Somdet Phra Paramendr Maha Chulalongkorn (issues from 1883 to 1910) was only thirteen when his father, the king of Siam, died, leaving him heir to the throne. His education continued in charge of an English teacher for five years, until he assumed the kingship. He was thirty when the first postage stamps were issued in 1883. Continuing along the plan of his instruction he undertook many reforms but, like all reformers, he met with obstacles, two of them. The upper classes, jealous of his endeavor to deprive them of their privileges, indignantly stood in his way when he attempted to set up law courts with the principle of justice to all, when he tried to devise more efficient methods of collecting and administering revenue, when he proposed to abolish slavery. And boundary troubles with France arose, in the course of which Siam lost a large tract of territory on the east. Then after the settlement of this matter he ceded a strip of land on the south to Great Britain in order to further diplomatic relations. Peace with her two European neighbors had cost Siam a large amount of territory.

But still King Chulalongkorn in the course of his reign of forty-two years managed to accomplish a few internal reforms, the most important of which was probably the abolition of slavery. It was almost wholly under his reign that the postal system, limited as it is (there being in 1914 only 160 post offices in the entire country with a total staff of 700), has grown up, principally because of Chulalongkorn's interest in the construction of railways. Also he attempted to settle the constant fluctuation of the currency by establishing a fixed standard of gold, but his efforts were not entirely successful. Sometimes the rates of exchange fluctuated, so that the value of the stamps used for foreign postage was insufficient for the satisfactory settling of postal accounts with the other countries. Consequently a change in the postal rates for foreign mail had to be made, nearly always necessitating a surcharging of the current issue. And these occasions have been fairly frequent.

The position of King Chulalongkorn among the rulers of the various countries was unique in that he was the only one to publicly support the religion of Buddha. Of Buddhism the most important emblem is the Chakra, or Wheel of Life, the design of the watermark in the issue of 1887. The soles of the feet of Buddha each possessed 108 marks of importance, the chief of which was the Chakra, and it is always regarded as belonging to the sacred footprints. A legend says that at one time Buddha crossed the country at one stride, leaving a footprint in the hills of central Siam. Altho this hole in the rock has little resemblance to a human foot and does not even possess the Chakra, large pilgrimages are made to the Temple of Phrabat at the beginning of each year.

The Wheel of Life was adopted as the chief symbol of the religion, because of the resemblance to the ceaseless rotation of living matter from being into non-being and from non-being into being; and it really represents the philosophy of Buddhism in that life is an eternal circle moving according to fixed and unchangeable laws. Also it symbolizes the Buddhist doctrine of cause and effect rotating over the surface of the earth. The six spokes represent the six forms of existence possible to living beings, in either one of the three hells, or of the four lower worlds, or of the twenty-six heavens—gods, men, demons, animals, ghosts, and beings undergoing torment in the hells. The Chakra was placed on the soles of Buddha's feet, because it was thought that all things belong to, or are subject to him. But Siam is becoming more or less Europeanized. On the death of Chulalongkorn in October, 1910, his son, whose name in full is Somdet Phra Paramendr Maha Vajiravudh Phra Mongkut Klao (issue of 1912), ascended to the throne. At the age of thirteen he was sent to Europe to be educated, but spent most of his time in England. He attended the Royal Military College, Sandhurst, and later went up to Oxford where he studied history at Christ Church College. By 1902 this Siamese Prince was sufficiently steeped in European history to be able to publish a book entitled "The War of the Polish Succession". Before returning home he visited a number of European countries, and made a tour of the United States. He was at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, held at St. Louis in 1904. After his return to Siam he assumed command of the Royal Foot Guards, and was otherwise connected with the army.

Upon the death of his father in 1910 he ordered the nation to go into mourning for one year. The next April his father was cremated; and towards the end of this term of mourning notices were sent out to some of the more important countries asking them to send representatives to be present at the coronation. On December 2, 1911, Maha Vajiravudh crowned himself in the presence of the foreign envoys and of the native nobility.

The present King of Siam is said to have been a stamp-collector for many years and presumably is at present one of the royal followers of philately.

WHO HAS THEM?

I notice in your editorial of August 26th that the Philatelic delegates were entertained by Director Ralph of the Board of Printing & Engraving and a large number of coils was gone over in a search for plate numbers.

TWENTIETH CENTURY MEXICO RARITIES

If you have tried in vain to get these elsewhere, try me. More than likely I can fill your want as I have the largest stock in the world of these issues, from the first Sonoras down to the latest G. P. de M. surcharges.

COUNTERFEITS EXAMINED.—Many counterfeit stamps of these issues have found their way into collections, first and second issue Sonora without and with fake embossing and "canceled" with 1914 dies, 2 kinds of Victoria de Torreon fake surcharges, counterfeit Caranza and Villa GCM's, and "Ejercitos" "used" by the rebels in certain towns which on the date of the cancellation had not yet been conquered by them from the Huertistas. A good deal of this stuff came from a certain source in the West, but other fakes have been offered in the East and from Mexico.

In order to help you rid your collection from this trash, I will examine all stamps submitted at the low rate of 5% on catalogue value and mark each stamp found genuine with a small guarantee sign and the counterfeits as counterfeits, if so desired.

I do not examine any rubber surcharges.

Change—We are enabled to give the information that a new set of wines and cordials stamps will soon be distributed from Washington and that in the meantime the use of the old stamps will be continued according to instructions proceeding from the treasury department to the internal revenue offices throughout the country.

* * *

Many—A reader, Mr. Milton D. Smith, has shown an interest in the discussion of the lavish use of small denominations on an envelope to make up a considerable postage value; and he has taken the trouble to show us the face of a large cover that bears eighty-five stamps of the two, five and ten cent denominations to make up the postage charge of less than three dollars. The mail was sent from Washington to Chicago.

Wreath—The memorial to George Lunt Toppan in the American Philatelist by his friend, Alex. Holland, was a worthy tribute and wholly deserved. We notice that Mr. Holland said that Mr. Toppan became interested in stamps about the time he came to Chicago. We first met Mr. Toppan in 1890 or 1891 and if we are not mistaken he referred to a collection that belonged to his father from which he had obtained a number of scarce British colonials sometime before; but even then, Mr. Toppan was studying entire United-States envelopes with the keenness of mind that finally was to advance him to the seat of premiership in the field of U. S. envelopes. About fifteen years ago, Mr. Toppan was on the point of identifying himself with the publishers of the WEEKLY, but the connection was never made actually. As we have said before, philately was made the richer by Mr. Toppan's allegiance and in a personal sense we feel that we have lost a friend most loyal.

Stampless—In a lot of envelopes taken from business mail from South America, we have found a half-dozen of the envelopes from Colombia and Venezuela in 1912 and 1913, without stamps, but with written or stamped impressions on the order of the following: "Certifico que no hay estampillas. La Agente Unacceptable—From Sandoz, Nebraska, Mr. Jules A. Sandoz sends us a curiosity in the shape of a two cent, 1902, flag type, without perforations, that was used on a letter addressed to him from the Remington Arms Co., Ilion, New York, with the postmark, April 14, 1904. We speak of this cover to say that a single imperforate stamp of an issue that comes normally only in perforated condition is not accepted as proving original imperforation, even though its appearance as an imperforate may seem entirely plausible. While in days gone by, authorities were more tolerant and took the "imperforate" of the stamp that was issued perforated at its own estimate, the tendency now is to reject the single stamp as making a case even though as in the Ilion, N. Y. instance, the specimen seems to be above suspicion. The flag type, two cent, was not issued, as its successor was, imperforate. We may add that one of the most popular pastimes of our readers is to submit to us wide-margined specimens, imperforate, of stamps of perforated issues with a triumphant little air. Surely, perforations could not have been clipped with the resultant wide margins, they argue, but those who know how erratically the perforations act in some instances say that anything is possible in this regard. The pair's the thing to prove imperforation.

Modest—Another question that is a time-honored one is based on the hope in the owner's mind that a certain uncatalogued stamp that he has in his possession has not been known heretofore and consequently is of excessive rarity. Usually, it is a foreign fiscal, German local or label of some sort that inspires the roseate view which it sometimes is difficult to dispel with coldly logical explanation. It is to be said that governments did not consider lightly the issue of a postage stamp. As a rule there was an official record of it from its inception to its fruition. True, in the case of a few provisionals that are admittedly legitimate in a philatelic sense there seems to be no reference to them "on the books" yet the instances are so isolated as to be negligible. It is safe to say that all postage stamps issued in the past are "known" and that the pickings of a latter-day Columbus would not sustain a humming-bird. The "unknown" stamp does not get a second view nowadays as the general belief is that there is no such thing.

Defined—"My idea of an optimist," says a philosophic reader, "is the chap who, when in doubt as to which stamp his really is, the high-priced one or the variety worth a few cents, immediately jumps to the conclusion that it is the expensive one. I and many others of a less assertive nature always choose the cheap priced stamp,—but perhaps this is merely a species of timidity or conservativeness, if you want to use the word."

* * *

Pumpkin—Very seasonably and we were about to say, appropriately, Mr. L. C. Hassler, Louisville, Ky., sends, with his compliments, a copy of the two cent, 1890, with a "pumpkin head" cancellation in black. We have seen many pumpkin heads on preceding issues but not heretofore on one so recent as this. With this, we shall step aside for Mr. Wm. G. Windhurst, Marion, Ohio, who speaks: "The article in the issue of September 2nd on Cancellation Designs is most interesting; I've been wanting some elucidation on that point. High-brow stuff is all right and is needed for accurate reference; but these human interest articles have a touch of personality that charms." We shall see that further articles on U. S. cancellations are forthcoming.

* * *

Up—Several of our readers have notified us of the use of high values. A bank officer says that over five dollars in postage is often used by his bank in sending currency to other banks. A business man writes that until recently, he had occasion frequently to use first class postage to the limit on both domestic and foreign matter. Further examples of the use of five to ten dollars in stamps are referred to in some number.

CHAPTER IX.—Adlets Advertising.

The "adlets column" or classified advertising columns are designed principally for use by the small advertiser who cannot afford to use the displayed space. The fundamental rules of advertising require that attention be attracted, then the story told as attractively and briefly as possible. Of course adlets advertising does not permit of the use of screaming headlines to draw the attention of the reader, but the opening of the advertisement should be based on the same rules as outlined for display space. By using a "catchy" opening, the attention of the reader is attracted as he glances over the column. After his attention is drawn, the story should be told as concisely as possible, lest he seek further without reading. Bear in mind in preparing copy that the reader is not going to read every word of the column, any more than you yourself read all the want-ads in the evening paper. He may skim hastily through the column looking for something of interest (as many interesting things are often found there) but unless you can draw his eye and then hold his attention, your efforts are wasted.

In Writing Adlets,

it is often the aim of the dealer to cram as much matter as possible into as small a space as possible, hence many abbreviations are used, many of which are unintelligible to the average reader. Here is a good example of what not to have in advertising copy: (This adv. actually appeared in a Western paper not long ago.)

C.Z. 40 @ 8c, 44 @ 5c.

Very f. ap. 60% Nice Stk Cf

Lists wtd. Blank Stamp Co.

This copy was intended apparently to reach only those readers who were gifted with ability to solve puzzles. With a little work the reader might make out the facts that certain Canal Zone stamps were offered and that 60% discount approvals were to be had. Just what impression the reader would get from the "Nice Stk Cf," is unknown. Personally, I think it denotes a nice stock of counterfeits, though I am advised that it refers to Confederates. This is the type of ad that the dealer writes while he is eating his lunch, and then wonders why he gets no results from his advertising. Of course, the paper is at fault. The fact that the Company gets $50.00 worth of business from a $2.00 ad makes no difference. The dealer does not see how it can be done. The only way it can be done is with the aid of headwork. In writing copy concentrate your mind on the job, and work out the copy by writing it up on a piece of scratch paper. Then look at it from the reader's point of view. If you still think it is satisfactory and will attract, then see that it is as concise as possible. Rewrite it until all superfluous words are eliminated. At the same time, use care that the fundamental points are not omitted.

Don't Crowd Your Copy.

You are advertising to get results. Spend a few cents more if necessary, or cut out some of the copy. Don't run so much in a small space that a jumbled mess like the preceding example results. Remember that advertising is one of the most important features of your business and one of the hardest to handle efficiently. These remarks apply to all branches of advertising.

Many of the dealers have gotten good results by writing little one, two or three line ads and running them in different locations in the same issue. This idea is good for the reason that it creates a number of impressions on the mind of the reader where one large ad only creates one. Often more results will be gained from three or four of these little ads than from one large one of the same space.

Really, the best way to learn to write good advertising copy is to study the copy of others. As you read this paper, you will be impressed by certain advertisements. Some will appeal to you, because they are original and "catchy." Some will interest you because of the bargains offered. Some will be ineffective because they have nothing to offer you, or are so poorly written that you will hesitate to patronize a house that cannot make its bid for your favor the way it should be made.

Remember that at all times you are facing competition; so make your advertising distinctive. Put your personality back of it. If you can see your way clear to do it (and as will be explained later, every dealer can do it) give a premium with your goods. Make your line just as different from the other fellow's as you can, and beat his quality or prices or both. Then, pick out all the good points of your line and let the people know about them. In writing copy, it is a good plan to such as, "My books are the finest on earth," or "the only perfect series in America." Every one with the common sense required in collecting stamps will know that you are handing yourself a few bouquets. How do you know that some other dealer has not excelled your line? You do not know, hence you cannot truthfully claim that your books are the finest in the world. Therefore, the reader will put you down for a liar and who wants to do business with a liar?

In writing the above remarks, I note my own advertisement wherein I claim that my books are in the "finest possible condition." This phrase is also quite frequently used, but note the difference. I do not claim that my books are the finest in existence or any such rot. I merely state that the stamps are in the finest condition possible to be secured, and the reader will know that a hundred or a thousand other dealers could, if they chose, offer stamps in as good condition, and that a great many do offer them just that way. In short, I am not trying to impress the reader that I have exclusive rights to all the fine copies on earth, merely that I share them with other dealers.

Also, avoid the use of the first person as much as possible. It is sad to relate, but a great many dealers use their space to tell the public how nice they are and how much better they can serve their customers than the next fellow. Cut out the "I" whenever possible. Instead of saying "I offer you a superb line of approvals, which I have designed to please you," say, "You will be pleased with my new approvals." The world dislikes a person who is gifted as his own publicity agent.

The Secret of Success lies in calling the buyer's attention to the goods without exploiting the remarkable feats accomplished by the dealer in offering the stock. Instead of patting yourself on the back, in print, make the buyer think he is the only spoke in the wheel. He likes to be complimented just as well as you do, and when you compliment him, it will bring you his favor. The little "I" should be relegated to the cannery. Let the customer talk about you, and it will pay you far better.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—S. E. Colman sends us the new 1c and 2c stamps on unwatermarked paper. The former was placed on sale in Washington, Sept. 27, and was printed from plate No. 7656. The 2c was placed on sale Sept. 25 at 3.30 p. m. in the same city, as was from plate No. 7639. The 1c shown is a clear blue green. Both are perforated 10.

Adhesives.

On Unwatermarked Paper.
1c blue green.

J. Arthur Wainwright reports having found a 2c Columbian stamp from the bottom row of a sheet, imperforate at ends and bottom. Mr. Wainwright also favors us with a copy of the tag receipt for cottonseed meal, issued by the North Carolina Department of Agriculture, black on orange, and dated "1913."

J. C. Mulliken, Jr., shows us the error of the 2c postage stamp of 1898, overprinted "I. R." The period after the "I" is broken so as to appear as perfect period, though a little above what would be the normal place. This was noted years ago, but so long as to have been before the remembrance of most of the younger collectors. This error which was never recognized by Scott, occurs but once in each sheet, always in the same place, in the top plate number strip.

We are indebted to Kendall P. Smith for information regarding a new envelope, included in Mr. Bartels' list.

AUSTRIA.—Offices in Russian Poland. Stanley R. Massman reports that the 2, 6, 10 and 20h newspaper stamps of Bosnia must be added to the list overprinted K. U. K. Feldpost for use in Russian Poland.

CHILE.—The Edgewood Stamp Co. has shown us the 2c scarlet type of Scott's A33, re-engraved and typographed, like the 10c recently chronicled. Like the 10c, the design suffers greatly in the re-engraving, the cross-hatching in the background, both in and outside the portrait oval being omitted, the figures and inscriptions being different, while the hair and beard are almost solid masses of color. The stars in the upper corners are larger, while the color is a pale, washed-out imitation of the full rich color of the engraved stamps.

Adhesive.

2c pale scarlet.

DOMINICA.—J. A. Galbraith submits a cover from this island franked with the new War Tax stamps, the ½d green view stamps having been overprinted "War Tax—One Halfpenny" in small, medium condensed Gothic capitals, in carmine.

War Tax Stamp.

½d on ½d green; surcharge carmine.

GERMANY.—Ludwig Simon submits a cover from Elsterberg, Germany, under date of Aug. 1, which came via Holland, was opened and examined and resealed by English Censor 4147, and franked with the new 2½pf gray, 7½pf orange yellow and 15pf yellow brown stamps, as announced in No. 1341. They are printed on watermarked paper, like the previous values.

Offices in Russia.—Stanley R. Massman informs us that the three stamps noted above, as well as the 50pf and 1m stamps of the regular issue, have been overprinted "Postgebiet Ob. Ost." for use in Russian provinces occupied by the German Army.

Offices in Belgium.—Mr. Massman reports having seen several denominations of the German stamps, surcharged for use in Belgium, with the new "Cent." form of the surcharge.

Offices in Warsaw.—Mr. Massman also reports having seen the new 2½, 7½ and 15pf stamps overprinted "Gen. Gouv. Warchau."

NEW ZEALAND.—Scott's Circular says: We have seen the 2p and 3p King George issue on the paper of the 2½p and 9p of the pictorial issue of 1902-07. The 6p is also reported on this paper. Like the 1½p which we described some months ago, the stamps and watermarks do not fit, because the latter are placed too far apart for the smaller stamps even when the sheets are turned so that the watermarks are sideways, as is done for the 2, 3 and 6p. Consequently some rows of the stamps show only small portions of the watermark and others none at all.

ST. LUCIA.—J. A. Galbraith has shown us the new War Tax stamps from this Colony. The 1d scarlet King George stamps have been overprinted "War Tax" in tall thin Gothic capitals, in black.

War Tax Stamp.

TURKEY.—Scott's Circular says: This country is keeping well to the front with its output of new varieties of stamps. Our chronicle this month includes quite a list of newly reported things, mostly charity stamps with a new type of surcharge having a star with five points instead of six. In the philatelic press we find conflicting reports about several other issues. One journal states that a new series of stamps is being prepared in Vienna; another says the stamps are already issued, that they show a view of the Pera post office and commemorate the fifteenth anniversary of its establishment; while a third journal reduces the issue to one stamp and states it is "yet to come."

Equal uncertainty attends a series said to be surcharged "Tursina" in Arabic and intended to celebrate the occupation by the Turkish forces of Egyptian territory near Mount Sinai. The Monthly Circular states that the correct rendition of the surcharge is "Tur-i-Sina," i. e., "Monastery of Sinai." It is denied that the territory has been occupied and even that the expedition has started. Nevertheless the stamps are offered for sale in Europe both unused and used—perhaps it would be more correct to say cancelled.

Lastly we hear that a new series of provisional and charity stamps is soon to appear, with surcharges which include the date "1332" instead of the present "1331." It is stated that this new output is to have a modest total of 105 stamps.

Stanley R. Massman reports a series of stamps overprinted "10 Tammus 1332" for special use on the National Holiday, July 10-23, 1916, but omits to say what particular stamps are used for this service.

VIRGIN ISLANDS.—We have received from J. A. Galbraith a cover from Road Town, Tortola, V. I., via St. Thomas, franked with ½d King George Virgin Islands stamps in the new blue green shade.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—A recent caller at the office of the WEEKLY was T. C. Mann of St. Louis. Mr. Mann is connected with the Antrim Lumber Co. of St. Louis and has been a reader of the WEEKLY for nearly a score of years.

—If unable to buy a money order when renewing your subscription please remit in stamps in denominations from 4c to 10c. These can be more easily cashed by us than the 1c and 2c values.

—When renewing your subscription add to your remittance sufficient to cover a goodly order from our list of books. Encourage us in our effort to popularize philatelic literature, and at the same time build up a nice little philatelic library.

—The death is announced of J. H. Telfer of the firm of Plumridge & Co. of London. Mr. Telfer died August 28. He was one of the leading figures in the London stamp trade and particularly so from the auction standpoint.

—We have received from Mrs. E. W. Oughtred no fewer than four different Jamaica Red Cross labels:—(1) Red cross at top and aeroplane at bottom, no lettering, all in red; (2) aeroplane at top and cross at bottom, both in red, and "Jamaica" in black in the middle of the label; (3) same as last but all in red; (4) same as No. 2 but with value "Half-Penny" in black horizontally across the lower part of the stamp.

—G. A. Hanlon has returned from the Mexican border and will attend to matters in connection with his former stamp business as soon as possible. He writes that he has an accumulation of three months' correspondence to deal with.

—We are informed by LeRoy Sours, replying to a question recently raised in the WEEKLY in connection with the insuring of stamp collections, that in his opinion any Minnesota standard policy can be made to cover postage stamps. Mr. Sours gives the particulars of his experience with a local agency which indicates that the arrangement was effected with very little difficulty.

ADLETS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

ELIMINATING THE POSTAGE STAMP.

(The clipping from the "Scientific American" will be of interest to stamp collectors though the WEEKLY has already referred to the fact that such a meter as described is in existence. Upon request for official data from the P. O. Department at Washington we were favored with the annexed reply from the Third Assistant Postmaster General.—Ed.)

There has lately been placed in service by several American firms with unusually heavy mailings a postage meter which, instead of affixing the usual postage stamps on mail matter, makes an impression in the upper right-hand corner. The new postal meter performs several tasks, such as sealing, stamping, facing and counting approximately 250 pieces of mail matter per minute. The envelopes, unsealed and unstamped, are placed in a compartment of the machine much in the same manner as they would be placed in a box, the mechanism handling the envelopes automatically from that point. The stamping mechanism not only makes an impression on the envelopes, but also counts, the numbers

A haze on the far horizon,
The infinite tender sky,
The ripe, rich tint of the cornfields,
And the wild geese sailing high,
And all over upland and lowland
The charm of the golden-rod—
Some of us call it Autumn,
But others call it God.
—William H. Carruth.

The month of October is indeed a glorious month, and it's a good month for the stamp collector, for the mind readily turns to the stamp collection and its treasures and pleasures. The columns of the WEEKLY already reflect great activity in the stamp trade and there is every reason to believe that this year will be the best ever.

Saturday, October 28, we shall issue our "Season-Opener Special". It will be full of good things and both collector and dealer will profit by its publication.

We offer a quarter page (12 inches) for $17.50, a price that cannot be equalled considering the service that we give. If you are not now advertising in the WEEKLY write us for contract terms. Adlet space can be procured at 15c per line on a fifty-line contract for continuous use.

C. J. Gregory, 66 New St., N. Y. City, is with us for the season. He will be remembered as a former advertiser in the WEEKLY and his offerings will be of interest.

A pricelist of Canada stamps at retail and wholesale, also accessories of various kinds has been received from the Hobby Club of Winnipeg, Canada. While the booklet will be of particular interest to those interested in Canada stamps, the general collector will find in it sufficient to warrant getting it.

Complaints have been received against Virgil K. Yowell, 2937a Hickory St., St. Louis, Mo., and interested parties are advised to communicate with J. C. Jay, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa. Mr. Jay has a particularly strong case against Yowell and upon receipt of any further available information will lay the entire facts before the postal inspector of the St. Louis district.

Vahan Moizan will hold his 12th auction sale Saturday, October 21, and in the catalog we note no fewer than 179 lots of Mexico in Sonora, Villa and Carranza issues. It will be interesting to note the prices realized on these stamps, which have been expertized by A. O. Tittmann.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

appearing in a descending serial on top of the stamping meter. The meter is so made that its mechanism can only be adjusted by the postoffice authorities, who set it for the number of impressions the user has paid for. When that number of impressions is exhausted, the meter automatically locks and no longer stamps mail matter, necessitating its return to the postoffice for readjustment. —Scientific American.

The letter received from the P. O. Dept. in connection with the above clipping is very particular to state that a meter such as indicated cannot be used for first class mail. We quote:—

While this Department has conducted a test of a machine of the kind described, in connection with the mailing of printed matter of the third class without stamps affixed, the machine has not been approved or adopted by this Department.

The test showed that the advantages resulting from the use of such a device and the system of collecting postage contemplated thereby may be obtained in connection with the method of mailing certain matter of the second class and that of the third and fourth classes without stamps affixed, which is now and has been in successful operation for many years. However, if any persons or concerns desire to use a device like the one referred to in the clipping in connection with their mailings of the classes of matter named, under the conditions governing the acceptance of such mailings without stamps affixed, for the purpose of imprinting thereon the requisite indicia and keeping count of the mailings for their own information, the Department has no objection thereto. This office does not know whether any persons or concerns are using the machine for this purpose.

I may add that a machine of this character cannot be used for letters or other mail of the first class as the law requires that postage thereon shall be prepaid by stamps affixed, and, therefore, the machine may be used only for matter mailed under the provisions of the law embodied in section 459, Postal Laws and Regulations.

POSTAGE STAMPS OF THE CANAL ZONE.

Revised for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

By WILLIAM EVANS.

CHAPTER XV.—Official and Registered Letter Seals.

Official Seal—The official seal was issued in 1906. Its design is similar to that of the current seal of the United States with the head of Liberty as the central design surrounded by an oval frame. At each side is a straight label bearing the words "OFFICIALLY" at the left and "SEALED" at the right in white letters. In a curve above are the words "POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT" in colored letters, and below are the words "CANAL ZONE GOVERNMENT" also in colored letters. The background is made up of fine diagonal curved lines, and small ovals arranged in vertical rows. An oblong frame with rounded corners surrounds the whole design. The color is blue. The size of the seal is 24 mm. by 39 mm. They were issued in sheets of eight in two vertical rows of four, and are not gummed. The sheets are imperforate on the edges.

The spacing between the seals is 2 mm. In 1910 the size of the seals was reduced a trifle, to 23 mm. by 38 mm. and the spacing between them was made 1/2 mm. The color was also changed to ultramarine.

Registered Letter Seal—In 1906 there was in use at Cristobal a perfortea label which was placed upon registered letters originating at that office, and also upon those in transit. These labels were used on outgoing letters.

The design is a simple oblong, formed by lines 1/2 mm. wide. It is 39 mm. long by 14 1/2 mm. wide, and is divided into four parts by three rules, one vertical, 6 1/2 mm. from the left end, and two horizontal. These two rules form two oblongs, each of which is 4 1/2 mm. wide and a third one 5 1/2 mm. wide. At the left is a large "R". In the upper oblong the words "UNITED STATES OF AMERICA", in the middle one "CRISTOBAL, C. Z.", and in the bottom one "NO." The color is vermilion and the paper is very thin and transparent. The number is in most instances stamped in with a numbering machine in blue ink. The label is perforated 15. Previous to the use of this label the same design was hand-stamped upon the envelope, and since the supply became exhausted the hand stamp has been used. The measurements differ slightly from the printed label and the ink is of various colors.

Special Delivery—No special delivery service is maintained in the Zone, but letters bearing the U. S. special delivery stamps, upon their arrival in the States, are delivered by the messenger of this service here.

CHAPTER XVI.—Stationery.

Stamped Envelopes—It was not until 1916 that the authorities decided to issue stamped envelopes for use in the Canal Zone. Whether this delay was due to lack of a demand for them or to some other cause has not been revealed. At any rate for nearly twelve years after the first use of adhesive stamps was begun, no envelopes were provided.

The first issue was of two values, one and two centesimos de balboa. The paper of the envelopes is white wove, and the designs of the stamps are the same as those of the adhesives of the same values of the ninth series. The surcharge was applied at the Mount Hope printing plant and is in block type. Thirty thousand of the one centesimo de balboa and forty thousand of the two centesimos de balboa was the initial order for these envelopes. The size is 165 mm. by 93 mm. They were first reported in May, 1916.

Postal Cards—There have been two issues of postal cards for the Canal Zone. The first appeared in 1907. The card used was the Panama two centavos. The stamp is of the same design as the two centavos rose, of the third series of postage stamps with the name of the American Bank Note Co. beneath the design.

The surcharge is in antique type like that used upon the seventh series of postage stamps and is printed in black. The words "CANAL ZONE" read upward. Between them is the value "1ct".

Several errors of this surcharge are known. There is a double surcharge upon the stamp; a double surcharge, one of which is upon the stamp, and the other is reversed in the lower left corner; a triple surcharge, two of which are upon the stamp, and the third is reversed in the lower left corner; and a single surcharge reversed in the lower left corner, but none on the stamp.

Reference List.

1c on 2c rose, black surcharge.
a—surcharge double.
b—surcharge double, one normal, the other reversed in lower left corner.
c—surcharge triple, two on stamp, one reversed in lower left corner.
d—no surcharge on stamp but one reversed in lower left corner.

In 1908 a different card was issued. This time the card used was the one centesimo de balboa of Panama with stamp of the same design as that of the same value of the seventh series of adhesive stamps. The "CANAL ZONE" surcharge is in antique type reading downward, but the type is smaller than that used on the first postal card. The surcharge of the value is omitted. Two errors of this card have been reported, viz., a double surcharge, and one reversed in the lower left corner with the one on the stamp missing. In the latter part of November, or the first part of December, 1910, this card was issued with the New York surcharge.

Reference List.

1c de b. green. Local surcharge.
a—surcharge double.
b—no surcharge on stamp but one reversed in lower left corner.
1c de b. green. New York surcharge.

SOME PRECANCEL NOTES.

By DR. W. I. MITCHELL.

Wichita is beginning to use precancelled dues; have the 3c perf. 12 inverted and 2c perf. 10 normal. These are in the small type used Xmas 1914, not the electrolyte plate type.

One out of every 10 stamps of the current small type Northampton, Mass., has the name spelled "Northampton." This occurs on the regular issue 1c to 30 inclusive and the 75c parcel post.

Barron, Wis., seem very difficult to pick up. Have only been able to get the 8 and 10 cent normal and the 4 cent inverted. Would be glad to know of any other values existing.

I have the following values from Albert Lea, Minnesota, electrolyte plate, 1, 3, 4, 5, 8, 10, 12, 15 and 20 cents, all perf. 10 normal, and presume the entire set exists.

In Albuquerque, New Mexico, I have the 6c normal, 1, 3, 6 and 7c reading up and the 3, 6 and 8c reading down. The 5c parcel post also exists, I am informed, but have not seen it.

Assumption, Ills., is a newcomer. Have a 2c perf. 10, in purple ink, inverted.

Belleville, Illinois, has a very neat precancellation, name in two lines surrounded by an oblong frame. Have the 2, 4, 5, 8, 10, 15 and 20c, all normal.

Last Xmas the Beverly, Mass., office precancelled the following: Regular issue: 13c 1902, 2c and 5c 1912 perf. 12 and the current 1, 3, 4, 6, 7, 8, and 10c perf. 10; 15, 20 and 25c parcel post, 10c Special Delivery perf. 10 and the 1c Due perf. 12 and 2c perf. 10; some of these are very scarce.

Binghamton, New York, where the Kilmer Medicine Co. have used the dated precancels so long, has discontinued them and is now using an electrolyte plate. Have only the 1c and 2c as yet.

Birmingham, Alabama, precancels have always been rather scarce, except the 1c value, until recently, when they seem to be in use more commonly. I have the 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 50c perf. 12 and the 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 10c perf. 10

United States or foreign, or mixture of both, as you wish; $1.00 catalogue value postpaid for 12c; $10.00 catalogue for $1.00; nothing catalogued at less than 5c. Larger lots have a larger proportion of high values. Some of these stamps have only small tears, while others are heavily cancelled, or have perforations clipped, or are damaged in various ways. Can always be identified, and some would present a very good appearance on the pages of your album. Good space fillers or material for repairing.

We make up a packet of 100 varieties of the cheaper varieties of damaged United States and foreign, catalogue value over $3.00, which we sell at 27c postpaid.

We are now prepared to show sheets of damaged stamps on approval to clients of approved credit.

COLUMBIAN STAMP CO., Arlington, Mass.

also the 1 and 5c inverted and the 1c double, all perf. 10. Have also the 2c due normal and inverted, perf. 10.

Brockton, Mass., is now using a plate same type as current New York. The 10c is the only value I have seen as yet. Campello Station, Brockton, which used only the 1c to 5c values for a long time, is now using the full set, 1c to 30c inclusive, as well as the 50c parcel post.

Just recently I secured the $1, 1908 precancelled Cincinnati, Ohio, in the "horseshoe" type. This is the first $1 I have seen from there except the $1 parcel post which may be found normal and reading up or down, also have a copy reading normal and inverted together. Have never seen the 8c 1912 in this horseshoe type, although the 1, 2, 10, 15 and 50c are common.

From an Idaho source of supply I am still receiving quite a few precancelled parcel posts, especially the 5 and 25c Tacoma, 75c San Francisco and 2c Detroit; showing that there is evidently still quite a supply of these values on hand at these offices.

Pocatello, Idaho, is now using precancels. The 1c is the only value I have. Twin Falls, Idaho, used the 25c parcel post precancelled last Xmas, which is the only Idaho parcel post I've seen or heard of. Boise is now using the 1c and 6c in purple ink; heretofore they have come in the regulation gray-black ink.—Philatelic Gossip.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF CANADA.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XXI.—The Queen Victoria Seven Cents.

Although the reduction in the domestic rate of postage from 3c to 2c in 1899 made the 8c stamp—which was primarily intended for the combined payment of postage and the registration fee—of little use it was not until December, 1902, that this value was replaced by a seven cents denomination. The new stamp was first announced as being in preparation in a newspaper despatch dated Ottawa, Dec. 18th, 1902, viz.:—

The Post Office Department announces that on the 24th instant it will be in a position to supply a seven cent postage stamp to accounting post-offices throughout Canada. This stamp, which is of yellow color, will be especially convenient for postage and registration fee on single rate letters, while it may also be used for other postage purposes to the extent of its face value. Non-accounting offices can obtain their supply through the city post offices. This new stamp will bear the Queen's head, the department not having yet decided on the design of the King's head issue.

This posthumous Queen's head stamp was of similar design to the other values of the numeral series and had the same sheet arrangement and marginal inscriptions. There was but one plate—numbered "1"—from which Mr. Howes estimates about one million stamps were printed.

This stamp was issued on December 23rd, 1902, according to a statement in the official Report.

CHAPTER XXII.—The King Edward Issue.

King Edward VII ascended the throne on January 22nd, 1901, but it was not until nearly two and a half years later that the Dominion of Canada issued new stamps bearing the portrait of the new sovereign. In the meantime there was much comment and speculation as to when the new stamps would appear and as to what form they would take, though the Post Office Department for reasons best known to itself, exercised a discreet silence on the matter. Early in 1903 it was reported in the newspapers that designs had been submitted and that the Postmaster-General had chosen one "bearing an excellent likeness of His Majesty." But the earliest detailed information concerning the expected stamps appeared in the Metropolitan Philatelist for April 18th, 1903, viz.:—

The King's head series of Canadian stamps will probably shortly make its appearance. The die has been received by the Post Office Department and approved of. The stamp will be very similar to the present stamp except that the maple leaf in each of the upper corners will be replaced by a crown. The figures of value will appear in the lower corners as at present and the value will be spelled out as at present in the oval frame which surrounds the portrait. This frame will be as in the present stamp. The portrait of the King shows him three-quarters to the right, head and shoulders, as the Queen is in the present stamp, but there is no crown on his head. The portrait is an exceptionally nice one and it is understood that Royalty has had something to do with its selection. The die was made in England, although the American Bank Note Co. are contractors for the government work.

These details all proved correct and shortly afterwards postmasters were given definite information with regard to the forthcoming stamps by means of an official circular, dated June 10th, and worded as follows:—

Postmasters are hereby informed that a new issue of postage stamps, bearing the portrait of His Majesty, King Edward VII., and comprising five denominations (1c, 2c, 5c, 7c and 10c), is about to be supplied to Postmasters for sale in the usual way, but none of these stamps are to be sold until the first of July, 1903. The colors of the forthcoming series will be the same respectively as those now used for the denominations specified, except that the shade of the 7c will be slightly deeper.

H. F. COLMAN,

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG.,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

Postmasters will please bear in mind that, notwithstanding the new issue, they are not to return to the Department any of the old stamps on hand, but will sell them in the ordinary way. At first, the public may prefer getting new stamps, and if so, there is no objection to this wish being acceded to, but it is also desirable to work off in due course all remnants of old stamps. A change in the design of the stamp of the present series of postcards, post-bands and stamped envelopes, to correspond with that above referred to, will be made as soon as the present stock of these items shall have been exhausted.

The new King Edward 1c, 2c, 5c, 7c and 10c stamps were accordingly issued to the public on Dominion Day (July 1st), 1903.

It will be noted in one of the extracts quoted above that the die for the new stamps was engraved in London, and shortly after the appearance of the stamps the London Philatelist published the following article which is of such interest as to merit its reproduction in full:—

Although for a long time past we have been aware of the circumstances attending the preparation of the new postage stamps for Canada, and in a position to illustrate the approved design, we have refrained from publishing the facts in compliance with the desire of the authorities that no details should be made public until the stamps have been completed and were ready to be put into circulation. We believe that the delay which has taken place in bringing out the new issue has been due to questions arising out of the existing contract under which the postage stamps of the Dominion are produced, and that even after the approval of the design and the receipt of the die some difficulties were experienced in connection with the preparation of the plates by the contractors.

These have happily been surmounted, and now that the issue is an accomplished fact it is with much gratification that we illustrate the design of the new stamp, our illustration, prepared some time back, being taken from a proof from the steel die engraved by Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co., of London, and used in the manufacture of the plates of the several values issued by the Canadian postal authorities on the 1st instant. By comparing our illustration with the stamp as issued it will be seen that the contractors or the postal authorities have made some alterations in the design, which, in our judgment, are by no means improvements. The leaves in the lower corners have been redrawn on a smaller scale, and hardly impinge upon the frame; their drawing is vastly inferior, and the graceful effect of the broken circle is lost. The numerals of value are in color on a white ground reversing the original design, the labels being larger and the figures taller and thinner, this also detracting materially from the charming homogeneity of the stamp as first proposed. The greatest alteration, and the worst, is the substitution of heavy diagonal lines for horizontal ones in the background. The latter were finely drawn and delicately shaded, leaving the King's Head in clear outline, and framed by the dark oval band containing the inscriptions. The background and frame no longer present this artistic effect, and the whole design materially suffers thereby.

The circumstances connected with the inception of the issue are as gratifying as they are novel, and will be hailed with acclamation by the Philatelists of the British Empire.

The Postmaster of Canada, Sir William Mulock, being one of the many distinguished visitors to this country during the Coronation festivities, took the opportunity afforded by his visit of approaching the Prince of Wales, and of meeting His Royal Highness's suggestions and advice in the preparation of a new die for the Canadian stamps. The Prince, with his characteristic energy and courtesy, cheerfully undertook the task, and it will be seen from our illustration with absolute and conspicuous success. H. R. H. wisely decided, in the first instance, that it is advisable to have some continuity of design in succeeding issues, and therefore adopted the frame and groundwork of the then current stamps as a basis. In selecting a portrait of His Majesty the Prince decided to rely upon a photograph giving a true likeness of the King as we know him, in lieu of an idealized representation by an artist. The photograph eventually chosen, with the full approval of His Majesty, was one taken shortly before the Coronation.

The likeness is undoubtedly what is termed a speaking one, and with the addition of the Coronation robes represents as faithful and as pleasing a picture of the King, at the time of his accession to the throne, as it is possible to find. The introduction of the Tudor crowns in the upper angles, which was another of the Prince's innovations, obviates the difficulty that has so often made "the head that wears a crown" lie "uneasy" on a postage stamp. These emblems of sovereignty, taken in conjunction with the Canadian maple leaves in the lower angles, completes a design that for harmony, boldness and simplicity has assuredly not been excelled by any hitherto issued stamps of the British Empire. It is palpable, on analysing the stamp, (1) that the attractiveness of the design has in no way been allowed to militate against its utility, for the country of origin and denomination are clearly expressed; (2) that the boldness of the design has not been detracted from (as is so often the case) by superfluous ornamentation, and that the design has been artistically balanced by the introduction of the right-sized portrait and the proper treatment of light and shade.

These stamps were, of course, printed from line-engraved plates like those of the preceding issues, and the same sheet arrangement of 100 stamps in ten rows of ten each was followed. The marginal imprint shown on the top margin of each sheet is like that shown on the Queen's head sheets and the plates for each value were numbered from 1 upwards. Mr. Howes records the following plates as having been used up to December, 1910:—

1 cent—Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 13, 14, 18, 19, 22, 24, 25, 34, 47, 48, 51, 52, 55, 58.
 2 cents—Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 47, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 62, 63, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 78.
 5 cents—Nos. 1, 2.
 7 cents—No. 1.
 10 cents—Nos. 1, 2.

It is very possible other plates were used for most denominations before the King George stamps were issued in 1912. The colors were very similar to those employed for the corresponding values

1916 AUCTION QUOTATIONS ON CANAL ZONE STAMPS.

Furnished by MRS. L. W. KELLOGG.

The file of auction catalogs shows no startling heights reached by prices on Canal Zone stamps during the year. Rather few stamps have been offered; the most pretentious listing is found in the Franklin Co.'s sale, early in '16, which contained nearly 80 items, arranged according to Colman's list. Good covers are scarce; O. G. blocks, showing at least two varieties are most frequently found.

The following are a few of the prices realized at various sales. Scott's numbers being used: No. 1, on a piece of cover, brought $3.60 and $4.10; No. 2 and No. 3, on covers, $2.75. Of two copies of 3a sold at one sale, the O. G. brought $7.10; the other, on a cover, only $6.70. The 2d issue, Nos. 4 to 8—proves a favorite—prices for the set run as high as $2.20, against $2.95 cat. Doubtless the general collector thinks himself safely outside the specialist's realm on these five stamps.

A vert. pair of Nos. 12 and 12b (error "ANAMA") brought $2.65. An interesting item was the 2c rose, No. 11.

THE 1917 CATALOGUE

Will be Ready for Distribution Early in November, 1916

Those of our customers who have had experience with the printing and publishing business during the past two years will realize that the above announcement represents the overcoming of innumerable difficulties. Prices of all materials have advanced and in some cases it has appeared at times almost impossible to obtain certain of the products at any price. The question of paper stock was perhaps the most difficult of all. More than thirty paper manufacturers wrote us that on account of the shortage of pulp and chemicals, it would be impossible for them to guarantee delivery of special orders. Engravings, electrotype plates and binding also represented many difficulties.

The new Catalogue has been entirely reset with new type and new engravings throughout. From a typographical standpoint, this new edition will be as near perfect as it is possible to produce.

Every detail of the text has had our most careful and critical attention. Many changes have been made in classification and grouping, and a number of doubtful issues have been eliminated. A thorough and searching revision of prices will be noted. Many thousand items have shown a sharp advance in price and likewise a large number of varieties have been reduced. We confidently claim that the new Catalogue represents current values more accurately than any previous edition.

PRICES

Owing to the great increase in cost of paper and other materials as well as of labor, we are compelled to advance our prices. The increase in selling price represents only a portion of the increased cost of manufacture. We have decided to charge our customers with a part only of the increased cost, thus reducing our own profits to a minimum.

with an additional surcharge, inverted of No. 25—this, used, sold for $4.60 in N. Y. Back in '15, an O. G. block of 4 of the 8c on 50c, having "Canal Zone" inverted (14d) and one stamp with a variety of the "s", brought $75.00; No. 32e (1c with double surcharge) $17.50; and No. 33c (2c with double surcharge) $12.25. The 10c yellow in a block of 4, one stamp having "ZONE" in antique type (13 & 13b) was high at one sale, bringing $2.00. Of the later issues, a horiz. pair, imperforate between, of the 1c (No. 32a) brought only $3.90; the same of the 8c sold for $7.25. Three copies of No. 42a have been sold recently—the 2c with inverted center. The prices quoted are $12.75, $15.50 and $21.50 for O. G. copies.

EDITORIAL.

Strange—We have acquired a cover whose postmark gave us a start of surprise. The envelope bears a two cent stamp of the current issue, perforated 10, and the postmark, "Texas City, Tex.—Jul. 20—4 P. M.—Military Sta." A regulation cancellation is employed in addition. While the lower part of the postmark is not so plain as it might be, there is no question but that "Military Sta." is indicated. This military postmark is a novelty to us as we have no record of its existence. We were in touch with the U. S. soldiers in Mexico and had something to say at different times regarding the army postal provisions. If the departmental reports did speak of a special postmark, the order creating it escaped our notice, although we were on the watch for it. At any rate, the military postmark arising from the Mexican imbroglio is here to add variety to the collection of United States military postmarks.

ing reading as a rule and newspapers are partial to it. One of the best accounts of the kind, replete with human interest and at the same time carrying a philatelic flavor, is in the Philadelphia Bulletin of October 2nd, 1916, and speaks of a letter mailed in 1859 from Willow Grove, Pa., to "E. A. Edenborn, Esq., Flour Merchant, 4th St., below Vine," Philadelphia. Evidently, in 1859, Willow Grove, now Philadelphia's great amusement park, was a town by itself, sixteen miles distant from Philadelphia. Consequently, the letter traveled at the rate of a mile about every three and one-half years. The paper says: "An old hand-stamp proclaims on the time-stained envelope that it was marked by the postmaster of Willow Grove. A couple of inches across the top of the envelope is the impression of an automatic stamper at the post office showing that it was received there at noon, September 29, 1916." Well known echo answers "Where?" to the question of where has the letter been all these years.

Uncovered—Here is the tale of another find that a big newspaper in this country thinks important enough to include under its news from war lands. The story is one that is not cast in heroic mould but it will appeal to the public while the philatelist will sympathize with the simplicity that featured a comparatively ordinary stamp, even on cover. A Liverpool find consisted of an envelope that bore the postmark of Bakewell in Derbyshire and was dated in 1850. "The writing on the envelope was far clearer and more distinct, and in every way superior to the average penmanship of today, while the stamp was one of the old red-brick colored ones in use before the days when stamp sheets were perforated or gummed and when they were in sheets of 240 and had to be separated by the scissors." The cover collector will appreciate the remarks on chirography as they reflect his thought on occasion but the one outstanding statement is that the cover was used before the day when stamps were gummed. This is the first time that we ever encountered this artless description. We do not have to deny for the information of our youngest readers this statement, as it was the adhesive part of the postage stamp as much as the design itself that made the invention of the adhesive postage stamp the great factor it was.

Rarest—While we are on the subject of newspaper philately, we cannot dismiss that classic story of the one cent, 1856 British Guiana, without a word. What enthusiasms the description, the "only one in the world" creates in the mind of the newspaper editor. This in truth makes a tale worth unfolding in the columns of his paper and he is eager to give it play. The story of the find of the one cent black on magenta, 1856, British Guiana, the supreme rarity, is one of engrossing interest from the time the young collector discovered the stamp to the interment of the "only one known" in the philatelic mausoleum of the great la Renotiere. It is no wonder that editors are always willing to receive this stirring story,—but we do not intend to repeat it here when it was published in the Philadelphia Public Ledger recently, having been copied from the English juvenile publication, "Chums." Thus, the story of the most fascinating of stamps takes its way around the globe once again.

Exception—We have censored envelopes by the score but the variant that Mrs. W. E. Underwood calls attention to is the first that we have heard of as reversing the usual order of things. Mrs. Underwood says: "The envelope contained a photograph which did not 'arrive.' It has the usual 'Opened by Censor' over the end. On the face covering the address is a large blue label, with coat-of-arms and 'Returned to Sender by the Censor' in two lines. Stamped over this is a purple outline like this: 'Undelivered for reasons stated. Return to sender,' in two lines."

* * *

Jumbled—From our correspondent, Theodore Siddall, Shanghai, China, we have received a long clipping from the North China Daily News of August 12th, 1916, that furnishes full information on the subject of China's fluctuating currency. We shall keep the article on file as space cannot be given at present for its reproduction. A perusal of the findings of the authority in question will enlighten one on the subject that is intricate and involved. Suffice it to say that the financier in China must be alert to adapt himself to constantly shifting conditions. Mr. Siddall says: "A lot of collectors in the U. S. have got the idea that all the French Consular office stamps and the other Chinese surcharges are made to stick collectors but while, of course, they have one eye on this, the main reason is because they do not want Chinese buying them at one town for say 85 or 90 cents on the dollar and shipping them to some other town where the money is worth 100 cents on the dollar. The set of French that is listed in the 1916 catalogue on pages 328 and 329 are in use in the big towns, where there is not so much variation in exchange, such as Amoy, Hankow, Foochow, Tientsin, Shanghai and Peking. The job of keeping accounts is something awful here in China with the small money and big money. Most of the post offices sell their stamps for Mexican dollars, as you can get $1.10 in silver and four copper cents for a

IN THE LAND OF THE NILE.

By J. B. CHILDS.

Egypt of the present is only a shadow of a once great empire, the home of a civilization older than that of Greece. The last successor of its powerful rulers, the Khedive, lives under the British protection at Alexandria in his palace of Ras et-Tin (3 miles, 1914)—the name itself is said to mean "promontory of figs." This might be juggled around to mean that the Khedive was ripening there like a fig, waiting to be plucked and swallowed by the British Empire. One of the greatest evidences of this British influence in Egypt is the Assuan Dam (200 miles, 1914), extending a distance of one and a quarter miles across the Nile River at the first cataract—probably the largest piece of work of its kind in the world. An English firm of contractors began the construction in 1898 and the Dam was dedicated in 1902. Primarily it was constructed to aid in the irrigation of the desert region. In February of each year a large lake collects back of the Dam when the gates are shut—on the stamp the sluices are shown open. Sometime in March the demand for irrigation becomes urgent, and then the water is directed out over the land, as it is in certain sections of our own West.

At Cairo in the Egypt of the British Protectorate the Citadel (50 miles, 1914) is a great reminder of the country's glory in the Middle Ages under the famous Saladin. In 1176 A. D. the construction was begun on a height overlooking the city. Stone was quarried from the lesser pyramids of Gizeh, on the Nile below Cairo; and much of the actual work of laying the blocks in place was done by the forced labor of the Europeans who had been captured on the Crusades. Saladin did not live to make his home in the Citadel, which, however, served as the residence of each succeeding ruler until 1850. Changes and additions have been so numerous that very little of the original construction remains. The famous Alabaster Mosque, which seems to be the principal feature of the illustration on the stamp, is of comparatively recent origin, having been completed in 1857. It with its alabaster-encrusted walls is, altho built in the courtyard of the Citadel, one of the show-places of Cairo. Another interesting feature is the so-called Well of Joseph, which, altho by legend is said to have been the one in which the Joseph of the Bible was put by his brothers, was actually drilled by the famous Saladin to supply water for the Citadel.

Rameses II, the builder of temples who has in the past often been identified with the Pharaoh of Oppression of the Bible (Exodus I. 11), lived and ruled twenty-five centuries before Saladin. At the present town of Luxor, built on the site of the ancient metropolis of Thebes, is a series of temples, nearly all of which were constructed by this famous Egyptian ruler. The two colossi or great stone statues (10 miles, 1914), which have been excavated from the ruins, very probably are of Rameses II seated. One of the entrances to the Karnak Temple north of Luxor (20 miles, 1914), also of his construction, is still a notable example of the architecture of ancient Egypt, altho many changes have been made in the original structure.

In front of the Great Temple of Abu-Simbel, on the Nile between the first and second cataracts, is a group of four colossi, a pair on each side of the entrance (100 miles, 1914), all representing Rameses II, by whom the temple was constructed. The size of these statues may be better realized by the statement that they are over sixty feet in height. During the course of time the second of the colossi has lost its head and shoulders, as is shown in the illustration on the stamp. The Great Temple as well as the statues was carved from solid rock. It was made with its front entrance facing to the east, so that at dawn the sun's rays penetrated into the very heart of the temple. Altho dedicated to certain gods, it was also used for the worship of Rameses II himself.

But the three great pyramids of Gizeh (4 miles, 1914) were erected some twelve or fifteen centuries before the time of Rameses II in the plain to the south of the present city of Cairo and near ancient Memphis. Cheops, Kephren, and Mencheres were the kings of Egypt who built these, their tombs. In fact the whole group of pyramids was nothing more than a vast cemetery for the kings who lived in Memphis. Sealed airtight and with neither doors nor windows, they were well adapted to the preservation of mummies, the royal mummies. Even at the present day the inner passageways, after having been carefully explored and opened to ventilation, are so stuffy that apoplectic persons are often cautioned against visiting them. The Great Pyramid, four hundred and fifty feet high, covers eleven acres, but there are many smaller ones, some being even less than twenty feet high—all a vast cemetery that has long since served its purpose.

Near the Great Pyramid is the Sphinx (5 miles, 1914), a huge piece of rock carved to represent the Egyptian God Harmachis, the name having no real relation with the word Sphinx excepting that the riddle of the statue's origin has never been solved. It was known in the time of Kephren, the builder of the Second Pyramid of Gizeh, and is probably many centuries older.

Harmachis was one of the principal forms of the Sun God, representing the sun in its course across the sky from sunrise to sunset. In all of his many forms he usually had the head of a hawk, altho the Great Sphinx was his symbol.

An ancient inscription has it that in the time of one of the early Egyptian kings the Sphinx had become entirely covered with sand. Harmachis appeared to this man one day during his after-dinner nap, and offered to make him the King of Egypt if he would clear away the sand. After the work of excavation was completed, the God fulfilled his promise. But among the succeeding rulers this figure of the Sphinx was not very popular, probably owing to the fact that it was thought to be connected with foreigners or with a foreign religion, prior to their time. And still this statue of the Sphinx remains with the riddle of its origin unsolved.

Of more importance yet in the life of ancient Egypt was the worship of the Goddess Isis (2 miles, 1914). The name Isis in the Egyptian hieroglyphics meant chair or throne, a symbol of which is perched atop of the solar disk of her headdress in the illustration on the stamp. Nearly always the horns of her crown were those of a cow.

Isis was the greatest goddess of Egypt, her worship dating back to a period some thirty or forty centuries before Christ. "She was the personification of the great feminine creative power which conceived, and brought forth every living creature, and thing, from the gods in heaven, to man on earth, and to the insect on the ground; and what she brought forth she protected, and cared for, and fed, and nourished; and she employed her life in using her power graciously and successfully, not merely in creating new things but in restoring those that were dead. She was, besides these things, the highest type of a faithful and loving wife and mother; in this capacity she was most revered by the Egyptians." —(Budge, "The Gods of the Egyptians.")

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—J. M. Bartels also reports the 1c and 2c values on unwatermarked paper. Most of the stamps come poorly centered.

Several correspondents have called attention to the fact that the Officially Sealed stamps are now printed in black on pink paper. This stamp was fully chronicled last May, but is evidently being issued to the different postoffices as old stock becomes exhausted.

The following new envelopes have been reported by J. M. Bartels:—

Issue 1915.

HONDURAS.—The Stamp Lover chronicles two new values in the current picture, the 50c with the "Puente Ulua," and the 1p with the "Teatro Bonilla."

LONG ISLAND.—The following is from the London Telegraph: "The attention of the Postmaster-General has been drawn to announcements and advertisements in the press concerning certain overprinted Turkish fiscal stamps and typewritten labels purporting to be postage stamps issued in Long Island, Asia Minor. Notice is accordingly given that the issue of the stamps and labels in question was unauthorized, and that the Post Office has never recognised such stamps and labels as valid for the prepayment of postage."

ST. VINCENT.—J. A. Galbraith has shown us the new "War Stamp" for this Colony, these words being printed in one line in medium condensed Gothic type, on the 1d scarlet King George stamp. This is not to be confused with the first issue, with the same overprint in two lines of square Gothic letters.

TURKS & CAICOS ISLANDS.—The Stamp Lover notes the issue of the 5d value in the current King George type.

Adhesive.

5d olive.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Thos. S. Fletcher, Herman W. Boers, R. G. Montgomery, J. Weer Chew, L. A. Judkins, Dr. Justus Sinexon.

—Herman W. Boers informs us that W. F. Gregory was a recent visitor to Detroit. He was in the city ten days and saw many of the Detroit collectors.

—Lowell J. Ragatz writes that R. T. Goode of Salem, Ore., has settled his account and claim against him is withdrawn. We are pleased to publish this item.

—There is to be a new dealer in the field. Edgar H. Plummer, 11 Woronoco Av., Westfield, Mass., has entered the stamp trade. Our readers will hear from him later.

—Attention of Grill Chef:

Find enclosed ten cents in stamps for a copy of the recent booklet on U. S. Grills. I have no doubt but that it is "well done." I suppose the original engravings have been retained, and the "plates" will be "fork"ed over. I noted in the series that "biscuits" also may be expected.—FRANKLIN S. SMITH.

HE'S TALKING ABOUT ALBUMS, HEAR HIM

If you're a normal Philatelist you probably "Cuss" printed albums, because you hate to remount your stamps in an equally inferior Album. You haven't bought an Album since the day you started collecting and now it is old-fashioned, out of date and worn out, so that the very sight of it disgusts you with the hobby. In comes a fellow collector for an evening's stamp talk and to look over your collection, which request you can't turn down. You hate to pull out the old dilapidated Album with stamps stuck around on the margin where no spaces have been provided for your shades, pairs, oddities, etc. Still a new album of the same kind would be equally as unsatisfactory in a short time and you balk at buying it. You have spent a lot of money in trying to complete a general collection and have found it an endless task. There's where we and our line of Marquette Sectional and Blank Loose Leaf Albums shine. They're as good Albums as any collector ever used. There is such a big variety of Albums in our stock to permanently satisfy you forever. Blank Albums with all sorts of up-to-date binders, many sized leaves, hinged or crimped, of ledger bond or stout art paper, that you can be suited just right in a minute.

Then there is our wonderful Marquette Sectional United States Loose Leaf Album, of just the right size (9x12), with spaces attractively arranged on the one page as guides for mounting the stamps. Where special perforations or imperforates occur, allowance is made for pairs. Suitable headings and other desirable information is neatly printed in the proper places. The other page is arranged in catalog and handbook style. Each stamp listed has a distinctive number referring to a space on the page opposite. Historical and statistical data will be briefly summarized and included with the descriptive matter. At present sections for United States Adhesive Stamps, Departments, Special Delivery, Registration, Newspaper, Postage Due and Perforated Revenue Stamps up to the minute are included. The great rarities will be excluded, as these are often unobtainable, even by well-to-do collectors.

This Album is made for fellows who know good Albums, and insist upon having their stamps properly displayed so as to show the fascination of the hobby. Make your change now and collect stamps in a systematic, scientific manner, which will not only bring added interest to the hobby, but maintain what pleasure you are having. So just drop us a postal with the request for a prospectus and a sample page with full detailed information and prices and you can't help believing in our Albums. This is the only up-to-date idea and your stamps will add a 100% to their appearance if not also to their value. Don't buy the old-fashioned Albums, you are stuck again. We have the most complete variety of philatelic supplies and accessories of any dealer in America, also a United States Catalog listing over 1300 varieties, shades, coils, imperforate pairs, etc., that cannot be classed with anything published in the past or present for only 10c. Send for this catalog when you ask for the prospectus; it will give you a correct demonstration of our goods.

INCREASE IN WEIGHT LIMIT OF PARCEL POST PACKAGES EXCHANGED WITH PANAMA.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4, 1916.

The postal administration of Panama and this Department having agreed thereto, commencing on the 15th instant, the maximum weight applicable to parcel post packages exchanged between the Republic of Panama and the United States will be 20 pounds instead of 11 pounds as heretofore, the postage rate to remain at 12 cents a pound or fraction of a pound as heretofore. The "Note" at the top of page 47 of the Postal Guide for July, 1916, is modified accordingly.

Postmasters will please cause due notice of the foregoing to be taken at their offices and the widest possible publicity to be given thereto.

Advertising Chat

This issue of our publication gives an indication of what may be expected during the coming months. It is evident that the season of 1916-17 will be one of the biggest the stamp trade has ever known. This particular number offers the collector some splendid opportunities for investment.

Our issue of October 28 will be known as the "Season-Opener" and we bespeak your patronage of it. If you want only small space take an adlet. If you want to buy or exchange take our word for it, this department is examined thoroughly by our readers.

"Stamp Collecting" of England compliments Bill Bloss by reprinting an installment of his dealer article. Evidently they appreciate a good thing across the pond. We shall reprint this article in book form the first of November and the first edition will consist of 2000 copies.

J. E. Handshaw of N. Y. City visited Boston recently on a trip into New England including Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts. He was accompanied by his wife in celebration of the 25th anniversary of their marriage. Dealers desiring to get wholesale lots will find Mr. Handshaw at 18 John St., N. Y. City.

Recently the firm of B. L. Drew & Co., Boston, used an entire page in the WEEKLY and check for $60 in payment for the same was promptly forthcoming. Did the advertisement pay? The best evidence that we have is the fact that another page comes along this week. We are always glad to get a Drew adv. and we hope our readers will be as pleased to peruse it as we are to furnish it.

We are informed that Geo. W. Linn has severed his connection with the printing and publishing business and has taken an office on High St. in Columbus. This is the principal street of the city and he is located at 335 S. High, only a few blocks from the center of the city in a very commodious room on the second floor. Mr. Linn has furnished his office in the most approved metropolitan style and expects to handle a nice lot of local stamp business. The WEEKLY is aware that Columbus and its immediate vicinity has a small army of stamp collectors and a stamp shop in this city should certainly meet with a hearty support. We expect to have Mr. Linn as a regular advertiser.

One cannot fail to note with interest the large advertisement of the Scott Stamp & Coin Co. in this number. It deals with a trite subject, the 1917 catalog. The Scott Co. promises this catalog as ready for distribution early in November and dealer and collector alike will rejoice in its early publication. We are situated where we can appreciate the difficulties under which the publishers have labored in producing this book and an upward revision in prices is certainly justified when one considers the cost of the materials. During the past four months the WEEKLY has paid for paper stock more than double what it paid during the corresponding months one year ago.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

ADLETS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 6, 1916.

In the absence of President Bartels and Vice President Meininger, H. M. Lewy took the chair. Minutes of previous meeting were read and adopted. The committee that had been appointed to look into the "Get-Together-Dinner" made their report, that the banquet or dinner was to be held at the Hotel Endicott, 81st St. and Columbus Ave., on Saturday night, Nov. 18, 1916, 8 p. m. sharp. The charge is $1.25 per plate, and the members are allowed to bring their guests. The dinner is run under the auspices of the philatelic societies of New York and vicinity. J. W. Scott has been appointed Chairman of the dinner, E. Weiss, Sec., Mr. Plach, Treasurer, J. M. Bartels, Chairman of the Reception Committee, Mr. Goetz, Chairman of the Arrangement Committee, with Messrs. Mouhib and Staeb serving on the Committee. The individual members of the N. Y. Stamp Society will be notified when tickets are on sale.

Eugene Klein showed a volume of his reference collection, which was very interesting and instructive, showing the various reprints and counterfeits of stamps such as U. S. locals, revenues and foreign. Meeting adjourned at a very late hour. 16 members and 3 visitors were present.

SPECIAL AUTUMN BARGAIN SALE!

We offer the following lots at prices much below the MARKET to attract new trade and to keep MONEY IN CIRCULATION, Clerks busy, Collectors Happy. In many cases we have only one copy to offer at these prices, hence the price is for that particular copy only. We say NOTHING about CONDITION for this reason—to wit, that if you do not think any stamp we send you is worth the money, you have not only the privilege but the RIGHT to return it to us and GET YOUR MONEY BACK. That's all we claim. Nothing could be fairer. And—there'll be no talk about it. So GET out your album, look this over, check it up and send us an order—be it ever so humble. We will allow you 3% discount on any order over $20.00 at one time; TERMS CASH WITH ORDER. If we can't fill it on receipt, we'll refund balance. Nothing will be sent unless ordered. Hence it is wise to send a "supplementary order" about twice the amount of the remittance. Then no one is likely to be seriously disappointed. Requests for "approvals" will be entertained, but will be secondary to CASH ORDERS. Your move, next.

U. S. REVENUE STAMPS.

DOCUMENTARY AND PROPRIETARY.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

A regrettable error occurred in connection with the first instalment of our serial story on U. S. Revenues. The book referred to by Mr. West, the "History of United States Revenue Stamps", is not owned by the stamp firm there mentioned, but by Messrs. Hiram E. Deats and Alexander Holland, who purchased the right, title and interest from the Boston Philatelic Society. The book was compiled by the two philatelists mentioned, in conjunction with Geo. L. Toppan, recently deceased. Our attention has been called to the error made and we hasten to make the necessary correction. At the same time we wish to thank both Messrs. Deats and Holland for their gracious permission to make such extracts from the book as may be necessary in the article now underway. We add that the book is still in print and may be obtained from the Scott Stamp & Coin Co., the New England Stamp Co., H. E. Deats, Flemington, N. J., and Alexander Holland, Newton Center, Mass., at $3.00.

CHAPTER II—Paper.

The paper used by Butler & Carpenter and by Joseph R. Carpenter after John M. Butler's death in October, 1868, was manufactured to their order and varied but slightly in quality until 1869, the only exception noted being the greenish paper upon which the 2c U. S. I. R. and 2c Bank Check orange are occasionally found. These are believed to have been experimental and issued by accident in 1866. The regular paper is close textured grayish or yellowish white wove, thin, and rather hard and brittle, without watermark. Sometimes it has the appearance of laid paper with the lines either horizontal, vertical or diagonal, and this effect is more common on the very thin paper of the early printings. The laid appearance is particularly noticeable when the stamps are wet. The reasonable theory has been accepted by some students that this effect is caused by the stamps having been affixed to documents which were of true laid paper, age and a certain amount of pressure acting to transfer the laid effect from the documents to the stamps, but stamps showing the laid characteristics very plainly have been removed from a document printed on perfectly smooth wove paper and the "transfer" theory can hardly be the true explanation. Perhaps the effect is caused by worn press blankets as in the postage stamps of 1903, although if this were the case, we would expect it to be less common among the early printings than the later ones.

The thicker and very thick papers, and the paper with minute and widely scattered silk fibres which is called silk paper when reference is made to the documentary and general proprietary stamps of the first issue and is known as experimental silk paper when referring to the private die proprietary stamps, were all used between September, 1869, and September, 1871. The government wished to supply its own paper and evidently expected to have a supply of watermarked paper ready for use by September 1, 1869. Mr. Carpenter had stopped ordering paper and when his old supply gave out none had been received from the government and he was obliged to go into the market and buy what he could get. During the next two years he obtained paper from several manufacturers including the Hudson Paper Co., who furnished some, if not all, of the silk paper and he seems to have had a great deal of trouble in obtaining satisfactory quality. Thin old paper was in use as late as April, 1871, and to some extent during 1870 for the Akron, Hunt, F. E. Clark, Buck, Bent & Lea, Burhans and New York, (1c blue), match stamps which were first issued between January 1870 and April 1871 are all known on this paper.

The very thick paper is almost like cardboard and most of the stamps found on it are so rare that it could not have been used to any great extent. The writer does not recall any of the private proprietary stamps having been found on it. The silk or experimental silk paper is rather soft and of medium thickness.

The silk fibres are so small and so widely scattered that they are often un-noticed. Large stamps such as the $2 Conveyance might show only two or three fibres and many of the small stamps that were printed on this paper might not show any silk, so it is possible all the medium thick, soft paper contained silk fibres whether the stamps show the fibres or not. Quite a few of the match and medicine stamps catalogued on silk paper were printed on this experimental paper and some of them were obsolete before the regular or "full" silk paper of the second issue came into use on or about September 1, 1871. Unfortunately the standard catalog confuses collectors by calling the experimental paper of the first issue "silk" and by also calling the full silk paper of the second issue silk, whereas the two issues and papers are quite distinct.

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG.,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF CANADA.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XXII—(Continued).

Nearly fifteen months elapsed before any other King Edward stamps were issued when, on September 27th, 1904, the 20c denomination made its appearance. This is of similar design to the others, was printed from the usual sized plate of 100, and bore imprint and plate number in the top margin as before. Only one plate has been recorded and as the use of this denomination did not average over 400,000 a year, it is quite probable that only this one plate was made. This value was issued in the olive-green shade adopted for its predecessor.

More than four years elapsed before the next and last value of the King Edward series appeared. This was the 50c denomination, which was placed on sale on November 19th, 1908, after the supply of the old blue stamps first issued in 1893 was finally used up. In design, sheet arrangement, etc., it conforms with the others of the series. One plate—numbered 1—was used.

The 2c value of this series is known entirely imperforate and the history of the variety, which is now quite common, is of considerable interest. The imperforate stamps were first mentioned in the WEEKLY for October 10th, 1908, in the following editorial:—

We are enabled to report the existence of the two-cent Canada, current issue, imperforate, a reader having shown us a sheet of one hundred of these varieties bearing the plate number 18. This is a discovery of momentous interest which must attract much attention not alone from specialists but from collectors, as we may say for the sake of distinction, as well. The fact that the pane bears so early a plate number removes it from any inclusion in the theory that the Canadian authorities propose to issue stamps in imperforate sheets in the manner that has been employed by the United States. Without doubt, the sheet under notice was regularly prepared for issue in the accepted way, and it is the belief from information at hand that a sheet of four hundred of the stamps was printed and reached the public.

This announcement excited much interest among collectors of Canadian stamps and enquiry regarding the seeming irregularity was made of the postal authorities at Ottawa. The Post Office Department were convinced that no irregularity could have occurred, but finally made an enquiry, and were, of course, compelled to believe the evidence of the existence of imperforate specimens. In the issue of the WEEKLY for February 20th, 1909, a more complete story of the find is related, viz.:—

The sheet as found was not of 400 stamps, but of over 200 stamps, as the right-hand half of the sheet on which our report was based and which was not before us when we wrote, contained a pane of 100 stamps, plate number 14 and an irregularly torn part of plate number 13, showing about fifteen whole stamps and parts of others. Assuming that the lower pane in the left half was torn approximately in the manner of the right lower pane, or plate number 13, the find consisted originally of 230 stamps, more or less. This reckoning agrees, we believe, with the recollection of the person who rescued the imperforates from oblivion, in a philatelic sense. The plate numbers on the sheet that gave authority for the chronicling of the stamps by the WEEKLY are 13 and 14, and not 18, as first printed.

A. N. Lemieux of Chicago is the man who found the stamps. While in Ottawa five years ago or so (this was later corrected to June, 1906), when he was in business in that city, he saw the stamps just within the iron fence that has been described as surrounding the establishment of the bank note company that prints the Canadian stamps. The day was a rainy one and the sheet had evidently been blown out of the window. Mr. Lemieux apparently attached no value to the sheet of over 200 stamps, which was in a wet, crumpled condition, and without gum. Mr. Lemieux was under the impression, no doubt, that gum had been on the sheet but had been washed off by the rain.

Mr. Severn ultimately acquired what was left of this imperforate sheet, and later submitted the stamps to the officials at Ottawa, who pronounced them but "printer's waste". Mr. Severn, in addition to the history of these imperforates, says:—

They seemingly had been trampled upon and subjected to the usage that would be given such castoff material. Further, it was said that they had been blown or thrown out of a window, no doubt. It was suggested that the stamps be returned to Ottawa and that there were moral grounds for such a course on the part of the holders. The description of "printer's waste" seems to be correct and the inference is that the stamps never had been gummed. They belong to that class of curiosities that appeal strongly to the specialist, but which the ordinary collector regards as something apart from his collecting policy.

The stamps did not go back to Ottawa, and the postal authorities there annoyed, doubtless righteously, that such things should escape from their well regulated printing establishment went to considerable trouble to make the imperforates of small monetary value. The following paragraph, written by a correspondent of the WEEKLY, was the first inkling collectors had that the department had thought any more of the matter:—

It may be of interest to know that the last supplement to the Canadian Post Office Guide contains the following: "In view of representations which have been made to the Department, it has been decided to permit the sale of the 2-cent denomination of Canadian postage stamps of the current issue, in sheets of 100, without the usual perforation." I at once asked for a sheet of the 2-cent, and incidentally said I would take a sheet of can see what is bound to happen to prices when there is a small supply of a commodity and an increasing demand. Stamps are no exception to the economic law. The demand for old imperf. issues in pairs and blocks has increased tremendously in the last few years and far exceeds the supply. Ten times catalog at auction is not unusual for desirable pieces. You can obtain fine and rare imperf. pairs and strips of Civil War revenues at double catalog or less today. Some of them are not likely to be available again for years. The point to all this is—write me NOW.

the other denominations if available. A reply came to-day informing me that only the 2-cent would be available, and then not for some time, as the department intends to make a separate printing of these stamps, to supply whatever demand may occur. It was stipulated that applications for these imperforate stamps should be made to the Postmaster at Ottawa. When the sheets of these stamps came into collectors' hands it was found they had been printed from plates 13 and 14—the same as those from which the originally chronicled "errors" were printed. It is obvious that the Department issued these stamps simply to "get back" at the holder of the sheet so unfortunately blown or thrown out of the printing-office window in 1906. That they were not intended for use in mailing machines seems amply proved from the fact that none of the 2c stamps of the present issue have been issued in imperforate sheets.

No 1/2c value was issued in the King Edward design although the Queen's head stamp of that denomination continued in use until 1909. This value was primarily intended for use in prepaying the postage on transient newspapers, but for many years the number sold to the public was out of all proportion to those which could have been required for its legitimate use. There is no doubt that large quantities were purchased by stamp dealers for wholesaling to packet makers and dealers in the cheap approval sheet business and, undoubtedly, stamp collectors in Canada usually preferred to use four 1/2c stamps on their letters rather than an ordinary 2c one. This excessive demand for the 1/2c resulted in the Post Office Department issuing the following circular to Postmasters in 1902:—

The attention of postmasters is drawn to the fact that the postal necessity for the 1/2c stamp, as such, is now confined to one purpose—prepayment of newspapers and periodicals posted singly, and weighing not more than one ounce each. As publications of the kind referred to must, in the nature of things, be few, and as in the case of their being mailed to subscribers by the office of publication, the bulk rate of postage would be far cheaper and more convenient for the publisher, the demand for the 1/2c stamp throughout the Dominion must be appreciably diminished as a result of this restriction of its use. While, of course, any number of 1/2c stamps on an article of correspondence will be recognized to the full extent of their aggregate face value, it is not the wish of the Department to supply them except for the sole specific purpose above mentioned, and an intimation to that effect should be given by postmasters to patrons of their office who are in the habit of buying 1/2c stamps for other postal purposes.

MRS. L. W. KELLOGG, W. Hartford, Conn.

This circular had quite an effect on the use of 1/2c stamps, for only about one-third as many were used in the year following the publication of the circular. Finally, on May 19th, 1909, the Post Office Act was amended so that the special rate on newspapers was repealed and the minimum postage on any single piece of mail became 1c. This did away for the necessity of 1/2c stamps and, of course, discounted any further possibility of the value being included in the King's head series.

EDITORIAL.

Known—In the catalogue there is no three cent documentary of the revenue issue just retired, on postage paper; and as a consequence its existence may have been questioned. We reported the discovery of the variety in the WEEKLY some months ago but now a reader claims for reasons that he says that he is bound to respect, the three cent, documentary, postage paper, is not known. We can affirm that the stamp in question has been in the hands of several collectors for a year or more. It is perhaps true that the number of these stamps that is available may be tolled off on the fingers and toes but for all that, a single specimen will suffice to prove the case for the stamps. We may add that all the copies that enter into our survey are used. It is only fair to say that we can understand how one who has been on the lookout for the stamp from the first and who had unused stocks of this as well as all the other stamps to examine could find his quest without result. From all indications, the stamp is a prime rarity but it is safe to say that it will not sell on the market for a high price as its point of difference is not noticeable enough to make it a popular variety. The five cent proprietary on postage paper which was reported some time ago has been found in several different places but the three cent documentary apparently have come only from one office.

Nebraska—We did not have the privilege of attending the second annual convention of the Nebraska State Philatelic Society at Omaha, on October 5th, 1916, a circumstance that we regretted, as last year we had an enjoyable time at the first convention. The state society in question is alive and we are glad to hear that Mr. Ora E. Stark, Omaha, has been elected president. Mr. Stark may be relied upon to increase the activities of the society. Further officers were chosen: Chas. J. Geyer, vice-president, Hastings; E. C. Larsohn, secretary and treasurer, Stromsburg; Reuben W. Ahlmann, sales manager, Fremont; C. B. Palmer, Jr., exchange manager, Bradshaw; Frank S. Parmelee, R. C. Hoyt, A. L. Jacobs, directors, all of Omaha.

Splendid opportunity for advanced collectors to secure some unique pieces. Large variety of less rare stamps also on hand. Correspondence solicited.

EUGENE KLEIN, 1318 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.

The Omaha members turned out in force and among the visitors were W. C. Ahlmann, Norfolk; Revs. Stave and Dickenson, Talmadge and W. R. King, Grand Island. Plans were adopted for an active campaign for membership among the Nebraska collectors; and non-members are urged to send in their names to the secretary. Omaha was named as the convention seat for the ensuing year.

Postmarked—One of the cleverest philatelic ideas that ever has been evolved is that which originated, we assume, in the mind of Percy McGraw Mann of Philadelphia, stamp expert, whose Philadelphia Stamp News is well remembered. As a return card on the upper left hand corner of his envelope are the full size postmarks of Percy (Miss.)—McGraw (New York)—Mann (Pa.). Under this postmark rebus is the usual printing to be found on the envelope. Percy is in five different states, Illinois, Iowa, Mississippi, New Hampshire and Pennsylvania. McGraw is found only in New York while Mann is in Missouri and New Mexico. The Mann, Pa., postmark is dated in 1905 when there was a post office of that name in Pennsylvania. The Outlook is utilizing the postmark idea in awarding a postmark book as a premium for subscriptions. The pages of the book have blank spaces, with the proper wording underneath, for the reception of the postmarks which by their arrangement tell, in a way, a story of travel or, indirectly, of incident. For instance, the Massachusetts trip is interesting, with a start from the capital, with pilgrimages to historic Concord and Lexington, old Salem, New Bedford, the port of whalers, Worcester, once in the National Base Ball League, etc. We think that there is an element of instructive interest in this postmark pursuit.

Havoc—Before we dismiss the subject of postmarks we must relay a moving tale that reached our ears some time ago. For many a day, a city collector had nursed expectations of a find of early U. S. stamps at the more or less ancestral home back in the country. Finally, he found the time to visit the home of his childhood that was now occupied by an assorted lot of relatives. Avidly our hero tracked the old correspondence to its lair, in old bureaus and secretaries in the attic and pounced upon it triumphantly. He examined it with the thrill of anticipation that we know but several times in a life-time. The stamps were there or they were represented on the envelopes in small portions. We need not dwell upon the scene of rapine. Little Blubella or cute Ignomar had carefully cut out all the different postmarks even when they fell on the stamps themselves. There were fewer duplicates of postmarks than of stamps and the work of mutilation had proceeded ruthlessly. Still, the havoc was not quite complete as some of the postmarks were clear of the stamps. It was ironical, however, that the best stamps were the ones that were slashed.

Early—Only in a relative sense is the precanceled stamp described by our correspondent an early variety as there are a good many examples of precancellation on the one cent, design of 1870. Mr. Albert L. Fox writes to tell of a variety that we may not have spoken of heretofore: "The stamp is the one cent, 1887, on cover and is canceled by three horizontal bars of black ink running completely across the stamp. Each bar is 3 mm. wide and is separated from its fellow by a space of a quarter-inch. The cover bears the receiving stamp of Jan. 5, 1889, with the advertisement of James Vicks, Seedsman, Rochester, N. Y." It is not easy to place a valuation on a stamp of the kind as opinions vary when any variety out of the standard is under consideration.

More—Opportunity of our remarks on the use of many stamps on a single envelope, a reader tells us that a recent change in the postal rate of Guatemala to this country will have a tendency to overload with stamps, more than before, covers from that country. The rate heretofore was fifty centavos for each fifteen grams or half-ounce, approximately; it is now one hundred centavos. The last mail from Guatemala brings a new surcharge in black in two lines: "Veinticinco—Centavos," on the bi-colored two centavos, 1902 issue.

Blocks—Since we have spoken of covers bearing almost one hundred postage stamps we have been apprised by several readers of large numbers of revenue stamps that were sometimes used in paying the tax on a document under the civil war schedule. The existence of large blocks and singles, numerically great, is vouched for by two or three correspondents. We have seen many examples of the service of many smaller denomination revenue stamps to make up a higher rate and almost any claim in this regard is credible. We have owned a sheet of one hundred two cent yellow, U. S. Internal Revenue, that was used on a document and a surprising fact in connection with the sheet was that each stamp was laboriously cancelled in pen and ink in the prescribed way, or with the initials of user and date.

SUBMITTED TO YOU

READ! THINK! PONDER! REFLECT!

Believing in a square deal and realizing that we are the only people that describe packets as containing all different POSTAGE STAMPS—none torn or damaged—and offering them under an Iron Clad Guarantee of Absolute Satisfaction or Money Back, we APPEAL directly to your JUDGMENT and submit FACTS.

Briefly,—"Damaged" stamps are worthless. Revenues, reprints, locals, envelopes, cut cards and telegraph "stamps" are of little or no value.

THEN, WHY IS IT that you collectors will buy lots simply described as "so many diff." or "varieties of stamps"? Is it because the PRICE seems LOW and you do not THINK?

"Stamps" include all the above mentioned worthless JUNK as well as POSTAGE—if nothing is stated about CONDITION have you any GROUNDS to complain on, if the stamps are half damaged?

DEMAND all different POSTAGE stamps—none torn or damaged, and buy under a guarantee that PROTECTS you against LOSS.

AUCTION SALE

On Nov. 23rd and 24th I will re-enter the Auction Field and hold a sale of a very good collection of stamps. The collection contains a good assortment of the medium priced stamps and numerous sets and mixed lots that will appeal to the general collector, with a nice line of 20th Century stamps.

SEND ME YOUR NAME.

A post card will do, if you are interested in purchasing at auction, even though your name is on my list. I want the names of all auction buyers, it will be to your interest as well as mine. [48]

THE STAMP DEALER AND HIS STOCK.

By BILL BLOSS.

CHAPTER X.—Using the Premium to Attract Trade.

Since it is necessary to appeal to the customer in order to sell to him, the dealer who uses the most attractive line of appeal will get the business. Human nature the world over, from the beginning of time, is attracted by "something for nothing" or presents. In the early days, if a traveler wished to secure safety and the favor of a monarch through whose territory he was passing, he sent him gifts. Today the merchant desires the favor of the customer, so he sends him gifts. It is his way of saying, "I appreciate your business. You make me successful. Therefore to show you that I appreciate your favor, I give you this little gift." Go into the corner grocery. The grocer offers you two lines of starch. With one you get a souvenir spoon, and the other offers you nothing. Which will you buy? Really, now, don't you prefer to walk a half block farther and buy your cigars (or candy, if you don't smoke) from a dealer who offers you a coupon? The cigars are the same in both stores. Are you any different from your customer?

I Have Been Asked by Dealers

why the premium is a success. It costs money to give premiums away. No apparent results are seen for the money invested. However, it is a well-proven fact that business increases when premiums are added, so the results are there. Like much advertising, premiums must be charged to indirect results. The American Tobacco Company, Proctor and Gamble, United Cigar Stores Company, and a host of other concerns guided by bigger financiers than the largest stamp company can boast of, have worked out the problem, and they find that it pays. If you were buying from approvals, wouldn't you buy from the man who offered you the same stamps at the same price as the other man, and threw in another set of stamps? You will say that the cost of the premium must come out of your profit. It does. The sales it brings enables you to sell so many more stamps that the price of the premium can be well afforded.

Now, Mr. Man who says that "I spend enough money on advertising. I can't afford a premium." What kind of advertising are you spending it on? Why not spend some of it on the premium for advertising? Pretty soon you will find yourself able to spend more money on space advertising to advertise the premium. Of course, in order to Work a Successful Premium System, it is necessary to make all advertising cooperate with it. If possible, it should be well advertised by space advertising in the leading channels. Make it known that you give premiums with your goods.

In giving premiums, the different concerns have found it advisable not to give a premium in the line they are selling. However, the stamp dealer has a narrower field to choose from. He might give hinges, or small stock books, or catalogues, or tongs, or accessories away in place of stamps. Stamps themselves make excellent premiums, but care should be used to see that they do not conflict with stamps offered. That is, don't give a man what you are apt to sell him. Set aside a certain line for premiums, and confine yourself to that line. Don't take them from your general stock.

A Feature Generally Overlooked

by the stamp houses is one of continuous giving of premiums. Out of a hundred dealers who will pay the customer to try their first lot, not two will pay him to continue his business with them. Result: He moves around from house to house until he benefits no dealer. Consider that the first lot must bear the expense of indexing, investigating, opening account, beside usual expenses. The profit lies in continued sales. Why not pay him to continue his purchases? Let this be an example of the possibility of giving premiums:

A sends out a sheet selling at 25c, with premium, as follows:

Selling price of sheet	.250
Cost of sheet	.076
Cost of premium	.020
Cost of postage, etc.	.030
	.126

Profit

.124

The profit of 12.4c is certainly large enough to reimburse any dealer for his labor, investment, advertising, losses, and running expense. Allowing 20% net for these latter items (which is more than enough) the dealer can take out 20% for profit, and still have 2.4c left. Why not use this for a reward to the customer for his courtesy in spending his money with you? With that amount, you could offer him a stamp listing 15c. Certainly, after receiving such a present, he would feel kindly disposed to you, and would not only give you his business, but would pass the word around among his friends. Wouldn't this pay you? However, the above amount is more than necessary. The writer considers a premium listing 20% of the net amount sufficient to give for remittances. In his past experience, he has found this system a good business getter and keeper (the more important of the two).

In Giving a Premium,

give something worth while. Don't be stingy. Get a really good stamp or set, different from the other fellow's premium, and something that you would be attracted by yourself. Don't economize by giving away the contents of your damaged box. Give them something that will be appreciated, or else don't give anything. Bear in mind that the better the premium, the better the results.

The following are some good premiums to use to attract trade:

5 unused South American stamps (cost about 2c a set).
5 unused picture stamps (very successful).
10 Animal stamps.
63 good foreign stamps (odd number for distinction).
Stamp cataloguing 25c (can be had for 3c each):

In offering premiums like the above, do not ask the customer to send 2c for postage. Remember that he can buy many of these premiums for 2c or 3c. Such petty requests do not reflect credit on the dealer. Pay your own postage and pay his, too, if it will get his business. There are Countless Ways of Giving Premiums, numberless premiums to give, and myriads of questions to be asked on the subject. Since this space is limited, let me ask you fellows who decide to make use of this article to study the other fellows' ways of doing it (not only the stamp dealers, but any premium house) then devise your own schemes and ask me the essential questions on the subject. I am always glad to hear from everybody and I spend at least twenty-two hours a day answering your

UNITED STATES.—J. M. Bartels submits specimens of the 1c and 2c stamps current on unwatermarked paper, and reports that the 5c value is also out on the same paper.

William J. Prinzing has shown us a pair of the 2c, 1908-09 design perforated 12 vertically through the middle of each stamp.

Mr. Prinzing also submits a specimen of the current 10c Special Delivery stamp, with about a quarter of the top line of the tablet containing the words, "United States of America" missing at the right. The stamp also has the broken circle around the right hand "10" in the lower corner. Mr. Prinzing also shows us the same stamp, with broken circle, but with the top line of tablet intact.

Mr. Prinzing also submits an interesting lot of colored cancellations from all over the country showing that the Post Office Department's regulation regarding the use of nothing but black ink is allowed to fall into "innocuous desuetude" in many offices. In the lot are carmine, greenish black, rose, maroon, red and purple.

Mr. Prinzing has also shown us a 41c paid permit, and a double provisional permit, 9c on 4c on 5c, both from New Haven, Conn.

Jac. Meyer submits for our inspection a curious cover which may have been noted in past years. It was mailed with a 2c orange revenue stamp as payment for postage, but was held up by the New Orleans post office and marked "Illegal Stamp." In the upper left-hand corner, however, is a printed label signed "Thoughtful" giving a New Orleans P. O. box for an address. The party sends this message to the one addressed:—

"This letter was dropped in the office without a stamp and consequently would have been forwarded to the Dead Letter Office, did I not realize the sometimes great importance of a letter reaching its address, and pay the necessary postage. For this favor you will please return what may seem to you an equivalent for its value and importance, to be used in like good work." Affixed to the label and envelope is a 2c, 1869.

CANADA.—Charles E. Fisher has submitted specimens of the new "1Tc" brown stamps of Canada. They came from Toronto and Winnipeg showing that their use is becoming quite general, even under the restriction prescribed in the official circular recently submitted by J. D. Cox.

CHILE.—Braulio Bittencourt has submitted specimens of three new stamps, placed on sale in Santiago during the last week in August. Sr. Bittencourt says that the stamps are lithographed, but there is evidently some mistake about this, as one is plainly engraved, the 5c value. This is a reproduction of the 5c of 1911, with the portrait of Admiral Cochrane instead of Admiral O'Higgins. The new 20c is a rougher imitation of the 20c of 1911, but the new 4c is in the type of the 2c of 1912-13. Both have all the appearance of being typographed, though our correspondent says they are lithographed.

Adhesives.

5c blue.

DANISH WEST INDIES.—J. M. Bartels has shown us the 50 bit postage due stamp, with a new perforation, 14x14½ instead of 13.

MOZAMBIQUE.—Hubert Lyman Clark has shown us a cover from the East Coast of Africa with a war stamp affixed, which we have neither seen, nor has any mention of it come to our notice. The cover was mailed from the United States Consulate at Lourenzo Marquez, Aug. 17, 1916, and was franked with Scott's No. 83 of that Colony, 50r brown, overprinted "Republica" in carmine. In addition the cover bore a war tax stamp of large size, 37½x25 mm. reading "Taxe de Guerra" at the bottom, and "Republica Portuguesa" at the top. An oval shield, supported by allegorical female figures, is placed in the centre of the stamp, with "Correio—Mocambique" and the value "1c". The tablet bearing the words "Republica Portuguesa" is supported at the sides by pillars terminating in the shields of the Colony and the mother country. Other symbolical figures appear, giving the stamp quite an elaborate character. It is printed on white paper and rouletted. Mr. Clark calls attention to the singular fact that a Mozambique stamp appears on a Lourenzo Marquez letter, as the Colonies are a thousand miles apart.

several cloth covers carrying $12 to $20 postage in $5, $2, and $1 stamps. Without doubt this same thing has happened in many other localities away from the railroads and express offices, and there is no reason why the United States mint should not have information showing shipments of considerably greater value than those mentioned above."—W. G. SWART.

—Buddie Lewis, Springfield, Ohio, wants to thank those WEEKLY readers who have sent him stamps in response to the request in the WEEKLY some months ago. He had no fewer than two hundred and five replies, and has been kept busy all summer sorting over the lots received.

ADLETS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world.

RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

Advertising Chat

Our issue of last week speaks for itself.

If you are dealing in stamps and do not use the WEEKLY you are indeed short-sighted. There is really no excuse for not using our paper, as we have rates to accommodate all. Adlet space at 20c per line is the cheapest stamp advertising in the world and the contract rate of 15c per line is an incontrovertible bargain.

W. F. Ferguson, 280 Fourth Ave., N. Y. City, who has been "in the service", resumes advertising in the WEEKLY and takes a block of fifty lines of adlet space. Mr. Ferguson is a member of the leading stamp societies and used our paper frequently last season.

An English advertiser, J. E. Lea of Manchester, has sent us a series of advertisements and assures us that weekly advertisements will be furnished this season. Mr. Lea deals at wholesale as well as retail and the text of the pieces of copy already at hand indicates a wide range of stock, including a line of rarities that few dealers can surpass. We like to do business with Mr. Lea and hope our subscribers will feel the same way.

A new house organ has appeared, "The Philatelic Post," issued by the Kingsford Stamp Co., Baraboo, Wis. Send for a copy.

We now have two Gregorys, W. F. and C. J. They are both New York dealers and we can give the Gregory family a hearty recommendation. They are both well-established dealers, especially W. F., who has for years been a Nassau St. fixture.

It will be seen this week that a new force appears in the auction field, none other than Milton P. Lyons, Jr., who has been with us as a dealer for a considerable period. Mr. Lyons is not new to auction work. For a long time he was a mainstay of the old Philadelphia Stamp Co. prior to its dissolution and the formation of the two new companies. It is therefore no experiment on Mr. Lyons' part and he will continue to hold sales as opportunity presents. If you are a buyer at auction you will do well to get your name upon his list.

An old advertiser has returned in the person of Paul W. Riedell, who has purchased the Geo. A. Hanlon business and will continue the same. Mr. Riedell made many friends in his previous connection with the WEEKLY and we crave for him a goodly portion of our subscribers' patronage.

Complaint is entered against R. J. Tarry, Box 602, Knoxville, Ill. We may add that this name and address has a familiar sound to us. Interested parties may communicate with Mrs. E. W. Oughtred, 25 Lincoln Av., Montreal, Can.

Rev. L. Meister, Aberdeen, Miss., who has spent many years in the B. W. I. before the outbreak of the war, has a large stock of 20th century stamps. Mr. Meister has used the WEEKLY to a considerable extent and his offerings this week are worth investigating.

In reading over Powell's "copy" this week one cannot but "think" and "reflect." Mr. Powell is an originator constantly developing new ideas and injecting more merit into his offerings. He is doing more than his part in putting the stamp business on a high commercial basis. The "Bonanza" lot that he is offering this week has been offered in these columns for a dozen years. This not only speaks well for the lot, but also for the WEEKLY as an advertising medium. Both have seen numerous improvements during this time, and now are recognized as leaders.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

850 pages, and the edition before us is the 21st. We shall not attempt to deal with the various departments of the book but recommend to our subscribers who may be interested the purchase of the catalog. It is listed at $1. There is a large amount of explanatory matter scattered throughout the book, clear illustrations are used and the quality of paper is excellent when one considers the dearth of paper stock even in our own country. This book may be obtained from Theodore Champion, 13 Rue Drouot, Paris, France.

WITH THE NEW PHILATELIST.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

F. M. R.—I know of no album picturing United States stamps, owing to the law forbidding this. However, it is quite possible that certain of the European albums include these illustrations. I have seen them in many of the foreign editions, but not recently. I believe a little careful study of your catalogue and some of the hand-books on this country will enable you to place your United States stamps correctly.

I have no recollection of the King George War Tax Canadian stamps being issued in coils.

The 75c Parcel Post stamp is an odd value and comparatively little used.

Mr. C. A. Howes has written a very fine work on the stamps of Canada, which is very complete. This book is probably the best authority on Canadian stamps ever published and you will do well to acquire a copy if you intend to specialize in this country. The Canadian articles now appearing in the WEEKLY will be issued in book form very shortly.

As a great quantity of all the War Tax postage stamps of Canada were issued, I do not think they will advance a great deal in price, though the surcharged values will probably increase somewhat.

Your U. S. current set is complete to 30c and is all one series if perforated 10, otherwise it is part of two issues. Why don't you purchase a catalogue, which will give you all this information and much more. It will pay you.

C. A. L.—I cannot give you the exact number of stamps issued. Including minor varieties, I should say 75,000. Of major varieties, there are probably 35,000. Scott 1916 lists 122 postage stamps of Chile, (including three new issues recently emitted).

N. J. H.—United States stamps are used in Hawaii, hence the cancellation. These are also used in Porto Rico, Alaska, and Guam. I believe your Finland stamp bears either a cancellation or private control mark, not a government surcharge.

A. K.—Your stamp is a Swiss local stamp, issued at Geneva.

G. W. H.—Many thanks for your suggestions, though most of these topics have been thoroughly covered by me in previous issues.

A. S. P.—Your Salvador stamp bearing portrait of a man with full beard, parted, is a proof. This series is very interesting, inasmuch as it was prepared for use but was issued only with the surcharge of the Coat of Arms. This is a proof of the issue of 1895 without the surcharge.

The 1879 issue of U. S. is on soft porous paper, while the previous issues are on hard paper. This issue will be treated in detail at an early date.

Your French stamps are revenues.

D. C. B.—The 2c stamp you describe is from the new plates printed on the rotary press.

J. C. A.—Used stamps often are more popular than unused for the reason that they are usually cheaper in price. However, most unused stamps are scarcer and the element of face value combined with this fact, causes them to be higher in price. This subject is too lengthy to answer here. There are advantages both pro and con. Early issues in fine condition of all countries, United States, and British Colonies are probably the best philatelic investments. Personally, I think South and Central American issues have a future. Perforation varieties are not a good investment as they are of interest only to a specialist.

P. D.—Glad you like some of my stuff and sorry you don't like the balance. U. S. Watermarks will be taken up in accordance with the series I am preparing.

A. J. N. L.—The 1$000 is the Brazilian form for 1,000 reis, and is not an error. Your idea of an exchange column has been tried out in the past and is unsuccessful inasmuch as it invites too many of the "crooked" brethren who prey upon collectors, and thus cast discredit on our paper.

C. W.—Mint O. G. means that the stamp has original gum and is exactly as it was when it left the "mint" or printing office. Most of your suggestions have been already covered, but the others will be used in the future. Premium will follow shortly.

B. C.—I should hesitate to send remittance to the far off British Colonies you mention owing to the risk of theft during the censoring of mail, not to mention the other war risks. The French China series is too complicated to explain in this short space, but an article on these issues will no doubt appear before long. See announcement elsewhere regarding the U. S. questions you ask.

J. P. B.—Double paper will be treated in detail in the U. S. articles to appear shortly.

L. B. S., Jr.—See answer to B. C. above. Your postmaster can advise you regarding what countries accept reply coupons for remittances. I should not attempt to import the issues you mention owing to war risk, which is especially great in the captured colonies. Liberia is generally an unsatisfactory country to import from, I have heard. Danish West Indies is reasonably safe, and a letter addressed to the postmaster at St. Thomas should bring you the desired stamps. Probably they can read English. This is not always the case in some countries, however, so care should be taken to write the letter in the language of the country in question.

The only way I know of obtaining covers addressed to yourself would be to send to the country and have the letters mailed to you.

C. F.—The WEEKLY is not in position at present to start such a club as you mention. In importing stamps from foreign countries, remittance should be made by postal money order payable to the postmaster at the town your letter is sent to. Some postmasters will accept U. S. currency which can be readily exchanged, but unless you are sure this arrangement is satisfactory, I should not undertake it. See answers to above correspondents.

J. H.—Most dealers have sources which will buy the unused stamps they receive in remittances. Sometimes it is necessary to discount these 5%, but usually one can dispose of them to some friend connected with a business house requiring large quantities of stamps.

J. C. M.—I am referring your letter to Mr. Frank L. Coes for his consideration.

A. J. M.—Your Hong Kong stamp may be caused by print variations, resulting in slightly different shades. This is a trick frequently used by engravers in color printing.

C. W. P.—Your 1/2d Great Britain stamp in blue is the 1/2d green with color changed by artificial means. Sea water, among other elements, will cause this change. Soak a copy of the 1/2d green stamp in a salt solution and note the result. (It will not be quite as great, however, as your specimen, as this is probably caused by some other salt than sodium chloride or table salt).

Several kinds of advertisements are found on the backs of many of the stamps of New Zealand 1873-95 type issues.

NOTE.—Owing to a special series of articles which will appear on this page in the near future, I shall be unable to attend to further inquiries, either private or through these columns, until further notice. Full information regarding this series will appear at an early date.

GREETINGS TO ALL OUR READERS.

By C. A. HOWES, F. R. P. S., Pres. American Philatelic Society.

I have been asked for a message to open the season of 1916-7, so to speak, and I am sure there is no better way of attaining that end than thru the columns of MEKEEL'S. For nearly twenty-six years, week in and week out, this paper has brought its philatelic cheer and stampic lore to the collectors of this continent, not to mention many beyond the seas; and the very fact that it is now heralding another "season" with unabated ardor, with undiminished optimism and with increased subscription list and advertising support is perhaps the best indication of the permanence and progress of our pursuit.

Philately evidently has a hold that cannot be shaken, even by cataclysms. Many are the periods of stress thru which not only individuals, but communities and even nations have passed, yet the devotees of our hobby have returned to the fold with enthusiasm unabated, although circumstance may have robbed them of their treasures. Even the world calamity now in progress, which has involved so large a portion of the human race in fratricidal conflict, and called upon the stamp collector with the rest to satisfy the lust for cannon fodder, has increased rather than diminished the interest in philately. This is really a natural result, since the "Great War" is history in the making and nothing follows history more closely, perhaps, than the issue of postage stamps.

Can it be wondered at, then, that even in the countries at war—omitting those temporarily crushed, as Belgium, Serbia and Montenegro—there has been relatively slight cessation of the stamp business, that but few philatelic journals have suspended, and that new magazines and new issues of catalogs have taken place? Stamps and stamp literature even follow "the boys" into the trenches and help to divert their minds from the terrific strain of modern warfare. And what better tonic for the convalescent warrior than to handle and study his favorite issues? Can a hobby with a hold like this ever weaken and fade away? We opine not most emphatically—And why? Because, for one thing, Philately is always "up to date", there is always "something doing", something new to keep up a possible flagging interest. Look at the present state of affairs: most of the countries concerned in the great conflict have issued "war stamps" of one sort or another, and some "neutrals" as well thru force of circumstances. Most interesting mementoes will be the "Red-Cross" stamps, so intimately connected with suffering humanity. Then the changes in issues already made thru the occupation of enemy territory, and the changes to come with the final settlement of the great dispute will serve to keep any collector on the qui vive.

With interest unflagging in war torn countries, it is no surprise to find the outlook good in neutral lands. Such at least is the indication in these United States and the "Season Opener" can call at your door with a smiling face. And the message it brings is—"Spread

1917 Price List of Stamps of the United States and Its Colonies

This list will be mailed to my customers November 1st. It is the most complete list issued, and no collector can afford to be without it. Mr. Collector, you need one.

Remember, I am Headquarters for stamps of the United States and Its Colonies.

H. F. COLMAN,

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG.,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY

CHINA AND ITS STAMPS.

By C. A. HOWES, F. R. P. S., President American Philatelic Society.

On February 13, 1897, according to Mr. Mencarini, further surcharges appeared on the revenue stamp. These were 1 cent, 2 cents and 4 cents values. Both the 1 and 2 cent stamps have the same "heading" as the 1 dollar, though in slightly larger characters, while the 4 cent stamp has identically the same "heading". The 1 cent stamp has the value reading from right to left—Tang I Fên or "worth one cent", the character for "one" being in much larger type. There are two minor varieties of this character, one having among other differences a wider "oblong box" above the two strokes at the bottom of the character. Some of the periods after "cent" are very faint and a variety is reported with it lacking entirely.

The 2 cent stamp has the "heading" of the 1 cent stamp (Ta Ch'ing Yu Ch'eng) and in addition the six characters of the regular provisional 2-cent on 2 candarins, though the value in English is in one line. There are several minor varieties in this surcharge: it comes inverted, with an inverted "s", with a broken "n", with a comma in place of the period, without the period, and with inverted "s" and no period.

The 4 cent stamp has identically the same surcharge as that applied previously to the 4 candarin stamp, with the addition of the "heading" in four smaller sized characters that is found on the 1 dollar stamp. It is a very rare stamp, however, and it is stated that but two sheets were printed—200 stamps in all. From this, and the fact that the same stamp issued later in quantity was in an altered type, it may be surmised that the "small numeral" 4 cent stamp on the 3 cent revenue was a trial setting, as was suggested in the case of the 1 dollar stamp with small Chinese value, and that copies got out by favor. Used copies do not seem to be known in this case either.

In March, 1897, the regular surcharged stamps began to appear with larger Gothic numerals, evidently for greater distinctness in the value. In general this numeral is set $2\frac{1}{2}$ mm. below the Chinese characters, except when on the revenue stamp where it is set closer because of the added "postal" heading at the top. Included with these stamps are also 2 cent and 4 cent values on the 3 cent revenue stamp. The former now has the figure above the word "cents" like the other values, and was sent by Mr. Benjamin to the Scott Co. in April, 1897, while the latter was included with the others of the new type when first issued and was forwarded by Mr. Benjamin in March. This is noted here because the "2 over 'cents'" stamp has been listed as issued before the "value in one line" stamp.

The stocks of some of the values of the 1894 issue of the Customs stamps had run out so that new printings of them for surcharging purposes had to be made and these resulted in new shades. The 9 candarin appears in emerald green and light green and the 24 candarin in dull carmine. Old stocks of the other values were used but new printings also took place resulting in a bright yellow for the 3 candarins, dull yellow green for the 2 candarins and orange for the 12 candarins.

The reference list may be made up as follows:—

space of only 1½ mm.; otherwise the surcharge remains the same. The 1 and 4 candarin stamps used now appear in new shades due to reprinting—a pale brick red for the 1 candarin and pale rose for the 4 candarin. The 2 candarin also gives us a new variety—a new stone was prepared from a retouched die in which the figure "2" was somewhat enlarged and given a straight foot instead of a curved one. Both types of the 2 candarin were surcharged, however. Mr. Mencarini states that the retouched type dates from January 1, 1897 and that it is not known unsurcharged. It was not surcharged and issued, nevertheless, until the May type of surcharge was brought into use.

This last type of surcharge also occurs on the three values of the 1885 issue. The story of this set is told in the American Journal of Philately (X:366) as follows:—

"When the provisionals were first made, all postmasters were ordered to return to Shanghai all the unsurcharged stamps in stock, in order that they might be surcharged and returned. The returns thus received included almost 43,000 sets of the 1885 issue, and these received the small type of surcharge. But the returns from Pakhoi, which is a distant port, did not arrive at Shanghai until after the type of surcharge had been altered, and the figures of value made larger, hence these belated 1000 sets received the latter type of surcharge, and were all sent back to Pakhoi and there issued in the usual way. Pakhoi is therefore the only place in China where this variety could be obtained."

These three stamps have therefore come to be known as the "Pakhoi Provisionals." This Treaty Port is on the island of Hai-nan, off the southern coast of China. Mr. Mencarini says that "so far as can be gathered from official records not a single stamp was sent to that port." Mr. Harte-Lovell, however, has four used copies which were postmarked at Pakhoi in May, 1897, and I have myself seen a couple of copies. The reference list may be made up as follows:—

Issued May, 1897; surcharge with large figures 1½ mm. below Chinese characters.

On 1894 issue, perforated 11¾.
½ cent on 3 candarins, yellow, orange yellow.
Inverted surcharge.
1 cent on 1 candarin, pale brick red.
2 cents on 2 candarins, yellow green, dull yellow green.
Without period.
Inverted surcharge.
4 cents on 4 candarins, pale rose.
Inverted surcharge.
5 cents on 5 candarins, orange, yellow.
8 cents on 6 candarins, brown.
10 cents on 9 candarins, green.
Inverted surcharge.
10 cents on 12 candarins, brown-orange, orange.
30 cents on 24 candarins, rose carmine.
On retouched type, perforated 11¾.
2 cents on 2 candarins, yellow green.
Without period.
On 1885 issue, perforated 11¾.
1 cent on 1 candarin, green.
2 cents on 3 candarins, mauve.
5 cents on 5 candarins, olive yellow.

Of the quantities issued of all these provisionals only the totals in most cases can be given, as that is all that has been published in the Post Office Report of 1904. No distinction appears to have been made in the varieties of surcharge, which is usual in reports of this kind. The Post Office Report gives the numbers printed, the numbers destroyed, and the resulting net issue for each value; and this latter figure is the one we give in the following table as the only one of interest to us in most cases:

1c on 1 candarin	410,332 stamps
1c on 3c revenue
2c on 2 candarins	859,675 stamps
2c on 3c revenue
4c on 4 candarins	237,267 stamps
4c on 3c revenue
5c on 5 candarins	157,742 stamps
8c on 6 candarins	71,020 stamps
10c on 6 candarins
10c on 9 candarins	151,308 stamps
10c on 12 candarins
30c on 24 candarins	26,236 stamps
1d on 3c revenue	7,249 stamps
5d on 3c revenue	5,000 stamps

Of the above denominations it seems probable that most of the 1 cent, 2 cents and 4 cents surcharged on the revenue stamp were issued and used (200,000 1 cent, 349,600 2 cents, both types, and 50,000 4 cents) as they were produced in the early part of the period of use of the provisionals. Of the stamps finally destroyed the larger part was very probably the last or "May" type of surcharge in most cases, most of the earlier types probably having been used up.

GEORGE W. LINN CO.,

The scarcity of the 5 dollar stamp, even though 5000 were "issued", is of course due to its use on the "remittance certificates" as the money orders are called. But the figure given for the 1 dollar (7,249) is most astonishing, as the stamp does not seem to bear out such a paucity of numbers. It is not high priced and seems to be about as common unused as used. The "Pakhoi provisionals", as already noted, were issued to the amount of 1000 for each of the three values. Of the retouched 2 candarin stamp, surcharged 2 cents, Mr. Menzies states that 202,739 were printed, but as these were the last variety to appear there were probably a large proportion in the remainders destroyed. Of the 10 cents on 6 candarins there were 20,000 printed, and as these were among the first issued probably most of them were used.

For postmarks on this new Imperial issue we also find a change. The official notification of the opening of the Imperial Post on February 2, 1897 (23rd year of the reign of Kuang Hsü, 1st Month, 1st Day) named the following places as possessing the newly constituted Imperial Post offices:—

circles in the lower half, beginning at the right, we find Su-chow Yu Chêng Chü or "Soochow Post Office." Below the Chinese date, reading to the left, is the Chinese date: ju-szu nien, szu yüeh, san-shih jih, or "24th year, 4th moon, 30th day" of the reign of Kuang Hsü of course. These postmarks were intended to be struck on the letter and the stamps to be cancelled by an obliterator, the latter being a device from the "64 hexagrams"—combinations of six lines made up by taking the pa kua or "eight diagrams" already spoken of and combining them two and two. A special "hexagram" was given each of the offices in the above list and the Soochow office can be recognized by the following:—

The obliterations, however, were not employed altogether, and we find the postmarks largely used to cancel the stamps. The old Customs postmarks were also used occasionally and some of the latter had the word "CUSTOMS" removed and were regularly used in that way.

THE SEASON'S PROSPECTS.

AN OPTIMISTIC SPIRIT PREVAILS AMONGST THE TRADE.

By WILLARD O. WYLIE.

In philately, what concerns the dealing end has a reflection in the value of the collector's possessions; the interests of the one are the interests of the other. When we consider the rise and fall of values, conclusions are weighed by both parties. Say what you will, the great proportion of our readers are interested in stamp values, and this is natural in these very practical days.

This month of October has been a phenomenal month in the stamp business. We have never seen an October so full of business as this month has been, and a glance at the four issues of the WEEKLY will bear out our statement. We published a 12 pp. paper in September and should have run one October 14 had we known in season what was coming in the way of advertising. Here is another 12 pp., and others will follow. It looks as though the business prospects back of stamp collecting will within a few years enable us to publish a 12 paged paper from October to May.

The appearance of the 1917 catalog thus early will prove a great boon to the trade, and the publishers are entitled to great credit for their up-to-dateness. Dealers generally recognize the value of the early issue of the Scott catalog.

It is difficult to indicate any special lines that are so much in demand as to sidetrack other stamps. Good U. S. are always popular, the war issues are great favorites, the revolutionary Mexican issues have been advertised from every angle, also South and Central American provisional issues, British Colonials, new issues of all countries—a wide range of desirables in stamp collecting, surely. A great interest in U. S. precancels has been developed, several dealers handling nothing else.

The publishers of the WEEKLY are greatly pleased with the demand for their books reprinted from the WEEKLY. This demand indicates something more than an ephemeral interest in our hobby. No collection is complete and no collector is fully equipped for his pleasure without possessing all the literature that is available. Our book list is a marvel of cheapness.

Sending in their advertising copy this week, some dealers had a word to say about prospects, and we quote from some of the letters received:—

J. M. BARTELS, of the J. M. Bartels Co., New York City:—

"The total sales of our firm will this year exceed any previous record by thousands of dollars and never has the outlook for a good season been more propitious. Many collectors, formerly in moderate circumstances, have been sharing in the general prosperity of the country and are now able to invest more liberally in their favorite lines. As a result sales in stamps have increased heavily, especially in all high grade material of which there is an ever increasing scarcity. Importations from Europe have practically ceased. There are therefore poor prospects of replenishing stocks from the other side and the drain upon dealers' supplies on this side is correspondingly heavier. This condition must continue at least until some time after the War. Prices at auction sales for the best quality of old issues and unusual items of almost any kind have never been higher, therefore the season's prospects are most favorable from a business point of view."

P. M. WOLSIEFFER, the veteran dealer and manager of the Philadelphia Stamp Co.:—

"We have every reason to believe that the season is going to be a good one, particularly in the better grade stamps in fine condition. Our demands for real fine material, especially early issues of United States stamps, and European stamps are greater than the supply. Not only have we inquiries from collectors for the best grade of stamps, but the trade as well frequently write us for gilt edge stamps in fine condition, many times offering to pay more than the current retail or catalog prices on certain things.

The auction season opens up very strong. It is really surprising to see the large number of bids that we have received for the big miscellaneous lots in the sale just held. No doubt considerable of this is due to the popularity of the owner, the late H. Wesley Legg. Practically all the stamps in these large lots were in fine condition, and we notice that whenever we can say a lot in an auction sale is fine our bids are practically twice as strong as usual.

It is my opinion that as soon as the new catalog comes out, business will start with a swing, and I would not be surprised to see it booming before the Christmas holidays. The better class of buyers are more numerous than the apparent supply of fine stamps.

We are also very optimistic that there will be a great revival in the selling of cheap sets, packets, albums, etc., for the beginner. Various inducements are being made, and the advertising and missionary work that is under way should help this along very materially."

B. L. DREW, of B. L. Drew & Co.:—

"We are not worrying over this coming season's business. Every indication leads us to believe that stamps of all grades will be absorbed as never before."

PERCIVAL PARRISH, Managing Partner Franklin Stamp Co.:—

"I am decidedly optimistic. Although it is yet early we have made some exceedingly large sales and the large number of bids coming in for auctions indicate a wide-spread interest. There are very few collections being sold at this stage, most of the property coming to us for sale being from estates or the families of deceased collectors. The country is prosperous as never before and this prosperity is being left in the stamp business. It seems likely to continue throughout the entire season."

EUGENE KLEIN of Philadelphia:—

The past summer was the first one in my experience that there was no let up in business, and as we are entering into the fall season, business has even become better, and I feel quite certain that all stamp dealers are on the threshold of a great prosperity. While the demand for United States stamps has continued to be good, it was even better for new issues and especially for war issues of all countries, in spite of the speculative taint adhering to some of them.

The prospect of stamp collections coming on the market is very small, judging from the announcements of stamp auctions. So far, the auctions in New York and Philadelphia have been well attended and fine stamps sold for unusually high prices. I had the good fortune to attend the Morgenthau sale of the Appleyard collection of imperforate pairs and blocks. The unusually high prices realized for stamps even of unpopular countries indicate that there is a ready market to absorb anything really fine. The same thing holds true of the Ams collection sold at auction by the J. M. Bartels Co. In this sale, many twentieth century British Colonial stamps of a face value exceeding $50 sold at considerably more than face value; in many cases at a very gratifying advance above the original investment. The high prices and great demand may partly be due to suspended communication between America and Germany. It is worthy of mention, that the demand for stamps in England is exceptionally good and that a good deal of English money is coming to this country for stamps of the old issues, while large sums of money go to England for new issues. The present high prices paid for new issues and especially for war issues will seem very low after the war when business will again be established and the collectors of the countries now at war will be ready to fill up their collections with stamps that they have missed.

"There is no question in my mind but that the season of 1916-17 will witness the high water mark of enthusiasm in stamp collecting. This will apply to collecting along both general and specific lines, and I confidently expect better business this year than any year I have been dealing. We cannot begin to meet the want-lists of our customers, which indicates the lack of market supply of first class material."

VAHAN MOZIAN:—

"In my business as a stamp auctioneer I notice a great deal of activity amongst stamp collectors, and this is especially true of the out-of-town collectors. Inquiries are plentiful for good U. S. stamps and for many lines of foreign."

CANAL ZONE STATIONERY.

(This addition to the chapter on "Canal Zone Stationery" in Dr. Evans' book is due to the alert eye of Harry E. Huber, who informed us of the omission and sent in a description of the card in question.—Ed.)

In 1913 a card was issued having a larger portrait of Balboa in a more compressed frame, with the words "AMERICAN BANK NOTE CO. NEW YORK" below the design in small sans serif capitals. The colors were not changed. The "CANAL ZONE" surcharge reads downward, is in larger letters than on the other postal cards, and has a period after "ZONE". The size of the card and the inscriptions are the same as those of the earlier cards.

COMMUNICATIONS.

TO THE EDITOR:—

I am informed through trade circles allied with the printing lines that some of our bank notes and quite a number of our current postage stamps are being printed or lithographed on "Off-set presses."

If this is correct there will be a merry time among the collectors who are interested in "shades."

It may not commonly be known, but it is nevertheless a fact, that the shade will vary on the production of these presses every time they are started up.

This does not mean that they change the color of the ink, because the ink will be the same for possibly weeks and months. The variation in the shade of the printing arises through the process, the printing being done from a rubber blanket. The ink from the fountain is first put on the metal cylinder containing the engraving. This metal roller or cylinder then offsets the ink upon the rubber blanket, and the printing is done from the rubber.

It takes quite a number of revolutions of impressions before the ink is uniformly offset as to quantity and distribution.

This means furthermore that if the Government is going to economize on its printing that we will have no more stamps printed on steel plates direct.

Very truly yours,
H. M. WEINSTOCK,
Kenosha, Wis.

TO THE EDITOR:—

Can you satisfy a subscriber's curiosity by advising me where are all the proofs, essays, etc., of U. S. stamps, both postage and revenue, coming from at this time? The stamp journals contain numerous advertisements offering them for sale and quite a few of the auction catalogues reaching me have them listed. Is this purely a coincidence or has a source of supply been recently discovered? I would be pleased if you could give space for an answer to my query in the WEEKLY, as the question seems to be one of general interest.

Yours truly,
MALCOLM H. GARSSEN, Norristown, Pa.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The Montclair (N. J.) Philatelic Society opened its third season auspiciously. Twenty-one were present and three new members elected.

—Counterfeit U. S. postage stamps are said to be circulating in and around Los Angeles, Cal. The Imperial Valley is credited as being responsible.

—"Cannot you make arrangements to furnish a self-binder for the WEEKLY? I am sure many of your readers would gladly pay a dollar or so for one. Pardon me for bringing this to your attention again,—but it's a real necessity for the proper use of your valuable publication."—C. B. B. Wright. (As yet we have found no binder that seems to meet the need voiced by our correspondent.—Ed.)

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Arthur J. Martin, W. C. Bartlett, T. H. Ames (2), Herman W. Boers, L. M. Mitcham, Matt Simuvich.

—In a recent number of the Amateur Photographers' Weekly is to be found a "Title Competition." Print No. 32 submitted by Herman W. Boers, Detroit, Mich., is pictured in the number before us. It consists of a cat mounted upon a tall pole and Mr. Boers intimates that the photo of his "pole cat" must have been a good one, for the publishers to have made use of it.

—We are informed by Maitland Miliken of the death of L. J. Moulton, a stamp dealer of Boulder, Colo. It will be remembered that Mr. Moulton was an occasional user of adlet space. His stock of stamps has been disposed of.

—Some two weeks ago we called attention to the operations of one Virgil K. Yowell of St. Louis, Mo., and requested interested parties to communicate with J. C. Jay, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa. Mr. Jay already has three complaints and would be glad to hear from other parties. Stamp papers will please copy.

SALVADOR STAMPS SURCHARGED "S".

By A. W. DUNNING.

(Mr. Dunning is aware of the fact that the Managing Editor is rather particular as regards accepting philatelic poetry. In sending in this bit of news Mr. Dunning drops into poetry, as witness:—

I've tried you on verse, now I'll try you on prose, which may take off the curse, on my writing—who knows?

As some one might say, I'll spin you a "spiel", on SALVADOR, C. A., which to you may appeal, for the facts come to me, direct and first hand, which I think you'll agree, is what the public demand.

And I have no doubt, that your gods will be thanked, when in doting this out, you find my verse "blanked."—Ed.)

When the 1912 issue was discontinued, the Postmaster General ordered a new series to be printed from the plates that served for the "palace" issue in 1907 and had them surcharged "S", meaning Salvador. The regular number were sent to Berne for U. P. U. distribution. This issue was only in use, however, for a few days, being very soon withdrawn from circulation and replaced by the "1915" issue. The reason for this change was as follows:—

From a local source the Postmaster General was "bothered" by the report that he wanted a special stamp of his own, and that the "S" was intended to stand for "SOUZA", which is his name. In spite of this report being somewhat foolish, it was really the cause of the withdrawal of the issue. The remainders of the "S" issue were sold to a certain person of San Salvador.

OUR BOOSTER COUPONS.

We have recently issued a new style subscription coupon based on a six months' new subscription to the WEEKLY. We give in connection with this coupon a premium to the new subscriber and also a premium or cash commission to the subscription-getter.

There has been a good demand for these premium coupons, but we want a larger demand. Our roll of honor list included the following, who have sent in two or more subscriptions:—

Edgewood Stamp Co.,	12
Royal Stamp Co.,	4
H. S. Powell Co.,	2
Raymond E. Scheerer,	2

We shall publish this list from time to time and trust the honor roll will take on large proportions before the season is over.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Here—It has been said that while time may be measured by instruments, there is no clock to thunder "down the corridors of time" the beginning of a new era. So it is with the stamp season. We know that it opens each year but the hour that the new philatelic year makes its appearance eludes us. Roughly, it may be said that the season is on soon after the first few weeks of school are past and routine has been established. The weather conditions are of prime importance and no matter what the calendar says, warm evenings are not conducive to a revival of philatelic activity. When there is frost in the air, the attractions of the stamp album under the cheerful light become irresistible. It is not premature to announce that the new season is here. Let the catalogue come, the sooner the better, so that there may be no check upon the rising tide of philatelic enthusiasm for the season of 1916-17.

Plain—It is unnecessary to indulge in any extended glorification of the prospects for the year as there is a feeling of conviction generally that all is well with stamps this season. Indeed, it would be amazing if in this year of philatelic wonders, there would not be a responsive throb in the philatelic breast. The intensely interesting issues that have attended the disturbances of the world war have added to the fascinations of collecting and the philatelist feels that he is a favored factor. He is living in stirring times and the quickening of his pulse means that his pursuit of the objects of his regard will be more eager than ever before.

Cheering—Here we are pleased to make room for a hopeful view from St. Nicholas, the publication that is doing worthy work in proclaiming the pleasures of stamp collecting: "We in this office believe absolutely in the future of philately and in the destiny and leadership of St. Nicholas in preaching the gospel to the thousands of young Americans all over this broad land. The youngsters of today are the men and women of tomorrow and not the least results of today's efforts will be that the growing generation will get from its parents a greater appreciation of the hobby than is held by the mothers and fathers today. The situation is ideal. We get results immediately and as the impressions of childhood are lasting, the enthusiasm created now will not cease until long after you and I are too old to care. Stamp collecting is entering on a new era. We are glad to be identified with it."

Ingenious—Mr. B. Abraham has shown us a novelty post card that came from Melbourne, Victoria, that we understand is sold for the benefit of one of the soldiers' funds. On the reverse or picture side are two figures,—a typical old maid is chasing a rooster and clutching at his tail. As she pulls out a feather, she soliloquizes: "He loves me, —He Loves me not." The scurrying fowl expostulates: "Let go, Flora, I'm off to the front." The "characters" are most cleverly made from pieces of the green half-penny stamp, the one penny red and the four pence orange, Australia, current issue. This "comic" is a most ingenious creation and should be seen to be appreciated.

Worst—A reader rises in his seat and in a piping voice calls attention to a fact that he thinks should go thundering down the philatelic ages. He avers that of all the recent issues of U. S. stamps the one that is most elusive in fine used condition is the ten cent registration stamp of lamented memory. Out of over 2,000 copies that he received on business mail from all sections of the country, he can classify only 150 as well centered and not heavily canceled, or as fine copies.

Questioned—A reader whose communication appears elsewhere calls attention to the prolificity of U. S. proofs and essays in advertisements, auction sales and the general marts of trade. He asks: "Is this purely a coincidence or has a source of supply recently been discovered?" We do not pretend to speak ex cathedra, but we believe that any augmented supply of these varieties may be attributed to the release of several large collections or sets of proofs and essays in piece-meal lots. We were informed that there were several duplicate lots of these stamps at the time, one of which was offered to us, that if not sold intact would be broken up for sale, with the result that odd and single pieces would become available. Since the scandal in connection with the four-cent Pan-American invert over twelve years ago, the somewhat irregular manner in which proofs were distributed has been corrected. It is possible that some reader may be able to furnish us with fact, rather than surmise, in this connection.

Twisted—The following letter comes from Mr. John H. Vale, Philippines, and is a remarkable exposition of the case as seen by the other fellow: "The following extract from a letter just received from Dr. E. Rodriguez, Cebu, P. I., owner of the 'Rodriguez' collection of Philippine stamps, which is understood to be the greatest specialized collection of Philippine stamps in the world, may prove of some interest at some time or other to your readers as showing the foreigner's opinion of the kaleidoscopic changes in the U. S. stamps. The original letter in Spanish (the doctor does not read, write or speak English) I do not forward, but trust that the translation will suffice: 'I cannot understand what object the Postmaster General of the United States has in view with these very frequent changes in the stamps, now perforated 10; now with new values such as the seven and the eleven cent, and lastly, as you have advised me and of which I was heretofore ignorant, the appearance of the new series without watermark and perforated 11. If he continues in this manner, changing at each instant the perforation of the stamps, the result will be three or four series all the same which will differ by being perforated 10, 11 and—to-morrow, perforated 14 or 15. Does it not appear that they are playing? Nicaragua, Guatemala and others have been and are amusing themselves with surcharges of new values; Mexico by reason of the war has been playing with the surcharge G. C. M. vertical, horizontal, inclined, round, square, etc. Does it not seem that they are giving us lessons in geometry? And now the United States, because surcharges do not please them, are amusing themselves with the teeth of the stamps; it would be better to perforate them 32, equal to the number of teeth the humans have.' The underscoring is the Doctor's; he is not attempting to be witty, but writes in desperation."

Argument—We can believe that our issues have suffered a demoralization in the mind of Dr. Rodriguez and that not unnaturally, he thinks that he has grounds for placing us on a parity with several of the philatelically submerged countries. The varieties of U. S., as filed in the indictment, do exist—the perforated 11, unwatermarked, will soon displace the present unwatermarked perforated 10,—but it is the appearance of evil that has contaminated our recent stamps in the minds of those who are removed from the scene. All the changes, so puzzling to the one afar, were dictated by business progress and improved production and were effected with a fine disregard for philatelic opinion. We know, too, that the issue of odd denominations was in answer to a demand for such values. We should say that the philatelic complications that have ensued are the result of the modern demand for increased efficiency, to speak broadly.

THE STAMP DEALER AND HIS STOCK.

By BILL BLOSS.

CHAPTER XI.—Advertising.

I am not posing as an expert stamp dealer, nor do I try to make my articles complete. I merely try to dispose of a very few of the obstacles that rise in the path of the new stamp dealer. Were I an expert on advertising or any other of the subjects I write about, my time would be worth too much to write articles for even the world's best stamp paper. However, I believe my articles are helping a few who lack even my limited experience.

Advertising the Key to Business.

Without advertising very few, especially of the new dealers, could prosper. Of course, there is direct and indirect advertising. A dealer without effort on his part may win fame if he can supply every stamp in a certain line the way the people want it, or if some particular feature of his business is different from the ordinary run. That is indirect advertising.

Direct advertising is divided into many classes, too numerous to list here. It consists of newspaper, classified and displayed; circular and individual letter; premiums; etc.

Continuing our remarks of last week, let us consider our friends, Anderson and Jones. Having prepared their stock as previously explained, they are now ready to advertise. We will consider their displayed advertising first.

Anderson has prepared a fine line of American approvals, which he handles almost exclusively. He wishes to attract a little attention to his advertising, as he is unknown, hence he makes use of many of the well known psychological points of advertising. First he uses the Mystery.

In advertising, this feature consists of copy so worded as to arouse the curiosity of the reader without disclosing the identity of the advertiser. Properly handled, this feature will bring results. If, however, the campaign is not brought to a head at the right moment, the attention of the reader will decrease. Wrigley's "Spearmint" was introduced by this method. Movie fans are doubtless familiar with the campaigns to attract attention to the affairs of "Kathlyn" or "Zudora" or the "Dangers of Diana" or "The Sins of Sarah," as the case may be. My own campaign introducing my "Blue Books" held recently in this paper brought very good results.

To get back to our friend Anderson. He believes that a few short spaces are better than one long one, since each advertisement makes an impression on the mind of the reader, and many impressions are better than one. Large single spaces in a campaign of this kind are unnecessary unless something is to be told in detail. The less detail to mystery advertising, the better. Hence, Anderson runs the following one line displayed adv.:

What Does Anderson Sell?

Who is Anderson?

Why Should I Buy From Anderson?

After two or three insertions of advertising of this kind, Anderson announces his American Approvals on this order:

ANDERSON'S AMERICAN APPROVALS make good collections better. Only clean, well-centered, lightly cancelled or O. G. stamps included, at honest prices. No speculative or other trash included. Personal attention to all orders gives my clients satisfaction.
A. ANDERSON, BIGTOWN, TEXAS.

The readers who have been wondering who Anderson was have found out. If they collect his line, they will be anxious to see if his stamps are as good as he says they are. He appeals to them because he claims to have the kind of books they are looking for. The fact that he believes in personal service shows that he is in harmony with progressive business ideas. Therefore, he attracts the people by his advertising.

Now let us consider our friend Jones. He lacks advertising ability so he advertises his common-place approvals as follows and keeps the same copy week after week, without change, because it is too much bother to write a new ad each time.

TRY MY 50% DISCOUNT SELECTIONS of stamps on approval. 100 stamps free with every lot. Please write to J. JONES, NOPLACE, IOWA.

Let us compare the two advertisements. In Anderson's, his display is attractive for the reason that he explains what Anderson sells, and this is the point he has been working up to. Had he announced he would have attracted little attention, since 50% discount approvals are as common as fleas on a goat, and the display must arouse the curiosity of the reader if it is to hold his attention through the whole space. After the announcement, the display would not attract much attention for the reason that the reader would not care to learn about Anderson or his approvals. But, since they are wondering who Anderson is, and what he sells, they seize this opportunity to satisfy their curiosity.

Consider Jones's copy. Don't you ask yourself why you should try his approvals? Why should you? Does he tell you anything about them? From his advertisement you learn only two things, the first being that he sends selections of stamps instead of bread labels or cigar bands, the second that he offers you a premium for trying them. We will discuss the premium later. If Jones had said, "Try my 50% Discount Approvals," wouldn't we have known just as much? Three words would have been saved. Any reader of intelligence knows that he sends selections of stamps, not a hundred of the same stamp. Also, every reader knows that the word "approvals" signifies "selections of stamps" when it appears in an advertisement of this nature. Now consider the phrase "please write to." Naturally, the reader will write to Jones if he wants the selections, unless he telephones him, or cables him, or calls on him. If he does any of these things, isn't it just as satisfactory to Jones? In Anderson's advertisement, we learn just what kind of stamps he includes in his approvals, and the way he tells us makes us anxious to buy them. We hope that he can supply us with the kind of goods he claims, otherwise we will stop trading with him. It is by inserting "specimen copy." The reader will have to make a study of the copy of other dealers and pattern his accordingly. If any advertiser has difficulty in writing copy that pulls results, if he will submit some of his "copy" to me, I will gladly point out to him where he is making his mistake. The chief mistake the amateur makes is to copy the style of some other dealer. Many dealers have the idea that writing an advertisement is the simplest part of the stamp business, and that any jumble of words will do the business. Forget it. Advertising is just deep enough to be over the head of the dealer who doesn't think, and a lot of thinkers would do better if they would sit down and study their own advertisements, and see if they would answer them if they were looking for stamps. Let us consider

The Question of Making Up Copy.

In the first place, unless you are experienced in printing, or have some particular reason for giving the printer advice, let him use his own judgment on how to set up your advertising. Keep a carbon copy of your "copy" and compare it with the finished advertisement. In this way, you will learn about how much to write for a two inch space. Where a paper allows fourteen lines to the inch, and seven words to the line, remember that the seven words are ordinary sized, not a selection of the longest words in the language. By comparison of past copy, study the length of the lines. Remember that while fourteen lines can be crowded into an inch of space, that no room for display is left. Also, when the reader has to examine your advertisement with a reading glass, he will pass it up and put in his time looking through some 8c 1895 for an "I. R." watermark. Limit your inch space to fifty words at the most, and make it twenty if you can tell the story in that number. The fewer, the better.

Anderson inserts the following advertisement:

U. S. $1 1902 Cat. .40Price .10
U. S. $1 1894 Cat. 1.0030
U. S. $1 1895 Cat. .5060
U. S. $1 1898 Cat. 2.00 1.20
U. S. $1 Columbian 3.00 1.50
* U. S. $1 Parcel Post 1.75 1.50

Jones inserts the following in same sized space.

LOOK!

U. S. 241 at 1.10; 261 at 25c; 276 at 15c; 292 at 50c; 311 at 8c; 460 at 1.10; Set 294 to 299 at 45c; 312 at 2.35 unsd. 218 at 60c; 275a unsd. 1.10.

Both of these advertisements contain practically the same offers, though Jones' prices are lowest. Anderson uses as a leader a $1.00 1902 listing at 40c, which he sells at cost, or 10c, to attract customers. His items are clear, and the collector can see at once what stamps are offered, and if he is familiar with U. S. stamps, will readily see if he needs any of the stamps offered and can order without further loss of time.

Now turn to Jones' advertisement. His display is excellent. It attracts your attention. You look, and see a big mess of figures that means you must either get out your catalogue and laboriously check over prices, or take a chance. Not being of a gambling turn of mind, you decide to pass up Jones' remarkable offers, hence Jones loses a customer and you lose some bargains, but save some of your good time.

Too many advertisers have the idea that the more is jammed into a space, the more money will be gotten out of it. Hence, advertisements like Jones' are not uncommon. The average reader values his time too much to plod through such messes of figures as these. If he wants to solve a puzzle, he turns to Sam Lloyd, not to Jones' advertisement. If he wants to buy goods, he is liable to turn to Anderson because he sees what he wants and doesn't have to investigate it in a catalogue or solve a code before he knows if the price is right.

are articles offered at attractive prices to bring trade and are usually sold at or below cost. No attempt at a profit should be made from a leader, or in fact from any stamp advertised in this way unless an enormous volume of business is received. Make your profit by selling to the customers after they buy the leader stamp and give you a chance to circularize them with the merits of your stock. The writer firmly believes that premiums are better than leaders to attract trade.

MEXICAN REVOLUTIONARY

The most interesting stamps of the 20th Century! More has been written about these issues than about all the European war issues put together—and the half has not been told! Every time my buyers give me a little rest, I sort out a used mixture or look over a few covers—and find out something new! Better get in the game and get some of the good things for yourself—you can't even read this ad over without finding out something you didn't know—try it and see!

POSTALLY USED.

Did you know that there were two settings of the $ surcharge, made in Guadalajara and Mexico City, and that you can tell which setting any stamp is from? Did you know that the $ sign is found inverted, and also in different positions with reference to the letters of the surcharge? Did you know that there are two varieties of the 1, 4, 5 & 10c of the "famous men" perf. as well as shades of all values?

Get one of my used mixtures and pick out some of these now, before they are catalogued—you will never regret it!

100 mixed, guaranteed to contain at least 25 diff., from 8 issues, 50c; 10 lots (1000 stamps)$4.50

ON ORIGINAL COVERS.

Every collector of Mex. stamps should have at least one specimen from each of the revolutionary issues of 1914. The best way to have them is used on the original cover. Here are the cheapest varieties:

Transitorio 1, 2, 4, 5, 10c on 4 covs. for .30
Denver 1, 2, 3, 5, 10c on 4 covers, for .15
Coahuila (Denver revenues, without district surch., used postally) 5c .12

Leon (Gov. Const. in 2 lines) 5c 1.00
Matehuala (E. C.-M. in 2 lines plain letters) 2c & 3c on one cover $1; 5c .50

Mazatlan (Gobierno Constitucionalista in 2 lines, both lines same size letters) 5c50

Monterrey (same as above, but second line much smaller letters) 5c, .06; 10c .12
2c and 3c together, .50; 1c and 4c together, $1.50; 10c30

Queretaro (similar to Monterrey, letters slightly different), 5c12
San Luis Potosi (E. C.-de-M. in 3 lines, fancy letters), 5c12

Torreón (T. C., horseshoe type), 5c50
Same (Gobierno Constitucionalista in 1 diagonal line), 5c12

Large G. C. M., type I (Sonora), 5c12
Type II (Veracruz), 5c12

Bargain Lists

For some 10 years we have issued special lists of bargains, new purchases, offers, etc., about once a month. These lists have probably had the biggest circulation of any stamp advertising matter in the World, and are sent free to any live collector who will ask for them. Our list No. 78 is now ready, offering hundreds of good U. S. and foreign.

Let us call your attention to the desirable high values, hard-to-get stamps, etc., offered below. Stamps few dealers can offer and which we have selected for this adv. because they are usually missing and a "good buy". We guarantee satisfaction or your money back. Orders under 50c postage extra.

Blocks of Four or More—Used make a mighty nice and interesting collection. We have quite a variety from all over the World, largely 20th. Needless to say even the commoner values are in many cases not over plenty this way. Also nice unused blocks of four for those interested. Selections on app. to those who are collecting these.

WANT LISTS

The best way to buy. You get just what you want. Our prices average about half cat. We do not charge more unless it's something the cost prevents our selling for less. On large lists we'll make still closer prices. Our stock of 19th is especially good and we solicit your want list.

APPROVAL DEPT.

We have always made a specialty of approvals and believe we have the best facilities for catering to the average collector in this country. We will make up special books of countries to order where wanted, but prefer want lists when possible to send and save us tying up stock uselessly.

Have hundreds of other books in our App. Dept., but list below two series which have been the most popular.

"JUMBO" APPROVAL BOOKS

These big books have proved very popular. Each book contains about 400 stamps and there are about 10,000 varieties in the series. Stamps are priced net from 1c to 50c each in most cases. Prices are about 50% of catalog, and less in many cases, with an extra 10% discount on purchases of $3.00 or more. These are superb books for the general collector and in a class by themselves.

Address all copy and letters of enquiry for this department to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, Branch Office, BEVERLY, MASS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. RATE.—20c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $7.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

E. M. CARPENTER, Pres.; A. P. BROWN, Vice Pres.; F. W. STILES, 310 Warren St., Roxbury, Mass., Sec.; OSCAR HILL, 60 State St., Boston, Mass., Foreign Sec.; G. CARLETON RUSSELL, 38 Wellesley Park, Dorchester, Mass., Treas.; A. M. WRIGHT, Supt. Auctions; C. W. TUTTLE, Supt. Sales and Bourse, 1000 Tremont St., Boston. Meetings first (informal) and third (regular) Tuesdays, Room 322 Tremont Bldg., 8.15 P. M.

Oct. 17, 1916.

The 366th (regular) meeting of the Society was held this evening. After the regular routine business the members present elected to membership Messrs. F. D. Pollard, Jr., H. Steele and S. E. Cassino, their numbers being 621, 622 and 623 respectively. The treasurer reports a number of members who are behind in paying their dues. This should not be a fact at this time of year and the continual sending out of notices by the treasurer makes his office in the Society a burden. As he serves us without any compensation it is not right for him to be forced to devote so much of his time in the collection of dues which should be paid the first of the year. The entertainment consisted of an auction conducted by our auction manager, assisted by various members upon whom he called from time to time without any previous warning. The meeting adjourned at 10.20 p. m.

At the next meeting there will be an exhibition of stamps by two or three members of the Society, and the committee in charge guarantees that the exhibits will be well worthy of your attention. More details will be given in the notice of that meeting.

FREDERIC W. STILES, Sec.

UNITED STATES.—W. A. Cullers submits specimens of the 2c green envelopes of 1887, with the following freak varieties:

a. "TED" in "United" and upper half of "G" in "Postage" missing.
b. "L" instead of "E" at end of "Postage".

c. "A" in "Postage" missing.
d. Bottom of outer oval line broken.
e. Same with a colorless bar across the figure "2".

f. Part of "G" of "Postage" missing.
Mr. Cullers also shows a cancellation used at Weaver, Kansas, in 1894, giving the name of the postmaster.

We are indebted to C. Edward Wright, J. M. Bartels and W. R. McCoy for additional information in regard to the appearance of stamps on unwatermarked paper. The 1c and 2c have already been chronicled and we now have the 4c, 6c and 7c to add. Mr. Wright gives us the dates of issue as follows:—
2c Sept. 25; 1c Sept. 27; 4c Oct. 7; 6c and 7c, Oct. 10.

The Rev. S. H. Oiling reports having received in the mail one of the new 2c envelopes, with the "C" missing from "Cents."

Charles S. Thompson reports a New Issue (1916) of N. Y. Stock Tax Stamps. These appeared some time ago, probably about July 1. There are two sizes, one for the small values, 29½ x 22½ mm., the other, for the dollar values, 35½ x 25½ mm. The design, which is strikingly handsome, consists of a central circular medallion, bearing the arms of the state of New York, surmounted by a scroll bearing "STATE OF NEW YORK" in colorless Roman capitals. On each side of the medallion is a shield-shaped tablet, bearing the figure of value. Below medallion is the value, either dollars or cents, as the case may be, in solid Roman capitals. Below the value, in a lined tablet, is the inscription, "STOCK TRANSFER TAX" in colorless Roman Caps. Whole design surrounded by a heavy, single-lined frame, within which is a shaded frame. The figure of value is surcharged five times on each stamp, in unmoderated aniline, which in all cases but one is acid fuchsine. In the Dollar stamp it appears to be a mixture of malachite green and methyl blue. In addition to the aniline surcharges, the stamps have gum-varnish lines on the face, in order to make the aniline run easily.

chased of the Postmaster at Ottawa, I tried the following plan. I wrote a letter to the Postmaster at Nassau, Bahamas, enclosed 10c, and directed him to return the envelope to me by registered mail. I enclosed this envelope in another letter addressed to the Postmaster at Ottawa, Canada, requesting him to put a Special Delivery stamp on the Bahamas letter and forward it. Both Postmasters complied with my request and I secured the stamp in this way. On a second trial with two envelopes enclosed, my money was promptly returned with the information that no more communications could be forwarded in that manner."

CANAL ZONE AUCTION PRICES.

Thorne Sale, February, 1907.

The sale of the Wm. Thorne collection of Canal Zone took place Feb. 14, 1907, and we are indebted to J. C. Morgenstau & Co., who conducted the sale, for these pricings. It must be taken into consideration that years have passed by and these stamps would naturally bring higher prices if offered for sale today. References are to Toppan's "Stamps of the Canal Zone" and Bartels' "Check List of Canal Zone Stamps." Numbers following color description in parentheses are Scott's.

CANAL ZONE ON PANAMA, JUNE 24, 1904.

2c rose (1), block of 4 from upper left corner of sheet. This block contains the variety Panama reading up and down, large Panama and stamp with inverted N. (Bartels 1, 1d, 1f.) The block is slightly stained in lower margin. $36.00

2c rose, block of 4, Panama reading up, two of the stamps large Panama (Bartels 1, 1f.) $21.50

2c rose, block of 4 from center of sheet, two of the stamps having Panama reading up, two down. Canal Zone is inverted on all 4 of the stamps one of them having double surcharge both inverted. See Toppan p. 6 and 7 (Bartels 1a, 1aa, 1cc). A very rare block. $245.00

2c rose, block of 4, Panama reading down, one of the stamps with accent on final A. The Canal Zone surcharge inverted on all 4 stamps. An exceedingly scarce block and of the combination of Panama with accent and Canal Zone inverted, there can only be two in existence. (Bartels 1aa and haa). $101.00

2c rose, strip of three, the Panama surcharge inverted. The strip is from the bottom row and contains the stamp having Panama reading up and down. The two other stamps are Bartels 1c and 1e, used June 30, 1904, unique. (Not listed by Toppan or Bartels.) $31.00

5c blue (2), block of 4. $10.25

5c blue, block of 4; one stamp containing the variety Panama 2 mm. from bar. Not listed by Toppan or Bartels. $10.50

5c blue, inverted surcharge (2a), pair, used on entire cover. $21.00

10c yellow (3), used; block of 4 from lower right corner of sheet, containing variety inverted V for A. Not listed by Toppan or Bartels. $15.25

10c yellow, inverted surcharge (3a) used on entire envelope. $13.50

Advertising Chat

If you please, our Season Opener!

As you look through this number you will be impressed with the fact that the stamp trade is putting its best foot forward and the extensive advertising patronage gives promise of great activity all through the coming season.

We should like to comment upon the individual offerings herein presented, but that is impossible. A number of dealers are with us for the first time and the wide range of offerings presented will be examined with interest.

First and foremost the page advertisement of W. C. Phillips & Co. stands out prominently. This firm has always been a large user of WEEKLY space and Mr. Phillips promises that this season will be no exception. He informs us that this is only the beginning of an extensive advertising campaign.

The Independent Stamp Co., with its range of imperforates in U. S. stamps and other specialties, is a Chicago firm whose patronage of the WEEKLY extends back over a number of years. We welcome the return of this firm to our columns. Note also the return of Francis Oakes of the same city.

Philadelphia, a city which has shown considerable stamp trade activity, is represented in our columns this week by another firm, the Belmont Stamp Co. The name of the manager would be very familiar to Philadelphia collectors and it will be easy to renew acquaintanceship by calling at 32 S. 17th St., where the firm is located. The Company comes well recommended and will have a regular advertisement in our columns.

Do you want to get the new 1917 Scott catalog as a present? If so, look up the advertisement of H. Raymond Stiles and note his offer. It is worth considering.

Still another Philadelphia firm claims space in our columns, this time the Keystone Stamp & Coin Co., with Herbert von Seggern proprietor. With the advent of this firm regular weekly space will be used and the very creditable representation of Philadelphia dealers will be further strengthened.

Attention will certainly be drawn to the advertisement of Frank Godden of London, England, in which announcement is made of the publication of a new work on United States stamps. That this book should be issued in England is strong evidence of the interest our stamps have for English philatelists. The prospectus indicates a most pretentious book and many American collectors will undoubtedly order it. We shall ourselves await with a good deal of anticipation the promised feast of good things.

There comes this week the unexpected announcement of a new book by Mr. Poole. It will be a check list of the "Revolutionary Stamps of Mexico." Mr. Poole is in on the ground floor with his check list and there will no doubt be a good demand for it.

After taking an extended vacation, Charles S. Osgood of Salem is again represented by an advertisement, his Seychelles offers showing up in good shape.

No. 3 of Linn's "Stamp Collector" is at hand. It is an eight-page paper and well worth perusal. The price is 25c per year and a sample copy can be obtained from the Linn Co.

Some time ago we announced the marriage of the Marcus Brothers of Menlo Park, Cal. The marriage of the two brothers separated them from the stamp collection which had been their mutual pleasure and it fell to the lot of H. W. Doscher & Co. to acquire it. Mr. Doscher says that this is the best lot of stamps placed on the San Francisco market for many years, excluding the Crocker collection.

1, 2, 5, 10c, block of 4, each with spaced A L. In the case of 5 and 10c this stamp also contains variety narrow M in Panama (Bartels 9a, 10a, 11a, 20a; Scott 9a, 10a, 11a, 12a). $7.25
1, 2, 5c, block of 4, containing No. 1 broken CA and L. Also 1, 2, 5, 10c. Block of 4 of each containing No. 4 broken L. (Bartels 9b, 10b, 11b, 20b, 9aa, 10aa, 11aa). $4.25
1c green, First Printing (9), entire sheet of 100 (Toppan p. 10), in addition to varieties mentioned No. 98 has broken E (Bartels variety 9b on both Nos. 3 and 4). $10.50

1c green (9), printing between Toppan's First and Second; block of 6, one stamp (87), has letters O N of Zone dropped (Bartels 9dd). $5.25

1c green, block of 4, with E badly broken. Not noted by Toppan or Bartels. $1.10

1c green, Second Printing, block of 4 containing number 48 in sheet, wrong font Zone. (Bartels 9c, Toppan p. 11, g.) $2.10

1c green, inverted surcharge, very fine used copy. We do not know to which printing this great rarity belongs; probably the second. Only two other copies known. Bartels 9f. $150.00

1c green, Third Printing, sheet of 100 containing both wrong font Zone (48) and Canal (26), in addition to the varieties of the second printing. (See Toppan p. 11, h, Bartels 9c, 9d). $25.00

2c rose (10), complete sheet of 100 printing between Toppan's First and Second as it has all the varieties of the first and in addition number 87 has the letters O N dropped. (Bartels 10dd). $13.00

5c blue (11), First Printing, sheet of 100 (Toppan p. 13; but the lower row has no errors). This sheet contains Bartels varieties 11, 11a, 11b, on Nos. 3 and 4, 11i, 11aa, 11bb. $16.00

5c blue, block of 4; one stamp ANAMA (11b), Bartels 11d. $2.10

5c blue, Third Printing, block of 4, containing stamp with inverted M and the stamp with longer Panama. (Bartels 13c, 13d). $5.50

5c blue, vertical pair, one bar at bottom, the other no bar. We believe this belongs to Bartels' Fourth Printing, number 14. $17.00

5c blue, Bartels Fifth Printing. Entire sheet PAMANA (54 and 59), wrong font Canal (26), wrong font Zone (48), Z (32), L (42), N (65), broken E on 33 not replaced. (Bartels 15a, b, c, d, e, f). $15.50

5c blue, Fifth Printing, shifted surcharge so that two stamps have Panama only once, two have Panama close together. A variety of Bartels 15. $1.10

5c blue, block of 4, shifted surcharge, the words Panama together at right. One stamp wrong font Zone, one stamp has a clear and distinct period after Canal. The block belongs to Bartels' Fifth Printing. $7.00

5c blue, Fifth Printing, Canal Zone double. A block of 4 of this great rarity. According to Dr. Perry only 50 stamps received the double surcharge, and many of these were used on letters to Jamaica. (Toppan p. 14 where the stamp is wrongly put under First Printing. See Bartels' 15 g.) $46.00

5c blue, Sixth Printing, entire sheet containing all the varieties of the Fifth Printing, and in addition stamp No. 42 is wrong font L; 45 is wrong font Z. (See Bartels' No. 16 & varieties.) $8.25

8 on 50c, First Printing, entire sheet of 100 with all the varieties (Bartels' 17a, b, c, d, aa, bb, ee). Entire sheets of this printing are rare. $38.00

8 on 50c, bar at bottom, a variety of first printing, block of 4 (See Toppan p. 22; not in Bartels). $8.25

8 on 50c, First Printing, block of 4; two stamps with bar at bottom; two without bar. The block contains both varieties of 8. Very rare. (Toppan p. 22a. Not in Bartels). $45.50

8 on 50c, Third Printing (Toppan p. 21; Bartels 17) sheet. This setting contains all the varieties of Panama and 8 of the first printing, and Bartels' 17cc and dd and also broken L (42), broken N (65). A block of 4 containing Nos. 38, 39, 48, 49 is missing from the sheet. $11.25

8c Third Printing, block of 4 containing No. 48, wrong font Zone. Completes sheet in previous lot. (See Toppan p. 21, Bartels 17e). $10.00

8c, Third Printing, block of 8 including stamp No. 32, broken Z and (42) broken L. (Bartels 17cc, 17dd). $1.75

8c on 50 on Third Panama. This is the error of which only three sheets were printed. Very rare (Bartels No. 18), block of 4. $18.25

AS A PRACTICAL BUSINESS MAN

A prominent stamp dealer said:—

"St. Nicholas is taking the biggest step for the encouragement of Philately ever undertaken by a magazine, and we are backing up their efforts by increasing our advertising space. We figure it this way: If they can double their stamp advertising, they will continue their publicity work. Otherwise, they cannot afford it. It is vitally important to have this splendid work go on, and the issue is squarely up to us dealers."

A broad view and a sensible statement made in a generous spirit. St. Nicholas is glad to co-operate with its dealer friends. The largest results for all come by all pulling together. Are you coming in to join our happy family?

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF CANADA.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XXIII.—The Quebec Tercentenary Issue.

The year 1908 marked the three hundredth anniversary of the first permanent settlement in Canada, made by Champlain at Quebec in 1608, and plans were formed to celebrate the event in a fitting manner by means of fêtes, historical pageants, etc. In fact, the occasion was considered of such importance that the then Prince and Princess of Wales (now King George V of England and his Royal Consort) were invited to be present at the festivities, and they made a special journey in one of Britain's most formidable battleships.

Quite early it was rumoured that the Post Office Department would mark the event, as in Diamond Jubilee year, by the issue of a series of special stamps, and though in March the Hon. Rudolphe Lemieux, who was then Postmaster-General, announced that such an issue would assuredly be made, the Department exercised the greatest reticence as to what values would be included in the series, and what subjects would form the designs. Naturally the Department was inundated with all sorts of suggestions, more or less appropriate to the occasion, but, apparently, the "powers that be" had their plans already made and it was not until a few days before the stamps were ready for use that any information was made public regarding the series. The Toronto Globe for July 4th printed the following despatch from its Ottawa correspondent:—

Postmaster-General Lemieux has given instructions to issue a series of postage stamps commemorating the tercentenary. They are eight in number. Four of them bear portraits of persons dear to Canada, or whose names recall great events. The first represents the Prince and Princess of Wales; the second the King and Queen. Next come Cartier and Champlain, and then, in connection with the battlefields park scheme, Wolfe and Montcalm. The second part of the issue represents Cartier's arrival before Quebec. On the calm waters of the mighty St. Lawrence stand in bold relief three ships of the discoverer of Canada, flying the fleur-de-lys.

As a sequel to the above is a very picturesque tableau. In Champlain's narrative of his third voyage to Canada is found the following passage:—

"With our canoes laden with provisions, our arms and some merchandise to be given as presents to the Indians, I started on Monday, May 27, from the isle of Sainte Helaine, accompanied by four Frenchmen and one Indian. A salute was given in my honour from some small pieces of artillery."

The artist, under the inspiration of these few lines, has depicted Champlain's departure for the west. There stand two canoes. In one Champlain's companions have already taken their places, paddle in hand, whilst the great explorer is still on shore, bidding good-bye to a few friends. The picture is full of life. The legend underneath reads as follows: "Partement de Champlain pour L'ouest." The word "partement", now obsolete, is the one used by Champlain for the modern one "depart".

The same note of old France is used in connection with a view of the first house in Quebec, indeed in Canada, Champlain's habitation, which is called in his narrative "l'habitation de Québec". This stamp is a clear reproduction of a cut from Champlain's work. Quebec as it was in 1700 is the next view, copied from Bacqueville de la Potherie's "Histoire de la Nouvelle France". It is a quaint picture of the old city, showing steeples here and there, the fort on the river front and in faint lines the Laurentide Mountains in the background.

All stamps bear with the words "CANADA POSTAGE" the line "IIIe centenaire de Quebec".

The postmaster-general has given special attention to the selection of portraits and historical scenes to be represented. His choice has been an excellent one.

The carrying out of the engraving part of the plan has been entrusted to Mr. Machado, of the American

1917 Price List of Stamps of the United States and Its Colonies

This list will be mailed to my customers November 1st. It is the most complete list issued, and no collector can afford to be without it. Mr. Collector, you need one. Remember, I am Headquarters for stamps of the United States and Its Colonies.

H. F. COLMAN,
SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Bank Note Co., who, with keen artistic sense, has performed his part of the work with great success.

In the same newspaper of the same date appears another despatch giving particulars of the designs allotted to each denomination and the chosen colors viz:—

The special postage stamps to be issued in commemoration of the tercentenary celebration at Quebec are now ready, and will be placed on sale next week. The stamps are of most artistic design, and are larger than the ordinary size, to allow of adequate representation of historic scenes, portraits, etc. The description of each denomination is as follows:—

- Half-cent, grey, picture of the Prince and Princess of Wales.
- One-cent, green, portraits of Champlain and Cartier.
- Two-cent, red, King Edward and Queen Alexandria.
- Five-cent, blue, representation of L'Habitation de Quebec.
- Seven-cent, yellow, pictures of Montcalm and Wolfe.
- Ten-cent, mauve, picture of Quebec in 1700.
- Fifteen-cent, orange, picture of the Parliament of the West in the old regime.

The stamps were placed on sale on July 16th and, as will be noted from our illustrations, they are as described above except that the 15c does not have Champlain's name on it as stated in the first quotation, and that the 15c and 20c are incorrectly described in the second despatch. The stamps are of similar shape to the special series issued in Diamond Jubilee year though they are a trifle larger—1 mm. taller and nearly 3 mm. longer. The Postmaster-General's Report for 1909 referred to this issue as follows:—

To meet what appeared to be a general wish a special series of postage stamps, which has come to be known as the Tercentenary Series, was introduced as a feature of the celebration in July, 1908, of the three hundredth anniversary of the founding of Quebec by Champlain. The first supply of these stamps was sent out to Postmasters about the middle of that month, and was on sale to the public by the time His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, reached Quebec for the celebration. The demand for the new stamps was extraordinary, and for the better part of a month was steadily kept up. The interest taken in them was, in no small measure, due to the historic associations with which in design they were so happily linked, the subjects depicted in the several denominations of the series being in variety and appropriateness admirably adapted to the end in view,—popular recognition of an epoch-making event.

Except as regards the Postal Union denominations of 1c, 2c and 5c the colors chosen for the stamps of this series do not correspond with those of the regular set. The stamps were produced by the line-engraved process, which has long been the standard method of production for Canada's stamps, and as usual they were issued in sheets of one hundred in ten rows of ten. It seems probable that the plates for the 2c, and possibly for the 1c also, consisted of two panes of 100 stamps each placed one above the other. This seems to be proved from the fact that, whereas on most sheets the imprint "OTTAWA" followed by the plate number, appears in the centre of the top margin, sheets of the 2c are known with the imprint in the centre of the bottom margin, and in the case of plates 3 and 4 both imprint and number are inverted. The inversion on these particular plates was, probably, purely accidental. But though these large plates were used the stamps were always issued in the usual sheet size of 100. The following plates are known to have been used:—

- 1/2c dark brown, No. 1.
- 1c blue-green, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4.
- 2c carmine, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4.
- 5c dark blue, Nos. 1, 2.
- 7c olive-green, No. 1.
- 10c dark violet, No. 1.
- 15c red-orange, No. 1.
- 20c yellow brown, No. 1.

The stamps were all printed on the usual white wove paper and were perforated 12, though specimens of the 2c are known entirely imperforate. Fairly well marked shades may be found in connection with the 1c and 2c denominations but the other values show but very slight differences.

The royal portraits on the 1/2c and 2c values call for little comment, though it is interesting to note that the portrait of the Princess of Wales (now Queen Mary) is exactly similar to that shown on the 4c stamp of Newfoundland which was first issued in 1901. The picture of the Prince of Wales (now His Majesty King George V) was from a photograph by W. & D. Downey, of London, taken just prior to his journey to India in 1906.

—The twentieth anniversary of the Texas Philatelic Association will be celebrated at San Antonio on November 13th, with a display, both for the general public and the collector, a private sale of stamps, and a banquet at the St. Anthony Hotel for local and visiting members.

NOV. 8TH AND 9TH STAMP AUCTION

We will hold our 10th auction sale on the above dates. Catalogs have been mailed and if you have not received one, be sure to write for copy today. The sale comprises 1283 lots including some nice U. $60,000 A YEAR FOR STAMPS.

(From Oct. 25 Buffalo papers.)

George H. Worthington of Cleveland related in equity term of supreme court before Justice Bissell yesterday a series of misfortunes which forced him to mortgage to Mrs. Alice F. Halliday of No. 496 Delaware avenue a collection of stamps worth about $1,000,000, in May, 1912.

He said he had invested heavily in several railroad stocks. Several banks in Cleveland, he declared, held his notes and began to press for collateral security. He declared he remembered Mrs. Halliday had about $300,000 worth of stock in the American Chiclé Company.

He said he went to her and proposed to give her a mortgage on the stamp collection for the stock. To this, he said, she agreed. In 1915, he asserted, he became insolvent and his affairs were placed in the hands of a commission.

Alvin Good of Cleveland, who said he had been in the employ of Mr. Worthington since 1902, was a witness. He said Mr. Worthington has expended between $50,000 and $60,000 a year in the purchase of stamps. The collection, he said, was worth about $800,000 in June, 1914. It is said to be worth more than $1,000,000 now.

Although the attorney for the plaintiff made a motion before Justice Bissell to have the case tried in "some hotel or other place," so as to avoid publicity, or else to exclude newspapermen from the court room, Justice Bissell ruled the court room at City hall was "a good place to try it," and the doors were not locked.

Mrs. Halliday, who is suing the commission for the value of the loaned stocks, was taken sick in the court room and was sent to her home in Delaware avenue. It was said she recovered in a short time.

Worthington claims the mortgage given Mrs. Halliday was never registered and for that reason it cannot be made the basis of claim.

—"I note in the October 14 issue an editorial about a postmark 'Texas City, Tex., July 20—4 P. M.—Military Sta.' I am rather familiar with this cancellation and have seen a couple of them. Texas City is just across the bay from Galveston on the mainland and has stationed there several companies of regular troops. I understand that since the flood at Galveston last year all troops from Ft. Crockett in Galveston were transferred to Texas City. This accounts for this postmark, there being a sub-station at the post. There is also a postmark used in San Antonio at the army post: 'Fort Sam Houston, Texas.'" —A prodigal has returned. After many weeks the Manhattan Stamp Co. is again represented in our columns. We are so well acquainted with Mr. Miller, the manager, that we thoroughly understand how much he dislikes to write adv. copy. He says he is a "failure", but the adv. he runs this week should win business. We have been in the store of the Manhattan Co. a number of times, and can vouch for the truth of any statement that the firm may make in relation to the wide range of their stock.

FAMOUS WARRIOR PHILATELISTS.

Several of the greatest men in the present war are stamp collectors. Australasia can claim two of the most brilliant warrior philatelists. Captain Glossop, the Commander of H.M.A.S. Sydney, who sunk the Emden, we already know as a philatelist. But it will be news to most collectors to learn, as we do from the Australian Stamp Journal, that General Sir William Birdwood, K. C. B., Commander of the Anzacs, is also a stamp collector. Our Australian contemporary has learnt that the New Zealand postal authorities are presenting the General with an album of such New Zealand stamps as are in the possession of the Post Office Department.—Stamp Lover.

EDITORIAL.

Out—The new edition of the Scott Company catalogue has been distributed and so far as general appearance is concerned, it is most sightly. From all indications the catalogue deserves more consideration than ever and the receipt of it comparatively early in the season removes any check to philatelic enthusiasm that undue delay in its issue imposes. The advance in the price of the book is justified and we doubt whether there will be complaint on the score of the increased charge. The added price of paper alone gives warrant to the publisher to revise his prices upward.

Wrong—We have heard that collectors in some cases would not buy the catalogue because they preferred to spend the money asked for the book for stamps instead; and now for the first time this condition is brought home to us. A reader says: "At the time when my subscription next expires, please discontinue sending the paper, not because I do not like it but because I wish to use that money for buying stamps that I would have to pay for the subscription." The catalogue people will have to plead their own case but we may be pardoned for considering that the fifty-cent subscription to the WEEKLY as an insurance premium on a policy represented by the paper. The WEEKLY is alert to protect the interests of philately and not with that detached impersonal manner affected by some but with the individual collector in mind. We may pass over this claim to center our argument in the statement that the saving value of our news is at least fifty cents a year to the general collector.

Hail—Hail to the Chief. We mean Carranza, ruler of Mexico's destinies, who is about to embark on his first philatelic voyage, we understand. A letter has been received asking for certain Sonora stamps which the writer was directed to secure for the stamp collection of President Carranza. The letter emanates from an official source and confides that the Chief is much interested in making his collection. We are told not to mistake this collection with the national collection which was kept up to the time of the disposal of Diaz.

Express—A reader has sent for inspection, a somewhat remarkable selection of early New England express labels some of which are on the original covers. A list of these interesting pasters embrace the following carriers: Witherell & Co.'s Bridgewater, Middleboro, Wareham, Sandwich and Cape Cod Express; Bigelow's Express; Longley & Co.'s Portland, Saco and Boston Express; Hodgman & Co.'s Bangor and Boston Express; Fiske & Co.'s United States & Canada Express; Railroad Exchange-Carpenter & Co. Kennebec Express and the letter-print impression "Forwarded by Sargents Lowell & Boston Express." There are a half-dozen varieties of the general "Railroad Exchange" general type with the names of different of the carrying firms incorporated in the label. The labels are on different colored papers usually red, yellow and green glazed. These pasters are of admitted interest; and while they have a philatelic suggestion, yet, strive as we may, we are unable to forge the last link in the chain to connect them with local issues. However, let us refer particularly to the Bigelow Express labels. They possess many of the characteristics of the local stamp and their design is a locomotive engine, with "Bigelow's" above and "Express" below. The impressions are in black on yellow (and red) surface glazed paper. The one thing lacking to force recognition as a local is the omission of value or legend denoting prepayment from the design; it is quite essential that these requirements be met either in the body of the stamp or that some adventitious circumstance be advanced to prove that the stamp represented these requisites. As it is, not a few of the express labels under notice appear to be more thorough-going locals than some of the admitted locals. The express labels were used then, practically in the same way that they are today; and it was customary often to employ an express for letter-carrying, the label, of a size appropriate for a letter, representing an authorization only, and the payment of charges. Any supplementary remarks from readers on this subject will be welcome.

Big—A bit of a treat has been given us by a reader who shows a block of six of the two dollars wines and cordials, two horizontal rows of three stamps each and strange to relate, the condition of the block is good. The few used copies singly that we have seen were much the worse for wear as might be expected from the nature of the use of the stamps.

Cheaper—A clipping from an Auckland, New Zealand, newspaper has been relayed to us by Mr. H. A. Bernard of Toronto: "Stamp collectors will be interested to know that the dark-coloured 1½d stamp issued since the outbreak of war has been replaced by another one of similar type. The first was printed from an engraved plate but the new die which was prepared in England is for surface printing, which is cheaper method to use for stamps where there is a big demand. It is probable that the orange-coloured 2d stamps will also be issued shortly, surface printed." The 1½ grey was issued typographed this year and it has recently been received with the "Official" overprint; and it is likely that stamp collectors in New Zealand generally were aware of the difference in printing. It is not without significance that surface printing is meeting with increased favor in stamp printing circles, particularly when emergency calls. It is true that the line-engraved stamp gives greater security against counterfeiting but the prediction may be made that on the score facility of production, primarily, the time is coming when the surface prints will be the rule.

Postmarks—From Mr. A. H. Pike, Philadelphia, we have received an interesting letter on the subject of postmarks on United States stamps, as the following quotations from it will indicate: "There have been wonderful improvements in the cancelling of stamps, especially in the last few years. It is interesting to look over the different designs used at the same office covering a period of from twenty-five to fifty years. In most cases one can judge of the growth of the business and about what year a change was made from one class to another." Remark on the editorial in the issue of October 14th on the military postmark, Mr. Pike says: "Just at this time the military and naval postmarks should hold an unusual interest. The Official Guide for July lists 177 Military Stations and the August and September Supplements show a number of additions. Many of these markings will become obsolete when the troops are removed from the border."

CHANGE OF BUSINESS.

Just as we go to press we learn that J. E. Handshaw has purchased the business, stock and good-will of the J. W. Scott Co., 36 John St., N. Y. City, and Mr. Scott has retired from the stamp business. Mr. Handshaw will continue the business, and the merging of his stock with the Scott stock will give him a standing in the front rank of American dealers.

Mr. Handshaw says that the stock he has acquired is "enormous." It is rich in King's heads, also old issues, including rare United States. We congratulate him upon being able to acquire such a superb stock.

Mr. J. W. Scott thus retires from active business with the highest respect of his business acquaintances. His name

THE STAMP DEALER AND HIS STOCK.

By BILL BLOSS.

CHAPTER XII.—Price List and Follow-up-Advertiser.

While space advertising in the stamp papers must form the largest part of the publicity of a dealer, in order to secure the maximum results from advertising, it is advisable to supplement it with other advertising.

The advisability of the issuance of a price-list must depend largely on the circumstances of the dealer. If his stock consists of stamps in quantities of twenty-five to a hundred or more of a kind, and attractive prices can be made, the dealer is safe in putting out a price-list. However, many young dealers have the impression that no dealer can be considered a dealer until he has issued a list, accordingly as soon as they get five or ten stamps of a kind, and a few kinds, they issue a list. Result! The sixth customer has to be advised that the stamps are out of stock. This method kills business instead of building it.

For the Dealer With Little Capital, a very good plan is to issue a small list periodically. Same can be mimeographed or run off on a duplicating machine at a low figure and will answer the purpose of a more expensive list, which becomes useless as the stock is exhausted. If the dealer can issue a short list of this sort, including some thirty or forty items, or even fewer, at little expense for printing, he will find that it "gingers" up the trade immensely and will help to turn dead stock. A plan used by some dealers is to enclose a small sheet of this sort with every order or lot sent out. These lists are changed at weekly or bi-monthly intervals, and hence offer new bargains where a larger list could not.

In considering the subject of

bear in mind that one of the first theories of advertising proves that a number of smaller attacks on the mind of the customer will bring better results than fewer larger campaigns. It is repeated efforts that bring the results, not a few mighty attempts. In carving stone, the hammer must strike many times. So must it in carving the fame of the dealer on the mind of the customer.

The House Organ

is a welcome relief from the stereotyped price list. It is a price-list in disguise, or, like the little liver pill, it has a candy coating. The reader, after he has devoured the pages of favorite fiction designed for him by the kindly dealer, is quite willing to give a few moments to the beauties of said dealer's new Animal Packet. A few of the dealers issuing house-organs induce the readers to look over the advertising by another method. They start out to knock their competitors, and soon establish a first-class mud-slinging row which interests no one. The dealer devotes a number of columns to informing Mr. Competitor indirectly and the gentle readers chiefly that he thinks Mr. C. is a long-eared cuss and follows it up with a beautiful assortment of descriptive adjectives, thrilling narrative, and subtle threats. At last, in disgust and for relief, the reader (no longer gentle) turns to the advertising to escape the morbid matter thrust upon him. The result is the same. He reads the advertisements. However, he has long since come to the conclusion that the dealer is of the Genus Simpus for wasting space on mudslinging and for insulting his intelligence by expecting him to read such slander. Therefore, he decides to abandon forever his patronage with this dealer, and the next time the house-organ is received, its heating properties are quickly tested in place of its message being read. Judge for yourself whether it is best to use your house-organ to build your business or wreck your neighbor's. Consider whose business gets the worst of the deal.

Another mistake, to my mind, that many of the dealers make is in charging a subscription price for these house-organs. Collectors realize that not one in twenty-five has any literary value worth paying money for, and the fact that they are asked to part with their good coin for the sake of receiving a line of bargains entirely surrounded by "bunk", is resented by many of the very best buyers in the country. Instead of limiting your paper to a few who will pay for it, and who may never spend a cent from reading it, send it to good buyers and live prospects, regardless whether they pay the postage or you do. They spend the money, and the added circulation will pay for itself several times over in increased sales. Don't shut out your best customer because he refuses to pay your expenses on your list. If a salesman called on you, what would you do to him if he asked you to pay his carfare?

will do wonders in building business. Every dealer keeps, or should keep, a list of his customers, together with their wants and requirements. A 3x5 card index is the best means of handling such a list. Your stationer will give you the necessary information about filing and cross-indexing, etc.

After a customer favors you with an order, don't let him stop there. When you get his name, mail him your advertising matter, or better yet, write him a "personal" letter telling of the advantages of your service and approvals, or your capacity for filling wants, or any other good selling argument. After you have sent him this first letter, note the date of mailing on his card, together with the number of the form letter sent, or whether the letter is of the style you write first. File his card, or a record of his name and the letter, in a suspense file kept for the purpose, placing the card under the date that will bring it to your attention two weeks from the date of the first letter. If, at the end of that period, you have not received a reply from him, write him a second letter, and repeat the filing operation, noting the date of the second letter. Continue this plan until you have sent him four or five letters or even more, or are convinced that you cannot land him. Then file his card in your general file, and go after him again in a short time, repeating the operation as heretofore.

Just what success you will have in extracting further orders from your prospect depends largely upon your ability as a letter writer. I have found that the farther from a form letter the follow-up is, the better the results will be. If the customer receives a letter written to him personally, and not a mere copy of a letter which he knows every other fellow gets, he will be far more apt to respond. Therefore, it is worth the extra trouble to Make The Letter A Personal One.

In writing these follow-ups, if you have any personal knowledge of the likes and dislikes of your client, use it. Show him that the letter is individual because it reaches his particular points. Also, do not think you can fool him by using an imitation type-written letter. The only person such a letter will fool is the

* Indicates double line showing in coat or bust, as well as line below bust.

(We are privileged to present this week a fine study of the 12c double transfers as found on the lower left panes of plates Nos. 6900 and 6913. When the Managing Editor visited St. Paul this last summer, he met Mr. Olson and found him much interested in these plates. He was glad to act upon the suggestion to convey to our readers the information he had gleaned and we quote from a personal letter which the Managing Editor has just received. Mr. Olson has rendered a distinct service to philately, which will be all the more appreciated as the years pass by.—Ed.)

I have not seen any but the lower left panes of 6900 and 6913 so that these two panes are all that I can describe on the 12c transfers. You will notice that the big percentage of the stamps in the whole pane are either double or triple.

I have examined quite a number of these sheets and will say that only the very clearly printed sheets show all these. On some of the chestnut colored printings it is hard to discern any but the strongest shifts. The dark plum color shows up the shift at its best.

In plate No. 6900 the shift is most prominent on the four right vertical rows, and it is here that nearly all the triple shifts show. On many of the stamps only the line below the bust shows. But there are a good many that the lines show double in the coat.

I have looked very carefully for the triple lines in the bust or coat, but I don't believe there are any triple lines showing in these two panes, except at the bottom of the bust. There may be such on other panes of these plates, but as I have not been able to see these, I can't say.

Stamp No. eleven in No. 6913 shows some very peculiar lines. I had to see several sheets of these before I could believe that the lines as they show on this stamp, were not the result of accident before the ink was thoroughly dry.

Instead of the shift being downward, as it is in all the other stamps, it shows also a shift toward the left. These lines are most prominent in the bust, but they also show quite prominently in the white oval to the left.

I do not know enough about the process of transferring and rocking from the original die to say how this occurred, but it would be interesting to learn from someone who is familiar with the process as to how this happened.

As to the color and shades of the 12c stamps perf. 10, there are at least three distinct colors and many shades besides those showing the aniline red through the back of the stamp.

Of all the present issue the 12c seem to be the poorest perforated. It is a rare thing to be able to select a block of four that are well centered.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF NEW REVENUE LAW.

By JOSEPH C. ZANINI (U. S. R. S.).

Upon the adoption of the new revenue law which went in effect September 8, 1916 at midnight all adhesive stamp provisions in the act of October 22, 1914, known as the Emergency Revenue Law, ceased to have effect. This of course has made 1914 Issue of Documentary and Proprietary stamps obsolete. The Wines and Cordials issue still continue in force as this section of old bill has been retained under modifications noted below. A new set of Wines and Cordials stamps is in the course of preparation which will be issued about Jan. 1st, 1917. The only emergency taxes retained by the new law are those of Sections 3 and 4 of law of 1914 and those that apply to tobacco in its various forms and special taxes on theatres. These run to 1917 when the new taxes in the new law will take effect. The new taxes which go into effect on Jan. 1 next cover a wide range: Circuses will pay $100, Theatres will pay from $25 to $100, according to capacity. Public exhibitions, not especially named in act, if conducted for profit will pay a tax of $10. Bowling alleys and billiard rooms pay $5 for each alley or table. Special taxes are imposed on manufactures of tobacco and cigars. These range from $3 for sales amounting to 50,000 pounds, up to $12 for sales of 100,000 pounds.

Manufactures whose sales total 200,000 pounds or more pay 8 cents per pound. Cigarmakers pay from $2 for 50,000 cigars up to $12 for making 400,000. Wines containing more than 14 per cent alcohol pay 4 cents per gallon, not exceeding 21 per cent. 10 cents a gallon, not over 24 per cent. 25 cents per gallon and over that grade will be classified as distilled spirits and pay accordingly.

Domestic and Imported sparkling wines, liquors, cordials and similar compounds will pay 3 cents on each half pint bottle and at that rate on less quantities. The tax on all beer, including ale and porter and similar fermented liquors will be $1.50 per barrel of 31 gallons. A duty of 30 per cent. ad valorem is placed on all colors, dyes, photographic chemicals, medicinals, flavors, synthetic phenolic resin, and explosives.

CHINA.—Scott's Circular has the following explaining the Chinese stamps overprinted for the province of Sinkiang or Chinese Turkestan:

"The currency of China is based on the price of silver and as the value of silver is constantly changing, when compared with that of countries based on a gold currency, so does the currency of China. Again many of the provinces of China mint their own coins, and as the amount of silver in these coins varies both in quantity and degree of fineness so does the currency of those provinces vary in value amongst themselves. For some time the currency of the province of Sinkiang has been at a very low ebb, 100 silver Shanghai Dollars being able to purchase 140 Sinkiang silver dollars more or less. It was therefore possible for astute money dealers (and we can apply that appellation to almost all Chinese) to send 100 Shanghai dollars to Sinkiang, exchange them for Sinkiang dollars and purchase 140 dollars worth of Chinese stamps, which could be brought to Shanghai and retailed again at face value, netting the dealer nearly 40 dollars profit on every 100. To remedy this, the Chinese postal authorities have surcharged the stamps (the present 'Junk' issue up to $1.00) with five Chinese characters. This surcharge is on all stamps sold in this particular province; stamps so marked are good for payment of postage in the province of Sinkiang only to anywhere, but cannot be used as postage from any other province. These stamps are rather difficult to get hold of; the face value of a complete set is somewhere about $2.50; local dealers have been offering one or two sets as $4.50 used."

MEXICO.—Hermann Focke submits several new things from below the line, including the 5c on 1c of 1910, surcharge vertical in brown, reading up at left, issued at Tonala, Chiapas; the same surcharge horizontal on stamps previously overprinted "Gobierno Constitucionalista" in black reading up; and a strip of five of the new 1c engraved stamp, perforated horizontally through the center. Mr. Focke says: "I see that the new Scott catalogue mentions a provisional 60c on 2c green 1910 which has never come in our mail; the fact that the surcharge is said to exist in three different colors looks suspicious."

MONTERRAT.—J. A. Galbraith has shown us the new set announced some time since. They are of handsome appearance, resembling the Barbados set of 1912, with the portrait of the King in the upper left corner, the arms of the Colony in the lower right, with the value conveniently arranged. The lower values are in a single color on white paper. They were placed on sale October 2.

NEW ZEALAND.—H. Clay Fox, Jr., has received from a correspondent in New Zealand, a copy of the 1/2d George, printed on both sides. His correspondent says: "This is absolutely a genuine stamp as I managed to get 10 of them from a Post Office. I asked the Postmaster about them and he told me that they had been through the rollers twice. There were about 30 stamps printed thus and one row with it printed only on half of the gummed side."

G. P. de M. SURCHARGES.

By RODERICK ENFIELD.

The Revista Filatelica de Mexico, published in Mexico City by Javier Navarro and others, gives us what is supposed to be a complete list of the G P de M surcharges of Mexico up to the date of publication of their Vol. I, No. 1 (Aug., 1916). The most interesting feature of this list to American philatelists will be the announcement that certain of these surcharges, which have been sold in the U. S. and listed in the Monthly Circular of the U. S. catalogue publishers as regular issues, are "proofs and have no official character."

Here is the list of these "proofs":
 G P de M on 1910 (no other surcharge), 1c blue surch., 5c black surch., 10c black surch., 10c green surch., 15c red surch., 20c red surch.

G P de M on $ surcharge, 10c green surch., 15c red surch., 20c red surch.
 G P de M on small G C M, 15c red surch., 20c red surch.

60c on 2c, 1910, brown surch. and blue surch. (only red surch. having been issued).

5 pesos, P. O. Bldg., with center in black instead of blue.

Same, with frame in olive instead of carmine.

Same, in correct colors but double impression (frame or center?).

Carranza commemorative, in all colors except blue and brown.

All the above are trial colors or proofs, not intended to be sold to the Mex. public at face value to be used for postage, admitted by the Mexicans to have "no official character."

The same paper publishes a personal letter from J. J. Favela, Pres. of the Bolsa Filatelica de Mexico, in which he admits that certain stamps "were privately bought up by Mr. Hinojosa" (the postmaster general of Mexico) and are now "completely cornered" (acaparado por completo) by said Favela, who is asking "fancy prices for them" (precios elevadissimos). If they were "privately bought up" by the P. M. G., it follows as a matter of course that they were not placed on sale to the Mexican public for use as postage stamps, and the best that can be said about them is that they were prepared for use but not issued.

There is no list of these in the Mexican paper, for they are there listed as regular issues, but it is not difficult to make up a list of them, as every stamp dealer knows "Favela's specialties," the stamps that can be obtained only from him or the P. M. G. Here is the list, not one of which was ever sold at face value in any Mexican postoffice, any more than were the "proofs" previously listed:

NEW POSTAGE STAMPS FOR AUSTRIA.

(This article has been sent to us by G. E. Pratt, Chief of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Washington, D. C. It is a copy of a report received from Ambassador Penfield, dealing with a new issue of stamps for Austria. The particulars conveyed will be perused with interest by our readers.—Ed.)

Beginning with October 1, 1916, new postage stamps, franking stamps, newspaper postage stamps, postal cards, sealing cards, pneumatic tube cards and sealing cards will be issued and express delivery stamps will be introduced.

These stamps and cards will be issued in the following denominations:

Postage stamps at 3, 5, 6, 10, 12, 15, 20, 25, 30, 40, 50, 60, 80 hellers and at 2, 3, 4 and 10 crowns.

Penalty stamps (for insufficient postage) at 5, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30, 40 and 50 hellers and at 1, 5 and 10 crowns.

Newspaper stamps at 2, 4, 6, 10 and 30 hellers.

Single postal cards at 8 and 10 hellers; double postal cards (with prepaid answer) at 8 plus 8 and 10 plus 10 hellers.

Sealing cards at 15 hellers.

Pneumatic tube cards at 38 hellers and pneumatic tube sealing cards at 45 hellers.

Express stamps at 2 and 5 hellers.

Express stamps at 5 hellers are intended for the payment of the usual fee and as additions for the difference in mailing printed matter up to 50g.

Beginning with September 25, 1916, blocks will be used for the temporary printing of the immediate demand of new postage and newspaper stamps, which will read: Postage stamps at 3 hellers (on wrappers for newspapers and printed matter and for the mailing of cards sent as printed matter), 15 hellers, 25 hellers (on envelopes) and 80 hellers (on receipts accompanying parcels), newspaper stamps at 2 and 6 hellers (on wrappers, address tags, wrapping bands, etc.) The printing is done in the colors of the letter stamp of the same value, the printing of the 2 heller newspaper stamp will be done in vermilion, the 6 heller newspaper stamp in purple color.

Postage stamps at 3, 10, 15, 25 and 80 hellers will be furnished on demand, and without additional costs, in rolls. Stamps at 3, 10 and 15 hellers in rolls per 1000 pieces and stamps at 25 and 80 hellers in rolls at 500 stamps.

Stamps at 5, 10 and 15 hellers will also be sold in folders of 6 each of 15 heller stamps, of 6 each of 10 heller stamps and 10 each of 5 heller stamps. Each folder to cost 2 crowns.

Letter and newspaper postage stamps, postal cards and pneumatic tube stamps at present in use, retain their values until December 31, 1916. Such stamps may up to then be used as additional stamps in supplementing the new tariff postage rate. On January 1, 1917, the old stamps will be withdrawn from circulation. All of the old stamps, etc., in the hands of the public will be exchanged at all post offices against the new postal values for equal values of the new issue up to February 28, 1917.

All letter cards of the old issue can be exchanged against any other postal value at the rate of 11 hellers each between September 25 to 30, 1916. Beginning with October 1st, such cards must be provided with an additional stamp of 5 hellers.

Postage stamps at 15 and 80 hellers, express stamps at 2 & 5 hellers, postal cards at 8 and 8 plus 8 hellers and sealing cards at 15 hellers will be on sale beginning with September 28, 1916, but must not be used until beginning of October 1, 1916. All other stamps, etc., will be issued in compliance with the demand of the new issue.

The postage stamps are printed on white paper in the following colors:

- 3 heller stamps, purple.
- 5 heller stamps, light green.
- 6 heller stamps, orange.
- 10 heller stamps, claret red,
- 12 heller stamps, light blue,
- 15 heller stamps, vermilion,
- 20 heller stamps, brown,
- 25 heller stamps, navy blue,
- 30 heller stamps, slate hued grey,
- 40 heller stamps, gold ochre,
- 50 heller stamps, bluish green,
- 60 heller stamps, bluish grey,
- 80 heller stamps, reddish brown,
- 90 heller stamps, reddish purple,
- 2 crown stamps, dark blue,
- 3 crown stamps, carmine,
- 4 crown stamps, dark green,
- 10 crown stamps, greyish purple.

The postage stamps of less than 1 crown are executed in book-print, those of a higher value than 1 crown in copper print. On the former the printed space is 22 millimeters wide and 26 mm. high, on the latter 26 mm. wide and 30 mm. high.

In the center the 3, 5, 6, 10 and 12 heller stamps bear a facsimile of the Austrian Imperial crown, the 15 and 20 heller stamps a three-quarter profile picture of His Imperial and Royal Apostolic Majesty, the 25 and 30 heller stamps the full face picture of His Imperial and Royal Apostolic Majesty, the 40, 50, 60, 80 and 90 heller stamps a facsimile of the small Austrian coat-of-arms. The 2, 3, 4 and 10 crown stamps likewise show the small Austrian coat-of-arms, surrounded in the case of the 2 and 3 crown stamps by a laurel wreath, on the 4 crown stamps by one of oak-leaves and on the 10 crown stamps by one composed of both oak and laurel.

The center field of all stamps is surrounded by an ornamented ribbon bearing an inscription, interrupted in the center of the lower edge by a small four-cornered or octagonal shield with the value in colored print on white, the ribbon itself bearing the device: "Kaiserliche königliche österreichische Post" (I. R. Austrian Mails) and "Heller" or "Kronen" in white letters on a colored background.

The penalty stamps are executed in book-print on white paper, those of less than 1 crown in red, those of a higher value in blue.

Apart from the figure indicating the value, the design on all stamps of less than 1 crown in value is the same. They are square, each side measuring 22 mm. The octagonal center field, surrounded by ornaments, shows the value in white figures on colored background. Above the center field is the word "Porto" (postage), below the center the word "Heller" in dark letters on a shaded background. A ribbon, crossing the ornamented border, bears the device in white letters on a colored background "Kaiserliche königliche österreichische Post" (I. R. Austrian Mail).

The stamps of more than 1 crown in value have an oblong form, 22 mm. in breadth and 30 mm. in height. Apart from the figure indicating the value, they all show the same design. The oval center field shows the value in white figures on a colored background. It is surrounded by ornaments and a ribbon, which latter bears the words "Kaiserliche königliche österreichische Post". On the upper edge of the design the word "Porto" on the lower edge the word "Krone" or "Kronen" is inserted in white letters on a colored background between shaded ornaments.

The newspaper stamps are executed in book-print on white paper in the following colors:

- For 2 hellers, brown,
- For 4 hellers, green,
- For 6 hellers, blue,
- For 10 hellers, orange,
- For 30 hellers, claret red.

Apart from the figure indicating the value, all these stamps have the same square design, each side measuring 22 mm.

The center field shows a white Mercury's head on an ornamented background. Above the head is the word "Zeitungsmarke" (newspaper stamp) in colored letters. The center field is surrounded by an ornamented ribbon, interrupted at the bottom in the center by a small octagonal white shield indicating the value in colored print, the ribbon bearing the device: "Kaiserliche königliche österreichische Post" and "Heller" in white letters on a colored background.

The stamps on the 8 and 16 (8 plus 8) heller postcards are executed in a dark green color with the same design as the 15 heller stamp (Profile picture of His Imperial and Royal Apostolic Majesty) with the new value indicated, the stamps on the 10 and 20 (10 plus 10) heller postal cards are of a claret red color with the same design as the 10 heller stamps, those on the 15 heller sealing cards are vermilion with the design of the 15 heller stamp, those on the pneumatic cards and pneumatic sealing cards dark red and dark blue respectively, with the design of the 40 heller stamp and indicating the new value.

The express stamps are executed in book-print on yellow paper, the two heller stamp being printed in red and the 5 heller in green. They have the form of a triangle, the base measuring 33 mm. and each of the other two sides 31 mm. The center shows a Mercury's head in lighter color on the background of a cloudy sky. The inscription surrounding it ("Kaiserliche königliche österreichische Post" and "Heller") is in light letters on a dark background. In the lower corner there is a hexagonal light space where the value (2 or 5) is indicated.

All stamps have an unprinted white edge, 2 mm. wide with seven scallops to the centimeter in the case of postage, penalty and express stamps, but unscalloped in that of newspaper stamps.

The designs for the postage, penalty and newspaper stamps were made by the academic painter, Dr. Rudolf Junk, that for the express stamps by the graphic artist, Alfred Coszmann. The pictures of His Imperial and Royal Apostolic Majesty are the work of engraver Ferdinand Schirnböck made from likenesses taken by the Imperial and Royal Court Photographer and Imperial counselor Hermann Cl. Kosel.

The artists' names are signed on the lower edge of each stamp.

BISSELL RESERVES DECISION.

(From Oct. 28 Buffalo Paper.)

Financial affairs of Commodore Geo. H. Worthington of Cleveland, the intricacies of which have been unwinding before Justice Bissell in equity court for several days in an action to enforce a lien of $330,000 on the Worthington $1,000,000 collection of postage stamps by Mrs. Alice F. Halladay of No. 496 Delaware Avenue, closed yesterday afternoon. Justice Bissell reserved decision.

Mrs. Halladay yesterday morning declared she gave Mr. Worthington in 1915 $330,000 worth of stock in the American Chicle Co. in return for a mortgage on the stamp collection. She said Worthington asked her to keep the mortgage from public record lest it hurt his credit.

"I kept it from the record," she declared. "I had known Mr. Worthington for years."

committee of Cleveland bankers who are in charge of Mr. Worthington's estate, testified that in 1915 his creditors pressed Worthington for their claims and finally he signed an agreement turning all his concerns over to a committee and agreeing to transact no business until they had settled his affairs, in order to keep his name and business out of the courts.

He said Worthington then borrowed $30,000 on one book of his stamp collection from a New York bank. He declared the committee took the matter into court and forced Worthington to sign papers of insolvency. These he declared were placed on record.

After these events, he said, Mrs. Halladay made known her claim.

OFF-SET PRINTING.

By PERCY MCG. MANN.

Mr. Weinstock's letter in your edition of October 28, p. 381, interested me very much. It is to be doubted that any of our current United States bank notes or postage stamps are being printed on "Off-set presses", but that some foreign governments are utilizing the off-set method of printing for postage stamp production is probably true. I have seen the new current Chilean stamp described as lithographed, also typographed, but it is my opinion that they have been produced by the off-set method. This method, as a good many of your readers already know, is a form of lithography. The original design is engraved on stone, transfers are taken from this and laid down in any number on a zinc plate, the zinc plate is then curved into a cylinder, the cylindrical plate receives the ink, revolves and offsets the impression on a revolving rubber cylinder which in turn prints the design on the paper fed continuously into the press from a roll. It may interest your readers to know that the current cigarette, cigar and tobacco tax-paid stamps have been printed by the off-set method at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for about three years. The off-set method of printing should not be confused with the present rotary press printing of the current coil stamps; these are printed direct from cylindrical steel plates—a form of intaglio printing.

JAMAICA WAR STAMPS.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Further varieties come from this British West Indian Colony. About the middle of September, the supply of the 3d War Stamp, on the lemon yellow through paper, became exhausted and the remaining stock (very small in numbers) of the 3d on yellow through paper was overprinted "WAR STAMP" in one line. This 3d on yellow through must not be confused with the 3d on lemon yellow, which replaced the 3d on surface colored.

There are three issues of the ordinary 3d George stamp, namely:—The 3d on yellow through was issued March, 1912; the 3d on surface colored, April, 1913, and the 3d on lemon yellow in 1915. That the numbers of the 3d on yellow through available for overprinting were very small, is evidenced by the fact that the issue was exhausted in three weeks. One stamp to a sheet shows the no period variety.

The Postmaster General has decided that the two line overprint, as used for the 1 1/2d, allows of better centering, and requires less attention at the hands of the operator in feeding to the press, and this is the type to be used in future printings.

To replace the 3d on yellow through the 3d on lemon yellow was issued October 6th, with the two line overprint.

The 1/2d Arms is also to receive the two line overprint when the next printing is made.

The 1 1/2d orange, unsurcharged, is no longer on sale at the General Post Office—presumably the entire stock is to be overprinted.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Harry P. Haldt, Roscoe B. Martin, H. G. Klotzbach and H. W. Boers (2).

—H. P. H.—Your Great Barrier Island stamp is not a stamp at all. It is purely a label and for that reason secured no place in the catalog.

—Mrs. E. W. Oughtred calls our attention to the fact that the Canadian town of Berlin has now been changed to Kitchener. It is quite a large manufacturing town and was settled by Germans.

—Attention is called to the advertisement in this number of the Sales Department of the A. P. S. This is a strong feature in connection with the Society's advantages of membership and our subscribers are urged to give consideration to the same. Every philatelist should be patriotic enough to join our national society, especially when it is possible to take advantage of an excellent sales department. For detailed information write Mr. Wolsieffer.

—In response to our request for Canal Zone pricings we received only a few, and these from W. Ellery Denison of New York City. We have decided to make no further attempt to secure pricings and shall add to the book a final chapter containing the Morgenthau and Kellogg quotations.

—Geo S. Chapman of Montreal, Can., informs us that he is one of the victims of Geo. Liden of Minneapolis, Minn. Dealers will do well to make a note of this name for their future good and welfare.

—J. M. Bartels favors us with some remarkable auction prices realized at a recent Berlin auction sale. The information was gleaned from the New Yorker Staats-Zeitung of Nov. 2. The quotations are on German States and very high prices were realized, indicating that money must be plentiful in the great German metropolis. The demands on our space will not allow us to quote prices given.

—Can any one give the Columbian Stamp Co., Arlington, Mass., the present address of Gearhart Frantz, formerly at 27 Carey Avenue, Wilkesbarre, Pa.?

—The next annual session of the S. P. A. will be held in Minneapolis, Minn., on August 7, 8 and 9, 1917.

—At the regular monthly meeting of the Bethlehem Branch of the S. P. A. to be held Friday evening, Nov. 17, Mr. E. T. Parker is to furnish the stamp exhibit.

—The stamp collectors in and around Concord, N. H., have organized the

EDITORIAL.

Arriving.—Through the courtesy of Mr. Sumner Gary of Grand Rapids, Michigan, we are enabled to give definite news on a subject that is engaging much attention at present, the current issue on unwatermarked paper. Under date of Oct. 26th, 1916, Mr. F. E. Ferguson, Acting Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Washington, furnishes a compilation of statistical information that will be valuable for reference purposes. In the following list, the date of the first printing is given, together with the numbers of the first plates that have been used for printing postage stamps on unwatermarked paper in the Bureau, up to October 26th, 1916:

1c ordinary, Aug. 24, 1916, Plate Numbers, 7658, 7660, 7663, 6953, 7654, 7655, 7656, 7659, 7647, 7649, 7650, 7651, 7652, 7667, 7668, 7669, 7671, 7674, 7725, 7736, 7664, 7665, 7666, 7670, 7726, 7727, 7731, 7733.

Economy.—Says an esteemed contributor: "You should know what hardship is entailed on large users by the increased cost of paper, with your huge subscription list, a-hem, and here you are enlarging instead of diminishing the size of your more or less moral sheet. I have adopted this gracious style of introduction so as to beguile you into reading the following statement. The tax paid cigar stamps are now printed on paper the size of half the old stamps; and it would be a natural assumption that the plan is to reduce the size of the tax paid stamps generally on the score of economy."

Strength.—One of the best-informed of American dealers, Mr. A. Krassa of New York, has taken his first trip to Chicago, where many of his friends and customers had the pleasure of meeting him. In fact, Mr. Krassa lengthened his stay in Chicago so long that he decided that he would not continue on his way west as he intended at first, we understand. As might be imagined, Mr. Krassa had a store of stamps too numerous to mention, with which to regale the critical eye. It need not be said that Mr. Krassa's faith in the stability of stamps is unbounded and he regards his heavy investments in them as his "bank." He makes the prediction that the present season will be one of the greatest ever experienced by philately.

Raw.—No wonder they like us. A collector of Buenos Ayres whose studies of the stamps of his own and other countries have established him as a philatelist of exceptional standing received a bulky letter from a town in the United States on which there was a single two cent stamp and the deficiency in postage was charged up at double rates. The word, "Important!" on the envelope arrested his impulse to refuse the letter. When the envelope was opened a batch of worthless U. S. stamps was disclosed for which the sender wanted "only rare Argentine," etc., in return for the stamps. Worse, the gentle soul of the recipient was seared by the threat that if he did not answer by return mail, he would be reported as a fraud. It must be said in this connection that a letter of the kind by no means is typical of the "exchange" communication of the young and enterprising American. Philatelists know the foreign postal rates and their letters are not so business-like as to wound the sensibilities of those who attach some importance to the niceties of correspondence but isolated instances such as the one recorded will crop out occasionally.

* * *

Seen.—A reader, Mr. Chas. Theamann, has found "two styles" in the line under the "of America" in the legend, United States of America, on the one cent Pan-American. In the variety, there is a thin black line under "Ameri" of America. Mr. Jas. Lewis Howe shows three different pre-canceled stamps on a part of cover, the one, eight and ten cent, New York, that literally are blotted out of existence so far as their color is concerned. Mr. Howe says: "What a grouch the New York postal clerk must have had." Anyway, why should pre-canceled stamps be canceled at all?

Up.—From Mr. Theodore Siddall, Shanghai, China, we have received a clipping from the North China Daily Post of September 14th, 1916, that has a significance beyond the news information itself. The notice tells of the increase in the postal rates of the British office in China:

"Beginning on October 1 the postage on a letter posted at the British Post Office will be ten cents instead of four cents as heretofore, and if the letter weighs over the 20 grammes allowed, six cents for each additional 20 grammes will be charged. From October 1 the British rate on Home-bound mail matter in other words will be the same as that charged by the Chinese Post Office.

This means that the 'domestic' postage no longer applies and that British Post Offices in China (except Weihaiwei) are to charge 'foreign' rates after October 1. Yesterday Mr. J. MacD. Russell, the British Postmaster, sent out the following circular signed by the Postmaster General and issued at Hongkong on September 8:

"On and after October 1 next the British Post Office Agencies in China (with the exception of Weihaiwei) will withdraw from the Imperial penny post system and will collect the Postal Union rates of postage on letters, viz.: 10 cents for the first 20 grammes; 6 cents for each additional 20 grammes.

"The local rates to Hongkong, Weihaiwei, the British Post Office Agencies in China and to Macau (and between Canton and Macau also between Shanghai and Ningpo) will, however, be maintained as at present."

Inasmuch as the British Post Office will no longer be in competition with the Chinese Post Office, this may be considered as a first step toward the final withdrawal of foreign post offices in China, it being understood that China, having joined the Postal Union, has requested the various Powers to surrender the privileges of having their own post offices in this country. From the Chinese viewpoint, China, having organized a postal department on foreign lines, is entitled to handle all the mails in her own country."

Mr. Siddall says that the indications are that the Chinese government will soon have a monopoly of the postal business, as the only customers of the foreign offices now are those who use them because the rates in each office are the domestic rates of the various countries. He adds:

"When the foreign offices were started the Chinese post office was not well organized, and foreign mail was not handled by the Chinese post office, but now the Chinese postal system is as perfect as any and cheaper than some, so that it can serve the public very well."

THE STAMP DEALER AND HIS STOCK.

By BILL BLOSS.

CHAPTER XIII—Credits.

Unfortunately for all merchants doing business by mail, especially those whose business requires the sending of goods on approval, there are a great many parasites who make a practice of appealing to the dealer for an approval selection and then grow "rich" by the petty thievery of these selections. To these criminals must the blame be laid for the percentage of increase in cost of postage stamps to cover loss. No merchant will do business at a loss.
When his goods are not paying a profit, he will investigate his methods, find the source of loss and, if it is beyond his control, will raise the price of the goods to cover this loss. Therefore, it is the consumer who must meet the burden of these losses.

However, it is the merchant who can offer the best goods at the lowest price that wins. In order to do this, it is to his advantage to eliminate loss. Therefore, he must watch his credits. Probably 99% of the stamp dealers in this country are more fortunate than the average corner grocer, inasmuch as they do not carry any charge accounts, and have only short-time credits to follow up. There is absolutely

No Necessity For Running Accounts in the stamp business, and the dealer will do well to insist on cash. When an approval selection is returned, the remittance should accompany the lot or another selection should not be sent out.

Stamps are a luxury, not a necessity.
When a man is faced with a large bill for stamps, he is more apt to neglect it than if it were for gas, or coal, or ice.
Probably not one customer in fifty would ask for or care for extended credit, therefore the dealer should not encourage it.

When an application for an approval selection is received from a new customer, the

References Should Be Investigated to find out if O. K. We will assume that the dealer makes it plain that he requires a reference before sending out a selection. This fact is generally understood; however, the dealer should emphasize it in his advertising. No matter how nice the application looks, or how neatly the letter paper is engraved, look the applicant up before you take a chance. Some of the biggest known stamp swindles have been worked by the aid of a little expensive paper and flowery language.

Not a great number of years ago, a collector named K— decided to get his collection without money. Accordingly he spent a dollar fifty for a printed letter head, to advertise his "real estate business". Shortly after he received the paper, every dealer of importance in the country received a request for a selection of approvals. Mr. K— claimed that he had a number of friends interested in the hobby and that between them, all selections received would be disposed of. He referred the dealers to "any bank in Cleveland". It is estimated that Mr. K— received over $1,000 worth of stamps, which he readily disposed of at sufficient profit to take him to parts unknown. On the face of his letter, he was such a good buyer that the dealers never considered his references. The writer donated a Bosnia collection worth $6.50 and has since taken the pledge.

If an applicant gives as reference a society number, he is usually reliable, but his number should be checked up.
If he refers to a bank or business house, write to the bank, stating that Mr.—
has referred you to them as to his reliability, and while you do not question him, desire to find out whether he is known to them, as he is a new customer to you. If a stamped envelope is enclosed, a reply will probably be received at once. If no reply is received, look out; if he refers to "any bank in —"
be careful, unless the town is very small, then write to one of the banks. Unless a man is rated in the millions, he will hardly carry an account with every bank in New York or Cincinnati, and such a reference should be treated suspiciously.
A man of such rating would know better than to offer such a rash statement, but would pick out one of his banks.
Generally, however, the multi-millionaire will divide his trade among a few large dealers and will hardly stoop to

In Handling Boy Business, it is practically impossible to demand a reference. The usual reference is "Mr.

Jones, who lives on our street" and for all the dealer can ascertain, Mr. Jones may be a direct descendant of Captain Kidd. The amount of the first lot sent to the boys is generally very small, so that the dealer must take his chances, and swallow a few losses along with his creamy sales. Getting parental reference and signature has little benefit.
Many good customers resent such a demand, and will take their trade where it is not required. Also, many parents object to being bothered by such a transaction and as a result will forbid the dealer to send selections. Also, if the parent decides to deny liability, the U. S. BLOCKS

Keller Collection.

710 of them in BARTELS' November Sale. The amount involved is usually too small to resort to legal means of collection. Dealers catering to boy trade must content themselves with a good collection system and some losses.

Let Us Now Consider Collections.

When a selection is overdue ten days, it is a good plan to write a courteous note calling attention to the fact that the lot is past due, and that the customer has no doubt overlooked it in the press of other matters. If the lot is held by a boy, a postal card will suffice. If it is a good selection, it is advisable to write a letter, as many people resent such a card. There are times when even the best of us cannot help keeping an approval lot overtime, and we do not care to have our neglect made public property. Letters of this kind must be worded tactfully, so as not to give the client offense. Many times a picture postal will take the raw edges off a request for an overdue lot, and will bring the customer into closer touch with the dealer, as the card shows a personal interest. It might be worded, "Would like to hear from you at your convenience regarding our letter of the —th." The writer advocates on all "worth-while lots" and customers, in place of a form letter. Better results are usually obtained, and the customer is secretly pleased to find that he is worth a thought on the part of the management, rather than part of a machine, even though the thought is a reminder for him to "get busy".

The Use of a Personal Letter

If the first letter does not bring back the lot, a second letter should be addressed about ten days later, asking the client to advise whether or not he received the lot, in order that a tracer may be started in case of loss, or a claim put in to the insurance company if the letter was insured. Under some circumstances, even a reminder will be overlooked, and it is distasteful to the client to be hinted a thief or threatened with legal action. Many dealers use such threats without just cause and lose many otherwise good customers as a result. This second letter will often get a reply where the first fails.

In case both notices are overlooked, the dealer may begin to suspect something is wrong. Therefore if the lot justifies a further "patient" letter, send the delinquent a registered letter (for the receipt) calling attention to previous letters, and asking for the immediate return of the lot. Emphasize the fact that you have tried to serve him faithfully and cannot understand this uncalled-for delay, also that you must turn your goods promptly to be able to give your "splendid service". Such a letter will generally do the work, as the fact that it is registered brings it forcibly to the customer's attention. Also, the customer feels that he has been unjust to the dealer and will often send a healthier remittance. There are Several Ways of Forcing Collections.

One way of dodging the issue is by printing on the invoice, under terms of sale, "These goods remain my property until paid for in full". Unless this phrase is used, the customer can evade legal action for fraud by stating that "he has purchased the stamps but will pay for them later". Therefore, to force settlement, the account must be treated as a bad debt. If the above phrase is used, in keeping the stamps without payment, the client is holding your goods without your consent and is guilty of a fraud. Therefore, he can be prosecuted for fraud. If the circumstances warrant, the Postal Inspectors will handle a case where the mails are involved. The Department does not run a collection agency, however, and will seldom bother with a case unless a number of charges are filed.

Probably every dealer has seen, or can devise, a set of collection letters. If not, the writer will be glad to help if addressed privately. This article concludes the subject and it is the sincere hope of the writer that you have gained something from the work.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—Maurice Goldsmith submits a photographic print of an envelope received by him, franked with two 1c documentary stamps of the 1914 issue. Several of these were used on personal correspondence before the post-office clerks discovered them, and charged postage due fees.

Eugene Tilleux also reports the "Officially Sealed" stamp on pink paper.

CANADA.—Mrs. E. W. Oughtred writes us as follows:—"I have just received a complete set of Ontario Amusement tax tickets 1 ct. and 2 cts. with 5 cts. and 10 cts. You reported the 1 ct. I think, but I am interested to find there are three higher values. Quebec City also uses Amusement tax tickets, I've not seen them yet, however."

DOMINICA.—The Rev. L. Meister also reports the new 1/2d War Tax stamp of Dominica, as recently chronicled.

GIBRALTAR.—J. A. Galbraith has shown us the 1sh King George stamp on a blue green paper. Does this mean a change of paper like the Jamaica 3d on yellow and lemon shades?

GRENADA.—We are indebted to Harry E. Huber for the following information: In common with other islands of the Windward group, Grenada imposed a 1d War Tax upon all letters and parcels destined for the United Kingdom, the Colonies and Protectorates. These regulations became effective June 1, 1916.

To provide for payment of this tax, the current 1d George, rose, was overprinted at St. George's, "WAR TAX" (with period), in one line. The surcharge measures 16x2 1/4 mm.

The overprinting was done in panes of 60—the setting being sufficient to complete a pane of 60 at one operation.

While no major varieties are to be found, three different sizes of the letter "A" have been used, measuring respectively 2 1/4 mm. (normal), 2 mm., and 1 1/2 mm. All three types are to be found in both "WAR" and "TAX", but the "A" measuring 1 1/2 mm. is least common. A variety also exists with a space between T and AX.

In early September a consignment of the London overprinted stamp was received from the Crown Agents. The stamp itself is in the scarlet printing (which is superseding the rose and carmine formerly affected by De La Rue & Co.).

The stamps are in panes of 60, and "WAR TAX" (without period), one line, is in narrow sans serif type, measuring 11 1/2 x 3 mm.

The type used and the spacing of the surcharge is identical with that used for the 1d London overprinted War Tax stamp of St. Lucia.

Evidently, the 1d War Tax stamp of Grenada may be used interchangeably with the unsurcharged stamp, for a registered letter recently received from St. George's bears a 3d, 1/2d, and a 1d War Tax stamp.

ICELAND.—W. T. Wilson has shown us the 10 aur scarlet, 1907-08 design, on paper watermarked multiple crosses. Mr. Wilson is informed that the 20 aur will shortly appear on the same paper.

JAMAICA.—J. A. Galbraith has shown us the 1/2d "War Tax" stamp, with the overprint in two lines, instead of one line. The type is a little different, St. LUCIA.—We are indebted to Harry E. Huber for the following information: "Regulations passed in Council on May 17, 1916, provided for payment of 1d War Tax in addition to the prevailing rates of postage on all letters and parcels, leaving the Colony, addressed to the British Empire. The regulations took effect June 1, 1916.

The current 1d scarlet, from plate 3, which had just been sent out by the Crown Agents, was overprinted in black, WAR TAX (no period), in tall thin type, in two lines. The extreme height measures 8 mm.

This overprint was applied locally. The sheets of 120 were divided into panes of 60, but as the setting was only sufficient to overprint 30 stamps at a time, two operations were necessary to complete a pane. The work was very carefully done, and no errors are known.

With the passing of the regulations instructions were immediately sent to the Crown Agents for a supply of the 1d to include the WAR TAX overprint.

These London overprinted stamps were received at Castries in early September, and are in complete sheets of 120, from plate 5.

The overprint "WAR TAX" (no period) is in one line, and in much smaller type than the local printing, measuring 11 1/2 mm. x 3 mm.

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 2, 1916.

Meeting called to order by Pres. J. M. Bartels. Minutes of previous meeting were read and adopted. Messrs. Stypman, Dr. Laporte and Dr. Keidanz sent in their resignations. Mr. J. Hatfield, Jr., showed us his wonderful collection of Colombian Republic in six volumes, which certainly made a beautiful display. Mr. Herrmann gave a little talk on what is the most beautiful stamp and why, which was very instructive. He stated that in his estimation it was the 1 shilling New South Wales. Mr. E. Klein exhibited some stamps which he had received from different members. After a vote had been taken on the stamps exhibited the honors fell to Mr. Forrest P. Hand. He had sent in the $50 U. S. Revenue, second issue. He was awarded the Club's Certificate. This being nomination night the following were nominated for 1917: Messrs. Schlesinger and Meininger, President; C. Lehmann, Vice Pres.; V. Mozzian, Treasurer; Weiss, Mouhib and Moye, Secretary; Hermann, Wagner and Moye, Trustees.

The next meeting will be held November 16, Auction and Exchange. The members of the Dinner Committee will be in attendance. Refreshments will be served. The election is to be held Dec. 5, with a little celebration. Fourteen members and one visitor were present.

HAAKON.

The coat of arms of Norway (issues of 1855 and 1863-68)—a golden lion with a crown and a battle ax, in a red shield—dates back some seven centuries ago to the glorious period when Haakon Haakonsson ruled over the land. Haakon was a fighting king; and it was during his reign that Ireland was for once added to the possessions of Norway. This aggressive quality in Haakon may account for the fact that he carried a rampant lion on his shield as his device or coat of arms. In the time of his grandson the design was changed by the addition of a battle-ax, the battle-ax of Saint Olav, who had united and ruled over Norway some two centuries before. During his reign Christianity had been established in the country. But to maintain his position he had to fight; and he was killed while fighting on the field with his men. This design representing two of the most glorious periods in the history of independent Norway finally was adopted as the coat of arms of the nation.

Norway had been under the bondage of its neighbors some centuries before another attempt was made to revive the independence of those bygone times. Europe was trembling under the shocks of the Napoleonic wars when the King of Denmark was forced to cede Norway to Sweden. Prince Christian Frederick, who had gone over there the year before to arouse the enthusiasm of the people, opposed this cession, which was made without the consent of Norway.

On the tenth of April, 1814, the famous Constituent Assembly met at Eidsvold in the mansion of Carsten Anker. The picture on the stamp (issue of 1914) shows one of their sessions, probably the one in which the constitution, as drawn up by them, was adopted. The one hundred and twelve delegates debated there for nearly a month as to whether they should, or should not, declare themselves independent with Christian Frederick as King. Many of the delegates sent to the Assembly were in favor of the union with Sweden. But at last on the seventeenth of May they decided to adopt the new constitution, which had in the meantime been drawn up, and declare themselves independent. Even before Christian Frederick formally accepted the crown of Norway, there were rumors that other countries would interfere and aid Sweden in taking possession. Altho Norway had a much larger standing army than Sweden, the King contented himself with merely assuming the defensive. The coast was blockaded by English men-of-war; and the Swedish army made successful inroads upon the country. Three months later Christian Frederick yielded up his throne, and Norway was united with Sweden. This attempt at independence was celebrated one hundred years later by a special issue of stamps bearing a picture of one of the sittings of the Constituent Assembly.

Under the reign of Oscar the First of Sweden (issue of 1856-57) the first postage stamps of Norway were issued. On the death of his father in 1844 he had come to the throne. Having been before that quiet and reserved, no one had any definite ideas as to what would be his policy towards Norway. But he turned out to be even more liberal than had been his father. For a period of time during his reign the labor movement assumed alarming proportions; but quick and concentrated action on the part of the government deprived the movement of its influence. About this same time railroads were first constructed in Norway; and a law was passed establishing a uniform system of postal rates. King Oscar, who had been in delicate health for some years, died in 1859.

AN ALBUM SECOND TO NONE.

This Album is the only practical and feasible Loose Leaf Book on the market today. We have put this Album up in three sections so a collector is able to purchase such branches as he desires at a comparatively low cost. It is 9 inches long and 7 1/2 inches wide, very handy; there is but one set of stamps to a page artistically laid out. Spaces have been provided for imperforate and part perforate pairs and the beauty of all; it is right up to the minute. What is more we will add new leaves each year with spaces for the latest stamps and if you are an owner of one of our Albums, latest sheets will be promptly sent you when issued. After you have transferred your stamps into this Album, you cannot help realizing the great advantage in a practical up-to-date Album.

Oscar the Second (krona values of the issue of 1877-78), his grandson, became the king of Sweden and Norway thirteen years later. Friction had been developing in the relations of the two countries. The Norwegian Congress, or Storting, had for some years been insisting upon its having the right to amend the Norwegian constitution without the King of Sweden having the privilege of veto. The matter had almost reached the stage of a revolution when Oscar decided that it would be best for him to relinquish his claim on the right of veto. A few years later another quarrel arose over the question of foreign relations. Norway insistently demanded a separate foreign office. When in 1905 Oscar vetoed the bill of the Storting providing for this, the legislative body retaliated by declaring the union dissolved. And in October of the same year Oscar the Second of Sweden issued a proclamation announcing his abdication from the throne of Norway.

King Oscar II. King Haakon VII.

Negotiations were begun with Prince Charles of Denmark, who agreed to accept the crown of Norway if a general vote of the country signified that the people really wanted him as their king. Nearly four-fifths of this vote were in approval of this action on the part of the Storting. And in June, 1906, Prince Charles was crowned as King Haakon the Seventh of Norway (krona values issued in 1907, 1909-10, and in 1911). Another period of independence had begun.

DOES THIS MEAN NEW STAMPS?

LONDON, Nov. 3.—A dispatch received in London from the British Minister to Abyssinia announces that a big battle has been fought 25 miles outside of the capital and resulted in a complete victory for the new Government. Ras Mikhael, father of the late Emperor, was taken prisoner.

The deposed ruler, according to the dispatch, is believed now to be among the tribes on the border of Abyssinia and Somaliland. The dispatch adds that if the victory proves sufficiently decisive the question will be reconsidered of recognizing the new Government.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF UNITED STATES

By BILL BLOSS.

INTRODUCTION.

Every philatelic writer and collector in America at some time or other attempts or desires to write a treatise on the stamps of our country, and so it is only natural that I follow in the steps of some of my fellow-writers and produce a series of articles on this subject.

I am really not to blame. A host of collectors and readers of these columns have requested me to commit this rash act. Best of all, the editor has promised to shoulder the responsibility for any blunders I make, and as he is famed for the width of his shoulders, I shall certainly make the most of this opportunity to unburden myself of my "pet" subject.

These articles are intended for the man with the small collection of United States, who desires a moderate amount of practical knowledge on the stamps of his country. The specialist will find them of little value, for it is my intention to eliminate all references to the fly-speck varieties and shall make no mention of differences which cannot be seen with the naked eye. There is so much ground to cover that no one writer can write ALL about United States stamps, and the man who desires all the knowledge should seek elsewhere.

I make no claims of originality whatsoever, and state freely that most of the technical information herein will be secured from the works of other writers, as Luff, Power, Melville, Goodwin, Toppan, and Poole. In short, I purpose to write a summary of the main points to be covered in collecting United States stamps, paying especial attention to the varieties which can be secured by the collector with moderate means.

I take this opportunity to thank these gentlemen for the knowledge I have gained from their works, and also to show my appreciation of the assistance rendered me by several of my good friends who are better versed on their particular lines than I am.

With the hope that these articles will help to smoothen the path of the new collector, I offer them for your approval.

Collecting United States Stamps for Pleasure and Profit.

The collecting of United States stamps naturally receives foremost attention from philatelists in this country, partially from patriotic sentiment and chiefly because the collector can readily learn more of the interesting details connected with this branch of the hobby than from foreign stamp collecting. While United States stamps, in a great many cases, are harder to obtain than foreign stamps, they provide a greater interest for the American collector. All collectors are more or less familiar with American history, and know the stories of the men pictured on the stamps of our country. We are all familiar with the lives of Washington, Franklin, Lincoln, Grant, and the other great Americans who appear on our stamps, but how many collectors know who is featured on the stamps of Holland or Siam or Brazil, or anything concerning the lives of the men represented on the stamps of those countries?

The stamps of Persia or China are interesting to us because they come from a distant land, but, aside from this fact, they mean very little to 99% of collectors owning them. They are put away in a book along with many others from other lands,—some from countries most of us could not readily locate on a map.

All red-blooded Americans are vitally interested in the progress of the United States postal system, the railroads, the cities, and the men who have built up this great nation. Therefore, as stamp collectors, we cannot fail to be interested most of all in the stamps of our own country, since all these things are associated with our stamps.

The specialist in United States stamps soon learns of the development of our post-office from reading text-books on his stamps. He traces the early efforts to establish postal conveniences through the postmasters' provisionals, of which he reads, though seldom possesses. He sees the Civil War days, from the Confederate issues and the cancellations and

Many collectors of U. S. adhesive stamps are considerably interested in the collecting of the curiously and oddly cancelled stamps of the earlier issues. Being an ardent and much interested collector along these lines, I am constantly seeking for more definite knowledge upon this subject. Many of the older specialists of United States stamps have made some considerable effort along this interesting line of philatelic endeavor but not until very recent years has the general collector taken such a deep interest in this matter.

Numerous articles have appeared of late in the various stamp publications, among them the WEEKLY, and many interesting illustrations of the most curiously cancelled stamps have been published.

Some of the most important and interesting were those which appeared from the pen of Wm. L. Stevenson, one

In my approval department I have particularly fine books of the above containing, in addition to all the above, many plates, blocks and oddities not listed that I shall be glad to send interested parties furnishing satisfactory references. If you have any Imperfs. or coil stamps to dispose of I shall be glad to give highest good prices in cash or exchange.

What else may I send you? My specialty is "Approvals arranged by countries for the general collector." I aim to please.

THIS IS GOOD BOOSTING.

On November 11 we received a bunch of seven new six months' subscriptions from the Edgewood Stamp Co. and we feel compelled to publicly recognize the splendid co-operation that this firm is extending. This firm believes that anything that increases the circulation of the WEEKLY is promoting philately and we are greatly pleased at such evidences of interest in our publication.

We also extend the Royal Stamp Co. of Philadelphia our thanks for the manner in which it is helping us in increasing our circulation. On the new campaign that has been launched in connection with our six months' coupons, the following is the standing, giving the names of those who have sent in more than one subscription:—

Royal Stamp Co.	8
H. S. Powell Stamp Co.	3
Belmont Stamp Co.	2
J. E. Guest	2
H. J. Schmidt	2

EDITORIAL.

Pioneer—A paragraph was crowded out last week telling of the successful aeroplane flight of Victor Carlstrom from Chicago to New York, carrying a bag of mail. The New York Times, under whose auspices Carlstrom made his triumph, says that over 1,000 letters and postals addressed to people in all parts of the country were carried. The Times says: "The mail was received on the aviation field by Assistant Superintendent of Mails, John W. Tiedemann of the New York Post Office, official representative of Postmaster Edward M. Morgan. The pouch was immediately taken to the General Post Office and within less than half an hour after Carlstrom landed, the letters and post cards were being delivered to the New Yorkers to whom they were addressed, while the mail to persons outside New York was sent out on the first trains." Mr. Theodore H. Ames writes to say that he is the possessor of two of the envelopes of letters carried in the aeroplane. They are postmarked Chicago, Nov. 2, 6 A.M., and New York, Received, Nov. 3, 10 A.M. The envelopes have a special delivery as well as a two cent stamp on them; and at one end of the covers is the impression: "Between Sunrise and Sunset. Forwarded from Chicago to New York by New York Times Aeroplane."

Many—Opportunity of the campaign directed to secure a special stamp to commemorate the admission of Indiana as a state December 11, 1816, and the statement made last August on the authority of Director Ralph that a special stamp would be issued to celebrate Mississippi's entry into the Union, December 11, 1917, Mr. Charles H. Hermann submits a list of coming centennials that afford some excuse for stamp issues. In the aggregate, these coming centennials probably will bring forth some special stamps, but we do not anticipate any extended orgy of issues: Illinois admitted to the Union, Dec. 3, 1818; Alabama was admitted Dec. 14, 1819; Florida purchased from Spain, Feb. 22, 1819; First Steamship crossed the Atlantic, 1819; in 1820 Maine became a state, and in 1821 Missouri joined the sisterhood.

Spur—An interesting minor variety is shown by Mr. E. A. Steiner in the four cent Columbian. In the oval to the left of the right "4" there is an extra projection or spur, giving a variety that is found rather uniformly in about one out of every ten stamps.

Remembrance—In Havana, Cuba, a resident mail agency was established and maintained for some time by the United States, but this convenience, intended to safeguard the correspondence of Americans and others and to facilitate its passage, was discontinued on the 30th of June, 1877. This agency was closed in consequence of the admission of the island of Cuba into the Postal Union, which had been organized but a short time before. We are curious what sort of postmark was used on the United States stamps which were dispensed at the agency. An inquirer thinks that a small blue postmark, with the wording, approximately, "U. S. Postal Agency, Havana, Cuba," was used, and we should like confirmation, if possible, of this opinion by some one who is in a position to speak by the book. The subject of resident foreign mail agencies is one that has its fascination for the investigator, but it is somewhat strange that even the keenest students of our stamps have given little attention to the foreign agencies whose records were made on the earlier United States stamps. The Spanish-American War of 1898 with its extra-territorial postmarks on our stamps excited some interest in the foreign office markings and the postmarks on American stamps of the expeditionary force in China later, further fixed the foreign postmark in the collecting mind. However, it is not these later varieties that we intend to speak of, but those of an earlier period. Having had perhaps as many of these old markings pass through our hands as the next man, and having been interested in the foreign postmarks for years, we venture to make a few observations of a general rather than specific nature.

Cities—Our postal agencies in China and Japan were authorized many years ago, and while Yokohama, Japan, and Shanghai, China, were the central agencies, branch agencies at other ports in China and Japan were to be established if it should be deemed necessary for the prompt and efficient management of the postal service in those countries, to quote the words of the post office department. The two agencies named have long been regarded with interest commingled with pride, and it is to be added that the agency at Shanghai still is in existence and has the distinction of being the only "foreign part" from which matter may be mailed under American stamps. It is understood that no branch offices of the Shanghai and Yokohama agencies were organized. By decree, resident postal agents were named at the ports of Aspinwall and Panama in "New Grenada," or Colombian Republic as we know it; and at St. Thomas and Havana. The postmaster general was deputed to appoint resident agents "at such other foreign ports at which United States mail steamers touch to land and receive mails, as may, in his judgment, promote the efficiency of the foreign mail service; and may pay agents, employed at such points out of the appropriation for transportation of the mail a reasonable compensation for their services." Agents were named at other ports of call to loan security to the handling of the mails, and even Turkey has been included, as we had the Constantinople agency postmark on the one and three cent design, 1870 issue. The expansion of the Postal Union and the general tendency to respect the inviolacy of the international mails were the chief causes that contributed to the discontinuance of the foreign agencies.

Sea—While on the topic of foreign postmarks on U. S. stamps, it is to be said that the postmaster general early in the '70's, we believe, was instructed

Uganda—Through the courtesy of a reader, Mr. Donald Munro, Port Arthur, Ontario, we are enabled to give the following recital in the words of Mr. R. R. Racey, of Port Arthur, who was an officer of the treasury of the Uganda administration, as to the origin of the "L" surcharge on the issue of Uganda, following the typewritten issues. Mr. Racey's statements are particularly interesting inasmuch as it was his own suggestion that was responsible for the addition of a set to our happy family of stamps:

"You asked me to give you a short account of the way in which the obsolete Uganda Protectorate Cowrie Shell denomination stamps came to be superscribed 'L' and the following is the story as nearly as I am able to give it.

The Church Missionary Society had sent Alexander M. McKay to Uganda, who died there early in 1890. McKay, amongst other things, brought with him, so I was informed, a printing press, which after many delays en route, was ultimately set up at the Church Missionary Society station at Lubas, Usoga, and here the first printing in the Uganda protectorate was done. During the period of Mr. (then) E. J. L. Berkeley's tenure of the Commission-ship of the Uganda Administration, the need of an issue of stamps became evident, and the currency of the Country was mainly in Cowrie Shells worth at that time about 200 to the Rupee or 600 for $1.00 Canadian Currency. The Church Missionary Society was invited by Mr. Berkeley to print an issue of stamps with their printing press, which they agreed to do. The only paper obtainable immediately was foreign note paper, as it required several months in those days to procure supplies from England or the Coast. The issue was finally printed and turned over to the Treasurer, Mr. George Douglas Smith, at Port Alice.

It was during the early part of the year 1897, the Administration, for Statistical purposes, wished to know the revenue being locally derived through the Post Office department, and in order to differentiate between the local and foreign sales the question was put up to myself, I having been attached pro tem to the Treasury as Cashier and Storekeeper, and my suggestion was to mark stamps for local purposes with an 'L'; this suggestion met with ready approval, and I forthwith cut out an 'L' from a common rubber eraser with my pocket knife. I do not remember the number of stamps so superscribed."

AEROPLANE POSTAL SERVICE.

Several subscribers have sent us newspaper clippings dealing with the flight record of Victor Carlstrom, who on Nov. 2 journeyed from Chicago to New York City, breaking his own American non-stop record by traveling 450 miles. He was compelled to descend at Erie, Pa., because of engine trouble.

The venture was promoted by the New York Times, and Carlstrom carried mail to various well-known men, as well as a considerable amount for the public.

John C. Morgan, one of our subscribers, sends us a post card that he succeeded in getting through. It is postmarked "Chicago, Ill. Nov. 2. 6 A.M." and "New York, N. Y. Recd. Nov. 3. 10 A.M." The card bears in an oblong rectangular frame the following:—"Between sunrise and sunset. Forwarded from Chicago to New York by New York Times Aeroplane." It is an interesting souvenir of a notable flight.

UNUSUAL CANCELLATIONS.

of our most ardent investigators of cancellation and defacing devices.

One can pursue this line of collecting at a very modest outlay and very frequently find some interesting treasure. Only very recently I bought a mixed lot of old U. S. and upon sorting them over found a very fine copy of the Fletcher cog wheel cut on the 3 cent green of 1873 and a fairly good copy of a defacing cancellation as shown in Fig. 2 on the 3c green 1879, the cancellation being finely centered.

By a defacing canceller I have reference to a device used for cancelling the stamp and at the same time the canceller is used, it makes a series of small, fine punctures through the stamp or depression so that the ink from the canceller will enter the fibers of the paper and thereby prevent cleaning and washing the stamp by unscrupulous persons.

Fig. 1, a cancelling defacer, I have on the 3c green 1879. It consists of two concentric rings with the small spots in the center indicating where the fine points of canceller have penetrated the paper. Fig. 2 I have on the 3c green 1873 issue, consisting of a single ring with similar punctures. These punctures if properly impressed on the stamp have a similar appearance as the back of a grilled stamp. Fig. 3 shows one I have on a 2 cent vermilion 1879. The dots in the center on my stamps are square and slightly oblong but this may be due to the direction in which the stamp was struck by the person cancelling. I could not consider the squares authentic unless I found a second copy. Fig. 4 I have on 2 cent brown 1883, the U. S. being separated by a small colorless star. Fig. 5 is on a 2 cent brown 1883. Fig. 6 on the 2 cent green 1887. The Fig. 7 is on the 2 cent carmine 1890 and the eight pointed lined or ruled star is a purple cancellation on the 1c blue 1872.

CANADA.—Mrs. E. W. Oughtred sends us a specimen of the 2c Ontario stock transfer stamp. There is a set consisting of seven values as follows:—2c red, 10c green, 20c brown, 50c violet, $1 blue, $2 grayish green, $10 burnt orange. The stamp is upright rectangular in shape and the design is evidently the Ontario provincial seal. The stamp is well engraved and the set will be a handsome addition to a collection of Canadian fiscals.

CAYMAN IDS.—On Wednesday, September 20th, the Legislative Assembly (Justices and Vestry) sitting at George Town, Grand Cayman, passed "A Law to impose a special War Tax on certain post letters." This law provides for a War Tax of 1/2d on all letters to British Dominions, excepting the Islands, and is operative for but a year. The stock of the current 2 1/2d blue, George, has been placed in the hands of the Government Printer at Kingston, Jamaica, to receive the surcharge "WAR STAMP 1½d". Varieties can be expected, for the Government Printer is not having the same success with the War Stamps of Jamaica, as with the 4800 "One Halfpenny" on 1d Cayman Islands, back in 1907, in which occurred not even a minor variety.—HARRY E. HUBER.

DOMINICA.—Regulations passed in this Island provide for a war tax of ½d on all letters to the British Empire, inland letters and those for the Leeward Islands being excepted. A new printing of the ½d view stamp, in deep green, has been overprinted WAR TAX —ONE HALFPENNY in small sans serif caps. The overprint is in red, and applied to complete sheets of 60. There is a minor variety in which the letter "O" of "ONE" is dropped slightly below the line. According to official advice from Roseau, this stamp was first placed on sale September 1st, and the quantity received in the first consignment, 250,000. The war stamp may be used interchangeably with the ordinary ½d stamp.—HARRY E. HUBER.

JAMAICA.—The ½d Arms with the two line overprint, WAR STAMP, was issued in early October. The type is beginning to show signs of wear, and replacements have been necessary. Two types of the letter "S" and "P" are found in new printings of the ½d, 1½d and 3d on lemon yellow. All three values contain a further variety—the letter "A" of "STAMP" being dropped below the line. This occurs once in each sheet.—HARRY E. HUBER.

The 3d War Stamp on yellow paper colored through has also appeared with the overprint in two lines, instead of one, like the ½d value previously announced.

NEWS CLEANINGS.

—The American Stamp Dealers' Association will hold their annual convention in New York City on December 1-3. It is hoped that a large number may attend, and all are invited. If you can attend, write the president, John A. Klemann, 118 Nassau St., N. Y. City.

—W. F. Gregory sends us an item about stamps used in large blocks. In 1903 Mr. Gregory received from an export house an envelope, about size 5, with 125 stamps attached. They were the 4c green Colombian Republic and an entire sheet of 100 and a block of 25 were used, making a 5 pesos rate of postage. This interesting cover is in the collection of Hon. E. R. Ackerman.

—An interesting cover is sent us by the Edgewood Stamp Co. It is a Lourenzo Marques cover with interesting censor markings and seal and upon it is a specimen of the new 1c war tax stamp.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from T. H. Ames, H. F. Rech, Mrs. E. W. Oughtred, Allen S. Davenport, C. B. B. Wright and Morton Smith.

—C. V. Webb, Sec'y S. P. A., Perry, O., urges us to call attention of our S. P. A. readers to the fact that last forms for the Year Book close Nov. 30. Only paid up members will be listed in the 1917 Year Book, which will be out January 1.

—H. E. W., Jr.—The Postage Stamps of Canada will shortly be published in booklet form. The price will probably be 25c. We know of no sectional stamp societies in Canada. There are, however, some flourishing local clubs, the one at Winnipeg being strong and influential.

—H. F. Colman has just issued a very substantial and handsomely printed price list for 1917. Mr. Colman makes a specialty of United States and its colonies and the list before us is a very comprehensive one. It also includes cardboard and India paper proofs, etc.

ST. VINCENT "ONE PENNY" ON 1sh.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

St. Vincent, in the Caribbean, far removed from the seats of the great European war, was one of the first Colonies to suffer from the interruption of communication with the mother country. Owing to delay in receiving a new supply of the current 1d George from the Crown Agents, the stock on hand became exhausted, and surcharging was necessary.

The stamp selected to receive the surcharge was the 1s black on green, of the line-engraved King George series of 1913. This stamp had been replaced in June, 1914, by a printing in bistre brown, the reason for the change being that the black ink of the cancelling stamp did not show up to good advantage. This one series does duty for both postage and revenue, and pen cancellations might easily be removed and the stamp used a second time without detection.

The 1s black on green was surcharged in red "ONE PENNY," two lines, in heavy block sans serif type, with a narrow bar underneath cancelling the original value.

For this surcharging two handstamps were made, one showing "ONE ONE," and the other "PENNY. PENNY," with a narrow bar extending the width of two stamps, so that to surcharge a stamp two operations were necessary. Two stamps at a time received the surcharge "PENNY. PENNY," with the underline throughout the sheet of 120, and then by means of the "ONE ONE" handstamp in the same manner the sheet was completed. The space between the two lines varies anywhere from $6\frac{1}{2}$ to 10 mm. A more tedious method of surcharging could hardly be found than the one used, and much time must have been consumed in making this issue.

The stock of 1s at the Kingstown Post Office consisted of 37 sheets, and these were first surcharged and placed on sale January 30, 1915. No restriction was made as to the number of stamps which could be bought by each applicant, with the result that the stock was cleared out that day.

During the following week, the stocks of the 1s on green in the Post Offices in the outlying districts of the Island were recalled and surcharged. These numbered 11,150, and were placed on sale February 6th. Though orders were given that not more than 30 stamps should be sold to each applicant, the surcharged stamps were exhausted in a few hours. The total issue amounted to 15,590.

In spite of the manner of surcharging, there are not as many varieties as might be expected. Copies are known with double impressions of the word "ONE," and others show two impressions of the "PENNY." portion. Also are known a block of nine, one without the surcharge, and a larger block in which four stamps are without the word "ONE."

When the stamp first appeared in this country, $5.00 was asked for it, but with subsequent supplies the price fell to around $1.00. Large quantities are still held locally for speculative purposes, and when these come on the market, perhaps there will be another drop in price.

Naturally, when dealers and collectors wrote out for supplies of these stamps, there were none to be had at the Post Office, but the Postmaster seems to have referred such letters to one of the local purchasers of these stamps. This action on the part of the Postmaster being a little irregular, suggested the possibility of collusion with local speculators.

The matter was brought to the attention of the Secretary of State for the Colonies in London, and information was requested by him of the Governor of the Windward Islands, of which St. Vincent is one. The findings were that the Postmaster had merely performed an act of courtesy, with no speculative intention, but instructions have been issued forbidding the Postmasters to extend such information in the future.

In May, 1916, regulations were passed providing for a War Tax of 1d on all letters and parcels addressed to the British Empire. This tax became effective June 1st. The current 1d carmine, George type, was overprinted locally, in black "WAR STAMP," in block sans serif caps, in two lines.

This stamp, like the 1d on 1s, was handstamped, the handstamp being made up with the overprint in duplicate, so that two stamps were surcharged at one operation. The left-hand setting of the handstamp showed a comma after the word "STAMP," while the right-hand setting showed a period. Thus every other stamp in the first printing (numbering some 20-odd thousand stamps) showed the comma variety.

Two other printings were made, but the handstamp was corrected to show periods in both right and left-hand settings. Stamps are known with double impressions in both the first and subsequent printings.

In the latter part of August, the London overprinted stamps arrived, and were immediately placed on sale. The stamp is deep red in color, and the overprint "WAR STAMP" (without the troublesome period) is in one line of condensed sans serif type. A full sheet of 120 stamps (not divided into panes) was surcharged at one operation.

The 368th (regular) meeting of the Society will be held on Tuesday evening, November 21, at 7.45 p. m. Those who wish to dine together will meet at the club-room at 6 p. m. The entertainment on that evening will consist of exhibitions of stamps by two of our resident members and will be well worth coming to see. Mr. H. F. Bucknam will show his stamps of British North America and of the United States, and Mr. Charles B. Moore will exhibit his "Germany and Colonies" and his Balkans. Both of these gentlemen have very complete collections, and there should be a large attendance. It is not fair to expect any one to put himself out to bring a fine collection to the meeting and when he comes to find only a few members present, as has been the case at some previous meetings. If you have any applications for membership, be sure to put in their names at this meeting.

POSTAGE STAMPS OF UNITED STATES.

By BILL BLOSS.

The Postmasters' Provisional Issues

Since the purpose of this book is to instruct the collector, it will not be necessary to go into the details of these rarities to any extent. With the exception of the New York and Providence issues, these stamps are beyond the reach of the average collector, and even these two issues will never be secured by many.

The first adhesive stamp was introduced in England in 1840, and soon came into popular favor. Other nations soon availed themselves of this convenience and the American people also wished to make use of the new invention, since it was proving itself a great success wherever used.

However, the United States post office was somewhat slow to adopt new ideas in those days, and there were a great many people who looked upon stamps with disfavor, considering them "crazy notions" and impractical. This is not surprising, for history shows that every great invention has been treated likewise. The first man to wear rubber overshoes was jeered at, and the first motor car was made the butt of many a joke.

In 1845, Congress passed a bill fixing a standard rate of 5c on each single letter carried a distance of not over three hundred miles, and 10c for any distance over three hundred miles. A single sheet of paper, weighing not over one-half ounce was considered a single letter. A two-page letter, or letter and envelope, was considered a double letter, and charged for at double rates. Printed matter was handled at somewhat lower rates. Envelopes were somewhat of a novelty at that time, and were not in general use. In place of an envelope, the paper was folded and sealed, with the address written on the out-side.

Shortly after the passage of this act, postmasters of the various cities decided to issue stamps at their own expense, for the convenience of the public. These stamps were accepted for postage only at the office of issue, but would carry a letter to any other office. In other words, a letter franked with a Providence stamp could be mailed from Providence to New York, but could not be mailed in New York for Providence or any other office. A single exception is made in the case of a very limited number of the New York stamps which were used between Boston and New York, under a special arrangement between the postmasters of those cities, and at the request of the department, to test the efficiency of stamps.

The postmaster of New York, Robert Morris, issued the first of these semi-official stamps on May 21, 1845. They were printed from a steel plate, and bore a portrait of Washington together with the inscription "New York Post Office" and "five cents". Each copy was initialed by the postmaster, or his brother-in-law, Alexander C. Monson, to prevent counterfeiting. These stamps were in use until 1849, and are therefore not as rare as the issues from the smaller towns which were not as generally used. There are many minor varieties of interest to specialists, and it is possible to re-construct the plate.

In 1846, Postmaster Welcome B. Sayles, of Providence, R. I., issued stamps of the denominations of 5c and 10c. A very small number of used copies of the 5c are known, but used copies of the 10c are practically non-existent. A quantity of remainders were put in circulation from a supply in the possession of the retired postmaster and also from a package of these stamps given one of the carriers at the time they were put out of issue. The original plate was found in the postmaster's effects and reprints have been made from this plate. These latter bear the initials B O G E

H. F. COLMAN,

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG.,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

R T D U R B I N, one letter to each stamp, on reverse. Dangerous counterfeits of these stamps also exist.

The Alexandria, Va., provisional was issued in 1846, in 5c denomination only. This stamp is one of the rarest of the provisionals, there being in all probability fewer than a dozen copies in existence.

One of the most unique of the provisionals is the Annapolis envelope. This envelope is embossed with a seal inscribed "Post Office Annapolis" and bears in addition the words "5 paid". The authenticity of this envelope is questioned, as only one copy has been found to date.

The very old autograph issue of Baltimore was put on sale early in 1846. The design was very simple, consisting merely of a reproduction of the signature of James M. Buchanan, Postmaster, and the value "5 cents" or "10 cents" as the case may be. These stamps are among the rarities of United States. Being printed from hand engraved plates, there are minor differences in each copy.

Envelopes to the value of five cents and ten cents were also issued by this postmaster, bearing his signature and the inscription "Paid 5" or "Paid 10". Various colors of stock were used. These also are extremely rare.

The "Paid 5 cents" stamp of Boscawen, N. H., is one of the most crudely executed stamps ever issued, and also one of the very rarest of all stamps, since only one copy is known to exist. Owing to the publicity this stamp has had, it is doubtful if there are other copies, as they would have come to light before this. This stamp was made from type very carelessly set, so careless in fact that the word "cents" is not even in alignment. The paper used was a coarse tissue of very poor quality. However, since these provisional stamps were printed at the postmaster's expense, and as Boscawen was a very small office, the postmaster would scarcely be justified in issuing a costly stamp. Even as crude as it is, many collectors would be glad to pay a small fortune for a copy of this rarity.

The provisional issue of Brattleboro, Vermont, is of interest to all collectors, owing to the wide publicity it has had. This stamp, in the denomination of five cents, was printed from a copper engraved plate, in black on thick buff wove paper. All copies were initialed by the postmaster. These stamps have been widely studied and discussed in the philatelic press.

The five cents provisional stamp issued in 1846 at Lockport, New York, is another item of greatest rarity. The history of this stamp is practically unknown. The words "Lockport, N. Y." in double lined oval are handstamped in dull red. The word "Paid" is handstamped within the smallest oval, in the same shade of red, while the value "5" is written in script in black ink. This is another stamp that will never grace the collection of even the collector who puts his stamps before his purse.

The Millbury, Massachusetts, provisional is somewhat more pretentious than many of the others. The postmaster, being of progressive turn of mind, decided to issue a stamp similar to the New York stamp for his town, and accordingly had a wood cut made in Boston, bearing the inscription "Post Office" and "Paid 5 cents" in a double circle, with a crude picture of Washington in the center. These stamps were printed one at a time on a hand-press, a method that would be somewhat unsatisfactory in the present day. Very few copies of this stamp are known.

The New Haven provisional envelopes were issued in 1845, chiefly for the convenience of the public who wished to mail letters after the office closed. These envelopes were furnished by the public and stamped by the postmaster with a brass die, inscribed "Post Office New Haven Ct. 5 Paid — P. M." in five lines set in heavy and light rule, much like the common labels in use to-day. Each envelope was signed on the blank line by E. A. Mitchell, postmaster. Reprints from the original die have been made, some having Mr. Mitchell's own signature, and some with forged signature. The reprints can be readily distinguished from the genuine.

There is little necessity to go into the details of the Saint Louis provisional stamps. Three denominations, a 5c, 10c and 20c, were issued, and were used quite extensively by various business houses. Several large finds of these stamps have been made, and they have been re-constructed into the original plates and much studied and written about, so collectors interested can readily find the information they desire in the more exhaustive articles. Pairs and strips of these stamps are not uncommonly found in the upper realms of philately.

Provisional issues are also claimed to have been issued at Philadelphia, Pittsfield and Worcester, Massachusetts, and Washington, D. C., but as none of these stamps have ever been found, little can be said of them. Owing to the fact that most of these stamps were issued in very small quantities and that stamp collecting was little known for many years after this period, it is not surprising that many of these stamps escaped notice and are out of existence. (To be continued.)

SPECIALIZED EARLY MEXICAN COLLECTION FOR SALE

We offer a beautiful collection in two volumes of the early issues of Mexico, 1856-67 only, for sale at a very attractive price. Included are a number of pairs and strips as well as many stamps and unusual combinations on the original covers. The catalogue value by Gibbons is about $1,200 and by Scott a little less, without taking into consideration the added value due to the number of stamps on covers and in blocks. There are 375 single stamps, 55 pairs, 2 strips of three, 9 strips of four. 104 stamps are on covers.

DOCUMENTARY AND PROPRIETARY.

CHAPTER III—Tax Schedules of 1862.

We are indebted to "A Manual of the Direct and Excise Tax System of the United States" published by Little, Brown & Co., of Boston in 1863 and revised in 1866, for the tax schedules and certain other information regarding the first issue. The author was Hon. George S. Boutwell, Commissioner of Internal Revenue at the time. He states regarding the Act of Congress approved July 1, 1862, "The stamp tax took effect nominally October 1, 1862, but a full supply of stamps was not available until January 1, 1863, and the use of stamps was not made imperative by law until June 1, 1863." Continuing, he states, "The preparation of revenue stamps early engaged the attention of the commissioner. By the provisions of the law it was necessary that each stamp should indicate upon its face the nature of the paper or instrument to which it was to be applied. This requisition involved the preparation of a large number of engravings and dies which were to be dissimilar in design or in appearance. As the time was limited, and in case an attempt should be made to procure stamps of various designs the risk of failure, in some instances at least, would be great, it was thought that the leading feature in each should be the same. Upon consultation with the Secretary of the Treasury, (Salmon P. Chase), the head of Washington after Stuart's painting was adopted. By the first of January, 1863, more than ninety stamps of different designs and denominations had been engraved and prepared for use. It was contemplated by the law that stamped paper should be furnished on which might be written the various instruments subject to stamp duty. It has not yet been found practicable to comply with this requisition. (Signed G. S. B. July 17, 1863.)

From this it might appear Mr. Secretary Chase was responsible for the selection of the three-quarters portrait of Washington that is on all the stamps of the first issue, except the private proprietaries. There is no doubt a profile of Washington had been previously determined upon, for a letter of Butler & Carpenter, dated August 29, 1862, to Commissioner Boutwell speaks of the one cent and two cent proprietary as being engraved, except the wording, with the profile view, and of Mr. Carpenter's return from Washington, stopping the work on the profile dies and hastening the preparation of the other design.

Following are the rates for documentary stamp taxes under the law of 1862—

EDITORIAL.

Discovery—We have just seen a piece of Confederate currency that we do not remember having noticed before. It is a two dollar bill, the product of Keatinge & Ball, who at one time produced the stamps of the Confederacy. The ten cent, 1863, in entire sheet, with the Keatinge & Ball imprint and plate-number is not uncommon. The bill which is dated Columbia, S. C., March 15th, 1864, reads: "Due by Keatinge & Ball, Two Dollars, payable on demand in Confederate Treasury notes, when the sum of Ten Dollars is presented. Keatinge & Ball. No. 92.A." This was an issue of private currency to meet the demand for smaller bills which as engravers, Keatinge & Ball were in a position to prepare for themselves at a minimum of cost and inconvenience.

Scott—The retirement from the stamp business of Mr. J. W. Scott after a singularly long and honorable career, has furnished the theme for many a commentator in the stamp papers from coast to coast, not to say the world. There is no discordant note in the chorus of praise bestowed upon Mr. Scott for the good influence that he has exerted on philately from the beginning. Our word of appreciation was duly recorded but what we wish to say now is that it devolves upon Mr. Scott to write his memoirs, as they would span philately from its founding to the present day. We should say that no story could be of so engrossing interest as Mr. Scott's recital of stamp collecting from the date of its origin to its present estate. For many years Mr. Scott was the most outstanding figure in philately and so thoroughly was he a part of the pursuit that any history of philately would be incomplete without the story of his stamp life. We hope that Mr. Scott will put pen to paper for the benefit of the present generation of collectors and of those who are to come. He is the one man to whom traditions of the past are as familiar as the forms of to-day.

Express—In sending us a number of express labels that were used by the United States Express Company, previously to 1890, for the prepayment of newspapers over its lines from Chicago to Davenport, Iowa, Mr. E. M. White encloses an interesting cover that was sent from Leavenworth City, October 22, 1859, K. T., of Davenport, Iowa. The envelope is the three-cent, 1853, U. S. stamped envelope, with three cent adhesive, 1857-60, and bears on one corner, the inscription in postmark form: "Jones & Russell's Pike's Peak Express Co., Denver City, Oct. 6, 1859."

Approval—When, recently, Mr. Frank Godden announced from London, England, a forthcoming production by N. E. Waterhouse, on the stamps of the United States, no small degree of expectancy was aroused in the minds of collectors in this country. A bit of sentiment entered into our satisfaction that the popularity of our stamps in England is solid enough to sustain a book of the pretentious kind indicated in the advertising, even though it is known that for many years the stamps of the United States have been the favorites of not a few earnest collectors in England. We have realized that there are a number of these collectors there and we have marveled sometimes at their sureness of touch, considering their distance from head-quarters; and among them, N. E. Waterhouse must be given distinguished place. It is to be said that the English writer on United States stamps is not handicapped in one essential regard. He can (or could) gather material in liberal measure to assist in his work, as England was one of the chief entrepôts of United States stamps. "A Comprehensive Catalogue of the Postage Stamps of the United States of America" by N. E. Waterhouse has now appeared and the intent and scope of the work are described in the foreword. It is admitted that the specialist will find "little, if anything, that is new", but it is safe to say that he will recognize the book's value for reference purposes. The stamps are treated in a way to bring the minor or obscurer varieties to the notice of the student of our issues; and a most important consideration is that practically all the stamps are priced, or let us say, appraised. We admire the faith that makes pricing possible, but with recourse to auction prices, when catalogues are lacking, an achievement has resulted that is worth attention. Cancellations, covers, pairs, blocks, etc., are dismissed without extended comment, but some of the marked transfer varieties are described. The author is all too diffident in concluding his introduction with the whimsical observation: "While the work is both excellent and original, the parts which are excellent are not original, and the parts which are original are not excellent!" Historically, the subject is well presented and the work deserves to be called an almost ideal catalogue that is well written up,—in other words, the practical or price is nicely combined with the theory or study.

Close-up—We have spoken at some length of the Postage Stamps of the United States of America for several reasons, one of which is because of the intense interest shown here in the earlier United States issues. We must add that the illustrations are the most attractive feature of the book; they are wonderfully clear and as they are not of the main, but of the less known, and scarcer varieties, their service is the more acceptable. The notes and descriptive text of the book are instructive and in themselves they furnish all justification for the publishing of the volume. While it is possible that a close perusal of the book will reveal much that escapes us in the casual notice that has been given it, we do not hesitate to recommend the book to all who are interested in the stamps of our country. If there is any tendency to err, it will be on the side of caution, we are sure, since we notice that Mr. Waterhouse says that he has been unable to locate more than forty-five plate varieties of the five cent New York. Our readers will remember that some time ago we gave an enlarged illustration of all the fifty plate varieties with full description as to their identity.

Lost—A curious example of stamp estray has come to our notice. We have an envelope addressed to Chicago on which a 2c de p, 1890 Philippine, is canceled: "Street Letter Box, Sept. 6, 1916, Kingston, Jamaica." Naturally enough, the Jamaican authorities did not recognize the validity of the Philippine stamp and postage due was indicated on the envelope. Where did the Philippine stamp come from and what was it doing in Kingston?

Pat—The lamented George Fitch prepared an essay on "Postage Stamps" for his series, Vest Pocket Essays, as syndicated in the newspaper press. A perusal of "Postage Stamps" which has been sent in by several readers, shows that the humorist was not a stranger to the joys and jolts of philately and he cleverly set off the Seebeck situation by saying that some of the Central American republics sold their handsome sets to the dealers by the bale "who retailed them to the perspiring collector who was attempting to keep up with the postage stamp procession."

BENNETT OF BUFFALO.

Dealers are asking us what we know as regards one Bennett of Buffalo, N. Y., and we in turn are compelled to reply that it would be well not to send approval selections unless gilt-edged references are offered. It would be well to make sure that the references are all that they pretend to be. There is a reason for this news item and dealers who are interested should be able to read between the lines.

characterless—were liars, thieves, or whatever one cares to imagine. To stifle opposition to the illegal increase in his salary, Carlos ordered many of the newspapers to be suspended; but he signed his own death-warrant when on February 1, 1908, he issued a proclamation providing for the arrest and immediate transportation to Africa of all political offenders. That afternoon while driving thru the streets of Lisbon in an open carriage he and the crown prince were shot and killed by political fanatics.

Manuel (issue of 1910), the last of the Braganzas, was still weaker than his father, from whom he probably inherited his taste for the gay life of Paris.
He fell in love with a singer in the vaudeville, and presented her with many valuable jewels. She used the incident to advertise herself, causing the more Puritanical of the Republicans in Portugal to criticize the young king caustically. There was no reason why the overburdened people of Portugal should be still heavier taxed to pay for the entertainment of a vaudeville singer. And as if the country had not suffered enough humiliation, the Prime Minister, pledged to Reform, bribed liberally to carry the elections. And one morning in October, 1910, King Manuel awoke to find himself without a kingdom.

NEWS CLEANINGS.

—We are in receipt of greetings from H. C. Naschke and O. R. Bertram, written in the convention hall of the Texas Philatelic Association at San Antonio under date of Nov. 13.

—The Elgin Stamp Co. informs us that owing to illness a delay has been experienced in the filling of orders. All matters will soon be attended to.

—The Cleveland Branch of the S. P.
A. held its first meeting Nov. 17 at the Hotel Startler, when officers were elected and the machinery put in motion for a live organization. The call is signed by Howard W. Coddling.

—We are advised that Geo. Liden of Minneapolis has found it necessary to retire from the stamp business for the next few months. There are several parties who regret that Mr. Liden did not arrive at this decision some months ago.

—The next S. P. A. convention will be held at Minneapolis-St. Paul, August 7-9, 1917.

—"Papers recently received from Sweden speak of a projected new issue in a War Surcharge. The old 5kr. stamps (with the Stockholm P. O.) also the remainders of the 1886-91 issue (numerals) and the Lösen remainders will all be surcharged with 5 or 10 öre plus 5 or 10 öre, the additional amount going to "Beklädnadsföreningen" or the Society for Providing Clothing for the Landstrom (Mobilized Citizen Troops)."
—EDWIN P. SEEBOHM.

—"Without any intention of unduly straining the truth, I want to enter here as a side remark, that the WEEKLY is as necessary to me as my Meals, and the equal in interest of any two of the rest of the newspapers or magazines that I subscribe for."—J. A. GARRISON.

—President Kissinger of the S. P. A. visited Secretary Webb at his home in Perry, Ohio, last week.

—Clippings acknowledged with thanks from Benj. Cadbury and Mrs. E. W.
Oughtred (2).

ORIENTAL STAMP CO.

Some years ago the Oriental Stamp Co. was a familiar firm name with readers of the WEEKLY and the advertisements of the company appeared regularly in this paper. We are glad to have the firm resume advertising in the WEEKLY and elsewhere in this number will be found the initial advertisement.
Mr. Albert E. Sanford, the manager, has had considerable experience in handling stamps and with the large stock that the firm commands we feel positive that the wants of our readers can be supplied.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—The following new envelopes are noted by J. M. Bartels:

Issue 1899.
B. No.	Denom.	Die.	Size.	Paper.	Wmk. Kn.
1687A	1c	101	2	Amber	12 78

Issue 1911.

2282A	1c	A	2	Amber	16 79
-------	----	---	---	-------	-------

The J. M. Bartels Co. reports having in stock all the stamps on unwater-marked paper, as editorially chronicled in No. 1350.

Frederick B. Wiener submits a specimen of the current 2c stamp with Shermack II perforation through the center of the stamp vertically.

AUSTRIA.—William Steiner has shown us photographs of new postage and special delivery stamps for Austria:

Postage—Two designs, one for the 15h and 80h values, similar to 1908 issue, but with figures of value only once in the center, the portrait being smaller. The 3kr and 4kr values are of similar design, but with the Imperial Arms in the vignette.

Special Delivery—Stamps in the form of an equilateral triangle with point downward, the usual inscription running around the three sides, and the figure of value in the lower point. The head of Mercury, facing downward to the left, is the central picture. Values: 2h and 5h.

BOSNIA.—We are indebted to William Steiner for photographs of new postage, special delivery and postage due stamps just issued for this country. Colors are not given, the issues comprising:

Postage—Design similar to the low values of the 1912 issue, but with smaller portrait, the value in the center below portrait, and the inscription "K. u. K.
Militar Post—Bosnian—Hercegovina" running around the margin, like the Austrian stamps of 1908. Values: 15h
and 80h.

Special Delivery—Tall oblong, reading "Militar Post—Eilmarke" above, and the value below. Head of Mercury facing downward to the right and lightning flashes for the central picture.
Values: 2h and 5h.

Postage Due—Square stamps, with large colorless figures of value in oblong octagon tablets; "Militar Post—Posto-marke" above, and value in small figures and words at the bottom. Values: 5h, 10h, 15h, 20h, 25h, 30h, 40h, 1kr, 3k.

CANADA.—Arc. Olivier has supplied the missing Quebec City Tax Ticket mentioned by Mrs. Oughtred in No. 1350.
It is the familiar strip ticket with octagon corners, reading, "The Cent for Hospitals and Charitable Institutions", with a large Red Cross and the number on the face. On the reverse the inscription reads "Le Sou pour les Hôpitaux et les Institutions de Charité."
This is the only kind and value in use.

COLOMBIA.—Frederick B. Wiener reports having seen Scott's No. 363, bisected diagonally and used as a 1c stamp.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—According to the Philatelic Gazette, the Dominican Republic will add a 1/4c stamp to its list of current stamps.

JAPAN.—Alfred Rasmussen sends the following communication regarding the new commemorative issue for Japan, in commemoration of the official installation of the Crown Prince:

"This ceremony is to come off Nov. 3, and in commemoration of which the Department of Communications will issue commemorative stamps of three the 3s are of same design but different coloring, the 1 1/2s being yellow and scarlet center with green border, and the 3s yellow and scarlet center with scarlet border. The 10s is in blue and brown.

Size will be about the same as the lower values of the Coronation set."

ST. KITTS-NEVIS.—J. A. Galbraith has shown us the war stamp for this Colony, the 1/2d stamp (telescope design) having been overprinted "War Tax" in a single line in black.

TRINIDAD AND TOBAGO.—J. A. Galbraith has shown us a Red Cross stamp, which was only on sale for one day, though equal quantities were distributed to all post offices. The date when they were on sale, "19.10.16" appears across the stamp, a large Red Cross with thin black border being overprinted in the lower corner, covering the shield and most of the knees of the Goddess.

VIRGIN ISLANDS.—J. A. Galbraith has shown us two war stamps from this Colony, the 1d scarlet and 3d violet on yellow King George having been overprinted "War Stamp" in a single line in black.

WURTEMBERG.—New postage and official stamps have been issued for Wurtemberg, according to photographs shown us by William Steiner, though as Imperial stamps have been used for postal purposes since 1902, the above implies a radical change of policy.
There are two designs, one reading
"Bezirksmarke" and the other "Staats-marke". The first is a horizontal oblong, showing the Royal arms on a colored ground with the dates "1891" and "1916" at either side. "Wurtemberg" appears at the top and "Bezirksmarke" at the bottom. The value is printed in upper corners, and small crosses in the bottom corners.

Values: 2 1/2pf, 7 1/2pf, 10pf, 15pf, 20pf, 25pf, 50pf.

The second design is much more attractive, showing a finely engraved portrait of the King, with the dates "1891" and "1916" in small figures above the shoulders; the value in the upper corners, with "Staatsmarke" between and "Wurtemberg" at the bottom.

Values: 2 1/2pf, 7 1/2pf, 10pf, 15pf, 20pf, 25pf, 30pf, 40pf, 50pf, 1m.

The official stamps are of the familiar designs:—

Scott's 01—2 1/2pf, 7 1/2pf, 15pf.

Scott's 02—2 1/2pf, 7 1/2pf, 15pf.

NEW ZEALAND NOTES.

The effect of the war on paper and dies, and our increased war taxes, have manifested themselves very patently on our New Zealand stamps, especially on the King George issue. Taking the values seriatim which have been mainly effected, we have:—

First, the 1 1/2d.—When the plate for this value was ordered from London, it was thought few would be used, but the value was necessary for parcels, the postage of which advanced by 1 1/2d per pound; but the ordinary letter rate was increased to 1 1/2d for four ounces and this at once caused a huge demand for 1 1/2d stamps. The fine recess plate soon went to pieces and recourse was had to a new locally-made surface-printing die. In the meantime, another surface-printing plate was ordered from London; this is now being used and is a great improvement on the local effort. We thus have three very distinct types of the 1 1/2d stamp.

Secondly, the 2d.—This was also a recess plate from London. When ordered, the stamp duty on receipts was only 1d. This was increased to 2d, as a war tax, and this plate also could not stand the heavy extra printing. Moreover, the colour, mauve, was bad for writing on, so was changed to yellow. A new surface printing plate was therefore also ordered for this value and has just been put to use. There are, therefore, three distinct types of the 2d.

Thirdly, the 4d.—The 2d being changed to yellow absolutely necessitated a change of colour from the 4d. This value is now in mauve.

We understand the Government Printing Office was getting very low in paper, so recourse was had to the old pictorial paper, with the result that some stamps show no watermark and some have watermark split, whilst some are normal. The values we have seen on this special paper are:—

1 1/2d, No. 1 type, from London plate,

2d yellow, from London plate.

3d brown, " " " "

6d rose, " " " "

8d Edward.

In the way of general news we may say that:—

1. Official £1 have ceased to exist. Reminders have all been destroyed. This value was used to prepay postage on large lots of Government circulars, etc.

2. The officials now on issue are: King George 1 1/2d, 1 1/2d (local plate), 2d, 3d, 6d, 1sh; Dominion 1d, Edward 8d, and Queen's Head 2sh and 5sh. The 1 1/2d from local plate should be scarce, as we expect this value from new London plate any time.

Aitutaki.—6d Edward should never be catalogued. We can absolutely prove that not a single copy of these 6d ever reached the Island of Aitutaki. They were all sold at Auckland post office, and bought by a few speculators. If ever a stamp should be turned down, this is one.

Stamps out here and in Australia have held their own wonderfully since the Great War broke out. Prices are as good as ever, even better, and all fine goods are readily snapped up; wholesale trade has not been very brisk, but this is owing to loss of the European markets, although America has assimilated very big lots from us.—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.

HERE'S A PUZZLE

Johnny's joined the St. Nicholas Stamp Club. That means Johnny's Stamp-Collecting enthusiasm is at fever-heat. There is a $10.00 goldpiece from Grandpa in Johnny's Christmas stocking. Guess what Johnny's going to do with a large slice, if not all, of Grandpa's gift!

We don't need to guess. We know. He's going to buy some more stamps for his Stamp Collection, and before he does, he's going to open his January St. Nicholas, which reaches him with the New Year, and go through the Stamp Advertisements till he comes to something that looks good to him.

Wouldn't you like to get a chance at Johnny's patronage?

Display forms for January St. Nicholas close December 2nd.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF CANADA.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XXIII—(Continued).

The portrait of Jacques Cartier on the 1c is precisely like that which appears on Canada's first 10d stamp. In Gibbons' Stamp Weekly for January 16th, 1909, the following interesting account of Cartier's voyage appears:—

In the year 1533 Jacques Cartier was empowered by Philipp Cabot, "the Admiral of France," to fit out ships "to explore new territories, to gain them, by robbery or otherwise, for France, and at the same time to endeavour to find a north-west passage to Cathay". As long before as 1506 the Florentine explorer, Giovanni Verozzani, had seized the territories of North America lying to the north of the St. Lawrence River in the name of the King of France, but the seizure had never been enforced, and remained a seizure only in name.

On this, his first voyage, Cartier discovered Newfoundland, and, sailing on, anchored off the northerly coast of the Gaspé Peninsula, by which the River St. Lawrence sweeps into the gulf of the same name. The season was very late, however, and bad weather was to be expected, so Cartier was obliged to set sail for France without delay. He took with him to France two sons of an Indian chief, and they caused great excitement in Paris.

King Francis I was so pleased with this exploit that on October 31, 1534, he nominated Captain Jacques Cartier to be "Royal Pilot" (Pilote Royale), and had three more ships prepared for him to make a second voyage to Newfoundland. Preparations for the departure were hurried on at St. Malo, Cartier's birthplace, and at the beginning of May all was ready for the departure.

Three ships took part in the voyage, viz.: La Grande Hermione, La Petite Hermione, and La Hermionette. The first two were vessels rated at 120 and 80 tons respectively, and the last was a galleon of 40 tons. On the after part of the first two vessels there were no less than three decks as superstructure, while forward there was only one deck. They were provided with the full naval armament of the sixteenth century; on the gunwale were mounted small cannon, and also a battery of mortars or similar weapons.

The galleon was a long slender ship of extremely low freeboard, rakish rigged as a single-master, both sails and oars being used as a means of propulsion; two small cannon were mounted forward, and a round dozen arquebuses were also carried. The total company and passengers of the three ships were only 110 all told.

On the morning of May 19th, 1535, the little flotilla set forth on its long voyage of exploration after having saluted the town with every gun on board.

On September 14th of the same year Cartier sighted land, which spread itself out on either side of the ships as far as the eye could reach, and found signs of a village; the place was called Canada by the natives, the meaning of the word in the native language being "The Town". This village was the seat of "government", and was occupied by an Indian chief called Donnacona; it was situate right on the shore of the bay formed by the junction of the rivers St. Charles and St. Lawrence. The village seemed to consist of huts built irregularly on the steep sides of a mountain, the spot later being the position of the southerly and easterly quarters of Quebec.

The historical moment of the arrival of Cartier's brave little "fleet" is interestingly depicted on the 20c value of the tercentenary series. Samuel de Champlain, whose portrait is also shown

1917 Price List of Stamps of the United States and Its Colonies

It is the most complete list issued, and no collector can afford to be without it. Mr. Collector, you need one.

Remember, I am Headquarters for stamps of the United States and Its Colonies.

H. F. COLMAN, SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

on the 1c denomination, was born in 1570 and died in 1635. Again we are indebted to the article in Gibbons' Stamp Weekly for the following particulars:—

In 1603 he was commissioned by King Henry IV of France to found a settlement in Canada. On his first voyage he sailed up the St. Lawrence, and established friendly relations with the various native chiefs of the tribes inhabiting the country through which the river flowed. On his second voyage he was accompanied by only thirty people, and on July 3rd, 1608, he landed at the village of Canada, which was mentioned above. His first thought was to find a site suitable for the erection of an "abitation" where he might pass the winter that was coming on. "I could find no more comfortable or better spot than the land around Quebec, where countless nut trees were to be seen," wrote Champlain. That was exactly the same place where Cartier had built his fort sixty years before.

Thanks to extreme industry, winter quarters were rapidly erected. The habitation consisted of three principal buildings, each two stories high. Two of these buildings measured 18 ft. long by 9 ft. wide, and the third, used as a storehouse, was 36 ft. long by 18 ft. wide and had a large cellar. In the first building Champlain lived with a few of the workmen in the lower story; in the other the remaining workpeople lived, and had with them the arms and ammunition of the whole party. An annexe was attached to one of the buildings, and it was used as a smithy; a few of the people also slept there. The whole of the buildings were enclosed by a trench or moat 15 ft. wide and 9 ft. deep, to protect the settlers from the ravages of wild beasts.

Champlain had earthworks thrown up on the inner side of the moat, on which cannons were mounted. Between the encampment and the river there remained a strip only 24 ft. wide; and behind, on the side of the mountain, there was a plot of arable land a little more than 100 ft. long and 60 ft. wide, where Champlain had corn sown and vines planted.

This "abitation" is shown on the 5c value of the series, while on the 10c is shown the city of Quebec as it had grown by 1700 from such small and modest beginnings.

In the following May Champlain decided to explore the river and his departure on this momentous journey is depicted on the 15c stamp.

On the 7c denomination are portraits of the two famous generals, Montcalm and Wolfe, both of whom were killed fighting each other on the heights of Quebec. Again, to quote from the article in Gibbons' Stamp Weekly:—

So early as 1628 Quebec was captured by the English, in spite of Champlain's brave defence; but Canada was restored to France by one of the terms of the Treaty of Saint-Germain-en-Laye, which was concluded in 1632. Richelieu at once sent Champlain back to Quebec as Governor-General of Canada.

Twice more, in 1690 and 1711, the English besieged Quebec, but they were not able to capture the town. But in 1759 General James Wolfe was ordered by Pitt to clear the French right out of Canada. The French troops were under the command of Marquis Ludwig Joseph Montcalm, of Saint-Veran. Although the latter was in command of only a small force, he was able to claim several victories, but finally he was besieged in Quebec by General Wolfe, at the head of 30,000 men. He was obliged to give battle under unequal conditions, and on September 13th was mortally wounded at the battle of the Heights of Abraham and died two days later. The victorious English general was also killed in the same battle.

The names of both these leaders, enemies though they were, have graven themselves inseparably on the memories of the inhabitants of Quebec. In 1827 the Governor of Canada, Lord Dalhousie, erected a marble monument to their memory, on which is a Latin inscription, which may be rendered freely thus:—

"Their courage caused their death. History praises them both. Posterity erects this monument to their honour."

No advance information was published as to the numbers printed of the several values in the series, as in the case of the Jubilee set, so that little attempt at cornering any particular values was made by speculators. True, large quantities of the 1/2c value were bought up by people who imagined it would be as rare as the corresponding value of the Jubilee stamps, but as there were two million of these they did not turn out to be the gold-mine it was fondly imagined they would. By September, 1908, all values except the 10c, 15c and 20c had been exhausted and by the end of October these three values were sold out as well. The numbers issued were later given out by the Postmaster-General in answer to two questions propounded to him in the House of Commons by Mr. Perley, a member. The Canadian Hansard gives this data as follows:—

1.—What was the total amount received by the Post Office Department from the sale of the special Tercentenary stamps? 2.—What part of this sum would probably have been received as ordinary revenue if there had been no special issue of stamps?

To these questions the Hon. Rudolphe Lemieux, Postmaster-General, responded: The following was the issue to Postmasters of the Tercentenary postage stamps:

Denominations.	Quantities.	Value.
1/2 cent	2,000,000	$10,000
1 cent	22,530,000	$225,300
2 cent	35,100,000	$702,000
5 cent	1,200,000	$60,000
7 cent	700,000	$49,000
10 cent	500,000	$50,000
15 cent	300,000	$45,000
20 cent	304,200	$60,840

Totals, 62,634,200 $1,202,140

The department has no knowledge whether the stamps in question have all been sold, as during their issue the ordinary postage stamps were also on sale, both issues being in use as preferred by the public. The proceeds derived from the sale of stamps of the two issues were not kept separately, but treated as arising from a common source. It is, therefore, impossible to state to what extent the issue of the Tercentenary postage stamps may have affected the ordinary revenue.

The fact that the Prince of Wales was an ardent stamp collector resulted in the presentation to him of a specially mounted set as shown by the following paragraph from the WEEKLY:—

As the Prince of Wales is an enthusiastic collector of stamps, His Royal Highness will no doubt be very pleased to receive the set of the special tercentenary stamps which will be presented to him at Quebec. The stamps will be held in small gold boxes, enclosed in a handsome large box of Morocco leather. A second set accompanies the gift in a special gold box, on the cover of the large box is the Prince's crest and a gold plate inscribed as follows: "Set of Canadian postage stamps issued upon the occasion of the Quebec tercentenary, 1908. Presented to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales by Hon. Rudolphe Lemieux, Postmaster-General of Canada." Sets of these stamps, in boxes with appropriate crests and monograms, will be presented to Earl Grey, Sir Wilfred Laurier and Hon. Rudolphe Lemieux.

EDITORIAL.

Novelties—The conviction has been forced home that we are living in an age of the greatest philatelic opportunity in respect to one class of stamps and that is the new issues of war stamps. If the world calamity must have its concomitant in the way of special stamp issues, the philatelist who solidly accepts them as something inevitable does not do them justice. In reality, the war stamps, now so numerous as to be reckoned with as a class, besides having their postal phases epitomize history. Some of us may have been slow to proclaim the attractions of these stamps at first but as one ponders the subject, it becomes incumbent upon one to admit that the war stamps have a singular fascination that will strengthen as the years go on. The war stamps do not tax one's purse and their modest demands should be met willingly. It would seem that the collector who ignores the present war stamps is not taking advantage of all the opportunities now open for certain pleasure and possible profit.

* * *

Indianapolis—Further evidence of the growing activity of Indianapolis as a philatelic center is had in the organization of a new stamp society in that city, called the Lincoln-Harrison Stamp Club, whose "inaugural banquet" was held at the Claypool Hotel on November 10th, 1916. The christening was an enjoyable occasion which attracted the leading philatelists of the city and the attendance of C. W. Kissinger, president of the Southern Philatelic Association, as well. The addresses at the banquet were felicitous and the new club, Dr. R. J. Kemper, temporary chairman and Mr. B. F. Egan, temporary secretary-treasurer, is launched upon a promising career. It is regretted that a detailed account of the banquet which was early in hand has been crowded out of the last two issues.

Gone—The news of the death of N. W. Chandler, Collinsville, Illinois, which took place several months ago, has reached us only now. For the past ten years or so Mr. Chandler's name and fame have not been brought to the attention of collectors of the present day, but from twenty to thirty years ago, Mr.

Chandler was among the real leaders of our pursuit. While Mr. Chandler was not a dealer, he was interested in the large corporation, the C. H. Mekeel Stamp and Publishing Company of St. Louis. Mr. Chandler was a keen specialist in entire U. S. envelopes and he was worthy to succeed to the mantle of Dr. Horner the first student of entire envelope of the United States. The last convention of the A. P. S. that Mr. Chandler attended was in Boston in 1906, but in the 90's he was present at many of the conventions. Mr. Chandler was an efficient treasurer of the American Philatelic Society for many years. Not a few of us will regret the passing of this modest man and sincere philatelist.

Confederate—Two inquiries have been received asking about the different plates used for the production of the Confederate small 10c blue, 1863, the types A6 and A7 of the catalogue, with particular reference to the Keatinge and Ball printing. We suspect that our questioners have availed themselves of the opportunity that is presented occasionally to acquire full panes of one hundred stamps; and even the full sheets of two hundred stamps come on the market, though somewhat rarely. The first printings by Archer and Daly, Richmond, were from four plates, engraved by Halpin, an engraver of the firm; and when Keatinge and Ball, Columbia, South Carolina, succeeded to the contract, these plates and supplies of paper and ink were despatched to Columbia from Richmond. The approach of the northern forces to Richmond is generally accepted as the reason for awarding the contract to Keatinge and Ball, Columbia, South Carolina, an engraving and printing firm of established reputation. Consequently, the Richmond plates, 1 to 4, inclusive, were used in Columbia and the old marginal inscriptions were replaced by "Keatinge & Ball, Bank Note Engravers, Columbia, S. C.," next to the plate-number. Upon the capitulation of Columbia to General Sherman on February 16, 1865, naturally the printing of the stamps ceased entirely. It is fair to assume that the Keatinge & Ball sheets are somewhat more readily obtainable than the Richmond sheets. It may be added that plates 1 and 2 were of the A7 variety and 3 and 4 of the A6 of the catalogue. In our issue of July 7, 1906, we printed an instructive compilation on the postage stamps of the Confederate States of America from the pen of Royal B. Bradley and in the WEEKLY of September 18, 1909, we reprinted Mr. Crouch's study on the stamps from the Stamp Lover.

Faked—From Mr. Joseph S. Davis, Los Angeles, California, we have received the following informing words: "I have just been reading the letter of one of your readers regarding the quantity of U. S. proofs, which are, or have been so freely offered at times. Along this line of inquiry, I wish to add that quite a few perforated and gummed split cardboard proofs have passed through approvals and stamp exchange circuits I have seen lately and I am wondering who is engaged in this special line of work." Another reader who directs attention to the same subject says that he has had certain split proofs for twenty years, he having kept these relics of his imposition all these years. We believe that it was about thirty years ago that this form of fraud was introduced, as we remember that about 1890 a certain New Jersey doctor was held responsible for the circulation of this sort of stuff.

Dinner—The dinner given by the consolidated stamp societies, New York, on November 18th, 1916, was an event that in the parlance of the ecstatic writer is "long to be remembered." The attendance exceeded all anticipations and the sponsors of the festival were pleased at the outpouring of philatelic people. The attendance must have been fully three hundred, a correspondent says, which, in itself, is something of a philatelic achievement. The toastmaster was the venerable J. W. Scott who retired recently from the stamp business after a career that practically spanned the life of philately; and he was the recipient of a silver memento as typifying the esteem of his neighbors for his philatelic virtues and his long allegiance to the hobby through all the years. The demonstration for Mr. Scott was one that was singularly deserved and it did much to loan sentiment to the evening. Another stalwart of philately was honored on the occasion, P. M. Wolsieffer, of Philadelphia, who for over forty years could call himself, with intermissions, we must admit, a stamp dealer. Those who were present at the dinner will have something to remain in memory.

* * *

Guessing—While the thought of the dependence that some of our readers place on our judgement has its aspect of flattery, yet we must confess that our knowledge of developments is no acuter than that held by many others and that as a rule it is based on information that is generally available. We have requests for valuations on the $30, $50, $60, etc., documentary revenues of the retired issue; and so insistent is the demand for our idea of prices that we shall submit our guess. Condition is a big factor in appraisal and the price of five dollars for the $30; forty for the $50; and ten dollars for the $60, presupposes fine condition. The value of the $60 documentary is a problem, as

DON'T DE AY—NOT MANY OF THESE

FULTON STAMP CO.,102 W. 42nd Street.*NEW YORK*THE STAMPS OF NETHERLANDS.Issues Under the Reign of Queen Wilhelmina.*

On November 23rd, 1890, King William III of Netherlands died, and the only living heir to the throne of Holland was the little princess, Wilhelmina Helene Pauline Marie, daughter of William III and his second wife, Emma, Princess of Waldeck-Pyremont. As the young lady was but ten years of age at the time of her father's death, her mother ruled as queen-regent.

Early in 1891 the first values of a new series, bearing the portrait of the little queen, were issued. This set consisted of twelve values, from 3c to 2g 50c, the values being the same as in the preceding issue, with the exception of a three cent denomination, which was issued for the first time. These values were issued at various times in the period from 1891 to 1895.

This series resembles the 1872-88 issue bearing the portrait of King William, as the change of portrait was the only variation made, the same frame and tablet designs being retained. The engraving and printing of this series was done, as usual, by J. Enschede & Sons.

To the amateur specialist, this series offers opportunities for shading, as nearly all values exist in various shades ranging from light to dark, due to the different printings made. The colors, like those of the preceding issue, are inclined to be neutral. The collector who mounts this set on a blank album page, will find it desirable to rule a neat border in red and black around the page, as this will greatly improve its appearance by setting off the colors.

Several varieties of paper were used in preparing this series, the earlier issues being printed on a medium white wove paper, somewhat opaque and inclined to be mottled in texture, while the later issues were printed on a very smooth and transparent paper of even texture, and somewhat thinner, also wove.

The values from 3c to 1 gulden were perforated 12 1/2 both horizontally and vertically. Essays of the 5c and 20c exist perforated 11 and 11 1/2. Used copies of the 5c value, in orange, the color of the 3c, are known, but these are essays which have passed through the mails without detection. However, these are quite scarce, and will not come into the hands of many collectors.

In 1896, the 50c, 1 gulden and a new value of 5 gulden, appeared in the large design of the 2g 50c. These are printed in two colors, and present a very handsome appearance. As in the other values, there is considerable range of shade in each color, offering possibilities for the student.

These new values, 50c and 1 gulden, together with the 2g 50c, were perforated 11 1/2 x 11, also 11 only. The 5 gulden value was issued only perforated 11. The five gulden stamp is hard to find in fine condition, and a perfection used copy is a valuable addition to any collection.

On August 31, 1898, Wilhelmina reached the age of eighteen, and on September 6th, she was crowned Queen of the Netherlands. In honor of this occasion, a special stamp of the value of one gulden was prepared and issued.

This stamp is the large green gulden, familiar with almost every collector, as it is quite common and growing more so. The engraving of the portrait was done by J. Vurtheim, of Rotterdam, while the frame was engraved by W. Steelink, of Amsterdam. The printing was done by J. Enschede & Sons.

There are two types of this stamp. In the first type, the figures of value measure 3 3/4 mm. high and 2 3/4 mm. wide, and are close to the bottom of the frame, while the word "gulden" is in thin type. This variety is quite scarce used, though Gibbons prices it at 2sh 6d unused, while the second type is priced at 3sh 6d unused with the 11 1/2 x 11 perforation. Type one is known only with the 11 1/2 x 11 perforation.

In type two, the commoner type, the figures of value are farther from the frame line and measure 3 1/2 mm. high and 2 1/2 mm. wide, while the word "gouden" is much thicker. This type is perforated 11 1/2 x 11, 11 1/2, and 11.

There are several shades of this large and attractive stamp, and these, together with the pairs and blocks which are sometimes to be had, offer a chance to lay-out a very handsome page.

In 1899, an entirely new series was issued, from 1/2c to 5 gulden. The values of 1/2c, 1c, 2c, and 2 1/2c feature a large numeral of value in the center of a somewhat simple frame, and were engraved by Enschede & Son, who did the printing of the entire series as well.

The values above 2 1/2c bear a portrait of the queen, in royal robes and wearing her crown. The engraving of the portrait was done by M. E. Mouchon, of Paris, while the engraving of the frame was the work of Enschede.

The 2 1/2 gulden and 5 gulden values were issued in the design of the 1 gulden coronation stamp mentioned above. There are no type varieties of consequence.

As in the previous issues, the colors of this series are dull, though the bi-colored values help to brighten the album page bearing this set. This series offers an almost endless array of shades, as each value is to be had in several distinct tints, and the fact that all can be had for a few cents makes it a most fertile set for the specialist to work on. Nearly all of the values of this series are current, and many have been affected by the dye shortage caused by the war. The collector using a blank album page for this set will find that it, too, is brightened by the use of a red and black rule border.

In 1901, the color of the 3c stamp was changed from orange to green. In 1906, a new value, 17 1/2c, was added for the first time, being of the same design as the adjoining values. This stamp was first issued in mauve, but in 1910 the color was changed to ultramarine, with center in black. As it is a value that is used very little, the mauve stamp is quite desirable and seldom met with in quantity.

In 1908, a stamp of the denomination of 1 1/2c was issued, in design corresponding to the other low values. This stamp was issued in a distinct blue, but has been recently changed to ultramarine. The difference can, of course, be readily distinguished.

Two other important changes in color were made in 1908, the 15c value being changed from yellow brown to blue and carmine—a decided improvement, making it a very handsome stamp, while the 20c was changed from yellow green to olive green with center in gray, also an improvement.

In 1910, a further high value appeared. The ten gulden stamp was added to the set for use on heavy parcels requiring large amounts of postage. The design of the other gulden stamps was retained, and the orange color makes this very scarce stamp a most handsome specimen of the engraver's art. This stamp is almost the scarcest item to be had in Netherlands, and the very high price that used copies are bringing at auction is sufficient proof of its rarity.

In 1907, a short series of three values, 1/2c, 1c, and 2 1/2c, were issued to commemorate the Naval Jubilee held in honor of Admiral M. A. de Ruyter. More concerning his series will be given at an early date, in a special item.

The one hundredth anniversary of the reign of the house of Nassau-Orange was celebrated in 1913, and a series of twelve values was issued to mark the event in stamp collectors' minds. Four designs were issued, picturing the four rulers of the house of Nassau-Orange. William I, who aided materially in forming the present kingdom of Netherlands, is featured on the 2 1/2c, 12 1/2c, and 1 gulden. William II, who won fame as commander of the Army of the Netherlands at the Battle of Waterloo, and second ruler of the Netherlands, is shown on the 3c, 20c, and 2 1/2 gulden. William III, whose face is so familiar to all collectors, is shown on the 5c, 25c, and 5 gulden values. Wilhelmina is pictured on the remaining values of 10c, 50c, and 10 gulden.

The Nassau-Orange series has proven to be much in demand, and collectors are eagerly seeking the higher values. The market on this series is somewhat unsettled at the present time, as there are rumors of remainders which may be sold by the thrifty Dutchmen. However, the quantity of these will be small, and the stability of the high values is almost a certainty.

There are very few minor varieties in this issue, as the series was in use for so short a time that few shades were created, and there are no important type varieties discovered as yet.

With the exception of the change of the 50c value from bronze-green and red-brown to gray and violet, the Nassau-Orange series may well end this chronicle of the stamps of Netherlands, though let us hope that it will not end the issues of the stamps of this little nation, whose philatelic issues are as clean as the much-scrubbed homes of its people.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—J. M. Bartels writes as follows:

In addition to dies A and B, Two Cents, of the present issue, two new circular dies have appeared, to be known hereafter as Die C and Die D respectively. The characteristic features of each die are:

*Die C.—Very fine lettering similar to Die C of the 1907, 2c. Inner circle and those containing numerals are also thin lines.

"U" of UNITED far from left circle. Wide space between final "D" of UNITED and "S" of STATES.

"O" of POSTAGE a large wide open letter.

Numerals well centered and some distance from the thin lines of circle.

"N" and "T" wide at base.

Die D.—Heavy lettering similar to Dies A and B.

"C" of CENTS very close to left circle.

Letters of CENTS longer, especially "N" and "T".

"U" nearer left circle.

"D" of UNITED and "S" of STATES nearer than in the other dies.

*The Post Office Department makes the statement that Die C is the one die which was rejected in this series. It was used inadvertently and immediately discontinued.

Mr. Bartels also reports the following new envelopes:—

Denom.	Die.	Size.	Paper.	Wmk.	Knife
2c	C	5	White	19	99
2c	D	7	White	19	96
2c	D	8	White	19	91
2c	A	7	Buff	20	51

Mrs. Lucia W. Underwood sends us specimens of the current 3c stamp in shades of bright purple and something like the "copper red," as Scott calls the current 12c color. This reddish purple shade is even more pronounced than the "red backs," and was received from Washington on a recent requisition from Mrs. Underwood's postoffice.

I. C. Greene has also submitted these strongly contrasting shades of the 3c stamp, his purple shade being on a part perforated stamp.

ARABIA.—According to the London Telegraph, arrangements have been made between the Egyptian postal organization and the Sherifian Government. The postal authorities of Egypt have issued instructions that all letters received for the Hedjaz and marked as posted in the Hedjaz post-office should be distributed, although they bear no postage stamps. The Sherifian Government, as a temporary measure, has decided to stamp the Arabic initials "T.S." on all letters despatched from the Hedjaz. This will be sufficient indication of the origin and franking of letters, &c., until proper postage stamps can be obtained from Europe. These stamps are already on order, and will be of two denominations only to commence with. The half-piastre stamp will be printed in red, and the one piastre in blue. They will bear in the middle the words, "Mekka-Al-Mukarama," and at the top the words "Barid Hedjazi." The year of the Mohammedan era, in Arabic figures, will be inscribed at the sides.

They will be printed on white, unwatermarked paper, and perforated 12.

CANADA.—We are indebted to Mrs. E. W. Oughtred for a specimen of the new 3c stamp printed in coil form. The stamp is postmarked from the Toronto office.

GERMANY.—This country having increased its domestic postal rates 50%, the issue of new values of postal cards becomes necessary. Mr. Schachne reports two new cards, with divided obverse:

Post Cards.

71pf orange on buff.
71pf orange on buff.

GERMAN EAST AFRICA.—Maury's Collectionneur notes that all values, 5c to 5fr, of the current stamps of Belgian Congo have been overprinted with the following bi-lingual inscriptions, each being in two lines in black condensed Gothic capitals. The inscriptions are arranged horizontally or vertically, according to the shape of the stamps: "East Africain Allemand—Occupation Belge." "Deutsch Oost Afrika—Belgische Bezetting."

MEXICO.—Hermann Focke has shown us two new provisionals with the surcharge of the type of that on Scott's No. 529 to 533.

Provisional Adhesives.

On Scott's No. 432.

25c on 5c orange; green surcharge.

On Postage Due, No. 802.

1p on 4c blue; carmine surcharge.

In regard to the above, Mr. Focke writes:

"The postage for inland letters and those for the United States and Canada has been raised in Mexico from 25c to 1 peso, and it seems that the supply of the 1915 stamp of this denomination, with picture of the Vera Cruz Lighthouse, is too small to fill the requirements, and we have today the first provisional of this value."

NETHERLANDS.—Mr. Schachne reports the following new cards, all of which have the divided front:

Post Cards.

2c yellow brown on cream.

3c green on gray.

2x2c yellow brown on cream.

3x3c green on gray.

PORTUGUESE INDIA.—Maury's Collectionneur reports the issue of a provisional stamp for this Colony, pending the receipt of a new printing of the 6r values, which has become exhausted.

Provisional Adhesive.

6r on 8t plum.

SALVADOR.—Hermann Focke has shown us four values of a new and handsome series of stamps from this Republic. The central design (the National Theatre at San Salvador) is the same for all values, but the frames differ materially. The stamps are beautifully engraved and printed as usual with the work of the American Bank Note Co. They are printed on unwatermarked paper and perforated 12.

Adhesives.

1c blue green.

2c vermilion.

5c dark blue

6c violet.

10c sepia.

12c dark violet.

17c orange.

25c dark brown.

The entire set has also been issued with surcharge "Oficial" in various colors for official use.

SWITZERLAND.—According to Maury's Collectionneur, this country has a new series of stamps under way, which for some unexplained reason will not be issued until the end of the war.

WANTED

United States and Confederate States Stamps.

ON OR OFF COVER

I am especially interested in U. S. 5c and 10c 1847 and the various types of the 1c 1851 and 1857.

I will pay $1.75 each for the 5c 1847 cancelled in red, and $1.00 each for those cancelled in blue.

Have you any with green cancellation? For such I will pay $3.00 each. For fine pairs I will pay $4.00 each. All copies must be in fine condition. I also wish to purchase fine copies of the ten cent and will pay a good price for pairs, cancellations, etc.

Have You Any Confederate Covers?

If so, I will buy the general issues in any quantity. I want one hundred copies of the "Ten", also one hundred copies of the "Outer Line." How many can you supply? I will pay current auction prices for fine copies.

Write what you have to offer naming lowest price, or forward to me by registered mail enclosing return postage. I am not a dealer but a collector who specializes in U. S. and Confederates. Best of banking references furnished on request.

THE NEW YORK BANQUET.

The biggest philatelic society dinner ever held in the U. S. took place Nov. 18 in New York City. Besides the Palm Room in the Hotel Endicott, which was filled to its utmost, the Pink Room also was used and some 30 were unable to get accommodations.

At 9 P. M. the chairman, J. W. Scott, called the diners to order and extended the committee's greeting. The speakers of the evening were:—P. M. Wolsieffer, A. C. Stewart, Toledo, Ohio, C. W. Kissinger, Reading, Pa., C. R. Goetz, Charles Ploch and H. H. Wilson, New York City. When the demi tasse was served the chairman called upon J. C. Morgenthau to say a few words and Mr. Scott was the most surprised man at the dinner. Mr. Morgenthau presented Mr. Scott, on behalf of his many friends, a handsome solid silver tea set on his retirement from the stamp business and as a memento of his long and faithful service to philately. A standing toast was drunk and the orchestra played "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

J. M. Bartels was called upon to say a few words and in his remarks he moved that the committee stand as a whole for a similar affair to be held in 1917. After the dinner there was dancing. Everybody of prominence in stampdom in New York and vicinity was present.

THE HOUSE OF CHARLAT.

For some time we have been trying to persuade L. W. Charlat that he should advertise in the WEEKLY. We knew he had the stock and with our buying list of subscribers, we have been desirous of their meeting him on a common ground. The quarter page advertisement this week is only the beginning of activities. Mr. Charlat has made several important purchases and his stock has become greatly enriched. He has a fine location at 537 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City.

A nicely printed catalog for 1917 has just been issued by Mr. Charlat. It covers a wide range of offerings in stamps and stamp supplies. We shall hope to have Mr. Charlat with us frequently during the winter season.

A REPREHENSIBLE PRACTICE.

(We have received the following letter from a subscriber and consider ourselves in duty bound to give it publication. We are aware that Mr. Ciampolini may have made a mistake when the $1 price was sent in on the original advertisement, but even so, so long as orders could be filled they should be filled at the advertised price and thus keep faith with the publication and its patrons. Any dealer should do this, even though he lost money by the transaction, and we may add that a recurrence of such an incident cannot pass unnoticed.—Ed.)

"In your issue of Oct. 28 was an adv. of Tunis by F. Ciampolini, which I marked to send for. I bought a postal note (cost 3c) and posted it (cost another 3c); today I received back the postal note and my letter with just the two words at foot, presumably (I am only guessing) "Sold out"!!

In your No. of Nov. 4 is the ad again but price put at $2.50! I expect a number of replies and dollars were sent in response to the first ad and all served in the same curt style as myself.

Don't you think this is a case for the paper to protect its subscribers from such advertisers as Ciampolini; in all honor he should have stood by his offer. Perhaps he thought I should not see his new ad. I have not replied to him, and shall never again, whatever he may offer.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—We are advised by the Hobby Club of Winnipeg, Can., that a new war tax stamp is soon to be issued. It will be a 4c value and the design will be the familiar one of King George of oblong rectangular shape.

—Theodore Siddall sends us a clipping from a Shanghai paper giving the particulars of a clever conspiracy having for its purpose the forging of Chinese stamps. It appears that seven Chinese have been arrested and the activities of the gang promptly curtailed.

THE LEADING STAMP DEALERS

Here they are, 73 of them, a veritable "blue list" of reliable up-to-date concerns. They compose the most progressive, far-sighted and broad-minded lot of stamp dealers ever gathered together in a national magazine. The whole stamp trade owes them a vote of thanks for backing up St. Nicholas in its powerful effort to make stamp collecting a national hobby. They all used space in either the November or December issues of St. Nicholas and will reap the benefit of the substantial Stamp Club patronage.

A PHILATELIC DICTIONARY.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

FOREWORD.

One of the greatest drawbacks with which the beginner in Philately has to contend with is the difficulty of obtaining easily accessible information regarding the thousand and one matters concerning stamps and stamp-collecting on which he requires enlightenment. Excellent catalogues are provided for his benefit, and while these are invaluable to him in the identification of specimens and in instructing him as to the relative rarity of different varieties, they cannot be expected to provide the general knowledge on stamp matters that the enthusiastic collector desires. There are also many admirable "guides" written expressly for the philatelic novice and though the matter given in most of these is as accurate as it is excellent, they all suffer from the same drawback—the information contained in them is not arranged or indexed in such a manner that instant reference on any desired subject is possible.

In the following notes I have endeavored to provide explanations of all the philatelic terms and expressions that the collector is likely to meet with, to give guides showing how to identify those stamps on which there is no name or on which the name differs very materially from its English designation, explanations of the mottoes and inscriptions which appear on various stamps, geographical and general information regarding all stamp issuing places, notes dealing with the currencies peculiar to particular localities, etc. In fact everything in connection with our hobby that lends itself to dictionary treatment has been included, and the notes have been made as complete as possible so that as a whole they may form a work of reference useful to all classes of collectors.

As this Dictionary will ultimately be published in book form my readers' co-operation is cordially invited. I shall be glad to hear at any time of omissions and corrections so that the necessary alterations may be made before the work is published as a whole.

A.—(I) An overprint, meaning "Architect", found on certain stamps of South Australia. They were used on the official correspondence emanating from the office of the State Architect.

Since 1874 these and all similar departmental stamps of South Australia have been superseded by the general official issues overprinted or punctured with the letters "O S".

(II) A large capital "A" forms the main feature of the design of some of the first Registration stamps for the republic of Colombia. It signifies "Anotacion", the Spanish word for registered.

(III) The 1 lira stamp of Modena, issued in 1852, is watermarked with a large double-lined "A" within a square border. This is the initial of the firm who made the paper, Pietro & Agostino Amici.

A (with Crown).—See CROWN A Watermark.

A & T.—These letters were overprinted on some of the French Colonial stamps of the "Commerce" type for use in the settlements of Annam and Tonquin in 1888.

Aangebragt per Land-Mail. Te betalen port . . . duiten. BATAVIA.—An inscription shown on a plain label said to have been used as a postage due stamp in the Dutch Indies in 1845-6. Another, and slightly larger label of the same period, has the word "duiten" replaced by "koper". Perhaps one of our readers versed in Dutch can translate this for us?

ABANCAY.—The capital of the Peruvian department of Apurimac. The name of the town appears on a provisional stamp said to have been issued in 1885 but which is now believed to be bogus. (See also APURIMAC.)

ABASI.—One of the values found upon the stamps of Afghanistan. An abasi is the third part of a rupee and is roughly equivalent to 11c in United States currency.

ABBREVIATIONS.—Many well known philatelic terms are more often than not written or printed in an abbreviated form. The ones most usually met with are:—

Imp. or Imperf.—Imperforate

Mm.—Millimetre

Perf. or Pf.—Perforated

Roul.—Rouletted

Wmk.—Watermark

ABYSSINIA.—A large empire in north-east Africa, at one time more generally known as Ethiopia. Its total area is about 350,000 square miles and its population is estimated at three or four millions. Its boundaries are somewhat indefinite except on the east, where they touch the Italian colony of Eritrea, French Somali Coast and British Somaliland. The country is ruled by Menelik II (known as the Negus Negusti, or King of Kings) who ascended the throne in 1889. The official language is Amharic and it is in these characters that the inscriptions on the stamps are shown. Postage stamps were first issued in 1894.

ABERDEEN.—A small city in Munroe Co., Mississippi, having a population of about 4000. A special 5c envelope was issued here in 1861 and used for a short period prior to the issue of the stamps for general use throughout the Confederate States.

ACCOUNT LETTERS.—On all the sheets of the 1/2d and 1d British stamps printed since 1884 a letter (or letter followed by a figure) will be found printed on the bottom margin in the same color as the stamps. These letters are used as a check on the number of stamps printed and for purposes of book-keeping—as the plates of these values are always at press—hence they are known to collectors as account, control, or contract letters. They are changed when a fixed number of sheets have been printed and since 1904 a figure has been added to denote the year in which a certain supply was printed. Thus the combination "G7" means that the stamps are from the seventh supply of a certain quantity printed in 1907. On the Queen's head sheets the letter always appears below the eleventh stamp in the bottom row. In the case of the stamps bearing the portrait of the late King Edward VII or the present King George V. the control is placed below the second stamp in the bottom row for the 1/2d and below the eleventh stamp for the 1d. Also in the King's head series the letters used for the 1d value are sans-serif while those for the 1/2d have serifs. In recent years this system has been extended to other denominations. It was for a long time considered that these letters were engraved on the plates and were thus printed at the same time as the stamps but in an excellently reasoned note in "Ewen's Weekly Stamp News" for December 31st, 1904, the following theory is suggested as the real reason for the use of the letters:—

Whilst looking over the editorial collection of control letters and marks, a new explanation of the meaning of the letters occurred to us. We were examining strips all showing exactly the same secret marks, when we happened to notice that the relative position of the "D4" differed slightly on the sheets. It is obvious therefore that the letter and figure could not be part of the plate nor even fixed in or near it, as we believe has been generally supposed. A further examination of different strips showed that exactly the same minute defects in the letters occur on stamp obviously printed from different plates. There is, therefore, no alternative but to suppose that the letter is printed on the sheets at a second operation, after the large printed sheets have been cut into post-office sheets of 240. A further examination shows that the D4 is frequently slightly embossed, which, although it proves nothing by itself, helps to indicate that it is struck separately. Why should the printers go to the trouble of printing this letter on every sheet? Even if the printing machine prints, cuts and letters the sheets at one operation, it means a more complex machine and consequently more expensive.

The only reply that readily suggests itself is that a small "tell-tale" numbering machine is affixed to the printing press and every sheet which passed under it is numbered and receives the imprint D4 as a sign that it has been numbered. No doubt the mechanism of the tell-tale is such that the D4 cannot be struck without adding "1" to the number on the dial; consequently the presence of the D4 is evidence that the sheet has been counted, whilst its absence shows at least that there has been some irregularity which requires investigation. As soon as a fixed number of sheets are printed (perhaps 5,000,000—it is difficult to judge) the letter is changed. On one occasion no one seems to have been watching the dial on the numbering machine as too many 1d Queen's Head stamps were printed with the letter N and had afterwards to be re-lettered O (a well known error and an exceedingly rare one). Why do the 1/2d stamps have control letters with serifs and the 1d stamps control letters without? It is obvious that this distinction is not made without reason, and the reason at once suggests itself. When the 1d plates were taken from press and 1/2d ones substituted, the numbering machine would require readjustment. But if this was forgotten, the control letters would not draw attention to the fact unless they were different. Lastly, why print the 1/2d control letters at the left of the sheets and the 1d ones at the right hand side? For what other reason than to avoid the trouble of frequently adjusting the numbering machine? It is probable there are now two machines, one of which is always disconnected. If they are both immovable, no mistake can be made without detection. The sheets must emerge either without a control letter, with the wrong letter, with both right and wrong or—with the right. There is thus an effective check against any mistake in counting, and if the printing press is so constructed that it cannot print unless one of the numbering machines is working, it is obvious no sheets can be printed without a record being kept of the fact.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF RECEIPT STAMPS.—Stamps issued for the prepayment of a special fee in return for which an official acknowledgement that the letter or other postal packet has been duly delivered can be obtained.

ACORES.—The Portuguese form for "Azores" as shown upon all the stamps of that colony.

A. D.—These letters appear in microscopic type at the right hand side of the base of the design of most of the Belgian stamps issued from 1869 to 1891. They are the initials of the engraver, M. A. Doms.

ADAMS & CO'S EXPRESS.—A Californian local post established in 1849. The stamps issued in connection with this Express company are all fairly uncommon and it is not known for certain when they were first issued. The proprietors of this service were Alvin Adams, Boston, (from whom it took its name) Wm. B. Dinsmore, New York, and D. H. Haskell, San Francisco. Its headquarters were in the latter city and when the company failed in 1855 it was fused with the Wells Fargo Express.

ADAMS' CITY EXPRESS POST.—One of the numerous United States local posts operating in 1850-51 but in what town I have been unable to ascertain. The stamps first issued bear the inscription "Adams' City Express Post" but a later edition of the 2c value had the first word omitted.

ADHESIVE.—A term applied to ordinary postage stamps which are intended to be stuck on postal packets or documents in contradistinction to stamps printed upon envelopes, postcards, newspaper wrappers, etc.

DID YOU GET IT?

The catalog of our 207th Auction Sale to be held "Holiday Week", Wednesday, Dec. 27th, in the Club Room of the Philadelphia Stamp Club. This is the sale that consists in part of the late Rev. Fr. Sixt of Chicago fine 19th Century Collection. If not, better send for one at once. Uncle Sam is very slow sometimes. Although the catalog of Sale 206 was placed in the mail "5 weeks" before date of sale, not one of the Cleveland, Ohio, collectors received theirs till a few days after the sale. We are still trying to find out why the delay. We could have walked that 1000 miles in that time. If you do not receive our catalogs note our slogan, "Better Get On Our Mailing List".

ADLER, C.—A lithographic printer who produced the 1 1/4 and 2 1/2 schilling stamps issued at Hamburg during the period 1864-66.

ADMIRALTY OFFICIAL.—An overprint found on the 1/2d to 3d values of the 1902 stamps of Great Britain, indicating their special use on correspondence from the Admiralty Department. They were issued on March 12th, 1903, and withdrawn from use on the 12th May of the following year.

ADMON. PRAL. DE CORREOS EN CAMPECHE.—An inscription appearing on the provisional stamps issued in the Mexican State of Campeche during 1876. The first two words are a contraction for "Administracion Principal" and the whole inscription means "Principal Administration of Posts in Campeche".

ADMON. PRAL. DE CORREOS DEL DEPTO. DE APURIMAC.—(Administracion Principal de Correos del Departamento de Apurimac.) The inscription shown upon a provisional stamp said to have been issued in Apurimac, Peru, in 1885, which means "Principal Administration of Stamps of the Department of Apurimac". (See also APURIMAC.)

ADVANCE AUSTRALIA.—A motto shown on the 2 1/2d New South Wales stamp of 1891. These words will be found on the pennant attached to the standard held by the allegorical figure of Australia.

AEGEAN ISLANDS.—A generic name applied to the innumerable small islands of the Aegean Sea in the Mediterranean. A number of these were supplied with special series of stamps by Italy in 1913.

AHMNOE.—The Greek form of Lemnos surcharged upon various Grecian stamps in 1912 for use in the territory occupied by Greek troops during the war of 1912-13.

ALWAYS THE BEST.
 Says one of my customers. I am tempted to get puffed up when I read some of the complimentary remarks my friends make regarding my approval selections. The condition is right (or accounted for by a great reduction in list price) and the price must be right or they would not sell so easily. New stock added almost daily makes them very attractive. Best of all, however, is that EXTRA DISCOUNT for returns in 10 days. Look over my PROFIT SHARING APPROVALS and we will BOTH GAIN. Ref. necessary.

FOR THE HIGHEST BIDDER.

We offer to the highest bidder the splendid advertising space on this page formerly occupied by Eugene Klein and where this week is found the advertisement of the Geo. W. Linn Co. It is one of the best locations in the paper and always has reading matter beneath. This space will go to the advertiser who will bid for the largest amount of space each week. We should have a two-inch double column but the best offer gets it.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Japan.—The new issues are particularly interesting just now as we have had occasion to remark on several occasions recently but no more gorgeous contribution has been made recently than Japan's new set of three denominations that was issued to commemorate the official installation of the Crown Prince on November 3rd, 1916. These stamps were described in our chronicle recently but bald text cannot do their color schemes justice. We are informed that the new stamps were in great demand in Japan on the day of issue and that many buyers had to be content with fewer stamps than wanted. For instance, one town of about 30,000 population received but ten sets of the stamps.

Passing.—From Ancon, Panama, Mr. Emil J. Rall sends us an account of the sale of the Trinidad and Tobago "our day" war stamp which was to be bought only on October 19th, 1916. A correspondent of the Star and Herald, Ancon, Panama, says that every office in the colony, Trinidad-Tobago, was stocked with the stamp, on the lower left corner of which was lithographed a red cross and above the date 19-10-16. However, so heavy were the sales that it was evident that the demand exceeded the supply, several orders having been received by cable from England and elsewhere. Purchasers of the stamps were early on hand and the sale continued until a late hour, one customer buying five hundred dollars' worth of the stamps. The lithographing was done at the government printing office. In our chronicle of two weeks ago, this Red Cross stamp was described.

Mexico Dues Overprinted for Postage

We offered these last week and through error priced them higher than we should have done. We have already refunded money to all who bought from our advance selections. Our prices are always as low as the service we have given on these issues will warrant. These overprinted dues are for postal use and are coming in the mails now.

Variation.—"Years ago, you told of a near-sighted old lady, buying stamps for her grandson's birthday at a dealer's shop who insisted that she be allowed to buy the cuts of stamps in the album used as a stock book," writes a dealer, who proceeds to say: "A boy of about twelve came in with his album and wanted to buy stamps to complete some of his sets. In filling up the sets he avoided getting any stamp that would cover a cut. I asked him why he did this and he said that so long as he had the picture of the stamp he did not see what he wanted with the stamp itself which would only cover up the 'en-graving'."

Aside.—The Chicago and North-Western Railway Company issues labels of different values on surface colored glazed paper that the company calls newspaper stamps. The service performed by the labels is indicated by the wording on the pasters which are 2 1/4 by 2 3/4 inches in size: "Chicago & North-Western Railway Co. Newspaper Stamp good for Transportation of One Package of Newspapers of 5 pounds or less weight. It is agreed that additional stamps shall be affixed for every additional pound or less. This package is forwarded entirely at the risk of the publisher. H. S. Graves, General Baggage Agent." There are several serial and form numbers on the label which contains as well; the value in an octagonal design; and on the face of the stamp is the value in large outline figures in color. We are told that the packages of newspapers on which the label pays the charge for transportation are carried in the baggage cars and are thrown off at the different stations along the route. We cannot invest these pasters with any philatelic importance even though they are worth placing on record.

Records.—Our readers evidently like to link the earlier days of philately with those of the present, as they send us newspaper and other clippings when occasion offers on stamp subjects, in the earlier decades, as well as other forms of printed material on philately, with the intention that we refer to them in any way that suits our wish. We are thankful for these reflections of the past of stamp collecting and understand their very human appeal to the collector of today who does not have any conception of stamp conditions as they existed in the days of philatelic immaturity. Even clippings of fugitive kind sometimes have a value beyond their prosaic bounds in showing how the popular mind wrestled, for instance, with "the strange fad of stamp collecting." In fact, much of the history of philately from the time of its advent in this country to well up into the '80's will have to be compiled from the public press, as the spirit of the stamp papers was not always so embracing as to preserve the broad aspect of stamp collecting. We succeed usually in using everything of the kind sent us in some form or other at some time or other.

Wanted.—We renew our call for volunteers to write the history of stamp collecting in America. A duty confronts us of this day to enshrine in print the story of the beginning and growth of stamp collecting in this country for the benefit of posterity; and this observation is made seriously. This history must be started before those who assisted at the birth of philately pass on. We should be alert to secure from the pens of the veterans the data that is necessary so that we shall not have reason to regret that their testimony was not taken while it might have been had. How should the history of philately in America be compiled? From the lips of the living; from the newspaper and general references to collecting, and from the stamp papers of the day. The testimony of dealers and collectors could be collected; the scrap-books of the few who have kept them for years could be consulted; the commercial catalogues, lists and leaflets could be considered and all the stamp papers which under study would yield their quota of information would be necessary. Further, the records of the stamp societies, local and national, would not be barren of result. In the earlier years, philately in the United States meant that which existed in the centers of the country. The large cities have seen the ebb and flow and in these centers the collectors who lived and learned gave the eye of philatelic prophecy its vision of the greater things to come. Then, the history could be compiled by decades, beginning with that of 1850, which for historical purposes is the most important in some respects but does not equal in interest that of 1860 with its promise of fairness for the chosen hobby. The ten years from 1870 to 1880 were strange ones in some respects although it may be said that they were a decade that generally was one of the most singular in American history. From 1880 onwards, the volunteers should not be scarce and with a pull altogether, it would not be long before the history of philately in the United States from its "earliest beginning to the present time" would serve as an inspiration to the collectors of today, as a reference book in which the early traditions would be preserved and moreover as a work that would be highly instructive and interesting. Beginning with the organization of the American Philately Society in 1886, the history of collecting becomes more systematized and cohesive. We commend the idea to the consideration of the past generation and we hope that the process of mulling will yield something tangible.

TEXAS PHILATELIC ASSOCIATION.

(This interesting account of the annual meeting of the Texas Philatelic Association at San Antonio was sent us by H. S. Parsons, the capable secretary-treasurer of the society. It was accompanied by one of the banquet menus and clippings from the San Antonio Express, which gave in detail the business of the session. The Express in one of its articles published pictures of Pres. Heusinger, Vice Pres. Clem. Sec. Parsons and Albert Steves, Sr., who had charge of the exhibit. We wish that we had space to publish in its entirety this very readable article, which has the earmarks of experience in reportorial work.—Ed.)

The twentieth anniversary of the Texas Philatelic Association was fittingly celebrated November 13 at San Antonio, Texas, and the occasion will long be remembered by the collectors in the Lone Star State. The Association now occupies a position of honor, shared by only a few other philatelic societies in the United States which have attained a similar age, and its members may indeed pride themselves upon the stability and continuity of their organization.

A philatelic exhibition, under the patronage of Albert Steves, Sr., of San Antonio, was held during the afternoon at the St. Anthony Hotel, San Antonio's leading hostelry, which was well attended by the general public and by local and visiting philatelists, among whom were the following collectors from other Texas cities: T. E. Flick, of Galveston; H. C. Naschke, O. R. Bertram and W. L. Wupperman, of Austin; S. V. Pfeuffer, Albert Steves, Sr., and Braunfels; W. B. Mitchell, of Norman; Emil Gerlich, of Schertz; and S. B. Hopkins, the well-known expert on Mexican stamps, of Laredo. The display was remarkable for the variety and for the value of the exhibits.

Large general collections, containing many valuable stamps, were shown by Mrs. Otto Staerker (Cuero, Texas), S. V. Pfeuffer, Albert Steves, Sr., and Edward W. Heusinger (San Antonio).

A postal sub-station was established at the exhibition for the afternoon only, and many collectors took advantage of the opportunity to purchase the latest issues in United States stamps.

One exhibit receiving much favorable comment was artistically prepared by T. E. Flick under the title "Every Stamp from a Different Country." Considerable attention was also attracted by a series of exhibits presented by H. S. Parsons, entitled "The Popular Side of Philately," which included "The Philatelic Zoo," "Strange Peoples," "Little Lessons in Geography," "A Tour of the World," "A Royal Portrait Gallery," "The Aviary," "Sketches of Queen Victoria," and others, each illustrated by representative stamps. S. B. Hopkins displayed an interesting collection of European war poster stamps from the belligerent nations, as well as a unique collection of Mexican censored envelopes.

At eight o'clock a banquet was served in the Oak Room of the St. Anthony, at which souvenirs of the celebration were distributed, containing the program of the exhibition and the menu, the latter being aptly described in philatelic terms.

President Heusinger acted as toastmaster, and several appropriate toasts were happily given. A number of congratulatory telegrams and letters from members and philatelic societies were read by the secretary, H. S. Parsons, while Geo. D. Kitzinger personally expressed the good wishes of the Cincinnati Philatelic Society, of which he is a Trustee.

Those present at the banquet were: Messrs. Heusinger, Parsons, Roemer, Gerlich, Heffner, Kitzinger, Hyde, Wilson, Porch, Rummel, Bertram, Hopkins, Flick, Naschke, Green, Goldbeck, Johnson, Beach, Mitchell, E. Tepper of Baltimore, Md., and Captain C. K. La Motte, U. S. Army.

The officers of the Texas Philatelic Association are: Edward W. Heusinger, J. R. G. S., President; Jno. L. Clem, Brig. Gen., U. S. A., Retired, Vice-President; H. S. Parsons, Secretary-Treasurer; Charles Roemer, Sales Superintendent; and G. W. Coryell of Boerne, Texas, fifth member of the Executive Committee. The society is growing very rapidly and now has a membership of 124, two-thirds of the members residing in Texas. The work being accomplished by the Association is greatly helping the advancement of philately in Texas and adjoining states.

A. S. D. A. ANNUAL MEETING.

The following officers of the American Stamp Dealers' Association were elected: President, Eugene Klein; Vice-President, W. S. Aldrich; Secretary-Treasurer, C. V. Webb; Board of Directors, Frank S. Parmelee, Ora E. Stark, S. E. Colman, Fred S. Martin, Frank J. Pope; Trustees, B. W. H. Poole, H. W. Doscher, E. P. Seebohm; Sales Manager, Maitland Milliken; Stamp Expert, J. M. Bartels; Auction Manager, M. Ohlman; Librarian, Mrs. Louise W. Kellogg; Attorney, H. A. Whipple.

Convention opened at Stewart's, 30 Park Place, New York, on Dec. 1, 1916, 11 a. m. The convention went on record that repaired and reperforated stamps sold by members should be so marked. The convention will continue in session on December 2.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received at our branch office, BEVERLY, MASS. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

RESIGNATION.

We are compelled to announce this week the resignation of Mr. Kidder as editor of our Chronicle of New Issues. Mr. Kidder has served the WEEKLY faithfully and well for many years and we regret that he feels compelled to take this step. Until a new editor has been secured correspondents will mail all matter in relation to new issues direct to our Branch Office at Beverly, Mass. An editor for this department will be secured shortly.

THE PUBLISHERS.

JAPAN.—We are indebted to Theo. Siddall and K. Kyoguchi for specimens of the new stamps just issued in commemoration of the installation as Crown Prince of His Imperial Highness Hirohito Michinomiya. The ceremony took place November 3 and there are three stamps in the set:—1 1/2s, 3s and 10s. We picture the two designs, the 1 1/2s and the 3s being identical. The Scott Co. Circular states that the "installation" has reference "doubtless to the recent ceremony at which the Crown Prince Hirohito was proclaimed heir to the divine treasures, the mirror, sword and jewel, which are the symbols of Japanese sovereignty. The mirror is the most sacred of the articles. It is the emblem of the Sun God Amaterasu, from whom tradition states that the royal house of Japan is descended. By this proclamation Prince Hirohito became the Prince Imperial and recognized heir to the throne."

Mr. C. A. Howes writes:—"The 1 1/2s and the 3s have the fabled phoenix in the center. The side ornamentation is the 'paulownia imperialis', the emblem of the Empress, particularly, as is the phoenix, an emblem of marital felicity. The object on the 10s is evidently a ceremonial hat or 'toque' usually made of horse hair. It is not a 'crown,' for there is none in Japan. The ornamentation at the sides is of course cherry blossoms."

ADLETS 25c PER LINE.

The rate for adlets is now 25c per line. Up to Jan. 1, 1917, space can be purchased 50 lines for $7.50 or larger space at same rate (if paid for in advance). After Dec. 31, 50 lines will cost $10.00 and if advertising at same rate, 20c per line.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The Regina (Can.) Stamp Collectors' Club is the latest organization of its kind. It was organized November 23, nine collectors being present. J. B. Parker was elected president and E. H. Phillips secretary. Short addresses were delivered by J. B. Parker and C. J. Milligan, the latter exhibiting his collection, one of the best in the northwest.

—Geo. N. Hargraff sends us a clipping from the Toronto Daily Star showing a New Zealand cover in which the stamp is defaced by a machine cancellation. In two lines is the inscription "By Some War Loan Certificates," while two other lines contain the name of post office and date of postmarking.

—Owen W. Bent of Waltham, Mass., informs us that there is a stamp catalogued at $35,000 in Scott's 1917 edition. The managing editor must confess that as yet he has not had the time to prove Mr. Bent's statement, but possibly some of our readers may be willing to do so.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Tony Conte, C. E. Doty, B. S. Wilson, Herman W. Boers (2) and L. M. Stevens, Jr.

—Advertisers must refrain from advertising cleaned stamps. Our reason for this is the fact that no one can tell the ultimate use that cleaned stamps will be put to.

—A clipping just received from J. Rausch of San Francisco indicates that someone is active in the matter of furnishing news items about stamps to the general press. The Examiner of the above named city in its issue of November 5 had an article made up of short paragraphs dealing particularly with new issues and the conditions under

ADLETS.

Address all copy and letters of enquiry for this department to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, Branch Office, BEVERLY, MASS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. RATE.—25c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $10.00, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

NEW RATE 25c PER LINE.

Commencing this week our rate for adlets is 25c per line. Up to Jan. 1, we will sell blocks of 50 lines at $7.50, space to be used at will. One can purchase all he pleases.

During the remainder of December advertisers who have held the 15c rate on "tf" advertising will be allowed the old rate but the 20c rate will be effective Jan. 1. A credit on the old basis before Jan. 1 will give the 15c rate during the life of the space paid for.

This department is taking too much room. The rate is too cheap. St. Nicholas gets $1.00 a line, American Boy $1.00 a line, Popular Mechanics 15c per word and MEKEEL'S is worth 25c a line. If we cut it down, the advertisers using it will get better returns and we shall have more room for reading matter.

which the same were made necessary. As a preface to the article is the following:—"The American Philatelic Society of Brooklyn, N. Y., is authority for the following notes of interest to stamp collectors." Possibly the committee authorized by the Boston A. P. S. convention is getting busy.

—"I wish to say in this connection that I regard your publication as an invaluable aid in the furtherance of intelligent stamp collecting, than which, in my opinion, there is no more constructive aid in the school study of geography and history. Your publication certainly has been of real value to my boy, just as I am satisfied that stamp collecting has been worth many times the cost in the development of his intelligence and an accurate understanding as regards the world at large."—F. L. HOFFMAN, Statistician Prudential Insurance Company of America.

—"In regard to 'Unusual Cancellations' some of them could possibly be accounted for. From 1870 to 1880. I was in a post office and the cancellation stamps were made up in two parts. One with date, etc., in it and the other with a cork which would be replaced when worn. We used to sometimes exercise our ingenuity in seeing who could make the most artistic cancellation carving and some of them were very choice works of art."—W. B. GLEASON.

—Fred Michael of Chicago has just issued a new list, No. 13. It makes a special feature of new issues and every lover of new issues will do well to send for the same.

—According to our Detroit correspondent, Herman W. Boers, Eustace B. Power, manager of Stanley Gibbons, Inc., visited the above mentioned city Friday, Dec. 1, on his way to Chicago.

BENNETT OF BUFFALO.

Our news item of two weeks ago produced results, but the fruit is not of a very palatable nature. We are not undertaking the settlement of any claims against this party but advise dealers interested to consult local attorneys and put the machinery in motion for the collection of accounts. Will dealers please make a note of the information that can be read into these lines?

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF CANADA.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The King George Stamps.

On May 6th, 1910, King George V succeeded to the throne but the Dominion of Canada did not take steps towards issuing a series of stamps bearing the portrait of the new monarch until some time later. The 1c and 2c denominations were recorded in the Monthly Journal for January, 1912, so they were doubtless on sale on the 1st day of that month. The other values—5c, 7c, 10c, 20c and 50c—were placed on sale very soon afterwards and we believe the full series was in circulation before the end of January.

The new stamps form a highly attractive set and they are without question the handsomest set of "George" stamps issued by any of the British Colonies. The portrait, which shows His Majesty in an admiral's uniform, three-quarter face to left, is, as the Monthly Journal states "the best portrait of King George that has yet appeared on stamps." The portrait is contained within an oval above which the words CANADA POSTAGE are curved in bold sans-serif capitals. Below is the value ONE CENT, etc., in words while in each of the lower angles the value is shown in figures on a plain square as in the case of the King Edward stamps. In the upper corners are crowns, again like the King Edward labels, but the treatment of the stamp as a whole is widely dissimilar. The portrait oval is smaller than before so that in place of the almost microscopical maple leaves shown on the King Edward stamps we now find a spray of these leaves, beautifully drawn, in each of the lower spandrels.

The stamps were printed in sheets of 100 as before with the usual arrangement of marginal imprint and plate numbers. No record seems to have been made of the plates but that a very large number of the 2c at any rate were used is obvious from the high numbers found.

The 1c and 2c values show a number of prominent shades. Just a month after the stamps were first chronicled the Monthly Journal noted that the 1c existed in two distinct shades—"yellow-green and blue-green". In October, 1912, the same journal mentioned the receipt of the 5c "in a very markedly altered shade, deep ultramarine instead of the previous deep indigo", while in January, 1913, we read of two very pronounced shades of the 2c—bright carmine and dull rose-red—in addition to the usual rose-carmine tint. In November, 1913, this denomination was noted in still another striking shade described as "almost carmine-lake".

In the February, 1913, issue of the Philatelic Gazette reference is made to these shades and other varieties as follows:—

Collectors of shades should not fail to secure before it is too late, the interesting series of such varieties in the current King George series of Canada. In the 1 cent stamp four distinct shades are noted and in the 2 cent value no less than ten distinct shades from a pale carmine rose to deep carmine and from a real brick red to a reddish-brown or sienna red.

Several "errors" or "freaks of printing" have appeared, mostly in the early impressions, caused probably by the rush and push of the printers in trying to meet the large demand. I have noted the following and believe they will be of interest to collectors:

1 Cent.—An accent between CANADA and POSTAGE; also accents between N and D of CANADA.

2 Cent.—The same varieties may be found on the 2 cent stamp printed from plate one.

2 Cent.—On plate two there appeared on the 97th stamp on the plate a marked accent on the C of CENTS.

2 Cent.—In February, 1912, some few sheets were issued, having the red horizontal guide lines running across the stamps. These were printed from unfinished plates from which the guide lines had not been removed. They are easily distinguished, having the lines about 2 millimeters apart running across every stamp on the sheet. The lines are very plain where they run through the figures of value.—C. L. P.

The variety last described is a very interesting one which may also be found in connection with the 1c denomination. To term them guide-lines and prints from "unfinished plates" is, however, quite incorrect. Such guide-lines as are marked on a plate are only placed vertically or horizontally to correspond with the top or bottom or one of the sides of the stamp design. The lines, which we are now considering, appear comparatively close together though they are not equi-distant, as the above description would lead us to imagine, nor are they always parallel or straight. They are undoubtedly due to some inherent defects in the plates. Possibly, in the rush to finish sufficient plates to cope with the demand for the new stamps some of them were hardened too quickly with the result that the surfaces cracked. These defective plates were certainly among the earliest ones used and judging by the scarcity of the stamps showing these peculiarities they were not in use long before they were discarded.

The 1c and 2c values of this series were issued in coil form for use in automatic vending machines. These were first issued in November, 1912, perf. 8 vertically and imperforate at top and bottom. In October, 1913, the 1c was issued perf. 8 horizontally and imperforate at the sides and shortly afterwards the 2c appeared in the same way. These coil stamps show quite a number of distinct shades.

CHAPTER XXV.

The War Tax Stamps.

One result of the European war was that Canada, in common with many other countries, had to impose special taxes. The Hon. W. T. White, Minister of Finance, outlined the various tariff changes and special taxes in the House of Commons, Ottawa, on February 11th, 1914, and a resume of the chief items in the new "budget" was published in the WEEKLY for Feb. 7th as follows:—

The tariff changes went into effect at the time of the announcement. The special tax on wine and champagne goes into effect at once. The other special taxes take effect at a date to be yet fixed. The stamp tax on letters means that the old 3 cent postage rate is restored, and a city letter costs 2 cents.

There is to be no income tax.

The following are some of the items of taxation:—

One cent on telegraph and cable messages.

Ten cents for every five dollars on railroad and steamboat tickets.

Ten cents on sleeping car and five cents on parlor car tickets.

One to three dollars per passenger from steamboat companies carrying to ports other than in Canada, Newfoundland, the United States of America, and British West Indies.

Two cents on all bank checks, receipts and bills of exchange, express and post-office orders.

One cent on postal notes.

One cent (war stamp) on each letter and postcard.

Two cents on bills of lading.

Five cents per pint on non-sparkling wines sold in Canada, and twenty-five cents per pint on champagne and sparkling wines.

One cent on each ten cents cost of proprietary medicines.

The only tax that has interest to us as philatelists is the one cent impost on all letters and postcards. This came into effect on April 15th, 1914, and special stamps were issued for the purpose. These are the regular 1c postage stamps of the King George series with the words "WAR TAX", in two lines, in large colorless block capitals between the portrait and the value. As this stamp collected a tax on letters and postcards it will undoubtedly be considered collectible by the most advanced of the philatelic purists. While the 2c and other denominations were issued in the same type and many of the 2c undoubtedly passed through the mails as 2c stamps they can hardly be considered anything else than freaks. There seems to have been no necessity for these special stamps, for so long as a letter had 3c postage on it (or 2c in the case of drop letters) the law was fully complied with.

It was considered, however, that a stamp which would pay both postage and tax would be a great convenience to the public and in December, 1915, a stamp of this sort was issued. The official announcement regarding these was as follows:—

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT, CANADA,
OTTAWA, December 30th, 1915.

Sir:—I have the honor to enclose three specimens of a stamp which this Department is issuing for postage and War Tax purposes, having a value of three cents. This is an ordinary two cent postage stamp surcharged as follows: 1 T c (one cent tax). This has been issued in response to the demand of the public for a stamp having the value of three cents so that postage and War Tax might be paid by affixing one stamp. This stamp is of permanent validity.

I have the honor to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

R. M. COULTER,

Deputy Postmaster-General.

The new stamps were printed from engraved plates as usual from a special die adapted from the ordinary 2 cent stamp. Upon the King's coat, immedi-

CHAPTER XXVII.

A Proposed Commemorative Series.

Before concluding our notes regarding the postage stamps proper of Canada it will be as well to make brief reference to a proposed commemorative series which, fortunately or unfortunately as one views these special sets, never eventuated. Early in 1914 proposals were on foot to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Sir George Etienne Cartier by the issue of a series of stamps of distinctive designs. Cartier was a famous Canadian premier who was born in Lower Canada in 1814. Becoming attorney-general for Lower Canada in 1856, he was called to form the Cartier-Macdonald ministry in 1858. After the fall of his ministry he again became attorney-general in 1864. A fearless and upright leader, and a good orator, he did much for the moulding of a united Canada. He is also famed as a writer of French lyrics, which were published in 1875, two years after his death. Whether the stamps ever got beyond the proposal stage is a moot point but at any rate a list of chosen subjects was published, viz:—

1 cent, Portraits of King George and Queen Mary.
 2 cents, The Cartier Monument.
 5 cents, Cartier's birthplace.
 7 cents, Portrait of the Prince of Wales.
 10 cents, Victoria Bridge, inaugurated by Cartier.
 20 cents Canadian Pacific Railway train inscribed "All Aboard for the West."
 50 cents, Cartier's Coat-of-Arms; motto, "Franc et sans dol"; inscription, "O Canada, mon pays, mes amours".

It was at one time definitely announced that the stamps would be placed on sale on June 15th but a correspondent making enquiry at headquarters was informed that "the Department is not yet decided to sell the Cartier stamps."

As the stamps still failed to make an appearance a firm of English stamp dealers wrote to the Canadian Post-Office department for information and received the following reply:—

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT, CANADA.
 Office of the Superintendent of the Postage Stamp Branch.
 OTTAWA, 29th June, 1914.

Dear Sirs:—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your favor addressed to the late Mr. Stanton, and in which you ask information with reference to the proposed issue of stamps to commemorate the centenary of Sir George Etienne Cartier. The information which you have received from outside sources is not only premature, but inaccurate in several details, and I can only say that although it is possible that these stamps may be issued during the course of the next few months the whole question is still under the consideration of the Department.

Yours very sincerely,
E. J. LEMAIRE, Superintendent.

Finally, owing very probably to the war, it was decided not to issue this special series of stamps.

CHAPTER XXVII.

Official Stamps.

Canada has never issued special postage stamps for use on departmental correspondence but in November, 1884, a German paper, Der Philatelist—on the advice of a correspondent, chronicled a series for official use. These were said to consist of the ordinary adhesives, two envelopes and a post card surcharged with the word OFFICIAL in black. To quote from the Philatelic Record:—"It is alleged that they were prepared and issued in 1877, but after a short time were called in again. The surcharges are in some cases oblique, and in others perpendicular. It is at least strange that, considering our intercourse with Canada, our first knowledge of the issue of official stamps so far back as 1877 should reach us from Temesvar, wherever that may be."

Doubts were, naturally, expressed on all sides with regard to the authenticity of these labels and a letter addressed to Ottawa on the subject resulted in the following reply:—

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT, CANADA,
 OTTAWA, 18th May, 1885.

Sir:—I am directed by the Postmaster-General to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 29th ult., enquiring whether postage stamps bearing the word "Official" on their face are in circulation in the Dominion of Canada, and beg, in reply, to say that no such stamp, card, newspaper wrapper, or envelope has ever been issued by this Department. I am, sir, your obedient servant, (Signed) WM. WHITE, Secretary.

Two years later, in April, 1887, after this canard had been satisfactorily disposed of another set of alleged official stamps was referred to in the Philatelic Record as follows:—

Mr. Hechler sent to the Transvaal correspondent of Major Evans a set of Canadian stamps surcharged SERVICE, and he certainly vouched for the authenticity of the Royal arms and supporters, with the word SERVICE on some Canadian envelopes, which he declared had been issued to the troops that were sent out in the Indian rebellion in 1885, and with whom Mr. Hechler was serving. This rebellion did not break out until April of that year, and yet we find these envelopes described in the Timbre-Poste of February of the same year, on the authority of Der Philatelist of the previous January. This all seems to be very remarkable, especially as no one but Mr. Hechler appears ever to have had any of them.

A little delving into the history of these stamps and envelopes soon showed that they were nothing more than a private speculation on the part of their sponsor, Mr. Hechler. It appears that Hechler was a captain in a Volunteer regiment which was despatched to assist in putting down the rebellion. He had the words SERVICE printed on a number of envelopes, postcards, and probably stamps as well, which were used in sending notices of drill, etc., to his company. But they were never issued or recognised by the Government of Canada.

EDITORIAL.

Answers—A thorough student of United States issues, Mr. Richard McP. Cabeen, Chicago, recently propounded a series of questions relative to the procedure in the making of the stamp plates, to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Washington, and the answers are supplied by J. E. Ralph, Director, are worth recording for the benefit of readers generally: "I am in receipt of your letter of the 1st instant requesting to be furnished with certain information. I give your questions below and the answers thereto, as follows: 1. At which corner of the plate does the workman start when entering a stamp design? A. Lower right hand corner. 2. Are the designs entered top up or bottom up? A. Top up. 3. Does the first stamp entered on the plate become the left stamp in the top row upon the finished sheet? A. The first stamp becomes the lower left hand corner stamp on a sheet of stamps. 4. If not, what is its position on the sheet? A. See answer to Question 3. 5. Can you tell me if this method of entering the first design on the plate (or rather this position for the first design) was used by the Bureau in 1894 and 1895? A. It has been a long time since the dates mentioned but it is believed that the stamp plates have always been made in the manner indicated."

* * *

Similar—Our attention has been called to a label in blue a bit larger in size than the ten cent special delivery stamp. On the pasteur which was issued in the interests of the G. O. P. in the recent campaign are the more or less stirring words: "Justice. Peace. Honor. He Always Delivers the Goods. Stands for Arbitration and the Good of All the Nation. Choose Hughes." A picture of Hughes, his arm encircling the American flag, and the date, 1916, complete the salient details of the design of the pasteur. Unquestionably, the general design of the political label was suggested by the current special delivery stamp and a comparison of the two is interesting. We are aware that the designs of many of our United States stamps were approximated for advertising, political or propaganda purposes, particularly in the earlier days but latterly the idea of using the stamp form has languished, a condition due chiefly to the disfavor with which the authorities view any substitute for or similitude of a postal certificate.

Original—When the revenue stamps of the Civil War period were first issued, many members of the public used the distinctive stamps on letters, contrary to the warning of the post office department as well as the treasury department. In fact, the misuse of the revenue stamps became such a nuisance as to engage the serious notice of the postal authorities, the Philadelphia postmaster having sought to cope with the irregularity through the newspaper press of his city. Through the courtesy of Mr. J. H. Raymond, Dover, Delaware, we have seen the notice as it appeared originally in the Philadelphia Evening Journal of November 8, 1863: "Caution.—Whereas, a number of Letters and Papers have been deposited in the POST OFFICE on which have been placed the INTERNAL REVENUE STAMPS in payment of Postage, the public are hereby CAUTIONED AGAINST such use of these stamps, as the Post Office Department will not recognize them, and all such letters will be 'held for postage', and detained at this office. G. A. Walborn, P. M. Philadelphia Postoffice, Nov. 8, 1863." In old batches of letters, one turns up every now and then, bearing a revenue stamp and the Held for Postage impression.

* * *

Clue—Providentially enough, Mr. Elliott Perry, Westfield, New Jersey, noticed in a recent issue of the Sunday Times, a statement that has a bearing on a somewhat important aspect of American philately in its relation to art or portraiture. First of all, we present the following excerpt from the Times of November 12, 1916, signed Sheldon I. Kellogg, Jr.: "Referring to the article in 'Queries from Times Readers and Answers' in issue of Oct. 15, 1916, headed 'Andrew Jackson Print,' further investigation would have shown that the noted painter, Miner Kilbourne Kellogg, of Cincinnati, Ohio, was commissioned to paint the portrait of General Andrew Jackson, and for six weeks enjoyed the hospitality of the Hermitage. So satisfactory was the painting that the old hero presented him with a silver-mounted hickory cane, which the present writer owns. This was about 1838-40. The likeness of General Jackson on the black two cent United States postage stamp of July, 1863, was taken from this portrait. Another of his portraits was that of General Scott, which is (or was) in Governors' Room of the City Hall, New York." Now, it is generally accepted that the Jackson portrait on the two cent was after a portrait by Dodge. However, the testimony of the writer of the foregoing explanation is not to be refuted, we should say, as we assume that the writer, Sheldon I. Kellogg, Jr., is a descendant of the artist, Miner Kilbourne Kellogg, Cincinnati, who painted Old Hickory during the six weeks that were spent amid the pleasant surroundings of Jackson's famous home in Tennessee. It is probable that the particular reference to Dodge as the painter of the portrait from which that on the two cent Jackson was taken will have to be revised and in this connection we are hopeful that we shall soon be able to present to readers a story that is of

The Regular $75.00
 "Collection de Luxe"
 FOR $50.00 NET.

Contains 4,000 all different POSTAGE stamps which are either unused or legitimately postally cancelled and in fine shape—NONE being torn or damaged. Plenty of complete sets, higher values, and a nice percentage catalog from 10c upward to $3.00 each. From all parts of the world and a far better "buy" than any "6000 variety packet" offered by re-sellers at $110, upward. The "de Luxe" is POWELL'S most famous offering—the UTMOST in Quality and REAL Value—purchased and recommended to you by the foremost dealers and collectors, such as Poole, Ward, Coes, Hammond, etc. Any collector can take this lot and use the larger portion for his collection—those having 15,000 varieties have found the lot profitable—the remaining stamps being all different are fine for exchange or for sale. It means act today—save $25—buy under our ABSOLUTE GUARANTEE of entire satisfaction or money back.

FULTON STAMP CO., 102 WEST 42ND ST., NEW YORK CITY

real interest. We thank Mr. Perry for giving us some material that appeals strongly to many collectors.

* * *

Notice—We do not remember having commented heretofore on an impression now shown us by Mr. John E. Lord, Chicago, that reads: "Postage Stamp Lost in Transit. (3d Div.) New York P. O." This stamping when applied to a piece of mail matter tells its own story.

* * *

Power—The manager of Stanley Gibbons, New York City, Mr. E. B. Power, has swung around the circle as far west as Chicago, a city that has much sentimental interest for Mr. Power as it was there that he made his early beginnings in philately. The twenty or more years that have intervened between then and the present have marked the elevation of Mr. Power to one of the highest positions in the commercial ranks. Mr. Power's force and energy and astute business training coupled with the intuitive and cultivated philatelic knowledge of the man have won distinguished consideration in our little world. Mr. Power confesses that business is so good that he cannot but help admit the impeachment publicly; and he intimates that there is a veritable hunger cry on the part of our best citizens for the good things of stamps. Judging from the volume of business that Mr. Power transacted on his trip, he is doing his full duty to those who hunger. Mr. Power, we understand, made his trip in response to the invitation of the Detroit Philatelic Society to address its members at a meeting of that enterprising organization.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Charles C. DeSelms in renewing his subscription for two years, sends us twenty packets of stamps to distribute as Christmas cheer to shut-ins. This kindly act upon the part of Mr. DeSelms will certainly be appreciated, and we take pleasure in acknowledging the courtesy through the columns of the WEEKLY.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from J. H. Massey (2) and Wm. J. Prinzing.

—Capt. R. H. Peck of Fort Shafter, H. T., enters a complaint against P. V. Hiordan, Puerto la Plata, Argentine Republic, and we have called Mr. Hiordan's attention to the same. We regret to say that there are three or four transactions of this nature that we have been unable as yet to adjust. It is the intention of the WEEKLY to be even more strict in the future in admitting foreign exchange advertising.

—Herman Toasperi, chairman of the entertainment committee of the Collectors' Club, N. Y. City, sends us a booklet describing the exhibitions and meetings to be held during the present season. We wish that we had the space to print the list of exhibitions, detailed programs of which are to be found in the booklet. A monograph competition is announced and rules in connection with the competition may be obtained from Mr. Toasperi, 99 Nassau St., N. Y. City. Four medals accompanied by certificates will be awarded as prizes.

—The following are the new officers of the Philadelphia branch A. P. S.:—F. Hahman, Pres.; E. Klein, Vice Pres.; A. F. Henkels, Secy. and Treas.; J. W. Haseltine, Sales Manager.

A letter from Secretary Davis was read and Mr. Wolseifer was appointed Promoter as per the suggestions in said letter.

The following gentlemen made application for membership in the branch:—Julius H. White, J. Weer Chew, Francis H. Earp and Mark H. Harris.

—The Walters Stamp Co., Madison, N. J., has opened a branch store at 35 Morris St., Morristown, N. J.

—The following is a passage from Robert W. Chambers, "The Girl Philippa," which I read recently. Although he applies it to art, I find it fully as applicable to our hobby, and it struck me as being very good:—

"The life-work of the so-called 'master' is passed only in solving newer problems. There is no end to the problems, there is an end only to our lives.

Look at the matter in that way, not as a race toward an attainable goal, nor as an eternally hopeless effort in a treadmill, but as a sane and sure and intelligent progress from one wonder-chamber to a chamber still more wonderful—locked rooms which contain miracles, and which open only when we find the various keys which fit their locks."—Robert W. Chambers' "The Girl Philippa."—WILLARD E. GARDINER.

ADLETS 25c PER LINE.

The rate for adlets is now 25c per line. Up to Jan. 1, 1917, space can be purchased 50 lines for $7.50 or larger space at same rate (if paid for in advance). After Dec. 31, 50 lines will cost $10.00 and if advertising at same rate, 20c per line.

A NEW UNITED STATES LOOSE LEAF ALBUM

AN ALBUM SECOND TO NONE.

This Album is the only practical and feasible Loose Leaf Book on the market today. We have put this Album up in three sections so a collector is able to purchase such branches as he desires at a comparatively low cost. It is 9 inches long and 7½ inches wide, very handy; there is but one set of stamps to a page artistically laid out. Spaces have been provided for imperforate and part perforate pairs and the beauty of all; it is right up to the minute. What is more we will add new leaves each year with spaces for the latest stamps and if you are an owner of one of our Albums, latest sheets will be promptly sent you when issued.

After you have transferred your stamps into this Album, you cannot help realizing the great advantage in a practical up-to-date Album.

Edited by MILTON P. LYONS, JR.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address Milton P. Lyons, Jr., 1631 Chestnut St., Phila., Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

A NEW EDITOR SECURED.

We are pleased to say that we have secured an editor for our Chronicle in the person of Milton P. Lyons, Jr., 1631 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa. Correspondents will please note the address given and communicate any information direct to Mr. Lyons.

UNITED STATES.—We have received a freak envelope from W. J. Stanton. It is the now obsolete 2c stamped envelope showing George Washington in the act of smoking a cigarette. The line of white protruding from the mouth of the "Father of our Country" is so distinct as to make the variety interesting and amusing.

CANADA.—We are indebted to Gladstone Perry and Cornel Kmentt for information in connection with the issue of the Canada 1Tc in brown in the coil perforation, perforated 8 vertically.

JAPAN.—We are indebted to Alfred Rasmussen and Frank Kocher for specimens of the new commemorative stamps chronicled last week.

MEXICO.—Herman Focke gives us further information in regard to the rates of postage now current between this country and Mexico. He supplements the word sent to us some weeks ago with the following:—

"I gave the postage rate for letters from Mexico to this country as being 1 peso, but since yesterday most of the mail is coming in with only 5 centavos postage, as of old stamps of the 1910 issue, with the small G. P. DE M. being employed.

This should make the provisional 1 Peso on 4c postage due a desirable stamp."

SALVADOR.—Additional information is at hand as regards the new official set. We quote as follows from a letter just received from Mr. Focke:—

"I can now amplify my report on the new Salvador stamps; I stated that the set had been surcharged with the word 'Oficial' in various colors for official use, and can now give these colors as follows:—On the 1c, 2c, 10c, 12c, 17c and 25c in blue. On the 5c, 6c, 29c and 50c in red."

DR. MICHELONI'S RETURN.

After a somewhat extended stay in South America, Dr. L. A. Micheloni, an old-time advertiser in the WEEKLY, has returned to New York City. He begins advertising this week and we cordially recommend our friend to the philatelic consideration of our readers. His specialties will be seen in the nature of his offerings week by week.

FOR THE HIGHEST BIDDER.

Eugene Klein has been promoted to the first page, and the space formerly occupied by him on this, the editorial page, is for sale to the highest bidder. The advertiser who will take the largest amount of space regularly, whether it be one inch double column or more, may have this location. It is occupied this week by the Geo. W. Linn Co., and with reading matter underneath, you can get a fair idea of the desirability of the location.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

"EL TRIO"

THE MANILA CIGAR WITHOUT A "STING"

Smokers in the United States are more or less familiar with the high-grade product of Porto Rico, Cuba and Key West, and know that, while good cigars are made there, they are quite expensive.

The Insular Government of the Philippine Islands has appointed a special Commission to exploit Manila-made cigars in the United States, and their report, just made public, shows that cigar exports have increased over 100% during the past twelve months.

Why?

Well, the answer is: QUALITY and PRICE.

Four months ago, by special arrangement with one of the largest and most sanitary cigar factories in Manila, based upon my acquaintance with stamp dealers and collectors throughout the United States, this factory-to-consumer mail-order service was inaugurated and is proving a conspicuous success. To be a success all transactions must be entirely satisfactory to customers—which is my guarantee.

Below are offered strictly hand-made, long filler cigars, of the choicest Isabela or Cagayan leaf, in perfecto, semi-blunt, panatela and regalia shapes, at 10c, 8c, 5c and 5c each, respectively.

These cigars are shipped to you direct from the factory, by REGISTERED mail, sealed air-tight and securely packed, and with U. S. revenue paid.

TO EACH AND EVERY ONE OF YOU, WHO WANT A BETTER CIGAR FOR LESS MONEY, HERE IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY.

Brand	Shape	Box of	Price
E R L O	Excelentes (perfecto)	25	$2.50	Special price for
	Club Specials (regalia)	50	2.50	these four boxes,
	Manila Needles (panatela)	50	2.50	until Feb. 1, 1917,
	Especiales (semi-blunt)	25	2.00	$8.55

Please remit by money order. State shade of cigar wanted. Thank you.

THE LATEST IRISH LABEL.

The Irish Sinn Fein labels are familiar to our readers. Here is an illustration of a more recent stroke of genius, a label that has been advertised more or less as an Irish "stamp":—

PAPER OR STAMPS.

By C. A. BURNER.

After reading the editorial which commented upon the subscriber who requested his paper discontinued as he wanted to spend the price for stamps, permit me to advance an entirely different argument.

Being in the printing business and buying paper for a publication almost identical in size, I can appreciate the cost of producing the WEEKLY. At the present price of blank paper half of the subscription price is spent for the paper used in each subscriber's fifty-two papers.

The WEEKLY is worth a dollar a year and if an advance is necessary, keep the papers coming. The collector who has a dollar to spend had better pay half of it for the paper and read carefully all the advertisements. If he is a shrewd buyer he will be able during the year to buy more with his half dollar with the paper to guide him than he can for the whole dollar without it.

If he will read the news columns carefully, he will find greater pleasure

Any collector who misses getting my priced list is doing himself an injustice. [tf]

Fine Copies of Stamps Bought and Sold

BURGER & CO. [10H]
90 NASSAU ST., NEW YORK.

ADLETS.

Address all copy and letters of enquiry for this department to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, Branch Office, BEVERLY, MASS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. RATE.—25c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $10.00, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

NEW RATE 25c PER LINE.

The new transient rate in adlets is 25c per line and if advertising from now on will be 20c per line. Up to January 1 we shall sell blocks of fifty lines at $7.50, space to be used at will. You may purchase all you please.

This department is taking too much room. The rate is too cheap. Note what stamp dealers pay in other publications for their service. If the boys' papers are worth $1 per line, MEKEEL'S is worth 25c. The increase in rate will give us more room for reading matter and the advertisers using adlets will get better returns.

Meetings first (informal) and third (regular) Tuesdays, Room 322 Tremont Bldg., 8.15 P. M.

The next regular meeting of the Society will be held in the club-room on Tuesday evening, December 19th, and will be called to order at 7.45 p. m. Those who wish to dine together will be at the club room not later than 6 p. m. This feature of the evening has proved to be very pleasant and we would like to have more of the members join us. The application of Mr. William F. Marquardt will be voted on.

As this is the meeting at which we celebrate "Christmas" it is hoped that every one will make an especial effort to attend and join in the festivities which are bound to be enjoyable with Messrs. Dunning, Fowle and Barker on the Committee.

A PHILATELIC DICTIONARY.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

AFFRANCHI AINSI-FAUTE FIGURINE.—(Postage paid thus—low values scarce). In consequence of an alleged shortage of stamps at Antalaha, Diego Suarez, Vohemar, and other places in this region from February until August, 1904, various stamps of the 1896-99 issue for Madagascar and Dependencies, and of the 1894 issue for Diego Suarez, were divided vertically and each half when affixed to a letter was handstamped with words signifying such shortage. In addition to the inscription heading this paragraph the following are occasionally met with:—"Affranchissement — exceptionnel — (faute de Timbres)", (Postage paid—exceptional—shortage of stamps); and "Affranchissement—Special—faute de figurines", (Postage paid—Special—low values scarce). It is believed these so-called provisionals were as speculative as they were unnecessary and they thus have little if any philatelic status.

AFGHANISTAN.—A large country lying on the north-west frontier of India, which has an area of about 215,000 square miles. It is bounded on the north by Asiatic Russia, on the south by Baluchistan, on the east by the Punjab and North-west Frontier Province, and on the west by Persia. It is generally known as the "buffer state" and at one point India and Russia are separated by less than ten miles. The country is called Khorasan by the natives, and has a mixed population of Afghans, Pathans, Ghilzais, Tajiks (the aboriginals), etc. The language is Pustu and the present ruler is His Highness Siraj-ul-millat-wad-din Amir Habib Ulla Khan, G. C. M. G., who ascended the throne in 1901. By agreement with the Amir Afghanistan has no foreign relations with any power except through the Government of India. In all other respects it is independent, and the ruler of the Amir is despotic. Under the present treaty existing between Britain and Afghanistan the British Government agrees to refrain from interference in internal affairs, and engages to preserve the safety and integrity of Afghanistan against any unprovoked attack provided the Amir acts as a friend and ally and follows unreservedly the British Government's advice in all its external relations. Postage stamps were first issued in 1870.

AFRICA CORREIOS. (Africa Postage).—An inscription shown on the Vasco da Gama commemorative stamps issued for use in the Portuguese Colonies of Angola, Cape Verde, Guinea, Lorenzo Marques, Mozambique, Congo, St. Thomas and Prince, and Zambesia in 1898.

AFRIQUE OCCIDENTALE FRANCAISE.—(French West Africa). This inscription appears on all the stamps printed from the "general" plates for the French Colonies of Dahomey, Guinea, Ivory Coast, Mauritania, Senegal, and Upper Senegal and Niger—all situated in West Africa.

A. G.—An overprint found on some of the early stamps of South Australia signifying their use on the official correspondence of the "Attorney-General" of the State. They were superseded in 1874 by the general official issue surcharged with the letters "O S".

AGRICULTURE.—(See Dept. of Agriculture).

AGUINALDO STAMPS.—A series of labels issued by the Revolutionary Government in the Philippines under the leadership of Aguinaldo in 1898. They are, of course, locals, and though it has been asserted that they were of an entirely speculative character it seems more probable that they were issued for legitimate postal purposes and were undoubtedly used in the territory occupied by the revolutionaries until the Aguinaldo government was finally suppressed by the Americans.

A. H. PD.—These letters are overprinted upon the 1906 issue of stamps for the Azores. They stand for the towns of Angra, Horta and Ponta Delgada, the special series for which ceased on the issue of these overprinted labels.

AITUTAKI.—The northernmost island in the Hervey or Cook Archipelago. It is of volcanic formation, is surrounded by dangerous reefs, and has no harbor of any importance. The island was annexed to the British Empire in October, 1900, and in the following June it was included in the boundaries of the Dominion of New Zealand. Its government is administered locally, under the direction of New Zealand, by the Federal Council of the Cook Islands. In 1903 postage stamps were first issued, these being formed by overprinting the then current stamps of New Zealand with "Aitutaki" and values in the local equivalents.

ALASKA-YUKON-PACIFIC STAMP.—A special 2c stamp issued by the United States Government in 1909 with the dual purpose of commemorating the acquisition of Alaska and the exposition held at Seattle in that year.

ALAVA.—A province in northern Spain, formerly one of the three autonomous Basque Provinces. After the first Carlist war many risings took place, the most formidable occurring in 1873 when the abdication of King Amadeo and the proclamation of a republic afforded an opportunity. The Carlists issued their own special stamps for use in this province, these bearing the portrait of Don Carlos. The stamps were suppressed in 1876 when the Carlists were finally routed. For its share in the rising the province was stripped of the last of its autonomous privileges.

Mixture No. 7

ENGLISH COLONIES.

A very unusual mixture and a wonderful bargain in these popular stamps. It is a "mixture" in more ways than one, Queen's heads, King Edward and King George—and even the fourth generation. Quite a few are on parts of original cover, in large strips and blocks and from all over the world. Transvaal, Mauritius, Australia, old and new—Ceylon, Natal, Tasmania, Sierra Leone, Queensland, Nigeria, Union of S. Africa, Rhodesia, Malta, Newfoundland, Bermuda, Trinidad, British Honduras, Jamaica, Gold Coast, etc., etc., a magnificent variety of the lower values many 50 years old and a great many of recent issue—

There are between 200-300 varieties in each 1000—but this must not be expected in the 500 lots.

THE KAJARS.

By J. B. CHILDS.

The ruling of Persia, such as it is, has been done by the Family of Kajar, a feeble representative of which is even now trying to cling to the throne amid the oscillations of the European War.

Nasr-ed-Din (issues of 1876 to 1894) met with little opposition when he became Shah in 1848 at the mature age of sixteen, altho his gouty old father had for many years tried the endurance of Persia to the breaking point. An incipient revolution was checked by the firm hand of the Prime Minister, who was supported for a time by the young Shah, only to be secretly murdered when the moment became favorable. Nasr-ed-Din, fearful of any movement which might endanger his throne, in the sixties learned of the organization of a secret order among the nobility—The House of Forgetfulness—and arrested all of the members whom he could find. Still he was progressing, to the extent of introducing a kind of Postal Service. Also he made some trips to Europe, on which he was greeted with great ceremony at every stopping point. He probably did not take his entire harem of fifty wives along with him; but they at least gained some idea of the ease with which money could be spent in Europe. To avoid quarrels with his wives this King of Kings was obliged to indulge them more and more. The idea, brought back from Europe, of establishing a college at Teheran for the education of the sons of the nobility cost him the support of the Young Persians, who were much in favor of European education for their sons. Then Nasr-ed-Din became aware of the existence of a reforming sect, the Babists. Again fearful for his throne he set out to exterminate them. One of these fanatics, who managed to escape, assassinated the Shah in 1896.

Muzaffer-ed-Din (issues of 1898 and 1903), the son of Nasr-ed-Din, after having spent the best years of his life as a provincial governor, finally succeeded his father as the Shah of Persia. The legend had spread far and wide that the wealth of Nasr-ed-Din was to be measured by the millions; but the luxuries of Europe for the harem had eaten up the vast hoardings, if there ever were any. Only the great collection of jewels had been superstitiously preserved for Muzaffer-ed-Din and his sixty wives. But the Shah, being a sickly man, needed money to take a trip to a more congenial climate. After having borrowed heavily from all who would loan him money, he went to Paris to sling away his gold and silver with a lavish hand, instead of yawning at the dreariness of life in Persia. An attempt to kill the Shah by an anarchist merely added a little spice to the climate of France. Needing more money, he borrowed eight or ten millions from Russia for the ostensible purpose of constructing internal improvements for Persia; but he slung away the most of the money in further efforts to regain his health, which had been shattered by the monotony of the life as a provincial governor. The people of Persia began to object strenuously, so strenuously, that the Shah had to return to the country to grant his subjects a Parliament and a Constitution. Then he died.

Mohamet Ali Mirza (issue of 1908), a tubby dwarf, wearing blue spectacles, followed in the footsteps of his father. Nobody liked him as he was stingy and selfish; and he only had one wife. He tried to be a great poet, but he could scribble nothing but mediocre drivel and sit at the dinner table from three o'clock in the afternoon until midnight. Above all things he was revengeful, never forgiving and never forgetting. He was only waiting the opportunity to do away with the privileges that his father had granted to the country. One hot day when the obstreperous Parliament had tired his patience, he ordered the artillery trained on the building. Afterwards, he strangled and imprisoned many of the leaders of the opposition. An uprising in the provinces spread until the Shah was unable to enforce his authority outside the capital, altho he had revoked the Constitution, taking absolute power into his own hands. Even in Teheran he could only hold his own with the aid of the Cossack Regiment. The revolutionists took the city before the Russian troops could be marched in to the defence of Mohamet Ali Mirza,

LARGE SELECTIONS.

I have two selections that are meeting with much demand. There's a reason or maybe two.

MATCH & MEDICINE.

About 400 varieties of these in condition that is unusually fine and at prices that please. Lot is valued at about $135.00.

UNUSU U. S. POSTAGE.

About $600.00 worth of these at prices so low that my best customers have been dealers. Just the thing for bargain hunters. Do dealers buy unless prices are right?

You must "qualify" with reference, if you have not had an approval account with me. Give me your age, your business and your bankers for my card system and the names of two stamp dealers with whom you have dealt. That's business and I conduct my business on a business basis.

H. F. COLMAN,

who now fled to the shelter of the Russian Legation.

Ahmed Mirza (issue of 1911), his little son of twelve or fourteen years, was taken away from the Russian Legation to be the Shah of Persia, supported by the revolutionists. During the period of regency, which followed before Ahmed was actually allowed to assume control of the government, his father attempted to enforce his claims as the rightful Shah. When Mohamet Ali Mirza was induced to relinquish his purpose by the ever watchful Russia, another pretender arose to trouble the peace of this boy ruler, the latest representative of the Kajar Line. But this was not the worst of his troubles. No, they were to come with the European War. Intriguings of both the Central Empires and the Allies swayed Ahmed back and forth on his throne, but never actually brushing him off. When the Russians protested that the Germans were encroaching on Persian territory, the Shah told them that he could do nothing. Then came the rumor that the Russian troops were coming. German Army officers hastened up to warn Ahmed Mirza to flee from Teheran; but the English and Russians persuaded him to stay. And the Allies are claiming that they have upheld the integrity of Persia for this latest of the Kajars.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The Lynn Philatelic Society Branch No. 5, N. P. S., will hold a stamp bazaar in March. From indications this year's event will surpass the big stamp exhibition held last February. The committee in charge consists of Messrs. E. L. Clark, chairman, Bridge, Brown, Emory, Polk and Meech.

—The C. E. Hussman Stamp Co., St. Louis, Mo., would like information concerning one C. L. Livingston, whose address is given as 351 87 St., N. Y. City. The firm is unable to secure any reply to communications sent this party.

—The catalog at hand from the Philadelphia Stamp Co., giving the details of the Sixth sale, has a page devoted to the American Philatelic Society and the "Two Thousand Members" slogan sounded by Secretary Davis. Particular attention is given to the merits of the sales department.

—The Occidental Stamp Co., H. E. Shore, manager, has opened an office in the busiest block on Market St., San Francisco. It is opposite the Palace Hotel and collectors visiting the city are urged to "drop in".

—Receipt of clipping from Aug. Marshall is acknowledged with thanks.

—The A. S. D. A. held its first convention in New York Dec. 1 and 2. The meetings were well attended; 41 members were represented by proxy and 16 New York dealers were present. The following were elected for the ensuing year:—President, Eugene Klein; Vice-President, W. S. Aldrich; Secretary-Treasurer, C. V. Webb; Board of Directors, Frank S. Parmelee, Ora E. Stark, S. E. Colman, Fred C. Martin, Frank J. Pope; Trustees, B. W. H. Poole, H. W. Doscher, E. P. Seeborn; Sales Manager, Maitland Milliken; Stamp Expert, J. M. Bartels; Auction Manager, M. Ohlman; Librarian, Mrs.

WANTED!

Louise W. Kellogg; Attorney, H. A. Whipple. The next convention will be held in New York City, Dec. 4, 1917.

—The Hudson Co. Stamp Club, Branch No. 11, N. P. S., had a big turnout at the meeting on Dec. 5. Thirty collectors were present. Letters and telegrams were read from President Thompson, N. P. S., and Mr. M. D. Olmstead, Secretary of Branch No. 10.

—At the Ohlman Sale December 4 the following prices were realized on some perfection United States stamps:—
1856, 5c, No. 45, Cat. $8.00, $5.70
1856, 10c, No. 50, O. G., Cat. $7.50, 6.90
1856, 12c, No. 51, O. G., Cat. $5.00, 4.10
1856, 24c, No. 52, O. G., Cat. $6.00, 7.15
1856, 30c, No. 53, O. G., Cat. $10.00, 6.00
1869, 90c, No. 122, Used, Cat. $15.00, 10.70
1870, 6c, No. 137, Cat. $4.00, 3.90

—There is a letter at this office for Mrs. L. W. Underwood. Subscribers will please note that we cannot supply the addresses of persons whose names appear in the WEEKLY. Our mailing list is not arranged in alphabetical order, but by mailing routes.

—W. H. Maine of Dubuque, Iowa, filled a request for stamps on approval from one P. M. Lachman of Indpls., Ind. Since then Mr. Maine has been unable to secure any satisfaction and the Indianapolis Postmaster informs him that mail matter addressed to Lachman is being returned endorsed "Removed. Supposed to have gone to Chicago, Ill."

—At the annual election of officers of the Brooklyn Stamp Society held Dec. 1, the following were elected:—A. T. Shorey, President; F. M. Smith, Vice-President; William Lycett, Secretary; W. J. Coleman, Financial Secretary; H. F. Christensen, Treasurer. As usual the society will hold its banquet in February.

—The New York Stamp Society held its election on Dec. 7, and the result was as follows:—President, Baldwin Schlesinger; Vice-President, Charles Lehman; Secretary, E. Weiss; Treasurer, V. Mozier. Mr. Steinmetz of Philadelphia, Pa., showed 100 pages from his collection. Twenty-eight members were present.

—The stamp cataloged $35,000 in the latest Standard Catalog is Romagna No. 9a, used. Owen Bent recently submitted this question for the edification of our readers.

WILSON'S GREAT AUCTION SALE.

The great collection of Indian and Ceylon stamps amassed by the late Sir D. P. Masson of India, will be offered at public auction in London in February next by W. T. Wilson. Mr. Wilson is certainly to be congratulated upon his good fortune in securing the Masson collection.

We are unable to give even a fair idea of the contents of the sale, but catalogs will soon be available. There is a half sheet of sixty of India Scott's No. 1 and an unused strip of four of No. 6, the first setting with blue wavy line showing the complete lower margins, a rarity of the highest degree. There are numerous sheets of Scott's Nos. 2, 4 and 5, as well as many of the later issues.

The lover of Ceylon will find many rich and beautiful things in the rarities that will be offered.

CHAPTER IV—Tax Schedule of 1864.

On June 30, 1864, a new revenue law was passed to take effect on August 1st next following in all cases except the tax on matches, which became effective September 1st. A number of classes of documents were added to the list and there were many changes in the rates on documents taxed under the laws of 1862 and 1863 and in the articles taxed under Schedule "C". Documents, and articles not given in the list below were subject to tax as before. The "Agreement" tax was changed from five cents per sheet to five cents for each agreement, appraisement, etc.

Bank Check, for any amount over $10 drawn on any bank, banker or trust company, .02
For any amount drawn otherwise, .02
Bill of Sales, of ships, etc., up to $500, .50
Over $500 to $1,000, 1.00
For each additional $500 or fraction, .50
Bond, Indemnity, for each $1,000 or fraction over $1,000, .50

Certificate, of profits, over $50 to $1,000, .25
For each additional $1,000 or fraction, .25
Foreign Exchange, drawn in sets of three, for every bill of each set per equivalent of $100 U. S., .02
Inland Exchange, promissory notes, etc., and foreign bills drawn singly, for each $100 or fraction, .05
Insurance, marine, inland and fire, premium over $10 to $50, .25
Premium over $50, .50
Conveyance, realty up to $500, .50
Over $500 to $1,000, 1.00
For each additional $1,000 or fraction, .50
Lease, for $300 rent per year or less, .50
For each $200 or fraction per year additional, .50
Mortgage, over $100 to $500, .50
Over $500 to $1,000, 1.00
For each additional $500 or fraction, .50
Passage Ticket, by any vessel from U. S. to foreign port for each ticket costing not over $35, .50
For each ticket costing over $35 to $50, 1.00
For every $50 or fraction per ticket over $50, 1.00
Probate of Will, estates up to $2,000, 1.00
For each additional $1,000 or fraction, .50
Power of Attorney, other than specified, reduced from $1 to $20, .02
Receipts, for each receipt for over $20, .02
Warehouse receipt, for goods valued up to $500, .10
Over $500 to $1,000, .20
For each additional $1,000 or fraction, .10
Not otherwise provided for, .25
Writ, where amount claimed in writ issued by a court not of record is $100 or over, .50
Upon confession of every judgment of $100 or over except where tax was paid on original writ, .50
Appeals to higher courts, .50
Warrant of Distress, where amount of rent claimed is $100 or less, .25
Where amount of rent claimed is over $100, .50
Weigher's returns, up to 5,000 pounds, .10
Over 5,000 pounds, .25

Measurer's returns, up to 1,000 bushels, .10
Over 1,000 bushels, .25
Gauger's returns, up to 500 gallons gross, .10
Over 500 gallons, .25
Telegraph, commencing August 1, 1864, this business was taxed under schedule "A" and the stamp tax appears to have been abolished.

"Schedule C":—

Playing Cards, each pack of any number retailing up to 18c, .02
Retailing over 18c to 25c, .04
Retailing over 25c to 50c, .10
Retailing over 50c to $1.00, .15
For each additional 50c or fraction, .05
Photographs, in certain cases 5% ad valorem, otherwise

Friction matches or lucifers, made partly or wholly of wood, .01
For each package of 100 or less, .01
For each additional 100 per package or less, .01

The Act of March 3, 1865, did not change the documentary taxes but provided "that upon each and every assignment or transfer of a policy of insurance, or the renewal or continuance of any agreement, contract or charter, by letter or otherwise, a stamp duty shall be required and paid, equal to that imposed on the original instrument", and provided further, "that upon each and every assignment of any lease, a stamp duty shall be required and paid, equal to that imposed on the original instrument, increased by a stamp duty on the consideration or value of the assignment, equal to that imposed upon the conveyance of land for similar consideration or value".

The only change made in schedule "C" was the addition of prepared mustard at one cent per pound, or fraction, to the list.

The next changes took place on August 1, 1866, under the law passed July 13, which removed the taxes on gauger's, measurer's and weigher's returns and warehouse receipts, and provided, "that upon each and every assignment or transfer of a mortgage, the same stamp tax (shall be paid) as is herein imposed upon a mortgage for the same amount". This and similar requirements in the law of 1865 give indirectly some legal basis for the treasury department's view and practice in considering that copies of documents subject to tax were subject to the same tax as the originals and copies had no legal value as evidence in courts of law if unstamped.

Sales and contracts for sales of gold and silver bullion and coin when made by banks or bankers were taxed one cent for each $100 or fraction. Sales of same made by persons not paying the special banker's tax of schedule "A" were taxed five cents for each $100 or fraction. In each case it was required that stamps of the proper value should be affixed to the memorandum of sale.

Articles mentioned below were newly taxed or taxed differently under the law of 1866, other articles of schedule "C" being continued as before:—

Playing Cards, for each pack of 52 cards or less, .05

ALWAYS THE BEST.

Says one of my customers. I am tempted to get puffed up when I read some of the complimentary remarks my friends make regarding my approval selections.

The condition is right (or accounted for by a great reduction in list price) and the price must be right or they would not sell so easily. New stock added almost daily makes them very attractive.

Best of all, however, is that EXTRA DISCOUNT for returns in 10 days. Look over my PROFIT SHARING APPROVALS and we will BOTH GAIN. Ref. necessary.

THE ZEMA CO. AFTER THE SPACE.

The space formerly occupied by Eugene Klein on this page is taken this week by the Zema Co. of Springfield. The firm will use three inches each week to Feb. 1 and four inches thereafter. We have advised the Company that the space is theirs unless a better offer than four inches is made us. This space is one of the best in the WEEKLY and any firm may well feel satisfied with this location.

Christmas—Christmas comes again with the world in turmoil, a fact that philatelists are best in a position to appreciate and the one relieving circumstance is the whispers of peace heard recently above the Babel of battle. The philatelic prospects are so bright that one cannot see how they are to be dimmed in the future by any calamitous circumstance and the benign influence of our well-ordered pursuit comforts a greater number of collectors than ever existed before. We wish our readers the compliments of the season right heartily; and especially do we thank those who have sent words and cards of Christmas cheer.

* * *

Brazil—From our correspondent, Mr. Hugh C. Barr, now traveling in Brazil, we have had a few words of philately. Mr. Barr remarks upon the interest in stamps that is shown in the large cities of the great republic in different ways. It often has been remarked that Brazil is one of the foremost of collecting countries and we are ready to believe the statement. We know of the many philatelic papers that are published in the aggregate in the country; we have seen an album, nicely specialized for Brazilian stamps only, with the imprimatur of a publisher in Brazil; and it is admitted that collectors there are strong in their affection for their own stamps, particularly for the issues through the Dom Pedro sets. We shall never forget the story told us many years ago by a naval officer of how he was touched at seeing upon going ashore at one of the Brazilian ports two roustabouts, heads touching, as they bent with the intensest concentration over a sheet of stamps.

P. O. BOX 1014, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Club—The entertainment committee of the Collectors' Club, New York City, Herman Toasperm, Chairman, has prepared a program of the exhibitions to be held under the auspices of the Club. A most interesting schedule of events is the result and a profitable season is in store for those who are patrons of the Collectors' Club. We are glad to notice that there is a Monograph Competition for the benefit of those who wield a philatelic pen; and four prizes from gold to bronze medals loan a zest to the contest. Any philatelist may engage in this test and he may choose any philatelic subject. We applaud this consideration for the writer man and trust that he will give a good account of himself on April 17th, 1917, the date of the closing of the lists.

* * *

Pictured—A Philadelphia reader, Mr. John T. Nuttall, has sent us a series of eight photographs on the theme of as many exhibitions held in the United States since the Philadelphia centennial in 1876. Among the mementoes that are arranged in frames, stamps and postals as well as medals, etc., are represented. One frame contains the thirty cent U. S. Sanitary Commission stamp that was issued for the great sanitary fair in Philadelphia in 1864 that seems to have received the postmark that was used in the fair. We notice, too, a Philadelphia postmark of October 24, 1882, on an illustrated envelope that bears the picture of a horseman on a corduroy road. Prominently on the face of the envelope is the date 1882 and in the upper left hand corner is the inscription: "Henry Waldey, P. M. of Tekonay, now Tacony." Evidently, there was a two hundredth anniversary celebration in which the envelope and postmark figured in 1882, and we are confident that some reader will give us information that will allow of an understanding of the subject.

Fragmentary—Though Mr. Elliott Perry of Westfield, New Jersey, is first and foremost a student of our revenue stamps, yet we know that he has much regard for the labels that were issued by the different sanitary fairs during the Civil War. From a recent letter from Mr. Perry, we quote: "Morgenthau sold recently a cover with a set of the Philadelphia thereon,—one of the stamps was cancelled." This cover was sent at the post office at the fair by one in whom the fires of patriotism burned brightly or who wanted the object of his affection to be favorably impressed by his liberality in a good cause. The postmark read: "Great Central Sanitary Fair" and date, which was limited to June, 1864. Mr. Perry adds: "A friend who lived at St. Louis at that time tells me of distinctly remembering stamps at the great fair there and moreover of having bought them. Files of the St. Louis papers might throw some light on the question," although testimony of the kind is not given much weight, as a rule.

Distribution—Several readers have furnished us with packets of stamps for distribution among philatelic shut-ins in memory of the years when we planned our campaign on a large scale. As ever, we shall be careful to place these donations where they will be appreciated.

* * *

Plentiful—As exemplifying the use of stamps in profusion on a single envelope or cover, Mr. S. B. Hopkins sends a cover that bears forty-five of the green surcharge Mexico, 25 centavos on 5 centavos, in payment of the postage from one district to another in Mexico. Mr. Hopkins says: "This cover from San Luis Potosi will show how the high postal rates, due to the depreciated currency, are contributing to the shortage of paper by requiring large numbers of stamps." The envelope was mailed during the prevalence of the 2 1/2 peso rate, when 2 1/2 pesos were charged for postage, 5 pesos for registration and 2 1/2 pesos for return receipt. This schedule of rates lasted but a few days only when it was raised to five pesos but again the rate was soon changed "and on December 4th, 1916, all paper-money stamps were discontinued and the post office went on a 'metallic basis,' only the G. P. de M. stamps, sold in Mexican silver or gold (50c a peso) being good for postage." There were more than forty-five stamps on the cover referred to but some of them were lost in the shuffle. Mr. Hopkins calmly proceeds to mention that the other day he got a consignment of stamps from his regular correspondent in Mexico City "with 164 stamps on it of various denominations." How many stamps would have an irregular correspondent used?

Wayside—From Mr. Wm. F. Palmer we have received the description of an envelope with a three cent, U. S., 1870-71, postmarked Westborough, Mass., (no date) and with the word WAY in the lower left corner on the reverse side. In answer to Mr. Palmer's request for information, we shall quote from the postal rules and regulations of about the time of the letter in question. Mail for a way post office or way mail was mail sent to star route post offices. Star routes, it may be interposed, were those on which the mail was carried other than by railway or steamboat. In this connection it should be added that "when the mail is carried in a vehicle drawn by horses, the driver will not be required to leave his team in order to deliver the mail to way post offices." Briefly, a way post office was one between the terminals of a star route, at the period of our postal history indicated. We believe that the "way" impression is to be found stamped on letters sent after 1870, only rarely, although it was used as early as 1850 or before.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF CANADA.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

The Special Delivery Stamp.

In March, 1884, the Philatelic Record contained the following paragraph:—

We are informed that there is likely to be issued shortly "a new ten cent stamp of special design, which, when attached to a letter, will ensure its immediate delivery to its address at any free delivery office, between the hours of 7 a. m. and 12 midnight." A similar system has, we believe, been in use for some years in Belgium, where the extra charge is paid in telegraph stamps.

This was certainly a case of intelligent anticipation for it was not until fourteen years later that a stamp of this character was issued by the Dominion of Canada. The Postmaster-General's Report for 1898 referred to the introduction of the new stamp as follows:—

The calendar year has witnessed the introduction of the special delivery stamp, whereby on the payment of a delivery fee of 10 cents in addition to the ordinary postage, a letter immediately upon its arrival at the office of destination is sent by special messenger for delivery to the addressee.

A special-delivery stamp of the face-value of 10 cents was prepared, and the first supplies thereof were sent out sufficiently early to Postmasters to permit of the inauguration of the special delivery service on the 1st July, 1898. The object of the service is to secure special and prompt delivery of a letter on which a special-delivery stamp, in addition to the ordinary postage, has been affixed.

The new system was dealt with at some length in a circular issued to postmasters under date June 7th, 1898, and as this is of considerable interest we reproduce it below:—

The Postmaster-General has approved of arrangements whereby, on and from the first of July proximo, the senders of letters posted at any Post Office in Canada and addressed to a City Post Office now having Free Delivery by Letter Carriers shall, on prepayment by Special Delivery stamps of the face-value of ten cents, affixed one to each letter, in addition to the ordinary postage to which the same are liable, secure their special delivery to the persons to whom they are addressed within the limits of Letter Carrier Delivery at any one of the following Post Offices in Cities, viz.:—Halifax, St. John, N. B., Fredericton, Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Kingston, Toronto, Brantford, Hamilton, London, Winnipeg, Victoria, and Vancouver. The hours of delivery to be within 7 a. m. and 11 p. m. daily, except Sunday. These hours are subject to change as dictated by local circumstances. Drop-letters posted for local delivery, and bearing Special Delivery stamps, in addition to the postage, will also be entitled to special delivery in the same manner as letters received at the Post Office by mail.

Registered letters may likewise come under the operations of this scheme of Special Delivery, in the same way as ordinary letters, provided they bear Special Delivery stamps, in addition to the full postage and the registration fee fixed by law, and the regulations respecting the record and receipting of registered matter are observed. In despatching registered letters that bear Special Delivery stamps, the Postmaster should write prominently across the registered-package envelope the words "For Special Delivery." When Special Delivery letters (unregistered) number five or more for any one office, the Postmaster should make a separate package of them, marking it "For Special Delivery"; if such letters are fewer than five, he should place them immediately under the "facing-slip" of the letter-package which he makes up, either directly or indirectly, for the Special Delivery office for which they are intended, so that the most prompt attention may be secured therefor.

Special Delivery stamps will be sold at all Money Order Post Offices in Canada, (which may secure a supply of such stamps in the same way as ordinary stamps are obtained), for which the Postmasters will have to account as they do for ordinary stamps and on the sales of which a total commission of ten per cent. shall be allowed to Postmasters, except to Postmasters having fixed salaries. For the present Postmasters will use the existing forms of requisition in applying for Special Delivery stamps. (The usual discount may be allowed to a licensed stamp vendor at the time that he purchases Special Delivery stamps from the Postmaster). Special Delivery stamps are to be cancelled as postage stamps are cancelled. Stamps intended for Special Delivery are not available for any other purpose, and the article upon which one is affixed must have, besides, the ordinary postage prepaid by postage stamps. Under no circumstances will Special Delivery stamps be recognised in payment of postage or of registration fee, nor can any other stamp be used to secure Special Delivery, except the Special Delivery stamp. Special Delivery stamps are not redeemable.

Letters intended for Special Delivery at any one of the City Post Offices above mentioned, and prepaid as directed, may be mailed at any Post Office in Canada.

The regulations relating to First Class Matter (Inland Post) apply also and equally to Special Delivery letters, the only difference being the special treatment which the latter receive with a view to accelerating their delivery.

The object sought by the establishment of Special Delivery,—namely, the special delivery of letters transmitted thereunder,—will be much promoted if the senders of all such letters are careful to address them plainly and fully, giving, if possible, the street and number in each case. Such care will serve not only to prevent mistakes, but also to facilitate delivery. All employees of the Post Office are enjoined to expedite, in every way in their power, the posting, transmission and delivery of letters intended for Special Delivery.

These special delivery stamps are distinctly different in design from the ordinary postage stamps, the reason for this being, of course, that letters intended for special delivery may be at once identified and their handling facilitated.

Severn-Wylie-Jewett Co., Branch Office, Beverly, Mass.

The stamps are oblong in shape, measuring about 31 mm. by 23 mm. high.

The centre consists of an engine turned oval, in the middle of which is the word TEN in uncolored block letters on a solid disc of color. Around this is an oval filled with lathe-work and then comes an oval band inscribed "SPECIAL DELIVERY WITHIN CITY LIMITS" in similar lettering to that of the word of value. This, in turn, is enclosed within another oval of lathe-work. The frame shows "CANADA POST OFFICE" in a straight label across the top, while the lower and side borders are filled with lathe-work intercepted at the bottom by a straight label containing "TEN CENTS", and at each side by a small circle containing the numerals "10." The spandrels are filled with conventional foliate ornaments. The value and special use of the stamp is thus plainly depicted and letters bearing them are easily sorted from the ordinary mail.

The stamps were, like all other Canadian stamps, printed from line-engraved plates. They were printed in sheets of fifty arranged in ten horizontal rows of five each. The imprint and plate number "OTTAWA—No.—1" are shown in the upper margin above the central stamp. Apparently this original plate is still in use, for no other plate number has yet been recorded.

At first the stamps were printed in deep green, but in January, 1906, the Philatelic Record mentioned a new shade, described as blue-green, and recent printings have been in a very deep shade of blue-green.

The use of these special delivery stamps, though somewhat restricted at first, soon grew steadily in volume, showing that the public appreciated the special service. The Postmaster-General in referring to this matter in his Report for 1899 says:—"The 10 cent Special Delivery stamps, to which reference was made in the last report, came into use at the beginning of the current fiscal year, simultaneously with the commencement of the Special Delivery Service, and of this stamp 52,940 were issued to meet the demands; which would go to show that the service is being availed of to a considerable extent throughout the country."

Later Reports simply indicate the extension of the service to other offices, though the one for 1908 also concedes that the use of a Special Delivery stamp is not compulsory to secure this service so long as the extra fee of ten cents is prepaid. We read that:—

The regulations respecting special delivery have been so modified that it is no longer necessary for a person despatching a letter which he desires to have delivered immediately, to provide himself with the "special delivery" stamp issued by the department. He may now place upon his letter ordinary postage stamps to the value of ten cents in addition to the stamps required for the prepayment of postage and write across the corner of the envelope the words "special delivery". This will ensure the special delivery of the letter as provided for in the regulations.

UNITED STATES.—William F. Palther informs us that he has a stamped envelope 1c on white size 8 without watermark. He sends us a specimen of the 2c current issue with the point of the bust of Washington touching the circle enclosing it. The two numerals come in contact with the lines surrounding them and the NTS of CENTS are close together.

BAHAMAS.—According to Stamp Collecting, this colony contemplates the issuance of a new 3d stamp, either in brown or yellow, of the familiar "Queen's Staircase" design. A Red Cross issue is also under consideration.

GERMANY.—Aug. Marschall sends us information in connection with the receipt of two of the new stamps on watermarked paper. He has seen the 2½pf gray and 7½pf orange. They were chronicled in our issue of Sept. 9th.

GAMBIA.—The current 1d stamp has come to hand in a shade closely approaching vermilion instead of the scarlet which we have heretofore seen.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Marsh's Weekly Philatelist reports find of a sheet of the current 3d stamp printed on the wrong side of the paper, consequently the watermark is reversed. The stamps are of a particularly bright shade.

NAURU.—Several parties have sent us specimens of the new set and information in relation to the same. For courtesies we are indebted to J. A. Galbraith and Nick Nikoletich.

SWITZERLAND.—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly is the authority for the information that the use of the 3c stamp is so small that about a million specimens may be overprinted with the figure "5". Should this take place it has been decided that the figure "3" will be entirely covered with a white tablet and the figure "5" placed over it. From the same source we learn that the yearly "Pro Juventute" stamps are in the course of preparation and that this year they will consist of a set of three values, 3, 5 and 10 centimes. Similar to last year, they are designed by the Berne artist, Wilhelm Balmer.

A PHILATELIC DICTIONARY.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

ALBANIA.—The western division of European Turkey, bounded by the Adriatic on the west, and extending from Montenegro on the north to the boundaries of Greece on the south. It is an ethnological rather than a geographical division; its inhabitants being given to intertribal wars and brigandage. The Italian Government maintains consular post offices at some of the more important towns and in 1902 ordinary Italian stamps overprinted "Albania" and values in paras have been used in these offices. In 1909 the towns of Durrazzo, Janina, Scutari and Valona were all supplied with separate sets surcharged with their own names and values in Turkish currency.

Since the last Balkan war Albania has been made a separate territory by agreement of various governments and since 1913 it has issued its own distinctive stamps.

ALBANY.—A small city in Dougherty county, Georgia, having a present population of about 5000. A special 5c envelope was issued here by the Postmaster in 1861 for provisional use pending the appearance of the general issue for the Confederate States.

ALBINO.—An entirely colorless impression of an embossed stamp. Errors of this sort are usually found in connection with envelope stamps.

ALBUM.—So far as stamp collectors are concerned an album is a book issued for the express purpose of housing a stamp collection. These volumes may be divided into three main classes:—(a) Printed albums in which the collector is left to arrange his stamps as best he can; (b) printed albums with the spaces numbered and arranged so that the stamps can be inserted in their proper order; and (c) blank albums.

In the first division the albums—which are those generally favored by beginners—consist of pages ruled into rectangles, with the name of the country and perhaps an illustration or two at the top of each page. In the second division are those albums most suitable for advanced general collectors. The underlying principle of these is the same in all, i. e., spaces are provided for all the more important varieties listed in the stamp catalogues, and these are so arranged that the stamps can be placed in their proper chronological and philatelic order with a minimum of trouble. Blank albums, as the name indicates have the pages innocent of printed matter, and these are the ones used by specialists. In these books, as a

ADLETS.

Address all copy and letters of enquiry for this department to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, Branch Office, BEVERLY, MASS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. RATE.—25c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $10.00, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

NEW RATE 25c PER LINE.

The new transient rate in adlets is 25c per line and if advertising from now on will be 20c per line. Up to January 1 we shall sell blocks of fifty lines at $7.50, space to be used at will. You may purchase all you please.

This department is taking too much room. The rate is too cheap. Note what stamp dealers pay in other publications for their service. If the boys' papers are worth $1 per line, MEKEEL'S is worth 25c. The increase in rate will give us more room for reading matter and the advertisers using adlets will get better returns.

ALCAZAR-OUAZZAN.—Two towns in Morocco between which a local postal service was established in December, 1896, and in connection with which a set of seven stamps was issued. It is reported, though with what truth we cannot say, that owing to the protests of the Shereef of Ouazzan the service was suppressed before it had been in operation more than a month.

ALERTA.—A town in Peru which issued a special stamp in 1884. This was the 5c stamp of the ordinary issue of that date, across which the name "Alerta" was written in pen and ink.

ALEXANDRIA.—(I). An important city in the State of Virginia, having a present population of about 15,000. It is philatelically famous from the fact that in 1846 the Postmaster issued a provisional 5c postage stamp to facilitate the prepayment of postage. The stamp was set from ordinary printer's type, was printed in black, and is known on both buff and bluish grey paper. Although exceedingly rare, only three copies being known, the stamp was probably in use some months until superseded by the general Government issue on August 5th, 1847.

(II). The second largest town and most important port in modern Egypt—known to most of the native inhabitants by the Turkish name of Iskanderieh—at which the French Government maintains a Consular post office. Spécial stamps for the use of this office were first issued in 1899, these being the then current French stamps overprinted with the name "Alexandrie". Since 1902 stamps similar to the "Blanc", "Mouchon", and "Olivier Merson" types of France with the name of the town in place of "Postes" have been used. Alexandria is one of the most famous cities of antiquity having been founded so long ago as B. C. 332 by command of Alexander the Great from whom, of course, it received its name.

ALEXANDRIE.—The French form for Alexandria as shown upon the stamps issued for use in the Consular office established in that port.

ALLEN'S CITY DESPATCH.—One of the numerous private local posts of the United States. According to Scott's catalogue it was in existence in 1882-83, though in what locality its operations were carried on I have been unable to discover.

A WARNING TO DEALERS.

(The following is sent in by a dealer using WEEKLY space. We deem it worth a bit of publicity.—Ed.)

Recent developments in the Bennett case tend to show that this man's references could not have been investigated and the experience should stand as a warning. The folly of accepting a mere society number, letter head, etc., as security for valuable stamps, beggars description.

Mr. Dealer: Can you get anyone to send you valuable lots of wholesale selections without furnishing A1 references?

Are these same references investigated before you get the stamps? Bet your life they are and you know it. Do you feel offended because they are investigated? No. Well, then, why should not a collector expect a dealer to investigate references?

Why don't you send a house and lot on approval and be done with it, or a few $5 bills?

U. S. REVENUE STAMPS.

Wax tapers, (double the rate for matches), per 100 or less,	.02
Cigar lights, per package of 25 or less,	.01
per package of over 25 to 50,	.02
per each additional 25 or less per pack,	.01
Canned Meats, etc., meats, fish, shell-fish, fruits, vegetables, sauces, syrups, prepared mustard, jams or jellies, and pickles in glass packages, cans weighing two pounds or less,	.01
For each additional pound or fraction,	.01

The tax on canned meats, etc., became effective October 1, 1866, but it was altered to apply only to fish, sauces, syrups, mustard, jams and jellies, on March 2, 1867, when the tax on all writs, including "Original Process" in schedule "B" was abolished.

Considered as a whole the Civil War stamp tax law is much like the revenue law of 1797, under which the first United States revenue stamps of any kind were issued—the so-called "tea-party" stamps of 1765 having been issued for the United States, as it then was, but not by it or them, and therefore not being, strictly speaking, United States stamps, although if there had been no Tea Party stamps there might not have been any United States here in America. Cause and effect?

The United States revenue stamps of 1798 and 1813, which we will discuss more fully later, are the first and second issues, the Civil War series being the third issue of stamps, but the first issue of adhesive revenues. Like the Tea Party stamps, the issues of 1798 and 1813 were stamped paper, and it is interesting to note the similarity in the wording of the instructions to the authorities in charge of selling the stamps in both of the earlier issues and in that of 1862, all being required to maintain a stock of stamped paper, vellum or parchment sufficient to fill orders. In 1862, the word "stamps"—that is, adhesives—was added, and postmasters were included in the list of those authorized to sell the revenue stamps. Looking back from 1862, it was almost as far to 1813, as it is to 1862, from today and 1797 is eleven years further from 1862 than we are in 1916. During the half century after 1813, adhesive stamps came into general use and although there seems to have been a serious attempt to evolve a system of stamped paper that would meet the requirements of the Civil War tax it was never worked out beyond the stamps printed on checks and a few other documents.

CHAPTER V.—Imperforate and Part Perforated.

Under the law of July 1862, the stamp for a particular instrument was not to be used for any other, the reason for issuing stamps of different titles being that statistics of considerable value were expected to be obtained. Instructions were given that titles as well as denominations should be specified in orders for the stamps. From the beginning however, the stamps were used interchangeably to a greater or less extent and the act of June, 1864, expressly provided that any stamps could be used for documentary taxes except those designated for proprietary. As early as December 25, 1862, interchangeable use of the documentary stamps had been recognized as the third section of the Act of Congress approved on that date made every instrument valid if stamps denoting the amount of the duty had been affixed and used. This law also prohibited the use of proprietary stamps on documents.

Documentary stamps appear to have been considered available for use on the articles of Schedule "C" for some time previous to July 12, 1864, but possibly only between June 30 and the latter date. Letters to Butler & Carpenter on July 12 and July 19, 1864, show that thereafter the stamps for the two schedules were to be kept entirely separate and that the playing card stamps were to go out of use as soon as the supply on hand was exhausted. How long the playing card and proprietary stamps had been interchangeable is not stated, but from July, 1864, until the remainder of the former were used up, there was no distinction made between them. On August 2, 1864, all the 1c playing cards were gone and there were on hand only 152,746 of the 3c and 266,482 of the 4c. Of the 5c, the remainder was 286,700—enough to last about two months—so probably the 5c proprietary, which was first delivered to the department August 25, 1864, was not issued for use until October. It could hardly have been used very extensively by itself the next two years, since the only articles of schedule "C" requiring a 5c stamp were a photograph costing over 50c and a box of 500 matches; and after 1866, when the tax on playing cards was five cents per pack, many of the larger card manufacturers were using private die stamps. Probably the 5c proprietary was most frequently used on medicines and perfumery selling for $1.25 or $1.50 per package or bottle, a one cent stamp being added to make up the six cent rate required. The Boston Book lists several printed cancellations of playing card manufacturers on this stamp and some of them are dated 1863, a year or more before the stamp was issued or printed, but gives no explanation for the back-dating and we are left to surmise whether it was accidental or intentional. Judging from all that is known about it, the 5c proprietary should be considered as the successor of the 5c playing cards rather than as contemporary with it.

Had the law of 1862 been fully complied with, many imperforates and part perforates could not have been used otherwise than as single copies, and we would be just as uncertain whether or not they were issued in unfinished condition as we are regarding the 40c Inland Exchange imperforate. Margins on single copies, no matter how large, do not prove anything. Many imperforates with small margins or none at all may have come from imperforate sheets, and occasionally perforated stamps have such large margins that the perforations can be trimmed off and still leave margins that seem ample. This would occur more often if the stamps had not been perforated on the outside edge of the outside row in the sheet. So far as the writer knows, the outside edge was always perforated.

Pairs and strips usually prove the stamps to have been issued imperforate or part perforate, but not always. The only pair of 40c Inland Exchange in imperforate condition known to the writer is vertical and has large margins all around, especially at the sides, but although it is cancelled in December, 1862, within three weeks of the date when the 40c stamps were first issued, it may possibly be a part perforate pair from which the side perforations were trimmed. As part perforate 40c stamps are always perforated vertically and not horizontally, if this were a horizontal pair it would be accepted as proof that 40c stamps were issued imperforate.

Some part perforate pairs must also be accepted with caution, since where the stamp is rare part perforate and comparatively common imperforate there exists the possibility that an unscrupulous person may have "un-officially" perforated an imperforate pair, strip or block. This is particularly applicable to such stamps as the 10c Bill of Lading, 25c Life Insurance, and the $1 and $2 Conveyance. The writer has seen only one satisfactory part perforate pair of the Bill of Lading and $2 Conveyance, and three pairs of the 25c Life Insurance. Of the $1 Conveyance there existed a block of four which has been separated into two pairs. All of these stamps, including the Bill of Lading, are perforate vertically and no evidence that the latter exists part perforate horizontally is available. The best evidence that the 50c Life Insurance was issued part perforate is a horizontal strip perforated vertically with very large margins at top and bottom showing parts of the adjoining stamps. The writer has never seen a vertical pair.

A few of the large stamps—values 25c and over—are known in horizontal pairs imperforate vertically, and the 50c Mortgage and $25 Mortgage exist in horizontal pairs perforated all around and imperforate vertically between. The 50c Mortgage pairs have a peculiar saw tooth perforation that is probably unofficial. The $25 pairs have the regular perforation, and are all of the same shade, a bright orange-red or vermilion. Four of the latter pairs are on record—one of which has been separated and rejoined, and a very few "half pairs" have been noted. The $10 Conveyance is catalogued part perforate, but is not so listed in the Boston Book and the writer can find no record of a pair. The same is also true of the 2c U. S. I. R. orange.

POSTAGE STAMPS OF UNITED STATES.

By BILL BLOSS.

Shifted Transfers.

Before taking up the detailed study of the various government issues, it is necessary to explain a few facts in connection with some of the minor varieties prominent in nearly all issues.

Doubtless nearly every collector is familiar with the processes involved in the manufacture of postage stamps. In making the plates for engraved stamps, a piece of soft steel, slightly larger than the design, is engraved. This is known as the die. After the engraving is finished, the steel is subjected to a hot bath of cyanide of potassium and quickly dipped into cold water, the sudden drop in temperature causing the metal to harden.

Next, an impression from this die is forced into a piece of soft steel, circular in form, known as the transfer roll, by subjecting it to great pressure. This roll is then hardened, and is ready for use in transferring the design to the plate.

After the plate has been properly spaced, the transfer roll is applied to it, and the design is impressed in the plate by rocking the roll over it, under pressure. This causes the design on the roll to be forced into the plate, and so great is the pressure, that even the finest lines will appear. This process is repeated according to the number of stamps to be printed from the plate.

Occasionally, after the transfer roll is applied to the plate, but before it is "rocked" it is discovered to be out of alignment. It is then necessary to re-set the roll on the plate correctly. This difference may be only the smallest fraction. The pressure on the roll will cause a few lines to be impressed where it rests on the plate, and after the correct position is made and the impression taken, the original lines will also be included in the plate. This is the cause of the variety known as the "Double Transfer", often erroneously called "Shifted Die" though it is not the result of the die at all.

Double transfers may be found on practically all varieties of engraved stamps. They usually consist of extra lines at the top or bottom of the stamp, according to the way the roll was "rocked", whether up or down. Often they are hardly noticeable without the aid of a magnifying glass. On the other hand, double transfers are known where the variation is as great as one-eighth inch. In a great many instances, the faulty lines can be removed from the plate, and of course, this is done whenever it is possible.

The collector who makes a close study of his stamps, and who learns how to find double transfers will find a great deal of sport in looking for them and will be rewarded quite frequently.

Stitch Watermarks.

Another prominent minor variety which proves of interest to collectors is the stitch watermark variety. This is found on practically all issues of United States stamps, but is more prevalent in the earlier issues.

This variety is caused in manufacturing the paper. In manufacturing machine-made paper, the paper pulp is led from the vat on a cloth belt which carries the pulp through the rollers of the machine. The ends of this belt are sewed together, to make it continuous. When the pulp is subjected to the pressure of the rollers, this seam is impressed in it, showing very clearly the stitches. The seam occurs every ten or fifteen feet, according to the construction of the belt, and therefore one row of stamps in every fifteen or twenty sheets when cut will show the stitch watermark. In other words, about one row in every two hundred will show the variety.

In examining stamps for stitch watermark, it is advisable to work under a fairly strong light, placing the stamps face down on a sheet of black paper, or in a benzine cup. A little practice will enable one to detect these varieties even without a watermark cup, as nearly all stitches can be plainly seen on the reverse of the stamp. There are, of course, many varieties of this watermark, and the coarse stitches are more easily detected than the finer ones. It is not advisable to pay a very heavy premium for these varieties as they are not uncommon. On many of the rarer stamps they are seldom met with, of course.

"The House of Satisfaction"

This is not a New Year resolution but a slogan resulting from the experience of the years I have been in business. To satisfy my customers has been one of my chief aims—just a part of conducting a stamp business on a business basis. Anyone who has not been satisfied should charge it up to himself, for as it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, I want to give satisfaction at any cost.

MY 1917 PRICE LIST comes with the New Year and carries my wish of good will to all men. A postal brings it to your door.

The Issue of 1847.

The Postmasters' Provisional stamps having proven a success, the Postmaster General decided to issue stamps for use throughout the United States, and accordingly prevailed upon Congress to pass a bill authorizing the issue of postage stamps. This bill was approved on March 3rd, 1847, and a contract for the stamps was placed shortly after with the engraving firm of Rawdon, Wright, Hatch & Edson, of New York City. The stamps were ordered for July 1st, but delivery was not made until August 5th.

Two values were issued, a 5c and 10c. Since Franklin was the first postmaster of the United States, it was very fitting that his portrait should grace the first United States postage stamp. Accordingly, he was featured on the 5c stamp, showing three-quarter face looking toward the left, after a portrait by John B. Longacre. The inscription "U. S." and "Post Office" were placed at the top of the stamp, the value is inscribed "Five Cents" and numerals "5" in the lower portion.

The 10c stamp bore the portrait of George Washington, from Stuart's painting, showing three-quarters face looking toward the right. The same inscription "U. S." and "Post Office" is found at the top of this value, while the denomination "Ten Cents" appears in the lower portion with large Roman numerals "X" in each corner.

It is believed that only one plate, consisting of ten horizontal and ten vertical rows, was made for each value, but it is possible that two plates were made for the 5c. No plate numbers, imprints, or other engravers' marks are found on these plates, with the exception of the initials R. W. H. & E. which appear as part of the design on each stamp.

Two slight double transfers exist on the 5c, and one very distinct variety on the 10c. Practically the entire design appears double at the upper portion of the stamp, the lines in the lettering appearing very plainly.

A grayish blue wove paper was used principally for both values, but quite a supply was printed on a yellowish white wove stock. Copies are also known on a lilac-gray laid paper, but these are extremely rare, and are usually found in unused condition.

The 5c value is found in at least eight shades, ranging from brown to red orange. As this stamp oxidizes very readily, many of the odd shades so often seen turn out to be the ordinary tints when treated to a peroxide of hydrogen bath. Prolonged soaking in peroxide has a tendency to remove the bluish tint from the paper, making it resemble the white paper variety.

The brown shade is quite common, while the orange and true red orange are somewhat rare.

The ten cent stamp is listed by Luff as appearing in full black, grayish black, and greenish black. Being a black stamp, little range of shade is possible.

Bisected copies of both issues are known. A whole 5c stamp and half of another was used for the 7/2c rate, and is very rare. The 10c stamp was bisected both vertically and horizontally for use as 5c. Bisected stamps are, of course, only proven authentic when on piece or entire cover with cancellation covering the cut.

WANTED!

WANTED!

Pen cancellations are quite frequently found on both of these values, and the removal of these cancellations is responsible for some of the fraudulent unused copies so often offered the amateur specialist. A careful examination under a glass will usually reveal the pen mark, either by the stain or by the slight scratches in the paper.

Red cancellations are most frequently found. Black and blue are slightly rarer. Green cancellations are rarest of all the colors. Town and Paid obliterations are not as often seen as the grid-iron, while Express and Railway cancellations are rare. Town and date cancellations were not generally used until several years after this issue.

The 1847 issue was declared obsolete and unavailable for use on June 30th, 1851, but copies of the 10c are known to be used for a number of years thereafter.

The dies and plates were destroyed, and all remainders of the stamps were returned to the post office, where they were burned.

The Government imitations of 1875 will be taken up in connection with an article covering the issues of that date.

WHY NO MORE WATERMARKED PAPER?

Two of our Rhode Island subscribers writing the Post Office and Treasury Departments in regard to the discontinuance of the use of watermarked paper in the making of U. S. stamps received replies that will be of interest to our readers.

The first letter is dated December 6 and was written by W. J. Barrows, Acting Third Assistant Postmaster General, to C. S. Reynolds, a member of the R. I. P. S. We quote:—

"The paper used in the production of postage stamps was formerly watermarked as a protection against counterfeiting. The watermarking was discontinued because it was found to possess little or no value for that purpose, and tended to restrict competition for the Government's supply of postage stamp paper."

J. E. Ralph, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, under date of December 7, wrote Harold M. Gibbs, secretary of the R. I. P. S., as follows:

"At the time of the adoption of the watermarked paper in 1895, it was believed that the use of such paper would add additional security to the stamps. Long experience has demonstrated that it is difficult to obtain perfectly watermarked paper. It was found that the watermarking in the paper weakened it and on account of its irregularity interfered with the perfect printing of the stamps. It has also been found that the watermark has nothing whatever to do with determining whether a single stamp was genuine, the proper plan being to rely upon the excellence of the engraving and printing. The doing away with watermarked paper permits the production of a stamp which is more

MEXICAN NOTES.

By ENFIELD.

I wish to confirm the existence and current use of the 60c on 2c 1910 with red surcharge. It is on sale quite generally in various post offices throughout Mexico, being one of the current set and sold for silver only. This surcharge on the 2c 1910 in any other color but red is a proof, as stated in my other article. The same plate was used for surcharging the 60c value on 1c and 2c Denver (in black) and on the 10c postage due (in red), but these three were sold in Mexico City (nowhere else) for paper money and are now obsolete since the 4th of this month.

The postage rate of 1 peso (paper money) which was in force in Mexico during part of November resulted in a new color (shade) of the 1p lighthouse and five new provisionals on the 1, 2, 4, 5, 10c postage due stamps. The surcharge is line-engraved, and consists of "G. P. de M.—1—peso" in a label similar to other recent surcharges. The 1p on 4c postage due was prepared in large quantities (said to have been 3,000,000) and distributed throughout the country for postal use, the other values in smaller quantities (but doubtless plenty) for philatelic consumption only!

Towards the last of November, the rate of postage was raised to 2½ pesos (paper money) and a similar set of provisionals was prepared for that value, but these were printed from ordinary type, the letters "P" and "M" inside of a large "G" (for "G P M") and the value "$2.50." In this case the 2½p on 1c postage due was given the large circulation, and the others (2½p on 2, 4, 5, 10c postage due) made for stamp collectors only.

On December 1st the postage rate was raised to 5 pesos (paper money) and it is said that some provisionals were prepared for use, but they were never issued, as on December 2 to 4 a decree was promulgated demonetizing all stamps sold in paper money and placing the "Correos de Mexico" on a silver basis exclusively.

The following stamps and none others are now on sale at Mexican post offices, some of the varieties being found in certain offices and others elsewhere: 2c, 3c, 5c, 10c, 15c, 20c, 50c surcharged G P de M on 1910 issue, on $ surcharge, and on baby G C M; 4c G P de M on $ surcharge only; 60c in red on 2c 1910; 1p and 5p G P de M on 1910 and $ surcharge only. The 5c on 1910 is on sale with the G P de M' surcharge in ultramarine reading down at right, and in blue reading up at left, the former being the older and more common variety.

The 1c G P de M in three varieties, the 4c G P de M on 1910 and baby G C M, and the 1p G P de M on baby G C M, are good for postage, but they have never been issued to the public; when they are so issued, there will be a decided drop in their price to stamp collectors.

The 5p surcharges that were prepared for use December 1st (said to be on Denver issue) were never issued. If they are offered to stamp collectors as regularly issued stamps, it will be under false pretenses.

ADLETS 25c PER LINE.

The rate for adlets is now 25c per line. 50 lines cost $10.00 and if advertising at same rate, 20c per line. This is the cheapest stamp advertising in the world. Minimum space two lines.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The P. O. Department is now considering a regular aeroplane mail service between New York and Chicago. The plan is to despatch mail at about 6 o'clock each evening from New York and Chicago, to be delivered before 9 o'clock the following morning. It is one of the things of the near future.

—We have received a diagram showing the double and triple transfers on the upper right pane of Plate 6900 12c current issue. It comes to us from Fred N. McGown and we expect to give further particulars concerning the transfers on this sheet of stamps in the near future.

—Tuesday, January 9th, the Cincinnati Philatelic Society will hold the initial meeting for 1917. Erwin L. Fischer, vice president, will deliver on that night a lecture on the "Postal Service and Stamps of Denmark." Mr. Bertram W. H. Poole has given his assistance in preparing these notes. All philatelists are invited to attend this meeting which will be held in Room 312 Union Central Life Building. The lecture will start at 9.00 P. M.

—The WEEKLY is indebted to many of its subscribers for Christmas remembrances and we greatly esteem these evidences of friendship. Amongst the greetings received was a handsome card from W. F. Ferguson, one of our adlets patrons, enclosing a neat approval book with perforation gauge and millimetre scale on the inside cover page. From Howard C. Beck came New Year's greetings in which were two fine photographs of the 5c Buchanan on white paper on cover and the 10c 1847 U. S. horizontal half also on cover. These represent recent finds by Mr. Beck and valuable additions to his collection.

—"In our adv. of Dec. 9th the price was left off of a set of Danish West Indies, either through our fault or fault of your printer. Ordinarily this would not work much of a hardship, but the first offer in the same advertisement was a free premium, and this followed by the unpriced set of Danish West Indies, has led quite a few to infer that we gave the set free also. Under the circumstances we could not do otherwise than to mail the set, explain the circumstance and tell the customer that it was up to them whether they remitted our price of 50c for the set or kept same as a premium."—ZEMA Co.

OUR BOOSTERS.

We omit from our list this week the names of those who have sent in fewer than three subscribers. Our roll of names is a creditable one but the rivalry will be more spirited.

Why not send in for some of our coupon slips? They give the new subscriber a premium if he has never been on our list, while the subscription-getter is also rewarded.

Special credit is given the Edgewood Stamp Co., the Royal Stamp Co., and S. E. Colman for special work that they have done in boosting. We hold their names up to other dealers as an indication of what is possible in getting new subscribers for the WEEKLY. The courtesy you desire will be all the more readily granted if it be supplemented by some missionary work in securing new subscriptions. The record to date is as follows:—

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Outlook.—Philatelists have marked the passing year with watchful eye and in consequence are so well informed of the progress of philately during the past twelve months that it is unnecessary to dwell upon the onward course of philatelic events. The customary recapitulation would show that interest in stamps has become greatly intensified by the unusual conditions that have prevailed; and any prediction fairly would be full and confident. We are in the midst of the busiest of seasons and the momentum that has been generated will carry us on well into the summer, even if untoward influences should develop. The market for the better things in stamps is so active that the plaint of the big stamp handlers resolves itself into the difficulty of obtaining the specimens to meet the demand; and this is tantamount to saying that all classes and conditions of stamps are feeling the quickening effect.

"WATCH US GROW."

On—Mexico is getting on. It will begin the new year right with a permanent set which it is said officially will have a tenure of existence for four years, at all events. With the habitual optimism of the collector, we shall accept the stamps in the words with which they are presented and rejoice that order will succeed the turbulence of Mexico's recent philatelic history. The new stamps are on a silver basis which is at the rate of fifty cents to the peso; and the denominations are: 1c, violet; 2c, green; 5c, blue; 10c, dark blue; 40c, purple; 1p, blue and black and 5p, green and black. The first four stamps named have portraits as the central designs and the three high values are the same as the current set except that the colors are changed. Zaragoza is shown on the 1c, Vasquez on the 2c, and Madero on the 10c. We are not informed as to whether there will be other denominations. The stamps are the product of the government printing office at Mexico City and are engraved, if they are not printed by a new process, akin to offset lithography.

Owed—We are waiting for a sketch of Kellogg, the artist, who now seems rightly to be named as the maker of the portrait from which the bust of Jackson on the two cent black stamp was copied. Vide editorial in the issue of December 16th, 1916. We have been promised particulars and when they are received, they will be duly detailed.

Odd—The following letter from the general post office, Wellington, Dominion of New Zealand, to a Chicago business firm is self-explanatory: "With reference to your communication of the 2nd ultimo, respecting the return to —, Waikino, Auckland, of a letter addressed to yourselves: I have the honour to inform you that during the continuance of hostilities the transmission of correspondence written in any language other than English, French, Italian or German, is prohibited. The letter referred to was written in the Croatian language and was therefore, returned to the sender."

Off—Our idea of the pinnacle of futility is to attempt to give a correct notion of a shade variation of a stamp by printed words. Furthermore, a shade of a stamp of which millions are printed each week is nothing to become hysterical over, but nevertheless and notwithstanding, we cannot refrain from saying that from an office in Mississippi, name indecipherable, we have seen a pair of one cent green in a shade that is a shade, almost an olive green. The least we can do is to put the color on record.

Objection—Just to meander for a few moments on a by-path. The percentage of readers who are interested in microscopic varieties is not great and from this classification we exempt the varieties listed in the catalogue. Only the obscurer variations are under notice and now we make pronouncement concerning them. Not one of every three of the confirmed minor variety devotees takes the time and trouble, we aver, to read printed descriptions of the dot and dash differences and of those who read it is doubtful if every other one understands just what the variety is or can visualize it approximately. Yet, we persist in printing these descriptions although it must be admitted that we do not carry out this obstinacy to the bitter end. In philatelic jurisprudence, there should be a law making it a misdemeanor to print instead of illustrate the slight differences in stamps.

Obliging—We have heard of several fond and faithful husbands who made their wives beautiful Christmas presents in the shape of stamp albums, blank and otherwise, to say nothing of choice and expensive stamps to grace their pages, but only of one who had the heart to buy back the presents, when to his simulated astonishment, the wife declined to become enthusiastic over the gifts, albeit the reduction in price was a sweeping one.

Out—As readers may remember, the dealers' journal, the Stamp Trade, was transferred by its publisher, Mr. F. S. Parmelee, when the editor, Mr. Ora E. Stark, who is in the office of the depot quartermaster of the war department, was ordered to the border upon the mobilization of the militia for federal service. Even though he is a border exile, Mr. Stark is gadding about a bit in El Paso, Texas, and has met Mr. Wallace K. Austin of the El Paso Stamp Company, as well as Mr. W. E. Foster who is known as a dealer specialist in the "rebel" issues of Mexico. Mr. Stark discourses: "We want to try to have a gathering of collectors here one of these days and we may instill life into some of those who are now smouldering in their activities. Everybody here is interested in Mexicans and Mexicans only and as my interest in these heretofore has been slight, I am somewhat handicapped in the discussions,—but I hope to learn."

is opened, with no abatement in the interest of those who have intimate concern for the printed side of stamp collecting. The society is one of the most exclusive of philatelic kind, due to the limitations of its appeal to only a small division of collectors and, let us say, to the fact that the annual subscription is one guinea. Of the fifty odd members listed as individuals (societies are eligible to membership) about a dozen are Americans and both the American Philatelic Society and the Boston Philatelic Society are members. The Journal of the Philatelic Literature Society is an elegant publication that reflects the serious purpose of the society in an admirable way and several other publications have been issued of much merit and of great value to the lovers of literature. We know that there is an increasing interest in this country, particularly in the earlier printed records of our pursuit and it is a satisfaction to find that in the journal of the society under notice all due regard is shown the American publications.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF CANADA.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XXIX.The Registration Stamps.

The convenience of the registry system was adopted in Canada in May, 1855, at which time the fee was the remarkably low one of one penny. In 1856 the system was extended to cover letters sent to the United States by mutual agreement between the post office departments of both countries, and while the domestic rate remained at one penny the fee for the registration of letters to the United States was three pence. Mr. Howes has discovered an interesting notice in the Canadian Directory for 1857-8 which gives further details as follows:—

Persons transmitting letters, which they desire should pass through the post as "registered letters", must observe that no record is taken of any letter unless specially handed in for registration at the time of the posting. Upon all such letters, with the exception of those addressed to the United States, one penny must be prepaid as a registration charge. If addressed to the United States, the ordinary postage rate on the letters to that country must be prepaid, and in addition a registration charge of 3d per letter. The registry thus effected in Canada will be carried on by the United States Post Office until the letter arrives at its destination.

In like manner, letters addressed to Canada may be registered at the place of posting in the United States, and the registry made there will accompany the letter to the place of delivery in Canada.

A certificate of registration will be given by the postmaster if required.

The registration system can be applied to the letter portion of the mail only.

The registration system at that time made no provision for compensation in case of the loss of letters, the small extra fee charged simply indicating that extra care would be taken to secure proper delivery. Evidently at that time the fee was paid in money, and the letters then marked with a handstamp of some sort, for in the Postmaster-General's Report for 1858 we read, "It is also considered that it would be an improvement on the system if the charge for registration were made pre-payable by a stamp, instead of by money as at present." It is probable that shortly after this the prepayment of the registry fee was indicated by the affixing of stamps of the required value.
The report for 1860 refers to the system as follows:—

A rate of charge for Registration so low as, in no probable degree, to operate as a motive, with persons posting letters of value, to deny themselves the advantage of securing from the Post Office an acknowledgment of the receipt of the specific letter, has always been considered to be a cardinal point in the Canadian Registration System.

The Registration fee, or charge, has, therefore, under the influence of this consideration, been maintained at 2 cents, though it is doubtful whether such a rate of charge covers the actual cost of the process; the address of the Registered Letter having, in the course of transmission, to be entered on an average not less than six times, and forms of certificate or receipt, and Books in which to preserve permanent records at each Post Office, to be supplied.

The postal officials were evidently strong believers in the Registration system and lost no opportunity of dwelling on its merits. In his Report for 1864 the Postmaster-General tells of its manifold advantages as follows:—

When a letter is registered, that is to say, marked and recorded in the Post Office so as to individualise it from the bulk of ordinary letter correspondence, its presence in the Post Office can be identified and its course of transmission traced, and a registered letter is thus secured from the chance of abstraction by an unfaithful messenger employed to post it (as it is always open to proof whether the letter was posted for registration or not), from risk of loss by accidental mis-direction on the part of the sender, and from mistakes in the Post Office—such as mis-sending or delivery to a wrong party. Against actual dishonesty on the part of the Post Office employees, a registered letter is incomparably more secure than an unregistered one, for an unregistered money-letter and the nature of its contents are, to any person accustomed to handle letters, as manifest as though the letter had been singled out and marked by the registered stamp. Moreover, the safety of an unregistered letter is dependent on the integrity of a Post Office Clerk during the whole time that it remains in his custody, frequently for hours, or even days; whilst a registered letter will almost invariably have to be acknowledged at the moment of its passing into an officer's hands, and cannot thereafter be suppressed without leaving him individually accountable for its disposal.

A NEWUNITED STATES LOOSE LEAF ALBUM

AN ALBUM SECOND TO NONE.

This Album is the only practical and feasible Loose Leaf Book on the market today.
 We have put this Album up in three sections so a collector is able to purchase such branches as he desires at a comparatively low cost. It is 9 inches long and 7 1/2 inches wide, very handy; there is but one set of stamps to a page artistically laid out. Spaces have been provided for imperforate and part perforate pairs and the beauty of all; it is right up to the minute. What is more we will add new leaves each year with spaces for the latest stamps and if you are an owner of one of our Albums, latest sheets will be promptly sent you when issued.

After you have transferred your stamps into this Album, you cannot help realizing the great advantage in a practical up-to-date Album.

At what date the registry system was extended to letters sent to other countries than the United States is not clear but Mr. Howes has succeeded in unearthing a document which shows the rates prevailing in 1865-6:—

The charge for Registration, in addition to the Postage, is as follows, viz:—

On Letters to any other place in Canada or British North America.

2 cents

On Letters for the United States.

5 cents

On Letters for the United Kingdom.

12 1/2 cents

On Letters for British Colonies or Possession sent via England.

25 cents

On Letters for France and other Foreign Countries via England, an equal amount to the postage rate.

Both the postage charge and registration fee must in all cases be prepaid.

W. C. PHILLIPS & CO., Glastonbury, Conn.

Edited by MILTON P. LYONS, JR.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address Milton P. Lyons, Jr., 1631 Chestnut St., Phila., Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—We discontinued some time ago the regular chronicle of precancelled stamps. Carl O. Swaney has sent us a specimen of a new set used at Trinidad, Colo., during the Christmas season. Eleven of the lower values were thus precancelled.

ARABIA.—According to Stamp Collector this country will issue a quarter-piastre stamp in green. This is in addition to the half-piastre and one piastre chronicled in ours of December 2nd.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.—Rumor states that when the present series of commemorative stamps are exhausted a new series will be issued and the now well known "ploughman" type discontinued. George B. Warren, Jr., has shown us a used pair of the 12c commemorative stamps, as chronicled some weeks ago.

DOMINICA.—Last month we made a full distribution of the ½d War Tax stamps, which almost exhausted our first supply. The Postmaster has since returned the money we sent for a second lot, informing us that as the issue was a limited one, no more can be supplied. It is difficult to understand why such an issue should be limited, the overprinting is done in London, and the stamps can be produced to an unlimited extent. The stamps are avowedly issued to raise money for war purposes, and it seems an absurdity to prevent anyone from voluntarily increasing the revenue by buying the stamps in large quantities. In all probability there will be a new printing, when the restriction will be removed.—King's Monthly List.

GERMAN EAST AFRICA.—There is not likely to be any overprint on German East Africa stamps, as an esteemed correspondent with the East African Expeditionary Force writes us that there have been no postage stamps in the Colony for the past year, the supply having become exhausted, and owing to the British blockade, no fresh stocks could be obtained. In these circumstances, recourse was had to the following expedient, blank envelopes were handed in at the Post Office, and payment of the postage made in cash, the envelopes then being impressed with two rubber stamps in the upper right corner, at the top the words "Frankiert mit 7½ H." in two lines, and beneath the official postal seal, a circular device bearing the Imperial Arms in the centre, surrounded by an inscription as follows:—"KAISERL. POSTDIKTOR DEUTSCH-OSTAFRIKA." The envelopes were then handed back to be used as desired.—King's Monthly List.

GREECE.—A. Blanc advises us that the Provisional Government of Greece is about to or has already placed in circulation a new series of stamps bearing the portrait of ex-Premier Venizelos.

NAURU.—We are indebted to Herman Focke for specimens of the new set. He gives us this information concerning these provisional stamps issued by the British Military Occupation in the island of Nauru of the Marshall group:—"The set consists of the ½d, 1d, 2½d, 2sh 6d, 5sh and 10sh values of the present set for Great Britain with surcharge NAURU in black for all values excepting the 10sh on which it is in red.

On the lower values the surcharge is at the bottom, on the high values in somewhat larger type at the top. The stamps were issued on October 15th."

NYASALAND PROTECTORATE.—Scott's Circular says: "This month we chronicle two stamps of this Protectorate overprinted 'N. F.' for use of the Nyasaland troops of the forces invading German East Africa. Only two values ½d and 1d were overprinted. The stamps are for use on registered letters, parcels, etc., and are supposed to be restricted to the soldiers and not for sale to dealers and others. The overprinting was authorized by General Northey, the commanding officer of the Nyasaland troops, and sanctioned by the Governor of Nyasaland. It has been stated that the letters 'N. F.' signified Northey's Force or Nyasaland Force. A correspondent of the West End Philatelist states: "We wanted stamps up here for registered parcels, etc., and asked the Governor of Nyasaland to send up some surcharged 'N. F. F.' (Nyasaland Field Force). They surcharged them 'N. F.' instead of 'N. F. F.'"

PHILIPPINES.—A bill authorizing the issuance of stamps to be known as national stamps, bearing the photographs of Osmena, Quezon, Harrison and Jones, has been introduced in the lower house by Representative Raffinan. The stamps are to be as follows: A 2 centavo stamp to immortalize Osmena, a 20 centavo stamp dedicated to Quezon, a 50 centavo stamp to Mr. Harrison and a peso stamp to Mr. Jones. The 2 centavo stamp alone will be used for postal purposes; the others are for revenue use. The bill provides that all correspondence out of the country must bear a 2 centavo national stamp in addition to the regular postage prescribed by the Director of Posts. The funds thus raised are to be expended on the national defenses of the Philippine Islands.—W. F. SLUSSER.

SIAM.—It is reported from various sources that this country is about to issue a new set of stamps from 2 satangs to 20 bahts.

SPANISH MOROCCO.—The overprint on these stamps has been altered to "ZONA DE PROTECTORADO ESPANOL EN MARRUECOS," but as yet only the 5c and 10c values have been issued. The lines of perforation being incorrectly spaced, there are in each sheet only four vertical rows well centred, the other six rows being so badly perforated that in most cases the designs are cut into.—King's Monthly List.

ST. KITTS-NEVIS.—A special printing of the ½d current design Postage and Revenue stamp has been made in blue green, and overprinted WAR TAX, in one line, in the same sans serif type and spacing as used for the London overprinted War Tax stamps of St. Lucia and Grenada. The overprint is in black and applied to complete sheets of 120 (two panes of 60 each). These overprinted stamps were received at Basse Terre in the latter days of October. The notice to the public relating to this War Tax on letters appears below:—"On and after 1st September all letters posted to places in the British Empire (except Antigua, Montserrat, Dominica and the Virgin Islands) must bear an extra ½d stamp, in addition to the usual postage. ½d stamps surcharged "War Stamp" will shortly be on sale for this purpose. Until these are ready ordinary stamps can be used."—HARRY E. HUBER.

ST. PIERRE AND MIQUELON.—Our correspondent advises us that the issue of Red Cross stamps has been exhausted for over four months. A new issue with a different surcharge is expected very shortly. This is in preparation now in Paris.—EDGEWOOD STAMP CO.

ADLETS.

Address all copy and letters of enquiry for this department to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, Branch Office, BEVERLY, MASS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. RATE.—25c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $10.00, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

NEW RATE 25c PER LINE.

The new transient rate in adlets is 25c per line and if advertising from now on will be 20c per line. Minimum space two lines. Note what stamp dealers pay in other publications for their service. If the boys' papers are worth $1 per line, MEKEEL'S is worth 25c. The slight increase in rate will give us more room for reading matter and the advertisers using adlets will get better returns.

THANKS TO MR. BRODSTONE.

The WEEKLY is indebted to Mr. Brodstone, publisher of the Philatelic West, for his co-operation in permitting us to publish in the WEEKLY the Philatelic Dictionary recently commenced in this paper. Mr. Brodstone had already published several instalments, but realizing that we could handle this as a weekly better than his own publication as a monthly, he gracefully acceded to our request for the transfer. Our readers will be equally grateful to Mr. Brodstone for the courtesy extended.

Meetings first (informal) and third (regular) Tuesdays, Room 322 Tremont Bldg., 8.15 P. M.

Dec. 19th, 1916.

Thirty-seven members and three visitors were present this evening at the meeting of the Society. The resignation of Mr. Charles F. Powers was read and accepted. Mr. W. F. Marquardt was unanimously elected to membership and the application of Mr. Wm. Shafer was posted to be acted upon at the next regular meeting. The Treasurer reported that there was still a large number of delinquents and it was voted that all members who were in arrears for dues be suspended until the March meeting when they would be automatically dropped from membership. Nominations for officers for the year 1917 were then made. The President announced that after the election of officers at the January meeting there would be a general discussion of the Scott Catalogue. This should prove interesting and instructive.

The meeting was then turned over to the entertainment committee, Messrs. Dunning, Barker and Fowle and the enjoyment of those present was a tribute to the work of this committee, who, as usual, had worked hard to give the members something novel. Mr. Crocker from the Arionola Co., brought one of his machines with him and the entertainment started with "Home Sweet Home" played on it. This was followed by a "sleighing piece" and a "chime record", after which our old friend Santa Claus in the person of Mr. Fowle appeared and distributed candy to those in attendance. The members then gathered round the table upon which were name cards attached to ribbons which led under a white cloth and at a given signal were pulled out bringing to light an envelope containing stamps. Each one was presented with an envelope containing 5 stamps. The members were given ten minutes in which to exchange these so that each one might hold one stamp from each of 5 countries designated by the committee. The prize for this contest was a pie and was won by Mr. Blanchard. The "pie" which was guaranteed to be given to each one proved to be a small copper coin from India. The meeting adjourned at 10.20 p. m., after a vote of thanks had been given to the committee for their efforts.

CHARM OF STAMP COLLECTING.

This little booklet just issued contains three articles by Edwin B. Hill, M. Williams and Roscoe T. Foust. It is a pretty little tribute to stamp collecting. The price is 50c per hundred, just one-half of the cost of printing. Are you willing to contribute your little to the welfare of our hobby by enclosing one of these in each letter you write? There is a neat presentation tablet on page 1. Shall we list you for an order?

POSTAGE STAMPS OF CANADA

It was not until 1872 that the idea of issuing special stamps for the prepayment of the registration fee was mooted but in the Postmaster-General's Report for that year we read:—

It seems expedient to adopt some distinctive postage stamp to be used only in prepayment of the Registration charge, both to make it clear that this charge has been duly paid and accounted for in every case, and to diminish the risk which is occasionally felt at points of distribution of omitting to carry on the Registration in cases where the ordinary Registration postmark is not as distinct and calculated to arrest attention as it should be.

It has always been the policy of the Canadian Post Office to admit letters to Registration at a low rate of charge for the additional security thus given, so as to leave no adequate motive, on the score of cost, for sending valuable letters through the mails unregistered, and, doubtless, the very large proportion of such letters offered for registration demonstrates a gratifying measure of success in attaining the desired object.

In spite of this recommendation it was not until three years later that special stamps for Registration purposes made their appearance. They were finally placed on sale on November 15th, 1875, and were referred to by the Postmaster-General in his Report for that year as follows:—

Registration stamps have been issued, to be used by the public in prepaying the registration charges on letters passing within the Dominion, or to the United Kingdom or United States, each destination being distinguished by a different color in the stamp, as well as by a variation in of registration charge and value of the stamp. The red stamp of the value of 2c or the prepayment of the registration charges on letters within the Dominion.

There is a green stamp of five cents value for registered letters addressed to the United States.

There is a blue stamp of eight cents value for registered letters addressed to the United Kingdom.

These stamps are to apply exclusively to the registration charges and the postage rates on registered letters are to be prepaid by the ordinary postage stamps.

It is believed that the use of these distinctive stamps for the registration charges will tend to give registered letters additional security against the risk which is sometimes felt of the registration escaping observation, when such letters are dealt with hurriedly or handled at night, whilst passing through the post.

These registration stamps were not only of distinctive design but also of distinctive shape so that they were readily recognised from ordinary postage stamps. They are long, narrow labels and the design is the same for each. On an engine-turned background the word "REGISTERED" in large uncolored Roman capitals is curved prominently across the centre. Below is "LETTER STAMP", also curved but in smaller letters, while above is "CANADA" on a straight label in still smaller lettering. At each end are tables containing the value in words reading up at the left and down at the right, and in the upper corners are large uncolored numerals plainly denoting the value. Like all other Canadian stamps they were printed from line-engraved plates on unwater-marked paper. They were at first printed in sheets of fifty in ten horizontal rows of five stamps each. Mr. Howes describes the marginal details as follows:—

The imprint was the same as the second type employed for the small "cents" issue—"British American Bank Note Co. Montreal" in a pearled frame—and likewise appeared four times on the sheet, as already fully described in the chapter dealing with that issue. The denomination of the stamp was also expressed as TWO CENTS, in the shaded Roman capitals which we found in the case of the postage stamps, over the first stamp in the top row of that value, but with the 5 cent the word FIVE alone appears. The 8 cent we have not seen. On the 2 cent there is also a large numeral 2, 7½ mm. high, over the last stamp in the top row (number 5) but the 5 cent has none.

The stamps were ordinarily perforated 12, like the then current postage stamps, but the 2c in orange and the 5c in dark-green are both known entirely imperforate.

The Postmaster-General's Report for 1877 stated that "the registration charge on registered letters between the United Kingdom and Canada has been reduced from 8 cents to 5 cents". This, naturally, largely reduced the demand for the 8 cents stamp though it is probable that the 8c rate still applied to foreign countries. Shortly afterwards (the exact date has not been traced) the registration fee on letters to all foreign countries was reduced to 5 cents so that the use of the 8c denomination was entirely abolished. The stamps in the hands of postmasters were called in and destroyed and by examining the official figures relating to the numbers originally issued and those destroyed Mr. Howes estimates that about 40,000 of these 8c registration stamps were used.

In 1889 a general revision of postal rates took place, as already explained in Chapter X, and one of these changes affected the registration fee. The domestic fee was raised from 2c to 5c so that the registration charge was uniform and was 5c on letters sent anywhere. This, of course, did away with the usefulness of the 2c registration stamps but, as indicated in the official circular, "for the present, and until further instructed, the registration fee may be prepaid by using the 2 cent Registration stamps and postage stamps to make up the amount."

The Postmaster-General's Report for 1889, in referring to the advance in the registration charge, says:—

The charge for the registration of a letter, parcel, book or other articles of mail matter was also made uniform, and fixed at 5 cents for all classes of matter. The frequent delay consequent upon the prepayment of a wrong registration fee will no longer take place.

Triple Saving By Advertising in St. Nicholas

Money—25% discount for twelve insertions, making cost for reaching 75,000 good homes 75c per line.

Time—more orders and a lower percentage of unprofitable inquiries saves time, postage, printed matter and much detail. You also have a finer selection of names on mailing list.

Effort—with tested customers sending frequent orders of good size, you work at a minimum of worry. It pays to concentrate on St. Nicholas.

The removal of the printing establishment of the British American Bank Note Company from Montreal to Ottawa resulted in some marked changes in the shades of the then current postage stamps as we have already shown in a previous chapter. The registration stamps were also affected in some degree the 2 cents value, in particular, appearing in a number of new and brighter tints. The 5c appeared in blue-green—a distinct contrast from the green and yellow-green shades previously current.

In 1892 some of the postage stamps, it will be remembered, appeared in sheets of 200 instead of 100 as formerly. About the same period new plates were made for the 5c registration stamp, these containing one hundred impressions in ten rows of ten, instead of fifty as before.

On August 1st, 1893, a regular postage stamp of the denomination of 8c was issued for the purpose of paying the postage and registration charge and the appearance of this sounded the death knell of the special registration stamps. The supplies in the hands of postmasters were used up and when exhausted no more were printed.

Much has been written regarding the 2c registration stamp printed in brown. These were originally found at the Miscou Light House Post Office in New Brunswick and though the stamps were in an unmistakably dark brown shade it has since been satisfactorily proved that the change was quite accidental and that immersion in peroxide would restore them to their original color. Although the Postmaster of the above named office is said to have stated that the stamps were in brown when he received them there is little doubt he must have been mistaken. Much the same thing happened in connection with the current six cents United States stamps at an office on the Pacific Coast (San Pedro). Some of these stamps were found in a distinct brown shade almost exactly matching that of the 4c value and though some local collectors had dreams of a rare error of color it was easily proved that they were simply oxidised.
